McCauley Ready To Take Case To St. Louis

Shipyard's Future To Be Decided Soon

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN and DAN CONNELLY

Mayor Francis McCauley says he is willing to go to St. Louis to talk with the management of General Dynamics following the loss of two major Navy contracts by the Quincy Shipyard.

And other local officials are also reacting in efforts to keep the 101-year-old yard from closing when it finishes work next spring on its last remaining ship, a contract previously awarded by the Navy.

The Navy awarded a fleet oiler contract to Avondale Shipyard, New Orleans Friday. Bethlehem Steel at Sparrows Point, Maryland, received the survey ships contract.

The Quincy shipyard will not have any major Navy ship work to bid on until 1987.

Either of the contracts would have provided jobs for about 2,000 workers at the Quincy shipyard, which now has about 4,467 workers employed.

"Obviously, we're very disappointed," said McCauley, who noted he plans to meet shortly with the Quincy shipyard management.

"First, we'll have to see if anything is coming down the pike as far as shipbuilding contracts.

"If there isn't, we'll extend as much effort as we can to see if General Dynamics will seriously consider alternatives."

"The loss of the shipyard, the city's largest taxpayer, would have an adverse effect," said McCauley, "but we don't depend on them for as much money as we used to."

"Economic development of such places as State Street South and Crown Colony Place has helped pick up the slack."

City Councillor Michael Cheney said that all hope is not lost.

Cheney said James Murphy, vice president of marketing for General Dynamics, told him about two weeks ago the Quincy shipyard is currently looking into exploring serious alternatives for the yard which would keep part of the current workforce employed.

"This news is encouraging," said Cheney. "It represents for the first time diversification of General Dynamics Shipyard."

Cheney said Murphy has contacted John F. Fitzgerald, of the MBTA, regarding a contract to build some 100 or more red line cars.

"We have to continue to work to keep those jobs in Quincy," said Cheney.

McCauley said General Dynamics paid $2,155,200

Water St. Bridge Opens Wednesday

The Water St. bridge, closed to traffic for reconstruction since last October, will officially be opened at ribbon cutting ceremonies Wednesday at 11 a.m.

Guest speakers will be the mayor, Sen. Paul Harold and representatives of the Massachusetts Department of Public Works and the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

"The bridge was totally rebuilt," said deputy public works commissioner David Colton, "as part of the Burgin Parkway extension project."

"Everything went smoothly, and we're happy that the contractors were able to get work done right on time."

McCauley noted that opening of the bridge will alleviate traffic jams in the area.

The mayor also noted that the 1.2 mile, $9.9 million Burgin Parkway Extension is ahead of schedule.

"We hope to open it in the fall," said McCauley of the project which will link downtown Quincy with Route 3.

DPW Commissioner Paul Anderson will be the Master of Ceremonies at the ribbon cutting.

Takes New Post

Nicastro Resigns As City Solicitor

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has accepted the resignation of Atty. Dean P. Nicastro as city solicitor of Quincy, effective Aug. 5.

Nicastro is leaving to accept the position of associate staff counsel with the Massachusetts Medical Society, the 12,500 member professional association of Massachusetts physicians headquartered in Waltham.

He will be handling general corporate legal matters for the organization.

In a letter to McCauley, Nicastro described his new job as "an exciting and challenging career opportunity, appropriate at this time to my long-range professional goals."

DEAN P. NICASTRO

McCauley, who accepted the solicitor's resignation with regret, praised Nicastro for "his dedicated and unselfish service to the citizens of Quincy as city solicitor and previously as assistant city solicitor during my administration."

"As city solicitor," continued the mayor, "Dean has conducted the legal affairs of our city in a first-class and professional manner. He epitomizes the type of talented, conscientious and compassionate public servant which has been the hallmark of the McCauley administration."

"While I am sorry to see him go, I can appreciate the professional career decision which he has made, and I wish him well in this new position."

McCauley: 'We Really Need A Health Commissioner'

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
The Health Department is functioning, but what we really need is a Health Commissioner," said Mayor Francis McCauley after the City Council tabled two of his home rule petitions dealing with the Health Department.

The City Council took that action at its last meeting before the summer recess. A special meeting may be called by Council President James Sheets during the summer.

The mayor submitted the home rule petitions after the city had trouble filling the health commissioner's position after the death of Dr. M. Grace Hussey in January.

A major problem was the salary the city could offer, said McCauley.

The most recent home rule petition dropped the requirement of an M.D. degree for the city's Health Commissioner.

The earlier home rule petition would have established an unpaid, five member board of Health and a Health Commissioner appointed by the Mayor for three years.

The mayor balked at amendments to that petition which would have given the City Council input on appointments to Health Commissioner or the Board of Health.

Richard Stuart is handling the day-to-day operation of the Health Department, said McCauley.

But the License Board has been acting without a fifth member which, by law, must be a Health Commissioner. Sheets said at the City Council meeting that the board of health issue is starting to shape up as "another battle of the budget."

"...The City Council is not in a mood just simply to acquiesce to whatever recommendations the mayor makes with respect to the health system," said

Sheets.

Councillor-at-Large Patricia Toland said she was disappointed that McCauley withdrew his original proposal for a board of health.

The issue is too important to rubber stamp, said Councillor Stephen McGrath.

Ward 6 City Councillor Joanne Condon said that the mayor had convinced the City Council that a board of health was a good idea, and he shouldn't have dropped it so quickly.

Mrs. Condon, a candidate for mayor, proposed the amendments to the first home rule petition.

Area Education Foundation Gets Full Time Executive Director

Peter Mollo has been named acting executive director of the South Shore Regional Education Foundation (SSREF), an affiliate of the area's Chamber of Commerce.

Mollo, of Norwood, will assume his one year duties Aug. 1.

The SSREF established in 1984, is a non-profit, charitable, educational organization that creates business education partnerships on the South shore. Mollo, a member of the Board of Directors of SSREF, said that his temporary involvement on a full-time basis will help the development of SSREF and its proposed programs to strengthen and expand educational and vocational efforts.

Mollo graduated from Northeastern in 1969 with a bachelor's degree in business administration, and holds a master's degree in education from Suffolk University. He has worked at Northeastern for three years. Previously, he was a teacher, financial planner and a career development coordinator.

Currently Mollo is the liaison between corporations and companies that participate in Northeastern's co-op programs. He also teaches career education, in which he advises students on job interview techniques and placement, and provides vocational guidance and counseling.

Atlantic Raises Money For Famine Relief

Atlantic Middle School students raised over $1,300 for the USA for Africa Campaign.

The effort was started by a group of eighth grade students and was well received by all.

Mrs. Susan Reilly and Mrs. Christine McGuire were the faculty advisors for the campaign.

Various special events such as "Hat Day" and "Shorts Day" were held to raise the funds. Money was also contributed by the audiences that viewed the Spring Concert at Atlantic.

Islamic Center Leader 'Astonished' At Language During Demonstration

By LINDA WILKINS

The President of the Quincy based Islamic Center of New England says he is "astonished" by language used during the recent demonstration by Jewish Defense League members outside the mosque.

Dr. A. Karim Khudairi, who is also Chairman of the Board of the center, said at a press conference Monday, while seated in front of an American flag "we are astonished by the language used by Kenneth Sidman and the association of the J.D.L. with the Israeli flag; we are wondering where their allegiance lies.

"The Muslim community of the Islamic Center consists of highly educated Americans who know the difference between politics and the right to worship. The Islamic Center is a mosque, a place of worship, not an embassy of a foreign country," Khudairi said.

a demonstration site because members had heard that the mosque sympathized with the hijackers.

"Mr. Sidman said during the demonstration that 'If you know anything at all about Islam, it is the most intolerant religion . . . and I consider Islam to be a gutter religion' this shows that Mr. Sidman is not only intolerant and disrespectful to other religions, but he is ignorant and prejudiced against Islam," Khudairi said.

The Islamic Center of New England has "nothing to do with any faction, group or government of any Islamic country," he said.

The New England-wide center has 5,000 members in its congregation and 23 countries are represented.

"We, Muslims, do not condemn Jews or Christians, as Mr. Sidman might think. We condemn violence, prejudice, and racism. Islam is a universal religion, it does not discriminate against color, national origin, race or sex. We condemn the J.D.L.'s aggressive attitude on our Constitutional right, i.e., the freedom of worship. Who is Mr. Sidman to judge which is a 'good religion, or a bad religion?'"

Khudairi said Islam teaches tolerance, understanding, love, and respect for all human beings regardless of their faith.

Muslims consider Judaism and Christianity as "sister monotheistic religions, since all three religions believe in the Oneness of God," he said.

When asked about his reaction to the release of the hostages, Khudairi said he sympathized with them and that their being held against their will was "illegal" and "not proper. Hijacking is an act that's illegal and we don't sympathize with any illegal acts.

"The Islamic Center is very pleased to learn that their fellow American hostages have returned to their loved ones and families," he said.

Khudairi added that the center will "hold the Jewish Defense League and Kenneth Sidman liable for their criminal acts which may endanger the lives of the Muslim Community or the properties of the Islamic Center of New England in Quincy.

"If anything might happen, they would be the people we'd hold responsible," he said.

Sewage Facility Decision May Be Delayed By Winthrop Suit

The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority's selection of a site for a new sewage treatment plant may be delayed.

Sources said that the town of Winthrop is ready to file suit against the authority which was scheduled to make a decision July 10.

The two major potential sites are Long Island off Quincy and Deer Island off Winthrop.

Winthrop Selectmen will ask in their suit that a judge issue a temporary restraining order to prevent the authority from selecting a sewer plant site, said Winthrop Town Counsel Joseph Harvey.

Winthrop has also filed a motion to join suit with Quincy, the E.P.A. and Conservation Law Foundation against the MDC, State, Boston Sewerage Commission and M.W.R.A. regarding clean-up of Boston Harbor, sources said.

City Receives Certified Local Government Status

The City of Quincy, through its Department of Planning and Community Development, in conjunction with the Quincy Historic Commission announces that its request for Certified Local Government status has been approved by the Massachusetts Historical Commission (MHC).

The Certified Local Government (CLG) program is a federal program designed to extend the state and federal preservation partnership to the local level.

CLG status provides Quincy with the opportunity to enhance the local government's role in preservation by formalizing and strengthening the local preservation program and its links with the MHC.

As a Certified Local Government, Quincy, along with the Quincy Historic District Commission, will be responsible for assisting in the preparation of nominations of properties to the National Register of Historic Places.

In addition, they will review the National Register nominations for local approval prior to State Review Board Consideration.

As a CLG, Quincy is eligible to apply to the State Historic Preservation Officer for matching funds earmarked for certified local governments. The MHC is required to set aside at least 10% of its federal operating funds for use by CLGs.

The opportunity for increased funding provides CLG communities with an advantage over uncertified communities, which must compete for funding through a particular grant cycle. The funds from this cycle vary from year to year while the CLG set-aside is a required annual allocation.

Participation in the CLG program provides a useful mechanism for the clarification of the duties and responsibilities of the local historic district commission, and encourages coordinated communication with MHC. Thus, CLG status represents a valuable opportunity for eligible communities to strengthen and expand their local preservation programs.

During July, the City will enter into a Certification Agreement and a Memorandum of Understanding with MHC before formal certification by the National Park Service takes place.

IRS Hours

The Quincy office of the Internal Revenue Service will have new taxpayer assistance hours, announces John D. Johnson, District Director for the IRS in Massachusetts.

Beginning July 2, the office, located at 1458 Hancock St., will provide tax assistance Tuesdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Other services will be available as usual.

REDUCE TAXABLE PROFIT

QUESTION: I am 45 and am about to sell my home for a huge profit and move into an apartment. Is there any way I can reduce the tax on the expected profit?

ANSWER: Since you will not be reinvesting your proceeds into another home or opting for the once-in-a-lifetime $125,000 exemption for those over 55, your profit will be taxable.

You can increase your basis and reduce your taxable profit by deducting from the sales figure, expenses, such as: selling commission, deed preparation, legal and appraisal fees, and any escrow fees. You can also deduct the cost of any capital improvements made over the years such as a room addition or new roof or fence.

SALES EXPENSES AND HOME IMPROVEMENT DEDUCTIONS CAN REDUCE TAXABLE PROFIT.

Adams Thought It Would Be July 2nd

from the files of The Quincy Sun.)

There is no indication in the historic "Adams Papers" that John Adams bet on horses. Just as well he didn't. He might have lost his ruffled shirt.

Adams was a super patriot. But, apparently, just so-so as a prognosticator.

He played one of the major roles in making July 4th America's freedom birthday.

But he predicted July 2nd would be celebrated down through the years as the big day instead.

Adams made that somewhat erroneous prediction in a letter to Abigail Adams July 3, 1776. In the letter sent from Philadelphia to Abigail here in Quincy, he declared:

"The second day of July, 1776 will be the most memorable epoch in the history of America."

Adams thought this because the Declaration of Independence was adopted by 12 states on July 2. But, it wasn't signed by anyone until July 4.

And, for that matter, only two of the 55 signers affixed their signatures on the Fourth. They were Quincy's John Hancock, who as President of the Second Continental Congress, was the first to sign, and Charles Thomson.

Most of the others signed the precious document on Aug. 2. But six signed after that. And, Thomas McKean of Delaware didn't get around to it until five years later.

Thomas Jefferson and Hancock usually get top billing in the history books for the Declaration of Independence, Jefferson as its author and Hancock as its first signer. Hancock's signature — with a fancy flourish so "King George III can see it without his spectacles" — has probably become the most famous autograph in history.

But Adams played a key, if not as glamorous a role in putting the Declaration together.

Jefferson himself praised Adams as "... the most efficient agent in procuring a public Declaration of Independence."

Thursday marks the 209th anniversary of America's birth of freedom. And, ironically, the 159th anniversary of Adams' and Jefferson's deaths.

Both died on July 4, 1826 — the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

Adams collapsed here in Quincy, in a wing chair in his second floor study in the "Adams Mansion" — the home of four generations of the Adams family and the summer White House for two presidents.

Adams and Jefferson who had had a falling out and reconciled in later years. Among Adams' last words as he lay dying were "Jefferson survives."

He thought Jefferson had outlived him. But actually, Jefferson had died earlier that day at his home.

In those days, before radio and television, there were no such thing as instant news bulletins.

Adams was just three months and 15 days from his 91st birthday. He survived Abigail, his wife of 54 years — by eight years. He had lived to see his son John Quincy Adams become president in 1825. But Abigail, the only woman ever to be the wife of one U.S. president and the mother of a second, never knew the second honor.

Four days before he died, John Adams was asked to give a holiday toast to his fellow Quincy residents. The old man replied:

"I will give you independence forever." Asked if he would add to that, he declared: "Not a syllable."

"Independence forever" ... those are words we should always cherish and always remember.

Incidentally, if you've never been to the Adams Mansion, you're missing an historic treat.

The Mansion is under the National Parks Service and the personal loving care of Superintendent Wilhelmina Harris.

She has kept it in a "lived in appearance." You get the feeling as you walk through the beautiful rooms that John and Abigail are out for a walk and will be right back.

Nutley Urges More Cable TV Time For Council Candidates

Thomas J. Nutley, candidate for the Ward 6 City Council seat, thinks that candidates for Ward 6, councilors-at-large and other ward races should be featured on cable TV as were the mayoral candidates in last week's debate.

Nutley has written to the manager of Quincy Cablesystems to "strongly urge" that such time be made available.

Nutley said that "cable T.V. access programming is a valuable means of informing the citizenry. Cable T.V. not only has the option of presenting other political candidates but, in fact, has an obligation to provide that kind of access programming to Quincy's residents," he said.

Nutley further stressed that Quincy, and North Quincy in particular, are faced with a series of potential problems such as the possibility of a sewage site being located on Long Island, and the possibility of the old Greenbush railroad being rebuilt and passing through the North Quincy neighborhoods.

He suggested that the Ward 6 candidates appear for one hour and the councilor-at-large candidates also appear for an hour with all candidates subject to intensive questioning regarding the issues and their qualifications to deal with those issues.

"Only in this manner," said Nutley, "will the citizens of Quincy know the candidates and the candidates ability to handle the many problems that currently face the people of Quincy."

Nutley also invited cable T.V. to attend a mid-August "Candidates Night" to be sponsored by the Atlantic Neighborhood Association and the Squantum Community Association.

Charles Peter Memorial Bloodmobile July 16

City Councillor Michael Cheney is urging residents to donate blood Tuesday, July 16, at a memorial bloodmobile for the late Charles (Chris) Peter of Houghs Neck.

The bloodmobile, for the son of Trudy and Charles Peter, will be held 2 to 7 p.m. at the Houghs Neck Community Center, 1193 Sea St.

Mr. Peter, 22, was the victim of an automobile accident Sept. 14, 1984. The bloodmobile is being held on his birthday.

"Chris Peter touched the lives of many people in our community in a positive and everlasting way," said Cheney.

"He was known to all as a cheerful, energetic, youthful, loving and caring person."

Cheney introduced a resolve which was passed by the City Council recently that the Park and Recreation Board look into the feasibility of naming the basketball courts at LaBrecque Field in honor of Mr. Peter.

Women In Literature Summer Course At QJC

The Women's Center at Quincy Junior College is sponsoring the course, Images of Women in Literature, during the second summer session.

The course, led by Alicia Coletti, Women's Center Director, will begin Tuesday evening, July 9, and will be held every Tuesday and Thursday evening from 6 to 10 p.m. through August 8.

The course will include a survey of selected women writers of the twentieth century and an analysis of the images of women in literature as presented by male and female writers.

Registration for summer session II is currently being held at Quincy Junior College. Further information may be obtained by calling 786-8741.

in taxes for fiscal year 1985. He said he was unsure what the tax implications would be if the Quincy Shipyard ceased operation.

But he did say that whether or not the shipyard continues, the city will still be obligated to pay back $2.8 million in tax over assessments.

"The secretary of the Navy said that there are 28 shipbuilding companies in the country, but only about 12 are needed.

"That means phasing out, but we don't want it to be Quincy."

McCauley said that about 800 Quincy jobs would be lost if the shipyard went out of business, and there would be a spin-off effect on businesses in the Quincy Point area.

Evelyn Murphy, spokeswoman for the Quincy shipyard, said that a decision regarding the future of the shipyard will be made in the very near future.

"Obviously, we're exceedingly disappointed that these contracts didn't come to us.

"Once again, we have to reconsider our ability to remain economically viable in a competitive business here."

Personally, Miss Murphy remains optimistic.

"We have to hope that something comes along for us."

Sen. Paul D. Harold said the state budget finalized Saturday has a $75,000 appropriation for a study of General Dynamics shipyard, either continued use of the shipyard or an alternative if shipbuilding is not the industry at that site.

"Myself and Quincy State Rep. Thomas Brownell had this amount inserted into the budget because we anticipated more bad news was expected over future Navy contracts at the GD yard in Quincy."

"This money will very soon be transferred to the State Department of Economic Affairs. That agency will then contract with a firm to do an in-depth study of the GD yard."

"This study should be finished by the spring of 1986. By that time, we all should have a clearer picture of what General Dynamics' plans are."

Councillor Patricia Toland said her Blue Ribbon Task Force on General Dynamics will meet within a month.

She also said that she is not surprised that General Dynamics has lost two major Navy contracts.

"The decline of the shipbuilding industry has been evident for some time and the need for the shipyard to diversify has also been apparent, an idea put forth by the Navy. Our task now is to investigate options that will reinvigorate large scale manufacturing at high levels of employment for union workers with all the benefits and occupational protection that entails."

"Let's not blame U.S. Senators Ted Kennedy, John Kerry or Brian Donnelly for GD losing the contract."

"General Dynamics has engaged in corrupt business practices and prospered at the expense of the American taxpayer for too long. Everyone knew that Navy Secretary Lehman looked with complete disfavor on General Dynamics because of the action of its corporate leadership."

"Criticism was levelled recently at the organization of a task force on alternative uses of the shipyard which I initiated in the City Council."

"Community leaders who might be expected to understand the importance of long-range planning spoke against the idea as being premature."

"As it turns out, that meeting was not two weeks too early, but maybe two years too late."

"We ought to know General Dynamics' plans so Quincy can plan."

"I would like to see it stay an industrial site and not a cluster of condos."

Mrs. Toland said she sent a letter to the chairman of General Dynamics, and her task force will wait until it gets a response.

"I look to a planned state study of the whole subject," said Mrs. Toland.

Quincy's Yesterdays

150,000 At Merrymount For '4th'

More than 150,000 people thronged Merrymount Park to greet 2,000 holiday marchers at Fourth of July festivities and listen to speeches by Cong. Richard B. Wigglesworth (R-Milton) and State Treasurer Charles F. Hurley (D-Boston).

"Let the men and women of Quincy today," said Hurley, "bend their shoulders in loyalty and friendship to the great work of our day; the building up of the United States under our common leader, President Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Mayor Charles A. Ross touched off the midnight bonfire in the park, which had been guarded by police after Quincy Legion Post Cmdr. Lorimer F. Brown told them a "certain element" from Neponset planned to ignite it ahead of time so it wouldn't conflict with theirs.

The day before the fourth, Quincy Legionnaires hosted some 5,000 children with merry go 'round and ferris wheel rides under the direction of Harry Ingalls, who also led the youngsters in a community sing.

The Red men's band from Wollaston, under the direction of Douglas Haydock, gave concerts on two nights from the acoustic shell in the park and the New England Troubadors played for dancing in the pavilion on the pageant grounds.

A last minute sale of fireworks at the Quincy Fireworks Store, 1586 Hancock St., had Yankee Boy two-inch flash salutes, five boxes for 10 cents; Globe torpedoes, 10 cents a dozen; and a dozen packages of No. 1 sparklers for 35 cents.

Raymond Young, 13, of 77 School St., was taken to City Hospital with burns about the face and body from an exploding firecracker.

Tax Collector Edward G. Morris spoke at the celebration at Merrymount Beach, where Helen Gavaza and Paul Benzaquin won prizes for the best costumes in the Horribles parade.

COPELANDS WIN

Jack Kolson pitched six-hit ball and George Bennett belted a home run as the Copelands defeated the Quincy Trojans, 12-2, in the holiday opener of the second half of the City League Schedule.

Copelands: Halloran ss, J. Hughes 1b, Bennett 2b, Hebert cf-c, Skoler rf, Baker c, Bonafini lf, Rouillard 3b, P. Hughes rf-cf, Kolson p.

Trojans: Davis 2b, Trumbull c-cf, Brandolini ss-3b, Almquist 3b-ss, Mainini cf-c, Shuttleworth 1b, Grogan lf, Grant rf, Andrews p.

QUINCY-ISMS

Mayor Ross met with a delegation of Atlantic residents at City Hall to discuss the problem of noise from high-powered Army and National Guard airplanes taking off from Dennison Airport. Thieves shipped into Quincy Bay at night and stole the 30-foot sloop "Curlew," owned by Arthur and Albert Starrett, and the 25-foot auxiliary yawl, "Leisure," owned by Philip Doherty.

Arthur Sprague, 21, of 154 Taylor St., Wollaston, hitchhiked to the Chicago Worlds Fair in five days with $1 in his pocket. Men's shirts were 77 cents at the Lincoln Stores, 1431-37 Hancock St.

Police warned Quincy merchants about counterfeit money after a phoney $1 bill was passed at Bonin Lunch at Sea St. and Pilgrim Blvd. City Clerk Emery L. Crane reported that there were 89 places in Quincy where legal beer was being sold. Lester Perry of Quincy Adams was promoted to head baggage master at the Quincy railroad station, succeeding the late George Cormack.

10-ball Roman candles were selling for 5 cents apiece at Young's, 1470 Hancock St. Fire Lt. Paul Avery and Alex MacEachern carried a man to safety after he was overcome by smoke in a fire at a lodging and bath house at 48 Town Hill St., West Quincy.

The playbill at the State Theater was "The Great Jasper," starring Richard Dix and Episode One of "Last Frontier." Ladies who bought 15-cent orchestra tickets in the evening received free dressware. The Willows Community Association was formed by more than 100 Houghs Neck residents at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bleier on Babcock St. The 75-cent holiday special at Ships Haven Restaurant, 1237 Hancock St., was roast sirloin of beef, brown gravy, summer squash, rolls, coffee, cucumber crisp salad and dessert. Fifteen officers and men and 10 civilians were discharged at the Squantum Naval Air Reserve base, leaving only Lt. Felix Baker, the commandant, two reserve officers and 10 enlisted men at the base.

Iacobucci Calls For United Front On Shipyard Contracts

Ronald Iacobucci, candidate for councillor-at-large, says he is disappointed that city officials are once again planning for the closing of General Dynamics shipyard.

"Two major contracts may have been lost but I don't think that the men and women whose jobs are at stake are ready to throw in the towel.

"It is important to put in place state programs that will provide assistance to laid off workers, but any further talk about planning alternative uses is simply sending the wrong message to Washington and may in fact hurt our efforts to obtain further contracts."

"Remember, the shipyard was virtually closed several times before and it came back strong."

"Therefore, at this time we should present a united front in our efforts to obtain contracts."

"He will still be living in Quincy, however, and will remain a close and trusted adviser, albeit on an informal basis, as well as a dear personal friend of Sandra and mine."

Nicastro voiced similar themes in his letter to the Mayor, stating that he considered it "an honor and a pleasure to have served the City of Quincy, especially so under your leadership. . . . You have managed the affairs of our city in a truly outstanding and professional way, which reflects upon all of us who have had the privilege of being part of your administration."

"I shall cherish this honor throughout the rest of my life, as well as treasure the fond personal regard and friendship which we have shared over so many years."

The solicitor concluded: "You have my every best wish for your continued success as Mayor of the City of Quincy, and in all your future personal and public endeavors."

Nicastro, a lifelong Quincy resident, is a graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School.

Prior to joining the McCauley administration, he was an Assistant Attorney General of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, as well as in private law practice.

He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Nicastro of Quincy.

Gasoline Prices Higher This July 4th

Now that the vacationing season is here Quincy residents are finding that gasoline prices have increased since last July 4th.

According to the results of a spot check of service stations in eastern Massachusetts conducted by the American Automobile Association, regular leaded gasoline is now selling for $1.173 up 3.1 cents; and regular unleaded gasoline at $1.275, up 5.2 cents over last year.

Despite this increase, gasoline prices in the Bay State are still the lowest in New England. Average per-gallon prices for regular unleaded gasoline are higher by two-tenths of a cent in Maine, 1 cent in Vermont;

2.3 cents in New Hampshire; and 5.4 cents in both Connecticut and Rhode Island.

AAA's survey also found that 72 per cent of the service stations in New England will be open on July 4th.

Mary Lou Glaman Honored On Retirement As Teacher

Mary Lou Glaman, a kindergarten and second grade teacher at Snug Harbor School for 31 years, was honored recently on the occasion of her retirement.

Miss Glaman came to Quincy in 1954 after having taught three years in Park Ridge, Ill., where she had received her education at North Park Academy in Chicago, and Lake Forest College in Lake Forest, Ill.

She received her Education Masters from Boston University in 1962.

During her thirty one years in the Quincy Public School System, Miss Glaman taught Early Childhood Courses at Eastern Nazarene College and represented the Quincy Public Schools in the formation and organization of the South Shore Day Care. She was also the Educational Advisor to the Headstart Program and to the Quincy YMCA in setting up a Day Care Program.

Miss Glaman is a life member of the National Education Association and the Massachusetts Teachers Association and a member of Norfolk County Teachers Association and the American Institute of Parliamentarians.

She served as an Elementary Director, Chairman of many committees and Parliamentarian for the Quincy Education Association.

As a member of Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy, Miss Glaman served as Deacon, Church School Teacher, Advisor to Youth Groups and a member of the By-Laws Committee. She is at present the President of Bethany Players, a position she has held since 1966.

Miss Glaman served as Director of all state Junior Clubs for the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs. She also served as president of the Quincy Women's Club Juniors from 1959 to 1961 and the Junior Past Presidents Club from 1974 to 1976.

Miss Glaman is active in the Germantown Heritage Society, Quincy Historical Society, Quincy Hospital's Women's Auxiliary and the William B. Rice Eventide Auxiliary.

She has been included in the Publications of Outstanding Young Women of America (first edition, 1965), Who's Who in American Women 1977 to 1978 and Who's Who in the East 1979 to 1980.

Miss Glaman was the recipient of awards from New England Home for Little Wanderers, 1966, March of Dimes, C.A.R.E., and the Protestant Social Service Bureau in Quincy.

During the reception held in her honor, the following presentations were made to Miss Glaman:

A plaque citation for years of service from the school committee; a plaque from the Parent Teachers Organization "From all the children - For your unlimited talents during thirty one years of service"; a gift from the Quincy Education Association (Q.E.A.) for first year membership in the retired state and national organizations. Massachusetts Teachers Associations and National Education Association; a Paul Revere Bowl from Q.E.A. for dedicated service; Distinguished Service Citation from Massachusetts Teachers Association "for years of dedicated service to the education profession"; an official citation from the Massachusetts State senate; and a plaque with a poem written by the present P.T.O. President who had been in Mary Lou's first kindergarten and whose daughter had been in the same class two years ago.

First Presbyterian Young People In Workcamp Mission

Young people from the First Presbyterian Church, Quincy, will participate in a week-long workcamp mission to aid the residents of Orange and Chatham Counties, N.C., July 6 to 14. The Carolina Woods Workcamp is sponsored by GROUP, a magazine for Christian youth groups. Work projects will be coordinated by the joint Orange-Chatham Community Action.

Youngsters will come from across the country to construct, repair and weatherize family homes. Local community workers describe the area as having desperate needs. Many of the elderly, poor and handicapped need help with projects that they cannot do themselves.

About 400 young people and their adult leaders from throughout the U.S., representing several denominations, will participate in the workcamp.

"These youths are paying all of their own expenses for food, lodging, tools and building materials as well as volunteering a full work week," said California Woods Workcamp director Joani Schultz. "The purpose of the workcamp is to help young people show their Christian faith by working together to help others."

All work projects will be done under adult supervision. Six-person crews will be assigned according to the crew members' skills and the needs of a specific project.

Young people making the trip from First Presbyterian Church are Brenda Waters, George Fernandez, Melissa Hart, Scott Miller, Kristin O'Keefe, Beth Vacca, Erik Mann and Hal Ja Curtis from Quincy, Lindsay Fee and Gary Torressen from Weymouth, Todd Richmond, Amy Willoughby, Will Willoughby, Jennifer Butman, Alison Colville, Steve Leone and Jay Murray from Braintree. Pastor Larry Baskin, Bernice J. Baskin, Bill MacDonald, John and Shirley Shuster will accompany the youth as adult leaders.

Several local businesses have helped underwrite some of the workcamp expenses including: South Shore Bank, Quincy Savings, Quincy Cooperative and Hancock Bank.

City Receives $7,000 Survey, Planning Grant

Quincy's Department of Planning and Community Development has received a $7,000 matching grant from the Massachusetts Historical Commission Fiscal Year 1985 Survey and Planning Grant program.

The program is designed to identify all districts, buildings, sites, and structures in the state which are significant in American history, architecture, archaeology and culture at the national, state and local levels.

Also, $7,000 of the city's Community Development Block Grant funds will be used for the local share.

The survey and planning grant allows the city to fund a project which will involve reviewing and upgrading existing survey forms of Quincy's historical inventory, and conducting a comprehensive survey and inventory of other historically significant properties in the city.

The project will be structured to provide for the hiring of a professional consultant experienced in preservation planning.

Goals of the project, which is to begin this summer and to be completed within 12 months, are:

To supplement and upgrade the existing documentation in Quincy's historical inventory in keeping with National Register Criteria.

To conduct a comprehensive survey of historically and culturally significant sites, and to complete survey forms for each property or site.

To highlight for further study these properties or sites in the Quincy inventory which appear to be suitable for nomination to the National Register of Historic Places.

The information generated on each historically significant property will be of importance to the city in several different areas.

In addition to serving as the basis of National Register nominations, it will be used by the city to promote and champion the renovation and preservation of the city's historic properties.

In addition, the inventory provides the material for a comprehensive community history.

Introducing the Airport Water Shuttle. The fast way to commute between the South Shore and Logan or Boston.

From the South Shore, the Water Shuttle beats Expressway traffic to the airport. At Logan, a free shuttle bus takes you right to your airline terminal.

The Water Shuttle features big, comfortable commuter boats with lots of seating. And a "galley" that offers refreshments and newspapers.

Just drive to Marina Bay in Squantum or Pemberton Pier in Hull. You'll find plenty of free parking. And then it's easy sailing to Logan with a stop in downtown Boston.

The fare to Logan is $6.50 one way. Discount commuter books are available.

Why flounder around in traffic? Take the Airport Water Shuttle.

Kathryn M. Ackerman, 81 Owned Furniture Store

A funeral service for Kathryn M. (MacLaren) Ackerman, 81, of Quincy, co-owner and operator of the former Ackerman Furniture Store and Moving Co., was held June 28 in the First Presbyterian Church of Quincy.

Mrs. Ackerman died June 26 at home.

Born on Prince Edward Island, Canada, Mrs. Ackerman was educated there. She lived in Arlington for several years before moving to Quincy 50 years ago.

Mrs. Ackerman, along with her husband, Harry, owned and operated the furniture store and moving firm at School and Franklin Sts. for 30 years. The couple retired from business 10 years ago.

She is survived by a brother, Charles MacLaren of Newton, a sister, Marion MacLeod of Quincy and several nieces and nephews.

The Rev. Roger Kvan officiated the service.

Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Arrangements were by the Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the First Presbyterian Church.

Edward Barker, 85, Founded Stationery Store

A funeral Mass for Edward Barker, 85, of Quincy, was celebrated Monday at St. Mary's Church, West Quincy.

Mr. Barker died at his home June 27 after a long illness.

Born in Fayetteville, Ohio, Mr. Barker was a 17-year resident of Quincy.

He was founder and owner of the Barker Stationery & Supply Company and the Quincy Typewriter Company.

Mr. Barker was a veteran of World War I, serving in the U.S. Navy.

He is survived by his wife, Anna (Fruth) Barker; three sons, Robert Barker of Weymouth, Richard Barker of Stoughton, Edward Barker of Medford; two daughters, Mary Godell of Braintree, Ann Finn of Bridgewater; a sister, Rosanna Barker, Sister of Charity, of Mt. St. Joseph, Ohio; 25 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren. He was also the father of the late Louis Barker and the late Rose Carlier.

Burial was in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery, Weymouth.

Arrangements were made by the Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 326 Copeland St., West Quincy.

Francis R. Frazier, 87, Retired Firefighter

A funeral Mass for Francis R. Frazier, 87, a retired member of the Quincy Fire Department, will be celebrated Wednesday at 11 a.m. in St. John's Church, Quincy Center.

Mr. Frazier died June 29 at home.

A lifelong resident of Quincy, he lived at the senior citizens complex at 195 Martinson St.

He was a member of the Morrisette American Legion Post and Quincy Firemen's Relief Association.

He was a Navy veteran of World War I.

Husband of the late Violet M. (Poirier) Frazier, he is survived by a son, Gerald Frazier of Weymouth, an MDC police officer in Nantasket; two brothers, Chester Frazier of Quincy and Kenneth Frazier of Clearwater, Fla.; four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. He was also the brother of the late Grace Frazier.

Burial will be in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Visiting hours were scheduled for Tuesday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. at the Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., Quincy.

Marion F. Carr, 82,

A funeral Mass for Marion F. Carr, 82, a longtime Quincy resident, was held June 28 in Star of the Sea Church, Squantum.

Mrs. Carr, who was born in Cambridge and lived in Quincy for 40 years, died June 24 after a long illness.

She was a member of the Squantum Women's Club.

Mrs. Carr is survived by a nephew, Thomas Mooney, and a niece, Patricia Fanska, both of Westfield, and an aunt, Agnes Hannigan of Dorchester.

She was the wife of the late James R. Carr.

Burial was in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

Funeral arrangements were made by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Chandler K. Garland, 73, Banker, Kiwanis Club Officer

A funeral service for Chandler K. Garland, 73, president-elect of the Quincy Kiwanis Club and a former assistant vice president with the First National Bank of Boston, was held Monday at the First Baptist Church in Wollaston.

Mr. Garland died June 28 at Quincy City Hospital after a brief illness.

Born in Boston, he lived in Milton and New York before moving to Squantum 39 years ago. He attended Milton schools and was a 1930 graduate of Milton High School. He was graduated from Harvard University in 1934.

Mr. Garland was a 33-year employee of the First National Bank of Boston, retiring in 1977. He also worked as a consultant for Quincy Savings Bank.

He is the immediate past-president of the Harvard Club of Quincy and was the recent president-elect of the Kiwanis Club of Quincy. He was the current treasurer of the Quincy Tourism Association and an active member of the Wollaston Masonic Lodge. He was also a member of the First Baptist Church of Wollaston.

He is survived by his wife, Louise L. (Rich) Garland of Squantum; a son, Malcolm

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK.

The United States government was designed by young men - many of them were in their thirties. They were a talented and influential group of joiners. They were the kind of working joiners, who, like the philosopher - statesmen of early Greece, sought perfection through an integrated wholeness. They were very responsible men who connected their spiritual beliefs to political action. To these men there were no walls separating science, philosophy, and religion. Some of these men were so well versed in theology, they could have made a name for themselves in the pulpit as well as the affairs of state.

For example - John Adams wrote, "I have been a church going animal for 76 years, from the cradle." Washington wrote, "I am sure that there was never a people who had more reason to acknowledge a divine interposition in their affairs than those of the U.S." Jefferson, during his trying days as President, began a writing, "The Life and Morals of Jesus of Nazareth." It was later translated into three languages.

These were the kind of men that founded our nation. They founded it with faith. This is our heritage. On this 4th of July let's give thanks for the "Faith of our fathers... living still"...

There are many misconceptions about funeral costs. That's not surprising, really, as there are other charges involved in a funeral, then those of the funeral director... cemetery or cremation charge... monuments or markers... newspaper death notices and flowers. Many also believe that funeral directors will not discuss funeral or burial costs frankly and specifically. Nothing could be further from the truth. Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., adjacent to the Quincy Historical Society Home, stands ready to give you whatever cost information you desire at any time. Roger Hamel, Donald McCarthy and Joseph Thompson are thoroughly trained in the profession they have chosen and ready to discuss frankly, funeral cost information. Squantum Pastor Assails Hostage Captors, Nicaragua Policy

"We do not have clean hands in Nicaragua," said church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin of the First Church of Squantum in his sermon Sunday, referring to American foreign policy in that part of the world.

The pastor began his remarks with a special prayer for the American hostages then being held in Beirut by the Shiite kidnappers.

He told the congregation, "If you are like me, you have been filled with anger and frustration that we are caught up again in another hostage crisis... that a few hotshots with hand guns and a couple of hand grenades have been able to make hostages of our media, our people and our leaders... and that these despicable pirates have met with such apparent success in paralyzing the most powerful country on earth. And I am haunted by the brutal and deliberate murder of the 23-year-old Navy diver on that flight."

"No matter how much we hear hostages in captivity say that their captors are 'nice people,' we must surely remember that they are brutal murderers and that those very hostages are speaking with a gun to their heads."

It was when he began to speak of the retaliation that the American government would be likely to make when the present crisis was over that he shifted focus to Nicaragua.

"Do you know what President Reagan did the day after these same Shiites bombed our Navy barracks in Beirut and killed 234 of our men? He invaded Grenada. Keep that in mind.

Invasions are a quick way to take our minds off a humiliation somewhere else. Nicaragua may be next."

"We are already at war on it's borders. In the past, we have mined its harbors and printed manuals for the 'contras' instructing them how to assassinate people. We have supported those same forces in their continuous siege of terror and murder, in burning homes, in killing peasants, in torture, in the burning of crops and the destruction of refineries, all in an attempt to destabilize the present government."

The pastor, who is an American Baptist, read from a letter sent to pastors in this country by Nicaraguan Baptist leaders who explained specifically the terrorism that they were having to live with as a result of the American support for the contras.

Dr. Langevin said that he was not sympathetic with the Sandinistas — the regime against which the contras were fighting — but felt that American Christians should be doing what they could these days to urge our government to contain the alleged Nicaraguan excesses by the international agreements rather than by involving ourselves in direct support of the terrorists.

Citing the recent vote in both the House and the Senate in Washington to send $27 million to the contras, allegedly for humanitarian aid, and the more recent discussions in Congress of the conditions under which American troops might be deployed in Nicaragua, the pastor said, "Things are moving faster than we know. We may be being distracted from what is really going on by this constant focus on what is happening to the hostages."

"My question to you today," the pastor concluded, "is simply this: are we, as American Christians, standing against international terrorism or are we a part of it? My own belief is that we do not have clean hands in Nicaragua."

The scripture for the morning was the Second Psalm. The pastor's text was, "Blessed are all who take refuge in him." (Psalm 2:12).

Tom Williamson and Diane Lindblad sang "Just As I Am" for the offertory. Stewart Scott and Tore Wallin were ushers. Patti Hurd, Grace Holmes and Hazel Mayne hosted the fellowship hour after the service.

Hymns in the first service included "God Send Us Men," "My Country 'Tis of Thee," "America the Beautiful" and "Now, O Lord, Go With Us."

During the first service, Charles Kinney and Leif Thornton gave the call to worship. David Williams led the opening prayer and Chris Dixey offered the prayer of dedication.

Guitarists Mary Ruth Scott, David Williams and Andrew Ogilvie provided the accompaniment for the hymns.

Dr. Langevin preached on the subject, "The Prodigal Son," and illustrated his talk with cartoons. Sarah Mildram and Melissa Stamos were the ushers.

There will be two services again this Sunday: the guitar service at 8:30 a.m. and the traditional service at 9:30 a.m. Visitors are welcome.

Caddy Detachment, Resident Honored For Veterans Program

Quincy's Caddy Marine Corp Detachment; and a Quincy resident were honored for voluntary contributions to veterans programs at a recent award ceremony in Whitman.

The Marine Corp Caddy group with a certificate for outstanding service to the nation's veterans through the voluntary service program.

Also recognized was Frank Desmond of 38 Baxter St., representative for the Marine Corp League at the Brockton VA hospital. Desmond was awarded a certificate by the Veterans Administration in recognition of his 750 hours of volunteer service to veterans.

The Marine Corp League, Brockton/Boxer Detachment, also was presented with an outstanding service certificate.

Desmond said one of the Caddy Detachment contributions to benefit veterans is the annual 3-day summer sidewalk bazaar in downtown Quincy. Proceeds from last year totaled $1400 and went to benefit veterans at the Brockton VA hospital.

REP. THOMAS F. BROWNELL

Brownell Honored By Mass. Bar Assn.

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) recently received the Massachusetts Bar Association's "Legislator of the Year" award.

The presentation took place at MBA's Annual Meeting in Chatham.

Brownell is currently a member of House Speaker George Keverian's leadership team. He serves as chairman of the Committee on Judiciary.

The senior member of the Quincy delegation, he has represented the Second Norfolk District in the House of Representatives since 1971.

MBA President Richard Hoffman noted that "Rep. Brownell's varied experience in government, law and teaching has prepared him well for his new assignment of chairing the powerful Judiciary Committee in the Legislature.

"Tom Brownell has a deserved reputation as an advocate of law reform, generally, and of rules reform in the legislature."

Brownell's legislative accomplishments include passage of the Massachusetts Anti-trust Act of 1978.

He was a proponent of legislation establishing a medical malpractice tribunal in 1975 to eliminate nuisance medical malpractice claims and legislation to enact the 1983 Massachusetts Child Custody Jurisdiction Act.

A lecturer in government at Suffolk University, Brownell practices law in Quincy. In 1984, he was the Quincy Bar Association's "Man of the Year."

Rain Fouls Up Schedule Wollaston Ends Winless Streak, 11-2

By TOM SULLIVAN
Rain raised havoc with the Legion baseball schedule last week and all teams will have several games to make up.
Morrisette's undefeated Zone 6 leaders (6-0) had games with Quincy, Milton and Randolph rained out.
Wollaston, which snapped a five-game winless streak, was rained out of a game with Mass Truck, and winless Quincy (0-6) had games rained out with Morrisette and Carter Post of Dorchester.
Randolph extended its unbeaten Zone 6-B record to seven with a 4-2 win over Canton but lost its first game to previously winless Holbrook, 6-2.

Wollaston ended its five-game winless streak last week by exploding for an 11-2 victory over Weymouth to improve to 2-4-1.
Steve Higgins pitched a four-hitter, struck out 14 and walked only two.
Higgins also had two hits and Chris Rossi had two hits and drove in three runs.
Quincy, which has had all sorts of trouble getting hits, lost to Canton, 5-0, getting only one hit, and to Braintree, 11-1, collecting two hits. Quincy hasn't collected more than three hits in any game this season.

All teams are busy this week.
Morrisette played Canton Monday, Mass Truck Tuesday, hosts Weymouth tonight (Wednesday) at 8 at Adams Field and will play at Carter Post Friday at 6. It will be home to Wollaston Monday night at 8 at Adams and will play at Braintree next Wednesday night at 8.

Wollaston played Carter Post Monday, Quincy Tuesday, plays at Canton tonight and will be home to Braintree Friday night at 8 at Adams. It will play Morrisette Monday night and will host Milton Wednesday at 6 at Adams.
Quincy played Holbrook Monday, Wollaston Tuesday, plays at Milton tonight and will be home to Dorchester Friday at 6 at Adams. It will play at Randolph Monday at 6 and will host Mass Truck Wednesday at 8 at Adams.

RICH PALMA of North Quincy has been elected co-captain of next season's Northeastern University track team. Palma, a 1982 graduate of North Quincy High, had a sensational outdoor season for Coach Everett Baker's New England and Greater Boston champions and was the team's premier long jump specialist.

• Junior Baseball

VFW Tops Cable, Takes Over Top

Bryan Post VFW defeated Quincy Cablestems, 9-3, to take over first place in the Junior Baseball League's American League with a 13-5 record. Houghs Neck leads the National League with a 14-3 mark.
Richie MacDonald was the winning pitcher for VFW against Cable and had 14 strikeouts. Losing pitcher Mike Baylis, who was outstanding for four innings before VFW exploded for six runs in the fifth, had nine strikeouts. MacDonald had a triple and two singles for VFW, Scott Dunn, Brian Zimmerman, Donnie Anderson and Chris Barrett two singles each, Mike Geldes a double and single and Steve Carroll a single. For Cable Gary Rawdon had two doubles and a single, Pat Gallagher two singles and Baylis a double.

VFW lost to Burgin Platner, 6-3, with Mike Gates the winning pitcher.
For Burgin Billy Warren, Tony Balzano, Mark Kelleher, Tom Malvesti, Mike Doherty and Brian Doherty had the hits, while MacDonald, Zimmerman, Steve Carroll, Mike Gelder and Robbie O'Connor had the hits for VFW.
The Elks outslugged Colonial Federal, 15-14, with a fine come-from-behind effort.
The Elks pounded out 23 hits with Chris Stenmon, Eddie Rizzitano, Paul Harrington and Tony Bianco all going 4-for-4.

Mike Murray, Jeff Owens, Matt O'Toole and Dan Flaherty had doubles and Sean McCardle, Jason Owens and Sean Murray collected their first hits of the season.
The Elks were down by two runs with two men on and two outs in the last inning when Stenmon blasted a double driving in the tying run and Rizzitano drove in the winning run with a long double. The Elks' defense was sparked by Bianco in center field, Flaherty in left and catcher Jeff Owens.
The Elks went into extra innings to top Burgin Platner, 12-9, with three runs in the seventh. Harrington struck out seven and O'Toole pitched well in the last two innings.

The Elks tied the game at 9-all on hits by Rizzitano, Bianco, McCardle, Flaherty, Eric Fagerlund and Mike Murray. In the seventh Jeff Owens singled and scored the go-ahead run on Stenmon's double. Rizzitano singled and Harrington drove in the two insurance runs with a triple.
Bevilacqua, Balzano and Malvesti played well for Burgin.
The standings: AMERICAN LEAGUE - VFW, 13-5; Cable, 12-6; Foley Chrysler, 10-8; State Street, 9-9; Burgin Platner, 8-9; Kiwanis, 5-12. NATIONAL LEAGUE - Houghs Neck, 14-3; Boston Gear, 12-5; Rotary, 6-11; Elks, 6-11; Colonial Federal, 5-13; Keohane's, 2-16.

Haverhill Boat Wins Marine Bay 100

After postponing the race Saturday due to inclement weather, the second annual Marine Bay 100 Offshore Powerboat Race was blessed with perfect weather Sunday as 25 of the East Coast's fastest offshore power boats started the race.
Hundreds of spectators watched the start of the race at Marina Bay and hundreds more witnessed the race from Nantasket Beach.
James Ricci of Haverhill was the winner in his Heat-wave, followed by Instigator, Gino Montrone of Tom's River, N.J.; Breakaway, John D'elea, Greenwich, Conn.; Hot Shot, Joe Balisi, New Jersey; Phantom, Mike Allesse, Waltham, and Executioner, Leith McArthur, Ashland.

The race, run under the direction of the National Powerboat Racing Association, was sponsored by Marina Bay and Race New England.
The Awards Banquet was held Sunday night at Marina Bay.

Catalano In Scituate Road Race

Quincy's Patti Lyons Catalano, one of America's top runners, will start in the Scituate 10K Classic Sunday and will do live cable TV commentary.
Patti recently returned to the marathon wars after being hampered by injuries and won a marathon in Brazil.
Between races she is a fitness consultant for runners at Stone's gym in Hanover. "I am running because the Scituate race caters to the first-time runner who is a jogger and a serious runner. It is a well-organized race."
"We want Patti associated with good races and Scituate caters to the runners," said her agent, Dick Gold.

Top male and female winners receive $100 savings bonds and Revere trophy bowls. The runners also receive $1,200 in raffle prizes.

Each runner receives a free T-shirt, runner cap, race medal, food and drink. There also will be balloons for the runners' children.
The course record of 29:54 was set last year by North Quincy's Bart Petracca.

Granite City Upsets Police, 15-14

Despite a surprising 15-14 loss to Granite City Electric, the Police Club remained in first place in the Babe Ruth League with a 14-2 record. Both losses were to Granite City.

The Police jumped off to an early 2-0 lead on a hit by Rick Ames, a towering double by Dan Overby and an error. Police added five runs in the second as Ames, Calvert, Bill Bellew, Mike Cronin and Tom Roberts all walked and later scored.

Granite City scored twice when Brian Howlett walked, Sean Doran singled, Tony Anderionis grounded into a fielder's choice, Howlett scoring, and Doran scored as a ground out.

Police added three in the third when Wayne Chambers reached on an error, Bellew singled and Cronin walked to fill the bases. All three later scored.

Granite City scored five in the half of the third as Dan Biagini tripled, Howlett walked, Doran singled, Anderionis and Caiwsky walked and Sean Thomson reached on an error.

Police added four in the fourth as Mike Ainsley singled, Joe Mulvey and Chambers walked, Bellew singled and Cronin and Roberts hit sacrifice flies.

Granite City scored twice in the sixth when Tim Brillo was hit by a pitch, Biagini walked and Howlett drove both in with a double.

Trailing, 14-9, in the seventh, Granite City erupted to win the game as Thomson singled, Biagini and Michael Mullaney reached on errors, Howlett singled, Doran walked and Anderionis hit a game-winning double. Police was hurt by an injury to T. J. Steen, perhaps the best all-around player on the team.

In its previous game Police blanked Morrisette Post, 6-0, with Ainsley the winning pitcher. Steen, Ainsley and Mulvey had hits in the first inning. Ames had a single and Ainsley and Overby had two hits each. Roberts, Cronin, Calvert and James Ward played well defensively. Chambers and Brian Kelly played fine games.

For Morrisette Dave Hutchings, Sean Craig and Mike Noonan had the hits and Rich and Rob Keddy, Frank Inello, Chris Boudreau, Jon Quill, Mike Shields and Tim Evans played excellent defense.

Police also defeated the Elks, 7-2, led by the hitting of Overby, Mulvey, Chambers and Bellew. Mike Jacobacci and Hugh Merlino, sidelined most of the season with tonsillitis, were outstanding on defense. Ward, Cronin, Roberts, Calvert and Bellew all played fine games.

For the Elks, Joe and Sean Gately, Bill Dineen and Bob Buttomer played well.

Bryan Post VFW defeated Local 1139, 4-2, in a well-played game with winning pitcher Ron Fletcher pitching five-hit ball and striking out seven.

Local 1139 jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the first inning on Joe Manning's two-run single. Fletcher was in complete command the rest of the way.

Bryan scored twice in the second as Jay Rodriguez, who played a fine game behind the plate, and Mark Dwyer singled, pulled off a double steal and both scored on Sean Mulken's single. Bryan took the lead in the fifth as Sean Murphy walked, stole second and scored on an infield out and an error. It scored an insurance run in the sixth on Fletcher's towering triple and Bill Mulken's sacrifice fly.

In the sixth Bryan center fielder Mark Molloy made a spectacular catch to stifle a local rally. Kevin Caldwell followed with a double but Fletcher settled down and retired the next two batters. Rob Cinquegrano, Gary Silverman, Jamie Greene and Brian O'Malley all played key roles in the win. Mark DiMaggio pitched well for Local 1139, giving up only four hits and striking out seven.

NQHS Calculus Team Places Third In N.E.

In the final standings for the 1984-85 school year the North Quincy High School Calculus Team placed third in New England.

The team finished the year five points behind Lexington, one point behind Boston Latin, besting twenty other teams in region I.

Nationwide, North ranked 14th of 200 teams competing in 35 states.

The team's total score of 212 out of 240 possible points was the best in its six-year history.

Elizabeth Silkwood, Diane Callow and Evelyn Perepeyuk were the team's top scorers.

Elizabeth had perfect scores in three of the four meets, and Diane and Evelyn in two of them.

The Continental Mathematics League - Calculus

Division awarded medals to Elizabeth and Diane and a certificate to Evelyn for their outstanding performances.

Miss Silkwood will be attending Texas A & M in the fall and was the recipient of the 1985 Gerald Lyons Memorial Scholarship for excellence in mathematics.

Miss Callow will be attending the University of Massachusetts, and Miss Perepeyuk, class valedictorian, will attend Brown.

ASBESTOS LUNG DISEASE

Asbestos dust causes serious lung ailments; the diseases appear suddenly, years after exposure. Today numerous SHIPYARD WORKERS, MASONS, and PIPEFITTERS of the 1930's-1970's have lung afflictions because they inhaled asbestos particles many years ago.

If you worked in one of those professions then and now have a lung disease, you may be eligible to receive money damages or workers' compensation. Relatives of living and deceased victims can also recover in some cases.

Historical Society Trip To Science Museum

The Quincy Historical Society is offering an opportunity for members and friends to view the international exhibition, "China, 7000 Years of Discovery" at the Boston Museum of Science Thursday, July 18.

The tour will depart by bus from the society's headquarters, Adams Academy, 8 Adams St., Quincy, at 10 a.m. and will return about 4 p.m.

The exhibition brings the ancient world to life with over 300 artifacts and Chinese artisans working in a manner now thousands of years old.

This is the only East Coast appearance of this exhibit that has attracted crowds in San Francisco, Toronto, Chicago, Seattle and Atlanta.

The fee includes transportation by school bus, lunch at the Science Museum's Skyline Dining Room, and all admissions and tips.

Reservations must be made no later than Friday, July 5.

Five Quincy Students Win At Regional Science Fair

Five students from North Quincy High School were among winners at the 27th annual South Shore Regional Science Fair held recently at Bridgewater State College.

They are:
First place: Kirk Highfield, sophomore;
Elizabeth Silkwood, senior.

Both Highfield and Silkwood were also awarded Honorable Mention in the Navy Science Award Program.

Second place: Alfred Cawthorne, freshman.

Honorable mention: Elaine Joseph, Freshman; Christopher Ricciuti, junior.

The five students will compete in the Massachusetts State Science Fair at M.I.T. April 26 and 27.

WEEK OF: JULY 4.

AQUARIUS — January 21-February 19
Watch tendency of undervaluing your own worth. Although your best ideas may not be favorably received the situation is strictly temporary. Plan ahead — and think positively!

PISCES — February 20-March 20
The week favors creative expression and academic expansion. Mid-year evaluations prove more effective than ones made in January. Elegant events are scattered through this period.

ARIES — March 21-April 20
Romantic setback is brief. Try not to let it distract you from the lively events that take place this week. Family relationships improve noticeably by Monday.

TAURUS — April 21-May 22
Love partner is inconsistent and friends lean toward the dramatic. Favorable financial news may arrive by Friday. Professional idea may backfire. Add physical fitness to agenda.

GEMINI — May 23-June 21
Balancing budgets can take up a large chunk of the week, but there's still time for romantic reconciliations and spontaneous travel. Youngsters benefit from the encouragement you provide.

CANCER — June 22-July 22
Romantic hunches are strong but business instincts aren't as sharp. Economic picture is brightening. The conservative side of your personality emerges after the weekend.

LEO — July 23-August 22
Originality is not your current strength, it's better to use a tried and true approach both in romantic situation and professional dealings. Relatives may make surprise requests.

VIRGO — August 23-September 22
Romantic course is steady and distractions at the workplace begin to disappear. Important message can have a double meaning. Travel is highlighted, but generally avoid extremes.

LIBRA — September 23-October 22
A week for learning about yourself as your independent streak surfaces. Financial responsibility may be shared. Work schedule tightens. Travel dreams can materialize.

SCORPIO — October 23-November 21
New interests keep you youthful and a new friendship keeps you occupied. Reserve time for elderly family members. Offbeat gift may come your way over the weekend.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22-December 22
A new friend surprises you with his/her outspoken remarks while a chatty relative is at a loss for words. On the homefront, role reversal begins to take place.

CAPRICORN — December 23-January 20
Shortcuts can prove costly in the long run, so take a methodical and careful approach. Financial advice may be misleading. Communications improve. Intriguing invitation arrives.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Independent streak emerges through the coming year, leading you to learn more about your talents and to realize your potential. The key is to be more forgiving than you generally are — and much less easily distracted.

BORN THIS WEEK
July 4th, bandleader Mitch Miller; 5th, showman P.T. Barnum; 6th, singer Della Reese; 7th, singer Ringo Starr; 8th, singer Steve Lawrence; 9th, actor Richard Roundtree; 10th, actor James Brolin.

Nutley Offers Compromise Plan For Sewage Plant, Jail Site

Thomas J. Nutley, 235 Billings St., Quincy, has a suggested compromise plan he would like to offer in the continuing controversy of future sites for a new sewerage treatment, and a new area prison facilities.

"Of course we're all opposed to locating such a facility in our community," Nutley said, "but, where are the creative suggestions that might aid the new state water resource authority in making their decision? This decision cries out for compromise rather than allowing one community, Quincy or Winthrop, to bear the total burden."

Nutley adds: "build the expanded sewerage plant on Deer Island. According to a study constructing a new one on Long Island would cost $200-million."

"However, to make this decision attractive to Winthrop, demolish Deer Island House of Correction and beautify that site for area recreation."

"Also, that antiquated Charles Street Jail in Boston would be torn down and one modern jail facility could be erected at one of two Boston sites — both removed from residential areas."

"The new combined jail facility could be located on the vacant acres near the Hurley Building, Cambridge St., in a section of the West End in Boston."

"A second, but more feasible jail site would be at the old Boston incinerator, adjacent to the Southeast Expressway. Transportation to this site would be easy because of the X-Way ramps."

"In summarization Winthrop would have a sewerage treatment facility but would be relieved of a less-than-escape-proof jail. And much could be done at the expanded sewage plant. One such action: minimize odor, noise and traffic disruption."

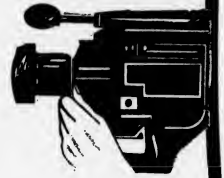

"Boston would centralize its two jails on one modern facility and would then benefit in the valuable sale of Charles Street jail land. "Finally, Boston would retain the Long Island recreational area and, Quincy would retain the Nut Island sewage facility, but would be freed from the prospect of a second plant and the disruptive traffic passing through Quincy to Long Island."

Four Attorneys Form New Law Firm

Attorneys Paul F. Kenney, Barry R. Smith, Richard N. Sullivan and J. Michael Conley have left the South Shore firm of Murphy, Lamere and Murphy to form the general practice law firm of Kenney, Conley, Sullivan & Smith, with offices in the 128 South Building, Braintree.

Members of the new firm attributed the move to each of their aspirations to run their own firm and their desire to establish greater control over the decisions affecting their practice.

Barry Smith, speaking for Kenney, Conley, Sullivan & Smith, commented, "We worked towards an amicable parting, and so far have succeeded in keeping open the possibility of a long-term cooperative relationship between the two firms.

Kenney, a graduate of Boston University Law School, concentrates his practice on civil and criminal litigation, with an emphasis in person injury. Prior to his joining Murphy, Lamere and Murphy in 1978, he served as a trial lawyer for the Massachusetts Defenders Committee. Kenney headed up the civil litigation department at Murphy, Lamere and Murphy, and recently attained a $1.2 million settlement in a medical malpractice case concerning failure to diagnose cancer.

Smith, a Plymouth resident, graduated from the University of Pennsylvania Law School in 1975. He concentrates his practice in the areas of estate planning and administration, corporate law and real estate law.

Upon graduation from law school, Smith practiced with the firm of Newman, Meserve, King and Romero. When that firm divided, he joined the firm of King and Gilpatrick. In 1983 he accepted an invitation to join the firm of Murphy, Lamere and Murphy where he was a senior member of their commercial law department.

Sullivan is a resident of Reading and graduate of Suffolk University Law School. Sullivan concentrates his practice in special education law.

Upon graduating from Suffolk Law School, Sullivan opened the law offices of Richard N. Sullivan and developed a reputation as an effective advocate for children in need of special education services. After accepting an invitation to join Murphy, Lamere and Murphy in 1980, Sullivan advised and represented numerous school committees in special education matters, and with Kenney, Conley, Sullivan & Smith, Mr. Sullivan currently represents in excess of twenty-five school systems.

Conley, son of Robert F. Conley of the Boston firm of Ficksman and Conley, is a graduate of Suffolk University Law School and resides in Avon. He concentrates his practice in civil litigation with an emphasis on employment litigation. In addition, he advises several corporations on personnel matters.

Dental Associates Has New North Quincy Office

Dental Associates of Quincy and Charlestown, one of New England's largest group dental practices, recently opened its third office, located at the State Street South-Howard Johnson Plaza in North Quincy.

State Senator Paul Harold was among those on hand to congratulate Dental Associates and its President, Sumner Hirschberg, DDS MBA.

Dental Associates was founded in 1968 and has continued to grow into a model for practices of its type throughout the East. The Associates consist of ten practicing partners, including four general practitioners and six specialists, who currently provide complete professional service for over 30,000 patients.

Polio Victim Planning 'Family' Get Together

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
Sybil Mattson of South Quincy will be having a "family" get-together this weekend.

But the guest list won't be geared towards brothers and sisters, aunts, uncles and cousins.

General Hospital during the polio epidemic of 1955.

"We were all in there for such a long time," said Mrs. Mattson, 59, who spent 22 months in the hospital's White Building.

"All our families met. And we've kept up correspondences since then."

Some of the people who will be attending haven't seen each other in 30 years, says Mrs. Mattson.

People from as far away as Wisconsin and Minnesota will gather in Mrs. Mattson's back yard Sunday afternoon to enjoy a buffet and each other's company.

Among the 35 people invited are four of the patients, Jack Sheehan, Florence Willis and Rose Marie Twiggs, all of Weymouth, and Beverly Anderson of Plymouth.

There were originally 25 patients in that section of hospital, according to Mrs. Mattson. Seven survived, she says.

Mrs. Mattson can tell you the exact day that she came down with polio... it was Aug. 23, 1955.

Paralyzed from her neck down, she spent the first years in an iron lung and then a chest respirator and a rocking bed.

Now she is in a ventilator, and has round the clock attendants. She has virtually been confined to bed for three decades.

A 1944 graduate of North Quincy High School, she gets out of the house on special occasions.

On those occasions will take place Saturday when she attends the wedding of her niece, Shirley Smith, in Wollaston.

She'll attend in a reclining chair with a portable ventilator machine.

MacRitchie Named City Solicitor

Atty. Joseph A. (Jay) MacRitchie, 33, of 246 Bellevue Rd. Squantum, has been appointed City Solicitor of Quincy by Mayor Francis McCauley.

MacRitchie, assistant city solicitor since 1983, will succeed Atty. Dean Nicastro who recently announced his resignation to accept the position of associate staff counsel with the Massachusetts Society.

Nicastro's last working day will be Friday, Aug. 2 MacRitchie will be sworn in Monday, Aug. 5.

In announcing his appointment to the $35,000 a year post, McCauley said, "I'm very pleased with the work Jay has done for the city."

"He's done a first class, excellent job."

"He's getting the job because he deserves it."

"He knows his way around, he has frequently attended City Council meetings, he's done the

MacRitchie said that he intends to work with city departments before they may become involved in lawsuits.

He also said he hopes to continue as chairman of the Mayor's Task Force on Quincy Bay Pollution.

"I've been sailing Quincy Bay for 20 years," said MacRitchie. "I look forward to the time when I can go back into the water."

Married to the former Elizabeth A. Flaherty, he is the father of Krysina, a second grader at the Squantum School, and Joseph, III, 3.

A graduate of Quincy Public Schools, MacRitchie received a B.S. degree from Northeastern University in 1976 and a law degree, cum laude, from New England School of Law in 1982.

He was employed by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Correction from 1977-1982, and then joined Quincy as its equal opportunity administrator.

MacRitchie who has a private law practice, is a member of the Mass. Bar Association, Norfolk County Bar Association, Massachusetts City Solicitor's and Town Counsel Association, treasurer of the Republican City Committee of Quincy and a member of the Squantum Community Association.

Rent Grievance Hearings

Three cases of rent increases and alleged code violations were to be heard.

10 Months Ahead Of Schedule Burgin Ext. May Open In Fall

By DAN CONNELLY

A Fall completion is possible for the 1.2 mile Burgin Parkway Extension linking Quincy Center with Route 3 and Route 128 in Braintree.

The project is 10 months ahead of schedule, according to State Sen. Paul Harold (D-Quincy).

He said the $9.9 Burgin Parkway Extension "is 70 percent completed. It was originally scheduled for completion in October, 1986, but it could be opened as early as October or November of this year," he said. Most of the major work has been done, such as storm drains and flood control. A lot of detailed work is yet to be finished, but a Fall opening is possible.

Harold, a long-time proponent of the entire Burgin Parkway plan, added that had the project been done sooner it would have become a roadway to alleviate traffic jams during current reconstruction of the Southeast Expressway.

That project is expected to be completed in mid-September of 1985, he said.

His remarks that the parkway is ahead of schedule came when he officiated with other city leaders at a ribbon-cutting ceremony for the reopening of the Water Street Bridge in South Quincy. The bridge was closed last October and was totally rebuilt over the Burgin Parkway extension project. It was reopened almost to the date it was scheduled for completion.

The new roadway will run parallel to Hancock St. and open up the downtown

Crane Causes Power Failure

A score of South Quincy businesses and residential homes were affected by a brief power failure Tuesday caused when the boom on the end of a huge construction crane hit a power line.

Civil Defense Deputy Director Anthony Siciliano also reported that intersection traffic lights in the vicinity of the Water St. bridge were knocked out for a short period.

The power outage caused 15 minute delays of MBTA trains from Park Square to Braintree.

The areas affected included Liberty, Penn, Federal and Gordon Sts.

The construction crane was in the roadbed of the new Burgin Parkway Extension project when the incident happened.

There were no report of injuries. Power was restored within minutes.

Public Hearing Here July 11 On State Transportation Bond Issue

The City Hall council chamber will be the site for the fifth of nine scheduled regional public hearings for a $1.9 billion state transportation bond issue, July 11 at 7 p.m.

According to Patricia Worth, a spokesperson with that committee on transportation, a long list of Quincy legislative, civic, and union leaders were notified of the July 11 hearing; for them and the general public to share their input into the state transportation problems and assist the committee in determining local needs and priorities.

Sen. William Q. MacLean, Jr., D-Fairhaven, and Rep. Stephen J. Karol, D-Attleboro, co-chairmen of that committee, said: "We are seeking to elicit expert testimony. The bond issue affects the entire state and that is why the committee will seek out specific information from each region as it meets across the state."

Karol said the two-year transportation bond issue, filed by Governor Michael Dukakis, calls for the authorization of approximately $974 million in state funds. These state dollars generate an additional $1 billion in federal money.

"The list of projects involved is all-inclusive," Karol said. "It ranges from commuter rail to local off-street parking; from intercity bus programs to the MBTA; from state DPW projects, to aeronautics, to local aid programs to assist individual cities and towns with their own transportation projects."

WATER STREET BRIDGE, closed to traffic for reconstruction since last October, was officially opened at ribbon cutting ceremonies last week. From left are, Sen. Paul Harold, City Council President James Sheets and Mayor Francis McCauley. The bridge is part of the 1.2 mile, $9.9 million Burgin Parkway Extension which will link downtown Quincy with Route 3. 3 Held In Murder Of Vietnam Veteran

Three young men from Quincy pleaded innocent in Quincy District Court Monday to charges of murder in connection with the death of John J. Scanlan, 39, Vietnam War veteran who police described as a "streetperson".

The men are Michael F. Lomanno, 19, of 907 Southern Artery, unemployed; Kevin M. Scibilio, 17, of 41 South St., unemployed; and Michael D. Goodwin, 17, of 23 Caledonia Ave., a student at Holbrook High School.

Lomanno and Scibilio were also charged with unarmed robbery.

All three are being held at the Dedham House of Correction on $100,000 double surety. Their cases were continued to July 17, for a conference at 9 a.m.

Police said they found Scanlan beaten on the lawn of an apartment building at 45 Elm St., Quincy Center, early Saturday.

He was pronounced dead while being transported by Bay State Ambulance to Quincy City Hospital.

Scanlan was allegedly robbed of a bottle of J & B

Scotch and a few dollars, police said.

The incident took place about a block from the home of Scanlan's mother, Helen Scanlan of Bigelow St., according to police.

The arrests followed an around-the-clock investigation by Quincy Police Detectives Kevin Murphy, John Smith, Richard MacDonald and Charles Rogers and Cpl. Robert Zepf of the Massachusetts State Police.

Scanlan was a Marine Corps veteran of the Vietnam War. He served from August, 1963, to August, 1967.

A funeral Mass was said at St. John's Church, Quincy Center, Wednesday morning.

Funeral arrangements were by Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St.

Break At Pizza Hut

Two game machines were broken open and a file cabinet ransacked at Pizza Hut, 627 Washington St., Quincy Point.

Quincy district to the entire South Shore through connections with Routes 3 and 128.

The roadway is named after former Mayor and Senator Thomas Burgin, who said last year at groundbreaking ceremonies for the extension, "let us remember that today's program is tomorrow's challenge to continue Quincy's growth and progress. We shall meet it."

Other city and state officials attending that August 1984 groundbreaking exercises were unanimous in their predictions of the importance of the new project to the overall future of Quincy.

Gov. Michael Dukakis said the project will be a tremendous boost to the revitalization of downtown Quincy, which for too long has lacked convenient or adequate access to the state's major roadways.

Mayor Francis McCauley was optimistic in his assessment concerning the impact of the new roadway on existing and future plans of revitalization and business development in the business district.

"The Burgin Parkway Extension will provide immediate access to downtown Quincy. It is a very positive step for the city and it is a catalyst for present and future development in the downtown area," McCauley said.

Rep. Michael Morrissey said, "this road is of course, important to the downtown shopping district, but over the next few years, will greatly help to alleviate the flooding problems in South Quincy."

Hospital Inservice Program On 'South East Asians'

The Womens, Infants and Children Program (WIC) at Quincy City Hospital will sponsor an inservice program on South East Asians Tuesday, July 16.

It will begin at 2 p.m., at the WIC office in the basement of the Administration Building.

Topics will include topography, and geography of South East Asian Countries, life styles, the refugee experience, and the resettlement process in the United States.

Slides taken by field coordinators in the refugee camps and by WIC Nutrition Assistants in the United States will also be shown.

For more information on this program, or the WIC Program, call Ext. 447 at Quincy City Hospital, 773-6100.

Money, Cigarettes Taken At Golf Club

An undetermined amount of money and cigarettes were reported stolen from a vending machine in the coffee shop of the President's Golf Club, 347 West Squantum St.

Paul Murphy, a golf club employee, told police that someone smashed the glass in a front door and then broke a glass door to gain entrance to the coffee shop in an overnight break.

Boat, Trailer Stolen

A 23-foot, 1979 Formula Thunderbird boat and trailer worth $15,000 to $16,000 was reported stolen from the front yard of William Morrell, 65 Pawsey St., Rock Island.

TV Stolen

Jane McKinnon of Edgewood Circle, Quincy Center, reported to police that a rented, 19-inch color TV was stolen from her room in a lodging house.

Car Stolen

Connie Sweet of Highland Ave., Wollaston, reported to police that her 1974 Ford Mustang was stolen from the home address.

Deer Island Seen As Sewage Facility Site

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority was expected to select Deer Island off Winthrop, rather than Long Island off Quincy, as the site for a sewage treatment plant at its meeting scheduled for Wednesday.

The decision followed Boston Mayor Raymond Flynn's commitment Monday to "work with the governor, the state Legislature and the Authority, if requested to do so, to remove and relocate the Suffolk County House of Correction in the event Deer Island is chosen as the site for the waste water treatment facility."

Flynn made the statement in a letter hand-delivered to Philip Shapiro, interim executive director of the MWRA.

Boston's mayor also said that a possible location for the House of Correction would be the Southamptton incinerator site in the South End.

Flynn's position on moving the prison clarified one of the last outstanding issues, according to Shapiro, who noted that it could swing the vote of MWRA to selecting Deer Island.

"It's certainly going to refocus the discussion on the cleaner issue of Deer Island without a prison facility," Shapiro said.

Quincy and other South Shore communities have mounted a united front against the selection of Long Island for a sewage treatment plant.

Efforts included a candlelight rally held Monday night at the entrance to Long Island "so that the Mass. Water Resources Authority will see the light and realize that Long Island is a precious resource that should never be touched," said Councilor-at-large Patricia Toland, coordinator of the event.

Over 700 men, women, and children attended the rally on Moon Island Road which was also planned by the Squantum Community Association and Atlantic Neighborhood Association.

The rally included speakers, sing-a-longs, and cheers. A number of petitions were presented to Paul Anderson, Quincy's Public Works Commissioner and representative on the MWRA.

Rona Goodman, head of the Squantum Community Association, said that the harbor needs to be cleaned up as soon as possible and at the least expense.

"Quincy citizens and South Shore citizens will not be held hostage to any (sewage) treatment plant," said Bob McCauley, president of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association.

Mayor Francis McCauley said, "We don't want anything on Long Island. Not a sewage treatment plant, not a jail. We're going to win, we're not going to have a sewage treatment plant on Long Island, we're not going to have a jail, because it's not the right place for either one of these."

Every study puts the sewage treatment plant on Deer Island, said Rep. Michael Morrissey.

"I hope common sense will prevail," said Rep. Thomas Brownell.

Councillor Joanne Condon, a candidate for mayor, gave Anderson a petition with 1000 signatures she gathered over two days.

"Look at Long Island," Mrs. Condon told the crowd, "and see what they want to destroy."

"Though Long Island is not the property of Quincy, it's a dear property and environmentally important for all of us in Quincy," said Sen. Paul Harold.

Ward 1 Councillor Michael Cheney asked the MWRA to look at the testimony of the people.

Councillor-at-large Joseph LaRaia said that if the MWRA doesn't make the right decision, "we will utilize all the political and legal resources available."

"The bay is dead," said former city councillor Leo Kelly, also a member of the MWRA board.

"I'm pleading for the bay. No more sewage. No more Nut Island, no more at Long Island, no more at Quincy Bay."

"It's absurd to destroy the island," said Maureen Mazrimas of Save Our Shores.

Harbormaster Bernie Reisberg said the conditions at Boston Harbor are "deplorable."

"Quincy has suffered much too long," he said. Other speakers included recently appointed City Solicitor Jay MacRitchie, Ron Iacobucci, Richard Sheridan, Tom Koch, Tom Nutley and Howard MacKay.

Nurses Picket Hospital In Contract Dispute

About 25 off-duty nurses picketed last Tuesday and Wednesday in front of Quincy City Hospital in an effort to gather the public's support during negotiations for a new contract with the hospital.

The old contract expired June 30 at midnight. Negotiations have been in progress since April.

Hospital spokesman William Henderson said that negotiations broke off June 26 and both parties have agreed to go to fact finding.

The state Board of Mediation will submit a list of names of possible fact finders who will research both sides and make recommendations, said Henderson.

Mary Finnin, labor relations negotiator for the Mass. Nurses Association, noted that the decision of the fact finder is not legally binding.

She said she would like the mayor and city council to be bound by the fact finder's decision.

Wages and benefits are among the snags in the contract talks, said Finnin, who noted that nurses at the hospital are paid $1 to $1.50 less per hour than other nurses in the area. Earlier, nurses had staged what the hospital considered a "sick out." Finnin denied that union knew about, or condoned, an organized sick out.

Former Quincy Woman Becomes Mother, Proves Doctors Wrong

By LINDA WILKINS

In 1981, doctors told Maryrose (Sullivan) Mirick that she would not be able to bear children because of her health, but she proved them wrong June 30 when Jacquelyn Patricia Mirick was born at St. Margaret's Hospital.

Maryrose, wife of Wayne Mirick and daughter of Mrs. Mary Sullivan of Quincy and the late John Sullivan Sr., former Quincy School Committee member, received a kidney from her sister, Patricia Halliday of 23 Marion St., Wollaston, during an organ transplant operation in April 1983.

Prior to the kidney transplant, Maryrose was unable to have children. The Miricks have an adopted daughter, Andrea Rose, now four.

The family lives at 127

Puritan Rd., Weymouth.

Maryrose is a former employee of the Quincy District Court.

Wayne is an attendance officer for the Quincy

Public Schools.

Grandparents are Mrs. Mary Sullivan of Quincy and the late John Sullivan Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Mirick of Quincy.

Local Legislators Testify For Quincy Bills

Quincy's city and state legislative leaders testified before a State House committee on local affairs Tuesday, July 9, regarding home rule bills relative to Quincy City Hospital and the city's over assessment of General Dynamics shipyard.

One bill, sponsored by State Sen. Paul Harold and the three Quincy state representatives, Michael Morrissey, Robert Cerasoli and Thomas Brownell, is to authorize the borrowing of $7.5 million for a replacement of a major portion of Quincy City Hospital.

Also testifying for this bill were Mark Mundy, hospital administration, Trudy Buckley and John Kane, both members of the hospital board of managers. The Quincy group were told by the local affairs committee that they will make a determination of need study and report back to them by August 15.

The other bills, receiving favorable recommendations and supported Tuesday by Mayor Francis McCauley, Councillors Joanne Condon and Theodore DeCristofaro, would:

Give Quincy $2.4 million to cover the overlay deficit which is attributed to the General Dynamics situation where the city is currently paying back $2.8 million for the next nine years in tax over assessment and have that overlay deficit be paid off over an 11 year period.

These bills pertain to a bookkeeping situation and not the handing over of actual cash.

Enacted Bill Benefits Vietnam Vets In Civil Service Gap

State Senator Paul D. Harold, D-Quincy, whose bill to extend civil service benefits to more Vietnam-era veterans through a "grandfather clause" is now law.

The reason for the present bill began 10 years ago when Congress set a deadline in May of 1975 to extend civil service benefits given to other Vietnam veterans. Massachusetts didn't act on that piece of legislation until June of 1976.

Senator Harold said those entering or staying in the service during that one year period relied on an open-ended statute which said they would be eligible for benefits until such time as the President declared hostilities ended. However, because the state failed to act for more than a year after Congress set the deadline, Bay State veterans were left out in the cold.

Harold noted a precedent for the bill was passed after World War II for those in the service between 1946-50.

This current bill provides the legislative clause to help those who fall into that time gap.

The bill will apply only to civil service benefits, not to other veterans' benefits, which operate under other standards.

How To Avoid That Long Registry Line

If you want to beat those long lines at the Quincy Registry of Motor Vehicles, 38 Broad St., then follow the advice of Registrar Alan Mackey.

He says lines were shortest between 8:45 a.m. opening time and 10 a.m., and 2:30 to 4 in the afternoon.

Drivers also should avoid the first and last days of the month and days before and after a holiday.

Mackey said approximately 1.2 million people renew their license annually. Another 240,000 receive a first license each year. This volume alone in registry offices can certainly create bottlenecks when the early birds and the procrastinators decide to converge all at once.

"Improved service can be provided, especially if more people choose to schedule their trips during the days and hours suggested," Mackey concluded.

IMPORTANCE OF EXTERNAL APPEAL

QUESTION: The inside of our home is super (thanks to my wife). The outside lacks a lot (thanks to me). I'd like to rely on the inside appearance to sell the home. What do you think?

ANSWER: Don't rely on the inside of your home. "Selling it." Your prospect may be turned off before he reaches the front door. So, look at the exterior with a critical eye.

Paint if needed. Repair any cracked windows; replace loose shingles. Fix the fence. Give the yard and shrubs that "well cared for" look. It is not uncommon to see less than a hundred dollars of improvements and some elbow grease increase the value of a house well over a thousand dollars.

LOOK AT THE EXTERIOR with a critical eye. Don't "turn off" your prospect before the front door.

A Name Out Of The Past

A name out of Quincy's political past has got the old itch again and is entering the Ward 6 City Council race.

Thomas Gilmartin of South Bayfield Rd., who held the Ward 6 seat for two terms from 1946 to 1949 would like to try it out again.

He took out nomination papers this week and says he will be out campaigning.

Gilmartin makes it a five-man horse race. Already in: Thomas Koch, Thomas Nutley, Richard Sheridan and John Walsh.

"I think I have a good shot at it," he says.

There were some pretty good heavyweights in the mayor's office and in the City Council back there in 1946.

ROSS

Charles Ross was in the mayor's office. The City Council lined up like this:

Christian Burkard, Russell Bates and Frank Orcutt were the councillors at-large. (Edna Austin lost out to Orcutt by 424 votes).

Ward councillors were (1) David (Jim) Crowley, (2) Carl Anderson, (3) Amelio Della Chiesa (4) John O'Connor, (5) Clifton Baker and Gilmartin in Ward 6.

Gilmartin was re-elected in 1947 defeating Richard Koch. Sr. who is now head of the Park-Recreation Board and the Cemetery Department.

Ironically, Gilmartin will be running 38 years later against Koch's son, Thomas.

Quincy decided to abandon the Plan A form of government and switched to Plan E with the first election under the latter in 1949.

There were seven at-large council seats (no ward) and—get this—59 candidates running for them.

It took several days to count the ballots with only Thomas Burgin being elected on the first count.

It took until the 46th count for Amelio Della Chiesa and Edna Austin to be elected and the 47th for Carl Anderson, Frank Orcutt and David Crowley to make it.

Gilmartin was eliminated but he was in good company with the also-rans. Among those who also didn't make it were former Councillors Russell Bates,

Also failing, were such familiar names as:

Charles N. Ross, son of Mayor Ross, Alfred Keith, James Donovan, James Shannon, William Sands, Gino Infascelli, Louise Badger, Jeremiah Curtis, Guy Sargent, Beatrice Nichols, Elmyra Pavan, Maurice Maher, William Villone.

Under Plan E, the city was run by a city manager with the mayor presiding over the City Council and performing ceremonial duties such as ribbon cuttings.

Burgin, because of his popular vote, was elected Plan E's first mayor by his council colleagues.

Quincy soon became disenchanted with Plan E after a stormy marriage and returned to Plan A in 1958 with Della Chiesa defeating Laurence Curtin for mayor in the 1957 election.

ABOUT 30 Senior Olympians marched in the Quantum 4th of July parade including the two oldest but youngest at heart: Katherine Mahoney, 91 and Al Benedetti, also 91.

THE SQUANTUM PARADE was a real special event for Qui Lai and his 10-year-old son, Hoang Lai who also marched. Qui recently became a citizen of the U.S.

They came from Vietnam on a boat in September, 1983. Hoang is taking English classes at the Beechwood Center.

During the parade, he proudly carried the American Flag.

PROMOTION: At Mayor Francis McCauley's recent annual Boy Scouts Breakfast at First Parish Church, former City Councillor Leo Kelly, now regional director for the Boy Scouts, introduced his Honor as President McCauley. But Kelly quickly corrected himself and McCauley was quickly back to mayor.

SPEAKING of McCauley, the McCauley For Mayor Committee will open its campaign '85 headquarters Friday, July 19 at 7 p.m. at 1661 Hancock St., at the corner of School St.

McCauley refers to it as a "lucky" location. It was his campaign headquarters when he first ran for mayor four years ago.

Polio Victim Planning Get Together

Mattson who died in 1966, she is the mother of two children, Cliff Mattson of San Rafael, Calif., and Deborah Jerome of Pembroke.

Mrs. Mattson spends most of her time managing her house, watching TV, enjoying the company of neighbors and "doing everything everybody else does except walk."

And she keeps up her spirits by "trying to think of good things, the kids... "A Protestant, she says her religion also gives her strength."

"It's been a long 30 years," she says. "All the ups and downs, but there have been a lot of good things. I've been blessed with good friends. I still hear from all my high school friends."

The woman who has displayed so much courage concedes there is still something that frightens her.

"Polio frightens the life out of me. I haven't heard of new cases, but people should keep up the vaccines. We don't need another epidemic."

Her wish, near the 30th anniversary of the day her life changed so dramatically, is that parents make sure their children are vaccinated against polio.

"Some people don't even know what polio is about," she says.

Sybil Mattson does.

Crane Library Seeks $60,000 Grant For Restoration Work

The Thomas Crane Public Library in Quincy Square is looking for a $60,000 state grant from the Massachusetts Historical Commission for outside restoration work.

If funded, in addition to the grant, $69,500 in private matching funds will be raised to complete major repairs on the roof and gutter.

Secretary of State Michael J. Connolly, chairman of the Massachusetts Historical Commission, notified the library to submit a full application for a matching grant.

Connolly says this grant request is just one of 40 this year that he would like very much to fund through the "Massachusetts Preservation Project Fund."

However, the funding is contingent on the passage of a $1.4 million state grant budget by the legislature.

Last year the commission received $600,000 and funded 20 projects.

Connolly added: "I appreciate the efforts and support of area legislators for full funding for the state grants program."

He will announce the final grant recipients as soon as the budget is passed in July.

The library was built in the romanesque style in honor of the mason turned millionaire Thomas Crane.

Elks Rainbow Comes Through Again A Big Day For Frankie As Deputy Fire Chief

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Wishes and dreams for most people seldom come true.

But a Quincy group is making them a happy reality for terminally ill children.

The Quincy Elks Rainbow, part of the Quincy Elks Lodge, was established in 1982 to fulfill the wishes of such youngsters.

Its most recent wish-fulfilling mission was for Frankie Ruscio, a five-year-old Wollaston boy.

When asked what his wish was, Frankie replied "To be a fireman," according to the Rainbow, whose members shy away from individual publicity. Frankie also wanted to ride on a fire truck, to ride on a fire boat, and to "go to a place like Candyland."

Last week, his dream to be a firefighter became a reality.

But it was much more than he expected. Quincy Fire Chief Edward Barry and Fire Captain Fred McCray made him Deputy Fire Chief of the Day July 4th.

Through their efforts and firefighters at the Squantum fire station, he rode the holiday parade route in a fire engine.

But, the wish didn't end here. As he stood in the truck, every parade onlooker yelled Frankie's name, acknowledging him as "Deputy Chief Of The Day."

The word has been spread that this July 4th was

Frankie's day.

"The Quincy Fire Department and people of Squantum were absolutely great. They made Frankie's day one that he will never forget," a Rainbow spokesman said.

After his trip on a fire boat in Boston Harbor arranged by Senator Paul Harold, through Massport, he will visit "Candyland."

In this case the latter will be the Quincy Elks carnival scheduled for next week on the grounds of the Elks home, the site of the former Myles Standish School, on East Squantum St., North Quincy. Frankie and his family will be guests of the Elks.

The carnival will be held Thursday, July 18, to Sunday, July 21. The respected times for the four days are: Thursday, 6 p.m. to 10 p.m.; Friday, 6 p.m. to 11 p.m.; Saturday, noon to 11 p.m. and Sunday, noon to 6 p.m.

Carnival chairman Jim Conroy is hoping for a big turnout.

The Elks Rainbow, as most people will remember, was the group responsible for sending Marianne Grace, a Braintree teenager terminally ill with cancer, to Hawaii last winter. They raised the $4,000 needed for a week's stay for Marianne, her boyfriend, and two chaperones.

She was given a week on the island by the Hawaiian Lodge of Elks. It was indeed a dream come true and a wish fulfilled for her.

Other charitable acts performed by the Elks Rainbow were paying the air fare for a Quincy girl to fly to Florida to donate a kidney for her sister, and sending a young boy to the Ted Williams Baseball School.

In order to help other youngsters, the lodge needs contributions. Sources of income have been the lodge's weekly drawings, and other fundraisers.

Tax deductible donations made payable to the Quincy Elks Rainbow may be sent to the Rainbow Chairman, Quincy Lodge of Elks, 440 East Squantum St., Quincy, 02171.

Topless Swim Suits (For Men) Banned At Wollaston Beach

Health Commissioner Dr. Richard M. Ash warned that samples of water taken from Quincy beaches showed "a very serious condition of pollution from sewage exists at all times off the shores and frequently on the shores themselves."

"Due to the time required for analysis of the water it is impossible to take samples and have the results early enough to warn bathers that day," he added, "consequently, I advise extreme caution in checking the situation before bathing."

Relief from the pollution appeared to be on the way as the State House Committee on Metropolitan Affairs reported favorably on a bill that would earmark some $24 million to clean up Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay.

But pollution wasn't the only problem faced by Quincy bathers.

MDC officials refused to lift their ban on topless bathing suits (for men) on Wollaston Beach despite the fact that Chelsea District Court Judge Frank D. Crowley ruled that it was no crime (for men) to go topless at Revere Beach.

RAILROAD IN DANGER

A commission set up by Gov. Leverett Saltonstall reported that a New Haven Railroad proposal to abandon its South Shore lines on Sept. 24 would endanger the financial structure of the area.

The commission also cited the proposal as a danger to National Defense since the lines serve the Fore River Shipyard, the Hingham Ammunition Depot, the National Guard Camp in Bourne and the Cape Cod Canal.

GOLF CHAMPION

Ted Adams, 18, of Quincy, who was born in a house opposite the 16th fairway at Wollaston Golf Course, became the first Quincy resident to win the Massachusetts Amateur Golf championship.

Adams defeated Ray Marad of George Wright Municipal in Boston, 6 and 5, at Tedesco Country Club, Swampscott, for the crown.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

There is good reason why our doors are always open to persons seeking factual information about funeral service. Today, because of increased longevity, many persons reach maturity without any personal contact with a funeral home... But vague stereotypes and myths do seep into their consciousness. We at the Deware Funeral Home want them to know the truth about a modern funeral establishment and believe that answering ANY and ALL questions openly and clearly, at a time when the questioner is not emotionally involved, is the way to do so. We are always available for counsel if one wishes to make arrangements in advance. We also have many brochures and pamphlets available that you might wish to take home with you.

Our doors are always open. Please feel free to stop by anytime. We welcome your questions and comments.

'Go Home' Sermon Topic At Bethany Church

There will be one worship service Sunday, July 14, at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary of Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will conduct the service and preach the sermon entitled "Go Home," based on the text in the Gospel of Luke 15:11-24.

The lay scripture reader will be Deacon Robert W.

McLain.

Guest organist for the service will be Kevin Galie of Boston.

Tenor Lewis C. Brindle, soloist at Old South Church in Boston, will sing two selections, one from "Seasons" by Hadyn, and the offertory, "From Thee, O Source of Being" by Mozart.

Nursery care will be provided for babies and toddlers.

The service of worship is broadcast by delayed-tape over WJ D A, 1300 kc., at 11 a.m. Sunday morning.

There will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor following the worship service. All are welcome to share in both the worship and the fellowship.

For additional information about Bethany's programs and ministries, contact the church office at 479-7300.

S.E. Hinton Novel Topic At First Church Of Squantum

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin spoke of Ponyboy Curtis, Johnny Cade and Dally Sunday in the early service at the First Church of Squantum. They are all characters in "The Outsiders," a novel about teenagers by S.E. Hinton.

The sermon was entitled, "But Where Is Jesus?" It was the first in a series of sermons that the pastor is giving this month on the novels of S.E. Hinton.

This Sunday Dr. Langevin will draw his illustrations from Hinton's second novel, "That Was Then, This Is Now."

On July 21, his subject will be "Rumblefish" and on July 28, the subject will be "Tex."

"It is not important whether or not the author intended these to be Christian stories," Dr. Langevin said. "What is important is that for many young people these books represent life as it is. That is why we need to place them in a Christian context and to see them in a Christian perspective."

"The Outsiders" is the most popular of Hinton's novels. It portrays the inner and outer conflicts of adolescence. The author wrote it when she herself was only seventeen.

Ushers at the early service were Robert Dixey and David Scott.

Guitarists Andrew Ogilvie and Mary Ruth Scott accompanied the singing.

Recognition is made each week of those children and teenagers who are either going to or returning from Christian camps at Groton (Grotonwood) or Ocean Park, Me., (Oceanwood).

These young people and those of "The Way Up," a specialized youth ministry that meets in the church, work on fund-raising projects throughout the year to earn enough credits to go on the trips in the summer.

This year there are young people either going to or coming from camp every week of the summer.

Dr. Langevin's sermon topic in the later service was "A Time To Rest." His text was taken from the first and second chapters of the book of Genesis.

For the offertory, Doris Sinker and Genevieve Todd sang an arrangement of the twenty-third psalm. Stewart Scott and Tore Wallin were the ushers. Hazel Mayne, Grace Holmes and Patti Hurd were in charge of the Fellowship Hour after the service.

There will be two services again this Sunday: the guitar service at 8:30 a.m. and the traditional service at 9:30 a.m.

Wollaston Upsets Morrisette, Quincy Gets 1st Win

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Wollaston Legion baseball team, which has come along fast after a slow start, avenged an earlier defeat and upset Morrisette, 6-5, Monday night to improve its Zone 6 record to 5-5-1. Morrisette, the zone leader, fell to 8-2.

Meanwhile, luckless Quincy, which finally got its first win last week, jumped off to a 5-0 lead over Randolph, one of the top teams in Zone 6-B, Monday, but lost, 10-5, dropping its record to 1-10.

All teams face heavy schedules, due to several rainouts. Morrisette, which played at Braintree last night (Wednesday), will meet Quincy tonight (Thursday) at 6 p.m. at Adams Field in a makeup game, will host Holbrook Friday night at 8 at Adams and will meet Milton Saturday morning at 11 at Adams in another makeup game. Monday it plays at Dorchester at 6 and next Wednesday will be at Milton at 6.

Wollaston will be at Dorchester Friday at 6, will play at Randolph Monday at 6, will host Weymouth Tuesday night at 8 at Adams and will meet Holbrook next Wednesday night at 8 at Adams.

Quincy, following tonight's game with Morrisette, will play at Weymouth Sunday at 2 o'clock, will host Canton Monday night at 8 at Adams and will play at Braintree next Wednesday night at 8.

Wollaston, which upset Morrisette in a playoff last year for the Zone 6 title, jumped off to a 6-1 lead Monday night and had to hold off a late Morrisette rally.

Steve Higgins started on the mound for Wollaston and gave way to John Comeau. John Christiani was Morrisette's starter and was relieved by Larry Taglieri.

Last week Morrisette held on to defeat Carter Post of Dorchester, 8-6, after building up a 7-1 lead.

Paul Ratti was the starting pitcher and worked five innings before tiring in his first mound appearance this year. He picked up the win but gave way to Taglieri, who pitched the last two innings. Ratti gave up five hits, walked three and struck out four.

Morrisette started fast as the first five batters reached and scored. Chris Marshall walked, Ratti singled, Jack Bolster drove in Marshall with a single, Chris Bunker drove in Bolster and Ratti following a double steal, Denis Cronin singled, Tom Ryan walked and Rich Brooks drove in two with a double.

Brooks drove in his third run with a single in the fifth and the final run scored in the sixth on Christiani's sacrifice fly.

Morrisette had 10 hits as Bunker went 3-for-4 with three RBI, Brooks had two hits and three RBI, Bolster two hits and an RBI and Cronin two hits.

Carter rallied for three runs in the bottom of the seventh and had the winning run at the plate but Taglieri struck out the final batter to end the threat.

In its previous game Morrisette defeated Mass Truck, 8-3, as Christiani pitched six-hit ball, struck out five and walked only one. Morrisette trailed, 3-1, after two innings but scored a run in the third, went ahead in the fourth and added two runs in the fifth and sixth innings.

In the fourth Christiani walked, went to second on a

Quincy Tennis Club Captures C Title

For the third time in four years, the Quincy Tennis Club has won the C level championship of the Men's Suburban League.

Capt. Bob Walsh's team clinched the South division playoff spot by defeating the Dedham Country Club team, two out of three matches at Dedham.

Rain forced the chamionship matches indoors and the first doubles team of Joe Fidler and Gerry Curtis and the second doubles team of John Corrigan and Dan McElaney came through again as Quincy defeated the North division winner, Lexington, to claim the league title.

The Quincy Tennis Club has good depth at the C level, winning the league title without last season's number one doubles team of Joe Ryan and Charlie Ross.

Other players who contributed during the season were Frank Curry, Rod Connelly, Bill Egan, Joe Fitzsimmons, Joe Hurak, George Stokinger, Bill Weiss and Jim Feurtado.

Pellagrini Clinic July 18 At Adams Field

The Quincy Recreation Department, together with the Pepsi Cola Bottling Company of Milton, will again sponsor the Eddie Pellagrini free baseball clinic next Thursday, July 18, at 10 a.m. at Quincy's Adams Field.

The program is open to boys and girls age 6 and above and is conducted as part of the city's playground program.

Assistants to Eddie Pellagrini, who was a member of the 1946 pennant winning Red Sox, are John (Tinker) Connelley of Northeastern University, Bob DeFelise, former minor league catcher and head coach of Bentley College; Dick (Moe) Maloney, head coach of Watertown High and former Boston College pitching coach; Frank Niles, former infielder of the Kansas City Royals, and Larry Hill Boston College star outfielder.

According to Recreation Director Barry Welch, "Although not on the official clinic teaching staff, Quincy's own Dick Donovan, who spent 15 years as a major league pitcher, winning 122 games, has made an appearance at the Quincy Recreation Department clinic to work with the youngsters."

Pellagrini is the baseball coach at Boston College, and has held that position since 1954. This is his 12th year doing baseball clinics during the summer months.

The staff will instruct the youngsters on hitting, fielding, pitching, catching, and base running, and Pepsi-Cola will provide free beverages for all participants. No registration is necessary. Youngsters need only to appear at Adams Field.

VFW, Houghs Neck Hold Top Spots

Bryan VFW Post continues to lead the Junior Baseball League's American League by a half-game over Quincy Cable-systems following a 20-4 romp over State Street. Houghs Neck holds a four-game lead in the National League.

Richie MacDonald was the winning pitcher against State Street, striking out six in three innings, while reliever Scott Dunn pitched two-hit ball over the last three innings.

Sean Donovan had four hits, including two doubles; MacDonald four hits, including a double; Mike Geddes a triple and single, Dunn and Brian Zimmerman a double and single each, Donnie Anderson two singles and Mark Walsh, Eddie Costello and Chris Barrett a single each. Mark Cahill and Dave Bogan played outstanding defense.

Foley Chrysler upset VFW, 9-4, with Jim Maloney the winning pitcher.

Mike Dally had a double and single for Foley, Maloney and Pat Clifford two singles apiece and Jim Gately, Joe Bevilacqua, John Gladu and Scott Kohler a single each. For VFW MacDonald had two hits and Zimmerman and Geddes one each.

VFW's heels with a 7-3 win over Boston Gear with winning pitcher Mike Baylis striking out six in four innings.

Cable scored twice in the first inning on Baylis' home run, Sal Manganaro's triple and an error. Gear tied it in the bottom half when Sean Cafferty doubled, Freddy Regan singled and George Walsh hit a sacrifice fly. In the third Manganaro hit another triple and scored on a wild pitch and Cable exploded for four runs in the sixth when Manganaro doubled, Stafford and O'Donoghue singled, McDonald tripled and Chris Peck singled.

Cable also defeated Burgin Platter, 17-12, with Peck the winning pitcher.

Burgin scored in the first on an RBI single by Mark Kelleher, but in the bottom half Baylis blasted a two-run homer. Matt Smith, in his first game after returning from an injury, countered with a three-run homer for Burgin, but Cable scored six runs in the third on solo homers by Gary Rawdon and Chris Murray, singles by Peck, Mike McDonald, Mike Wood and Pat Gallagher and a double by Baylis. Cable added seven runs in the fifth on another double by Baylis and singles by Rawdon, Stafford, Peck and O'Donoghue.

Boston Gear scored in every inning and easily defeated the Elks, 15-0, with Derek Happs, Patrick McDonough and Sean Cafferty splitting the pitching chores and Happs getting the win. They combined for a three-hitter, struck out 14 and issued no walks.

Gear pounded out 14 hits with McDonough having two doubles and a single, George Walsh three singles, Freddy Regan a double and single, Kevin Glennon and Happs two singles each, Cafferty a double and Danny Duncan a single. Playing well on defense were David and Billy Skutul, Peter Grippi and Chris Nichols.

Matt O'Toole played well for the Elks, making several fine plays at shortstop.

Gear also edged Burgin Platter, 9-7, in extra innings, scoring twice in the seventh. McDonough and Cafferty shared the pitching, Cafferty getting the win. They struck out eight, allowed 10 hits and walked seven.

Gear's offense was led by Regan with a double and two singles, Walsh, two doubles; Mike Patch, two singles; Glennon, a game-winning single; Billy Lydon, McDonough, Cafferty and Nichols, all singles, and Happs, a key double and two RBIs. The defense was led by nine-year-old Danny Duncan, who made three spectacular catches in right field, including robbing Mark Kelleher of a home run in the fifth. Also making key defensive plays were Lydon, Cafferty, Walsh, Happs, Patch, Grippi and Billy Skutul.

Billy Warren pitched well for Burgin and also had three hits and four RBIs. Ralph Bevilacqua, Tom Berry, Peter White, Tom Malvesti and Mike Gaeta also had hits.

Houghs Neck added four wins to improve to 17-3 and increase its National League lead.

HN rolled over Colonial Federal, 19-4, with Billy Campbell, the winning pitcher, contributing two hits to the 16-hit attack. Brian Campbell had three hits, including a home run, Mark Bogan and Costa Rosanitis two hits each and Paul McCluskey, David Gamsby, Joey Nabstedt, George Rosanitis, Mike Connor, Kevin Mantville and Robbie Kane one each. Mathew Collins and Brian Sullivan played well on defense.

HN squeaked by Rotary, 11-10, with winning pitcher Gamsby having three hits. Billy Campbell and Bogan had two each, Brian Campbell, George and Costa Rosanitis, Nabstedt and Kane one apiece. McCluskey and Sullivan sparked in the field.

The string of wins continued as HN blanked Kiwanis, 6-0.

HN then topped Boston Gear, 15-12, with starting pitcher Billy Campbell giving way to Gamsby. Strong pitching by Gamsby and fine plays by the infield held Gear scoreless the last three innings.

Gamsby and Billy Campbell had four hits apiece, Bogan three, Brian Campbell two and George Rosanitis one. McCluskey, Costa Rosanitis and Nabstedt did some fine base running and Collins and Mantville played strong defense.

The standings:
AMERICAN LEAGUE:
VFW, 14-6; Quincy Cable, 13-6; Foley, 11-9; State Street, 9-11; Burgin Platter, 9-11; Kiwanis, 7-13.
NATIONAL LEAGUE:
Houghs Neck, 17-3; Boston Gear, 13-7; Colonial Federal, 7-13; Rotary, 6-13; Elks, 6-13; Keohane's, 2-16.

12-Run Inning For Fore River

The Fore River baseball team, with Jerry Shanahan belting a grand slam home run, scored 12 runs in the first inning to hand a 13-5 defeat on North Cambridge and keep alive its playoff hopes in the Greater Boston Twilight League.

With one out, Weafer, Cronin and Janvrin singled in succession to load the bases for Shanahan's slam; then Fore River got eight more runs on three doubles, two singles, three walks, three stolen bases, a wild pitch and a steal of home.

In addition to his homer, Shanahan also had a single and worked a double steal with Janvrin to set up the 11th and 12th runs of the inning.

The Fore River lineup included: Dee ss, Weafer rf, Cronin 2b, Janvrin 1b, Shanahan 3b, Cotter cf, Stokinger cf, McGaffey rf, McQuinn c, Sims p.

WOLLASTON, TIGERS TIE

Shepard beat out a lazy roller to score Mattingly from third with two out in the ninth inning and their Wollaston team went on to play a 3-3 tie with the Tigers at Merrymount Park to maintain its hold on first place in the City League.

The Wollaston lineup included: Rouillard ss, Cain 3b, E. Harrington rf, C. Harrington cf, Hultman c, Shepard lf, Mattingly 1b, Sawyer 1b, Lastra 2b, Maskilieson p.

The Tigers lineup included: Smith cf, Greer rf, Pitts lf, McDonald ss, Frazier 3b, Flavin p, Menhinick c, Schofield 2b, Behan 1b.

CROWD HALTS GAME

Clans MacGregor of Quincy and Robertson of Dorchester battled to a 1-1 tie in the Championship game of the Scottish Clans Soccer League that was halted by Referee Ritchie at the end of 30 minutes when the crowd became unruly and refused to leave the field at Pfaffman's Oval.

The MacGregor lineup included: Forsyth, goal; Lyons, Milne, backs; Rae, McChesnie, Russell, halfbacks; Christie, Neilson, McGonnigal, Greer, Doherty, forwards.

OGLE LEADS COPELANDS

Joe Ogle hit for the cycle, a single, a double, a triple and a home run, in five trips to the plate to lead the Copeland Club of West Quincy to a 15-5 victory over the Clinton Holy Name and Manager Frank Lemieux issued a challenge to Fore River for the city semi-pro title.

The Copelands lineup included: Rouillard 2b, Herbert rf, Ogle cf, Capobianchi lf, Hughes 1b, Maloney c, Bellow ss, Carlson 1b, Ferrazzi p.

FAIELLA IN UPSETS

Guy S. Faiella of 44 Germain Ave., Quincy Point, the light-heavyweight who wrestles under the colors of the Quincy Pirates, stunned a large crowd at California Arena, Grossman Field, with upset decisions over Young Bull Montana and Battling Brooks.

ASBESTOS LUNG DISEASE

Asbestos dust causes serious lung ailments; the diseases appear suddenly, years after exposure. Today numerous SHIPYARD WORKERS, MASONS, and PIPEFITTERS of the 1930's-1970's have lung afflictions because they inhaled asbestos particles many years ago.

If you worked in one of those professions then and now have a lung disease, you may be eligible to receive money damages or workers' compensation. Relatives of living and deceased victims can also recover in some cases.

Quincy Americans Undeclared In Tourney

Quincy's 13-15 year old Babe Ruth American League All-Stars are unbeaten in the District 4 tournament and have earned a berth in the final round.

Quincy will play either at Braintree or South Boston today at 5 p.m. and a win will clinch the district title and a berth in the state tournament next week in Lynn. If Quincy loses today it must play again Saturday to complete the double-elimination event.

Quincy opened by routing outmanned Dorchester, 23-0, in an abbreviated four-inning game, with Jay Lespasio and Joe Taylor combining on a one-hitter.

Kevin Duffy had three hits, including a triple, Ron Fletcher a triple and double, Lespasio a triple and single, Taylor a triple, Peter Tufts, Scott Crowley, Mark Molloy, Bill Murphy and Gary Silverman all had singles.

Quincy defeated Braintree, 8-1, behind Bill McDougall's four-hitter. He struck out eight. Catcher Crowley played a fine defensive game. Lespasio, Crowley and Mulkern had two hits and Fletcher, Duffy, McDougall and Sean Gately one each.

The Quincy stars went on to defeat South Boston, 5-3, as Lespasio pitched a fine game into the sixth inning when he gave way to Fletcher, who retired the last six batters in order, three by strikeouts.

Catcher Gately played a fine game. Quincy jumped off to a 1-0 lead in the first as Tufts singled, took second on Lespasio's sacrifice and scored on an error. Quincy went ahead, 2-1, in the fourth when Duffy singled, stole second, went to third on Gately's long fly out and scored on McDougall's infield out. The deciding runs came in the fifth as Murphy reached second on a two-base error, went to third on Rob Hubbard's sacrifice and pinch runner Molloy scored on Tufts' single. Lespasio and Fletcher followed with back-to-back doubles for the final two runs. Bob Thomas played a fine game for Quincy.

Jaehnig Club Off To Good Start

The Jaehnig Chiropractic Club is off to a fast start in the South Shore Sports Center's summer basketball league with two impressive victories.

Jaehnig defeated John Hancock, 55-42, using an aggressive full court defense to wear down Hancock, which was forced to play with only six players. Jaehnig led by one, 19-18, at the half, but opened up a safe lead as the losers tired.

Chuck and Mark Jaehnig had 12 points apiece, Paul Principato seven, Pudge Gill six, Mike Jaehnig five, Jim Timmons and Steve Jaehnig four each, Kevin McFlaney three and Dan Jaehnig two.

Bob McDonald and Mark Dwyer played well for John Hancock.

Jaehnig withstood a furious comeback by the Gunners to win, 55-51. The Gunners, behind Brian Donovan, Steve Masters and Dave Austin, ties the score at 50-all with a minute left, but Timmons hit a baseline jumper and Chuck Jaehnig scored a driving three-point layup to rescue the win.

Mark Jaehnig had 17 points, Chuck Jaehnig 13, Mike Jaehnig nine, Principato six, Timmons and Mike Venna four each, Peter Gray three and Dan Jaehnig two.

Quincy Nationals Ousted

Quincy's National League All-Stars were eliminated from the 13-15 year old Babe Ruth League tournament by Braintree, 9-1, Sunday. Quincy finished at 2-2 in the tournament, defeating Dorchester and Hingham but losing twice to Braintree.

In the first loss to Braintree, 1-0, the fans were treated to an outstanding pitching duel between Mark DiMatteo of Quincy and Ted Novio of Braintree. DiMatteo lost despite pitching a one-hitter, while Novio hurled a two-hitter.

In the second game, Quincy mauled Dorchester, 16-0, collecting 15 hits. Rob Higgins, Dan Overby and Wayne Chambers were impressive on the mound, while John Penetore, Dan Biagini and Mike Mullaney led the offense.

Quincy defeated Hingham, 9-2, at Merrymount Park, led by a strong pitching effort by L.J. Sten and solid hitting by Brian Howlett and Mike Sando.

DiMatteo again took the mound in the second meeting with Braintree and Quincy took a 1-0 lead in the third. But Braintree took advantage of Quincy's errors and combined some clutch hitting to win going away.

Also playing for Quincy, coached by Steve Buckley of Local 1139 and John Franceschini and John DiNardo of the Police Club, were Kevin Caldwell, Jim Ross, Joe Mulvey, Eddie Flavin and Shawn Craig, all of whom played well.

Hershey Track Winners

Quincy youngsters have taken the first step in a program that may lead them to the Hershey Track and Field national championships in Hershey, Pa., as participants in the largest youth track and field program in the country.

The Quincy Recreation Department, in cooperation with the Quincy Track Club, conducted one of 40 meets in the state for boys and girls 9-14.

The Quincy winners' times and distances will be compared with winners in other communities and the top eight will advance to the state championships July 20 at the Braintree High track. The format continues with state champions from all New England to take part in the nationals.

Director of Recreation Barry J. Welch praised the volunteers from the Quincy Track Club for their assistance in conducting the two-day event.

"The parents involved give up their time to provide an excellent opportunity for the youngsters who participate," Welch said.

"In particular, Fred Cashman and Jerry Libby have volunteered in this meet for many years and should be recognized for their special dedication."

The meet was directed by Track Club president Jeff Hennessy and Quincy girls' coach John Franceschini. More than 100 boys and girls took part.

Walks Scheduled In Blue Hills

The MetroParks Reservations and Interpretive Services Unit will help people "Discover a Wetland" this summer through walks at St. Moritz Pond in Quincy and Fowl Meadow in Milton.

Walks at St. Moritz are July 18 and August 15 and at Fowl Meadow August 1 and 29. The walks will be held 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Each wetland is home to a variety of wild and plantlife. For directions or more information, call 725-5215.

The Enchanted Forest, an environmental tour, will be held July 13 and 14, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., at Blue Hill.

Walk Through Time on July 25 at 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. will enable participants to meet characters from the past who influenced or were influenced by the Blue Hills Reservations.

This event is sponsored by MetroParks and the Trailside Museum. Pre-registration is required. For information call 333-0690.

Summer Programs At Crane Public Library

Children, ages 4 through 12, are invited to "get in the swing" and attend summer programs at the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Storytime is a five-week series for ages 4 through 7, and is a book and film program, beginning at the North Quincy Branch Library July 10 at 10:30 a.m., and then at the Wollaston branch July 12, also at 10:30.

The Family Film Festival got underway Tuesday at 6:45 p.m., at the Central Library in Quincy Square. This seven week program of feature films is geared toward families with children nine years and older.

The Central Library will also be the site of the Young Investigators' Club July 11 at 10:30 a.m. Six weeks of investigating will lead children, ages seven through ten, from an investigator's kit to fingerprints, to codes, and to mysteries such as the Bermuda Triangle and the Loch Ness monster.

Children will receive a paper loop for each program attended and each book read during the summer. These loops will be linked together forming chains that will hang in each children's section showing just who is "in the swing." Program schedules, summer reading lists, and registration forms are available at each library unit.

Line Dance Classes In Germantown

All ages are welcome. Cost per week is $2 for adults, $1 for children.

"Safety Kids", a 30 minute play designed to teach children what to do when approached by a stranger, will be presented by "Cabletalk" today (Thursday) at 9 p.m. and Sunday, July 14, at 9:30 p.m. on Quincy Cable Ch. 3.

Through Safety Kids' songs, skits, and puppets, children will learn what to do when approached by a stranger and how to use the telephone in an emergency. Produced by the 5th grade class at Daniel Webster, the program was videotaped by Robert Gohl, Cabletalk's producer.

City Council Candidates TV Debate In Works

A live cable television debate for the City, ward and at-large candidates in the fall election is in a positive stage according to the general manager of Quincy Cablestems.

John King said he had met with Thomas J. Nutley, candidate for the Ward 6 City Council seat, who had suggested to King a cable TV debate for city council races similar to the recent mayoral candidates debate.

King said Nutley's proposal is a good one.

"Yes, we are at a positive stage over the proposal. But, you must realize a lot of preliminary work is needed, especially in the area of contacting all of the candidates and then planning a time for the debate. "It could be programmed for later in July and August, but again I must stress that it will depend on getting all the candidates together in the same time frame."

According to Nutley his understanding is that all of the candidates will be contacted in order that they agree to a live debate.

"I'm sure that we will welcome this opportunity to appear on television to state our qualifications and our opinions on the issues affecting the citizens of Quincy," he said.

Nutley further stressed that "this kind of access programming will provide the voters of Quincy with an invaluable opportunity to evaluate the various candidates. I would expect that every one of the candidates will make an extra-special effort to participate in this historic occasion."

STARSCOPE

by Clare Annsweil

WEEK OF: JULY 11

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
Good week to issue reminders to friends, coworkers and neighbors. Potentially rewarding prospects open up, but pursue all angles before making a commitment. Romance is on the upswing.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
Financial news-brightener may arrive by the end of this period, making surprise expenses easier to take. Your creative ideas are novel and catch the attention of people in high places.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
Week factors wrapping up old projects, then launching new ones. Friend may be overly demanding of your generosity or time. A firm but kind approach may be the only solution.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
Plans are subject to last minute changes, often with positive results. Friendship cannot be taken for granted. Diplomacy is essential when handling a personality problem.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
Opt for a more realistic, less romantic approach to family dilemma. Children are your best teachers through this period. Announcements related to finance require clarification.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
Legal matters dominate much of your time, don't hesitate to ask basic questions. Financial bonanza could brighten the weekend. Lost items may be found by Tuesday or Wednesday.

LEO - July 23-August 22
Business matters demand a professional, not casual, approach. Guarantees and agreements should be in writing. If you want to change one's mind, subtlety is all important.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
Observation is important and can pay dividends. Keep aware of current news happenings and goings on in work environment. Partner is nearly ready to make a commitment.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
It's a week to hold on to your purse strings. Socializing can be more costly than anticipated and bargains may be deceptive. Family health needs should be reviewed.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
You tend to be nostalgic, but this week focuses on the future. You may be learning about modern machinery, updating your skills, or planning a very contemporary look.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
A challenge at work heats up and brings out the best in your work. Watch tendency to impose your standards on others. Financial news-brightener may arrive after the weekend.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
New relationship may become more intense than expected; the key is for both parties to be honest about degree of commitment. Small financial bonus boosts your morale.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Beneath a hard exterior lies a very tender person — and one with a vivid imagination. Resourcefulness is the operative word this year. You learn on the job and can make significant career strides. One caution: watch that you're not so easily flattered.

BORN THIS WEEK
July 11th, actor Tab Hunter; 12th, actor Bill Cosby; 13th, host Dave Garroway; 14th, actress Polly Bergen; 15th, singer Linda Ronstadt; 16th, actress Ginger Rogers; 17th, actress Diahann Carroll.

Summer, Fall Enrollment Up At Quincy Junior

Summer and Fall enrollment is up noticeably over last year at Quincy Junior College, according to the Assistant to the

Jody Hamilton-Davis reports that over 1000 students are registered to take over 1200 courses during the college's Summer Session I program, and that enrollment is currently 28 percent higher in that program than in the same program in 1984.

She also said that Richard Pessin, admissions director, reports that registration for incoming freshmen at Q.J.C. is running 10 percent over the last year figure.

Hamilton-Davis adds that students from 88 different colleges and universities are represented in the 1985 summer session. These students come from 55 different communities, as far south as Miami and as far north as Winthrop.

The increase in enrollment at Q.J.C. for Summer and Fall courses comes in the wake of a recent state report suggesting merging Quincy Junior College and Massasoit Community College in Brockton into a state-run South Shore regional community college.

The published study said the merger would be the best option for rescuing the junior college from impending financial difficulties, but did say the merger idea needs more study.

Dr. O. Clayton Johnson, president of the junior college, said he is "appalled" by that report's evaluation of the school and that he opposes any merger into a community college the state would run.

Quincy Junior College offers 93 courses during the summer, with the heaviest enrollment in the sciences and secretarial divisions. The liberal arts course, especially English, which is a required course in most curricula, are also experiencing higher registration.

City Of Quincy

Massachusetts

Office of The Mayor

Welcome To Historic Quincy

As the Mayor of Quincy, it gives me great pride and pleasure to welcome you to the City of Presidents.

Quincy's Historic Trail is not a road by which one follows history; but rather a way by which one may experience contact with a rich and varied history.

Quincy, Massachusetts conjures up many images to many people. The rich history, the historical sites, the source of granite for famous structures, the building place of many ships, the home town of famous people; all of these are distinctions that belong to Quincy alone.

It has been over 350 years since the first Europeans settled in what is now Quincy. Over this period of time there has been a change from an open area occupied by a few Indians and a small trading post, to a city of 86,000 persons. Quincy's history is one of continuing change. Quincy has kept pace with the world around it, but has retained a distinctive identity that is based on its proud past.

In the pages ahead, you will read about places and men and women who have played important roles in the history of our city and country. I think you will agree with me that Quincy is rich, indeed, in historic heritage. I urge you to visit our City Hall, both old and new, and while you are in Quincy Square, you should visit the First Parish Church, and a recently declared U.S. Landmark, Hancock Cemetery, which are all within walking distance of one another.

I hope your visit to Quincy will be a rewarding and memorable learning experience.

Sincerely yours,

Francis X. McCauley

Now Also Furnished

John Adams Birthplace Restored

Visitors to the birthplace of John Adams, the second president of the United States, will this year be able to see more completely how the house looked when young John Adams and his parents, Deacon John and Susanna, lived there.

The John Adams Birthplace, which peers over the shoulder of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace on Franklin St., South Quincy, has been under reconstruction off and on for the past six years, but restoration is now complete.

It is open to the public this year for the second time since restoration began.

The only furnishings in the house when it was opened to the public last year were a table, bench and two chairs in the kitchen, and a chest of drawers in another room.

"The house is nicely furnished now and looks like it did when they lived in it. We have had made every piece of furniture that was in the house. It was a giant task," said Wilhelmina Harris, superintendent of the Adams National Historic Site.

There is only minor work left to be done, some of it in the room where Deacon John Adams made shoes, Mrs. Harris said.

The rooms are furnished from the period of Deacon John and his wife and probably reflect her taste, said Mrs. Harris. "They are furnished not elaborately, but sufficiently to have a lived-in look," she said.

The birthplace was probably built in the late 17th or early 18th Century for less than $1,000 in the pounds of the day and the clapboards were hand-hewn from trees that grew in its fields.

The pine clapboards of the John Adams Birthplace are unpainted and the U.S. National Park Service, which restored the house, insists that based on research the house will remain that way, despite the fact that John Adams was known to have preferred it white.

The pine clapboards of the John Adams Birthplace are as yet unpainted and the USNPS insists, based on new research, that the house will remain that way, despite the fact that John Adams was known to have preferred it white.

For more than 80 years they were the little red farmhouses at the foot of Penn's Hill. But research turned up the fact that Abigail Adams, the wife of the second president, wanted them "stone" and white in color.

Since what Abigail wanted, Abigail usually got, in the summer of 1980, the John Quincy Adams Birthplace was repainted to Abigail's taste, the "stone" color determined to be a sort of off-white mixed especially for the occasion from a late 18th Century formula.

The John Adams Birthplace was painted white so that both houses would look as they did in 1807, the year the last Adams lived in them, but later research indicated it was unpainted. Mrs. Harris, an authority on the Adams family, hopes the USNPS will change its mind again.

The birthplaces, parts of which date back to the 17th Century, were taken over by the National Park

JOHN ADAMS BIRTHPLACE

Service on May 1, 1979, after years of semi-neglect due to lack of restoration and maintenance funds.

The John Quincy Adams Birthplace re-opened in 1982 for the first time in three years after undergoing a $175,000 rehabilitation faithful to the lives of the prominent family that lived there.

If you close your eyes and give your imagination full rein you can see them now as they were more than 200 years ago.

There is Abigail Adams in the new pink gingham dress. There is the curly-haired infant, Thomas Boylston Adams, bouncing on his father's knee. And there is John Adams, home from the Continental Congress in Philadelphia for the first time in a year, sitting at the table drinking a cup of tea.

The setting, right down to the pewter plates and candlesticks, is reproduced faithfully in the corner room of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace.

The furnishings of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace are precise reproductions of those that were in the house when the second president lived there. The originals are at the Old House, the Adams National Historic Site, from which they cannot be removed under the ownership agreement with the Adams family.

The most interesting room in the John Quincy Adams Birthplace is John Adams' old law office, in which the elder Adams, James Bowdoin and Samuel Adams drafted the Massachusetts State Constitution, the model on which the U.S. Constitution was based.

"The law office is furnished pretty much as John Adams had it," says Mrs. Harris, once secretary to Brooks Adams, the last member of the family to live in the Old House. Adams, the last member of the family to live in the Old House.

There is the hutch table on which he wrote the State Constitution; the bookcase filled with books that probably were there in John Adams' day, judging by an inventory of his law library; his old writing desk and two chairs that were copies from those in his second law office in Boston.

Pastels of Abigail and John, originally done in Salem, were photographically reproduced by photographer George Dow and now hang in Abigail's sitting room. The originals are in the possession of the Massachusetts Historical Society.

Abigail's old kitchen cabinet was discovered serving as a bookcase in the Old House.

"Brooks Adams always thought that books could go anywhere," explains Mrs. Harris.

The cabinet was reproduced and installed in the kitchen of the John Quincy Adams Birthplace along with copies of the blue china that John purchased when he was emissary to Holland.

The Adams Cottages

Our Only Father - Son Presidents Born Here

It was the North Precinct of Braintree then, a sprawling tract of woods and farmlands on the gently rolling hills some 10 miles south of the Boston Stone along the winding Coast Road to Plymouth.

Something less than 1,500 people lived in the North, Middle and South Precincts of Braintree in the year 1735 and two of them were Deacon John Adams, 44, farmer and cordwainer, and his wife, Susanna, 26.

Their home was a weathered gray farmhouse with a high peaked roof and attached lean-to kitchen set on seven acres of farmland at roughly Milepost 11 of the Coast Road, just where it turned up the wooded slopes of Penn's Hill toward the Monaquot River ford.

He was a pillar of his rural community. Mr. Adams was, a deacon in the First Parish Church, a lieutenant in the Braintree militia and a town constable with a forceful personality and tact that enabled him to collect taxes from his neighbors.

He was a hard-working farmer whose cider was acknowledged best in town, he worked in leather during the winter months, and he had an eye on an adjoining piece of farmland, 9½ acres owned by the Billings brothers, complete with a farmhouse similar to his own.

Susanna Adams was a Boylston of Brookline, socially a cut above her husband, and perhaps there were moments in the simple house at the foot of Penn's Hill when she thought of the home of her uncle, the noted Dr. Zabdiel Boylston of Brookline, whose furniture came all the way from London.

Their first child, a son who was named John for his father, was born in the southeast bedroom of the farmhouse on Oct. 19, 1735 (Old Style). He would become the second president of the United States.

the southeast corner, and the house was known to have been occupied by one Joseph Penniman in that year.

And a man named Samuel Belcher was living in the John Quincy Adams Birthplace as early as 1663, when it was little more than a one-room shack with fireplace. It was built to its present size in 1716, as evidenced by a date brick found in the new fireplace.

According to Henry Adams, a grandson of President John Quincy Adams, no member of the family lived in the cottages after 1818, although ownership remained in the Adams family until 1940.

Both houses were restored by the Adams Realty Trust, the John Quincy Adams Birthplace in 1896 at a cost of $1,650 and the John Adams Birthplace a year later at an expense of $515.49.

They were presented to the city of Quincy in 1940 and supervised by the Quincy Historical Society until they were turned over to the U.S. National Park Service in 1979.

The Adams Birthplaces are at 133 and 141 Franklin St. They are open daily, including Sundays and holidays, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Oct. 15 with guided tours at no charge.

Deacon John purchased the house next door for 500 pounds in 1744 and it was ready 20 years later when young John moved in with his brand new bride, the former Abigail Smith, the preacher's sparkling daughter from the next town of Weymouth.

Their second child, a son who was named John Quincy Adams after his great grandfather, Col. John Quincy, was born there on July 11, 1767. He would become the sixth president of the United States.

The junction of Franklin St., Independence Ave., and President Ave. in South Quincy is the only place in the country where the birthplaces of two presidents who are father and son stand side by side in the same city.

The precise age of the two cottages at the foot of Penn's Hill is not known.

When the John Adams Birthplace was retored by the Daughters of Revolution in 1897, a brick bearing the date 1681 was discovered under

ADAMS MANSION NATIONAL HISTORIC SITE

The Adams Mansion

Summer White House And Home Of 2 Presidents

Josiah Quincy, the one who built railroads around New England and founded the cooperative bank movement in Massachusetts, was in his boyhood a frequent visitor to the mansion where John Adams, the second president of the United States, lived in retirement.

Later, he wrote with wry amusement about Sunday dinner with the aging patriarch of the Adams clan and his wife, Abigail, a dinner that inevitably began with a thick pudding made from boiled corn meal.

"...it being thought desirable to take the edge off one's hunger before reaching the joint," wrote Quincy.

"Indeed, it was considered wise to stimulate the young to fill themselves with pudding, by the assurance that the boy who managed to eat the most of it should be helped most abundantly to the meat, which was to follow.

"It need not be said that neither the winner nor his competitors found much room for meat at the close of their contest; and so the domestic economy of the arrangement was very apparent."

Quincy, as a young Harvard law student, stopped by several times a week in summer to talk and read to the former President. He found the visits delightful. Indeed, the Adams of the cold and austere public mien was never more relaxed and warm than he was at his country home in Quincy.

The original house, a small part of the present building, was built probably in 1731 by Major Leonard Vassall, a wealthy West Indian sugar planter who lived in Cambridge and apparently used it for a summer place.

His daughter, Mrs. Anna Borland, who was a Loyalist during the Revolution, abandoned the house to leave with the British forces when they evacuated Boston in 1776. For a while it was used as a haven for rebel refugees fleeing the war zones.

Mrs. Borland returned to reclaim the house after the Revolution and John Adams, then in Europe as the first American ambassador to London, purchased it for 600 pounds through the good offices of the Cotton Tufts of Weymouth, his wife Abigail's cousin.

The Adamses were about to return to the United States after seven years abroad and Abigail was concerned that John's books and papers and the furnishings they had acquired in Europe would not fit into their old farmhouse at the foot of Penn's Hill where they lived before.

The deal was closed on Sept. 26, 1787, and the deed is still on file in the Suffolk County Registry of Deeds in which the Adams purchase is specified as a house, barn and other buildings on seven acres of land with some 76 acres more scattered around the North Precinct of Braintree.

There are indications that Abigail was at first disappointed with her purchase. It was a lot smaller than she remembered it.

"In height and breadth it feels like a wren's house," she wrote to her daughter, Abigail, the wife of Col. William S. Smith, "Let Col. Smith come without heels to his shoes or he will not be able to walk upright."

Abigail and John Adams moved into the house, which they named "Peacefield," after his retirement from the presidency in 1801 and lived there until they died.

It was from the "Old House," as the family called it, that John Adams carried on his long and increasingly warm correspondence with his old rival, Thomas Jefferson of Virginia, who had succeeded him in the presidency. In retirement, they became firm friends as they outlasted their contemporaries.

"Thomas Jefferson lives," whispered John Adams as he lay dying in the Old House. He was wrong. Jefferson, in far away Monticello, Va., had preceded him in death by a few hours on the same day.

It was July 4, 1826, the 50th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

The Old House which served as summer White House for two presidents, was home to four generations of the Adams family, the last, Brooks Adams, dying in February, 1927. It was taken over by the U.S. National Park Service in 1946 to become the Adams Mansion National Historic Site.

The site, located at 135 Adams St., is open to the public from April 19 to Nov. 10 daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is 50 cents. Children under 16 are admitted free.

The Adams Family

HENRY ADAMS (1583-1646) emigrated from England in 1638 and was granted 40 acres in Mount Wollaston (later Quincy).

MOVING MANKIND TOWARD SAFETY FROM FIRE

Hancock Cemetery

Patriots, Early Settlers, Intrigue Buried Here

Henry, the first Adams in Quincy, is buried there. So is the Rev. John Hancock, father of the first signer of the Declaration of Independence. And Col. John Quincy, for whom the city is named.

But of all the 800 graves in the Hancock Cemetery, the Old Burying Ground of Colonial Quincy, most intriguing is one marked by a tombstone bearing this cryptic epitaph:

"Erected to the memory of John R. Grieve: Died Nov. 12, 1850, age 22 years, and Hannah Banks, his wife, died Nov. 12, 1850, age 15 years. Both of Zanesville, Ohio. Deluded by the writings of A.J. Davis."

The mystery of John and Hannah has never been fully solved.

They came to Quincy in 1850, not as man and wife, but as male cousins, John Green and George Sands. They obtained work in a shoe factory but rarely left their lodgings on Elm St., spending long hours reading books on spiritualism.

Co-workers thought that George Sands looked frail, almost effeminate. It was widely suspected that "he" was a girl. A scheme was devised to test the theory.

One day at lunch one of the shoe workers tossed George an apple. A man would catch it by closing his legs, a woman by spreading her skirt. Guess what "George" did!

Humiliated, John and Hannah never went back to the factory. Nor did they ever return to the house on Elm St. Their frozen bodies were found next spring by rabbit hunters on Penn's Hill, locked in a loving embrace.

Several months later, the father of John Grieve arrived from Ohio to bury the young couple. It was he who directed the words to be chiselled on the headstone. He explained no further.

A.J. Davis was never identified for sure. But Andrew Jackson Davis, a spiritualist, hypnotist and faith healer, was then practicing in Boston.

Among the belongings found in the Elm St. lodging house were these words, written by 15-year-old Hannah Banks:

"To the oppressed and down-trodden, to the suffering and afflicted, I would cry out...Death is only an event, only a circumstance in the eternal life experience of the human soul. Death is simply a birth into a new and perfect state of existence."

Not far from the grave of John and Hannah is a tomb bearing words that cry out of an earlier injustice:

"Three precious friends under this tombstone lie

"Patterns to aged, youth and infancy.

HANCOCK CEMETERY

"A great mother, her learned son, with child.

"The first and least went free. He was exiled.

"In love to Christ, this country, and dear friends

"He left his own, cross'd seas and for amends

"Was here extoll'd, and envy'd all in a breath,

"His noble consort leaves, is drawn to death,

"Stranger changes may befall us ere we die,

"Blest they who will arrive eternity.

"God grant some names, O thou New England's friend.

"Don't sooner fade than thine, if times don't mend."

The tomb with its hidden message contains the family of the Rev. Leonard Hoar, third president of Harvard College, a man too liberal for his times.

He was forced by the General Court of the Massachusetts Bay Colony to resign at the instigation of religious opponents and jealous colleagues for permitting Harvard to "languish and decay." Eight months later in November 1675, he was dead at 45.

In 1975, the same General Court, now of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, righted the 300-year-old wrong done to the Rev. Mr. Hoar by "proclaiming and confirming his innocence of any misdeeds while president of Harvard College."

The cemetery, on Hancock St., Quincy Sq., next to City Hall, is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

Stormy Debate

Quincy Was Almost Hancock

If some of the early settlers had their way, you would be living in the city of Hancock today instead of the city of Quincy.

Quincy, like George Washington, was born on Feb. 22.

On Feb. 22, 1792, the General Court of Massachusetts passed an act incorporating the North Precinct of Old Braintree as the separate town of Quincy.

But, just before that, quite a few of the residents wanted the new town named after native-son John Hancock instead of Boston-born Col. John Quincy.

Colonel Quincy, who had represented Old Braintree in the General Court, was the great grandfather of President John Quincy Adams.

Many people today think Quincy was named after the sixth President but the honor actually goes to his great grandfather.

John Hancock who was born in the North Precinct, was governor of Massachusetts when the General Court passed the act incorporating the new town as Quincy. He signed the act the following day.

But at the first town meeting of the new town in May, a petition was presented to change the name from Quincy to Hancock in honor of the patriot and first signer of the Declaration of Independence. The move was finally defeated after a stormy verbal battle.

Opponents argued that Hancock was still alive and that the honor should go to a distinguished-but deceased-person.

JOHN HANCOCK

Colonel Quincy met those requirements. He was both distinguished - and deceased.

He had represented Old Braintree in the General Court from 1717 to 1741 - 12 of those years as Speaker of the House. He died in 1767 at age 77 - two days after John Quincy Adams was born.

Quincy became a city June 11, 1888.

Thus, on Feb. 22, 1986 Quincy will mark its 194th birthday as the community of Quincy.

But a lot of people - residents and tourists alike - will go right on thinking that Quincy was named after John Quincy Adams.

THE FIRST PARISH CHURCH

TOMBS OF PRESIDENTS John and John Quincy Adams and their wives in First Parish Church.

First Parish Church

Where 2 Presidents, Their Wives Are Entombed

In 1949, when the present First Parish Church building, the Old Stone Temple, was 121 years old, it was ruled officially that the church is older than the city itself and the town before it.

It was then that the late historian William Churchill Edwards was called upon to resolve a minor dispute that involved the rounding of the corners of the church lot in downtown Quincy.

"Almost the first subject to which the minds of the early settlers of our country were turned after they landed here was the formation of a church," said Edwards.

The first church in these parts was established as a branch of the Church of Boston in 1636. It became a church in its own right in 1639. The Mount Wollaston section of Boston was incorporated as the town of Braintree on May 23, 1640. Ergo, the church came first!

Quincy's first house of worship, the branch of the Church of Boston, was called the "Chappel of Ease," and if it was neglected by early historians it was because its first pastor, the Rev. John Wheelright, his sister-in-law, Anne Hutchinson, and others were banished from the Massachusetts Bay Colony for heresy.

The new church, the one that lasted, was gathered by covenant on Sept. 26, 1639, and it was holding services in its third meeting house in 1732 when its pastor was the Rev. John Hancock, father of the bold first signer of the Declaration of Independence. Son John also was a member.

The affairs of the church and the town of Quincy were one and the same until 1824 when church and state were separated in Massachusetts and the Congregational Society was established to handle parochial matters.

The old Hancock meeting house was still standing, although a little run down, on the south lawn of the present church lot in 1822 when former President John Adams deeded the interest from certain of his lands and granite from his pastures to build a stone temple.

It was completed in Greek revival style at a cost of $30,488.56 which was some $3,000 less than architect Alexander Parrish's estimate and dedicated Nov. 12, 1828, with John Quincy Adams, the sixth president of the United States holding Pew No. 1.

Even before the church was dedicated, the mortal remains of its benefactors, John and Abigail Adams, were transferred to tombs in the crypt of the church and, in 1852, the bodies of John Quincy Adams and his wife, Louisa, joined them

It is the only church in the United States in which two Presidents are buried. The only other church in which a President is buried is the Episcopal Cathedral in Washington D.C., where President Woodrow Wilson is entombed.

Still an active Unitarian church, it is open to the public for tours from May 15 through Labor Day, Monday through Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Donations are accepted. There is a charge of 50 cents per adult for organized tour groups, which should make an appointment at least one week in advance. Tours of the church at other times during the year may also be made by appointment.

Why We Pronounce It 'Quin-zee'

Why do we pronounce Quincy "Quin-zee" when just about everyone else in the country refers to it as "Quin-see?"

There are 19 other Quincys in the U.S., but they pronounce it "Quin-see."

Can they be right and we be wrong?

Not according to Quincy's late city historian, William C. Edwards who never budged an inch whenever the argument ever came up. And it still comes up.

The reason we pronounce it "Quin-zee" is very simple.

"That's the way the Quincy family pronounced it," he used to explain.

"The original Quincy family which settled here at Mount Wollaston pronounced it 'Quin-zee,' including Col. John Quincy after whom Quincy, Mass., the first Quincy was named in 1792."

Colonel Quincy was the great grandfather of sixth president John Quincy Adams.

Apparently all 19 other Quincys in the U.S. were named after John Quincy Adams.

And, apparently the early settlers of those communities thought John Quincy pronounced it John "Quin-zee."

Anyway, that is how Edwards explained it. Seems like a sound argument.

Dorothy Quincy Homestead

John Hancock's Declaration Of Love

An aura of romance surrounds the stately old house that is set back in the trees from the corner of Hancock St. and Butler Rd., on the banks of Furnace Brook.

There is the wallpaper with its blue cupids and pink flowers that was imported from France for the wedding of Dorothy Quincy, the vivacious daughter of the house, to Quincy-born John Hancock, a patriot on the run with a price on his head.

There are the words "You I Love and You alone," addressed by Hancock to his beloved Dorothy and scratched on a window pane with his diamond ring just before he fled to Lexington on the eve of the Revolution.

And there are the secret chambers and passageways, used, it was said, to hide fugitive patriots during the Revolution and, at an earlier date, even certain Englishmen fleeing a charge of regicide in the death of King Charles I.

Parts of the house were built in 1685 by Col. Edmund Quincy, the second of the name, on land that was granted to an earlier Edmund in 1638. The major part was built in 1706 by Edmund the third. (There were six Edmunds in all, four in a direct line; two nephews.)

The house was the social center of old Braintree during the regime of the fourth Edmund, largely because he sired five beautiful daughters around whom swirled a whole future generation of judges, generals and merchant kings.

The undisputed belle of the household was Dorothy, the coquettish youngest of the eight Quincy children, whose troth was soon plighted to John Hancock, the wealthy young businessman from Boston who was already becoming known as a leader of the rebels.

Tradition has it that they were to have been married in the north parlor of the Quincy homestead with its French cupid wallpaper when Revolution intervened and John had to flee with the British on his heels.

Eventually, they were wed Aug. 28, 1775, at the home of Thaddeus Burr, uncle of Aaron Burr (later vice president of the United States) in Fairfield, Conn.

After the Revolution and the death of Edmund the fourth in 1788 the old house passed from the Quincy family. The Hancocks wanted nothing to do with it. Their only son, John George Washington Hancock, was killed in a skating accident at age 9 while on a visit in 1787.

The house was acquired in 1904 by the Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames, who restored it with vintage furniture, utensils and clothing, and gave it to the state with the proviso that the Dames continue to run it.

The Dorothy Quincy Homestead is open to the public May through October, Tuesday through Sunday, from 12 noon to 5 p.m. (last tour at 4:30 p.m.). It is also open by appointment only Tuesday through Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. There is a $1.50 admission charge for adults, 25 cents for children.

A fitting memorial . . .

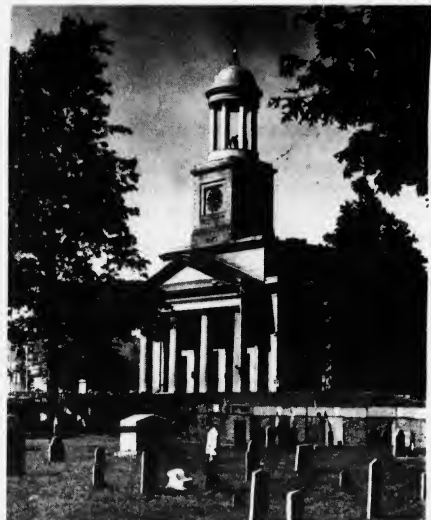

John Quincy Adams occupied the White House in 1828 when United First Parish Church, the Stone Temple, was built of Quincy granite, a fitting memorial to the enduring work of the men who founded the state and the nation.

Two presidents of the United States, John Adams and John Quincy Adams, and their wives, are buried side by side in vaults in the grotto of the Church.

The cornerstone of the Stone Temple was laid on June 11, 1827, and in it was placed a silver plate with the inscription: 'A temple for the worship of God, and for public instruction in the doctrines and duties of the Christian religion.'

Historic Hancock Cemetery in the foreground is the final resting place of early Quincy settlers and patriots among them Col. John Quincy for whom Quincy was named and Rev. John Hancock, a minister of First Parish Church and father of the first signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Abigail Adams Wife, Mother Of Presidents

Mrs. John Adams, the former Abigail Smith of Weymouth, is the only woman to be wife of one president and mother of another --- and she could have been grandmother of a vice president.

Husband John was chief executive from 1797 to 1801; son of John Quincy occupied the White House from 1825 to 1829; and grandson Charles Francis Adams ran for vice president on the Free Soil ticket in 1848.

An early advocate of women's rights, Abigail Adams once wrote to her husband, John:

"In the new code of laws which I suppose it will be necessary for you to make, I desire you would remember the ladies and be more generous and favorable to them than your ancestors.

"Do not put such unlimited power into the hands of the husbands. Remember, all men would be tyrants if they could."

John Winthrop, Jr. Blast Furnace First Productive Iron Works In U.S.

It failed after nine years of effort and, since failure was anathema in a growing America, perhaps that is why the site and even the memory of the first commercial iron blast furnace in the United States was lost for so long.

It flourished, if that is the word, from 1644 to 1653 on the banks of the Mount Wollaston River (now Furnace Brook) in a section of Old Braintree called "the Woods."

Iron was an important commodity in Colonial Massachusetts, particularly for nails and pots and pans. Iron utensils had to be imported from England, a costly process for the penny-wise colonists.

With this in mind, John Winthrop Jr., son of the governor of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, went to London and formed the "Company of Undertakers for the Ironworks in New England."

The first iron was turned out in 1644 but young Winthrop was fired from his 100 pounds a year job the next year, to be succeeded by Richard Leader. The Ironworks itself didn't last much longer.

The ore from which the iron was blasted on the banks of Furnace Brook was not a high quality product. It was bog iron from the nearby swamps. Making it proved to be more expensive than the imported kind.

The Company of Undertakers appealed for fresh money in 1646 and apparently there were enough investors ready to send good money after bad because the furnace was still in operation in 1650 when the Scotch Prisoners arrived.

The Scots were rugged Highlanders, soldiers in the army of the future King Charles II who were captured by Oliver Cromwell at the Battle of Dunbar. Cromwell shipped 272 of them to New England as cheap labor in an effort to make the Quincy ironworks a paying proposition. It didn't work.

The Company of Undertakers went bankrupt in 1653 and "the Woods" went back to the bear and the deer.

Meanwhile, with the same Richard Leader as agent, construction began on a second iron works north of Boston in Saugus in 1646. When it was completed in 1650, it was recognized as the first integrated iron industry in America.

THE GRANITE RAILWAY

The Granite Railway

First Commercial Railroad In U.S.

It was the damdest looking contraption that many among the distinguished gathering had ever seen.

Each of the three wagons had four wheels, 6 and one half feet in diameter, surmounted by a smaller gear wheel which was used to raise and lower the cargo platform that was slung low between the wheels.

It rode on foot-high wooden rails, topped by iron plate, which rested on stone sleepers or cross ties, placed eight feet apart and firmly supported on crushed granite to a depth beyond the frost line.

On Saturday, Oct. 7, 1826, the wagons were laden with 16 tons of the finest Quincy granite and the opening day guests were properly amazed when a single horse moved the whole thing with ease more than three miles to a special wharf on the Neponset River.

The granite blocks, a particularly hard and weather-resistant stone capable of taking a brilliant polish, were en route to Charlestown, where they were building a monument to the Battle of Bunker Hill.

The Granite Railway, the first such commercial venture in the United States, was built specifically to transport stone for the Bunker Hill Monument.

That it became successful, and a model for others around the country, is a tribute to three vastly dissimilar men, the engineer Gridley Bryant, the architect Solomon Willard and the financier, Col. Thomas Handasyd Perkins.

Bryant was 27 at the time but already an engineer of note. He invented the eight wheeled railroad car and, when a fellow named Ross Winans of Baltimore sued to establish a patent on it, Bryant was able to prove his claim to the satisfaction of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Willard, then 43, was a great bear of a man, gentle, obliging, industrious. Frivolity, it was said, was alien to him and he was never known to run. He could be crutchy, too. He was a carpenter turned wood-carver, turned stone-carver and, finally architect.

Perkins was the autocratic, 52-year-old merchant king of Boston who was said to have been offered the post of Secretary of the Navy by President Washington and turned it down with the observation that he owned more ships than the Navy.

It was Perkins who lobbied the Railway's charter through a puzzled and obstinate State Legislature, which had never been called upon to incorporate a commercial railroad before. It was Perkins who financed it, too, largely with his own money.

Even in its early days, the Granite Railway was a tourist attraction of some magnitude.

Daniel Webster, who used to stop off for a pick-me-up in Quincy en route from Boston and Washington to his home in Marshfield, viewed it and decided that it would never succeed because of the frost that would form on the rails in the winter.

The President of the United States, a local boy named John Quincy Adams, visited in August, 1827, got caught in a thunderstorm and took shelter in a shed where Willard's stone-cutters were hacking away at monument granite.

A group of visitors were riding up the Railway's incline in an empty car on July 25, 1832, when the chain broke and catapulted them over a 40-foot cliff. One was killed in what may have been the first railroad fatality in the United States.

The Granite Railway Co. survived until 1870, some 27 years after the Bunker Hill Monument was finished, when most of its track was taken over by the Old Colony Railroad, which in turn became a division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford.

Today much of the roadbed, over which freight moved commercially on rails for the first time in America, is buried under the macadam of the Southeast Expressway.

The incline of the old Railway has been restored and is located at the dead end of Mullin Ave. in West Quincy. It is open to the public year round, 24 hours a day. There is no admission charge.

Seat Of Government For 141 Years

Daniel and Hannah French deeded the land to the town of Quincy for $1,000 with the stipulation that it "shall not be used for any other purpose than as a place for a Town House for the said Inhabitants."

And, with a few minor transgressions of that vow, the solid structure of Quincy granite in Quincy Square has been just that for the past 141 years, the nerve center of government for first the town and then the city.

It was the great hall on the second floor that the popular John Quincy Adams II, grandson of a president of the United States, held forth as town moderator for many years and, with his brother, Charles Francis Adams Jr., gave informal direction to town affairs.

One of the earliest ordinances passed by the first City Council on March 8, 1889 was the adoption of the City Seal emblazoned with the four most significant dates in Quincy's history:

1625, for the first settlement on Mount Wollaston; 1640, for its separation from Boston as the town of Braintree; 1792, for its separation from Braintree as the town of Quincy; and 1888, for its incorporation as a city.

CITY HALL

Designed by the architect Solomon Willard - who received $280 for drawing up the plans and supervising construction for five months - the City Hall was completed and occupied for the first time on Nov. 1, 1844.

It cost exactly $19,115.93 to build, including 88 cents to John Briesler for lead to seal the chimney.

In 1979, when a 3 and one half story reflective glass addition was built behind the old City Hall, the cost was $1.9 million.

Abigail Adams Cairn

The Smoke Could Be Seen Over Bunker Hill

Abigail Adams was awakened at dawn in the farmhouse at the foot of Penn's Hill by the sound of far off guns. All through the sweltering morning of June 17, 1775, as she hustled about with the chores, the dull boom of cannon intruded on her consciousness.

Riders on the Coast Road to Plymouth, stopping at the farmhouse for a drink of water, told her of a great battle underway on Breed's Hill in Charlestown.

One of them brought word that Dr. Joseph Warren had been killed in the fighting and little Abby, age 10, burst into tears, and John Quincy, nearly 8, felt bewildered and sad, for Dr. Warren was the Adams family doctor in Boston.

In the afternoon, Abigail could stand it no longer. Taking Abby and John Quincy by the hand, she walked up the Coast Road to the top of Penn's Hill and climbed up on the rocks for a better view.

The panorama of the Bay, a shimmering blue in the sunshine, spread out before them, the tiny houses on the three hills of Boston and, beyond, the black smoke rising in billows.

"Good God," exclaimed Abigail, "they are burning Charlestown!"

The scene etched itself forever in John Quincy's memory.

The early days of the Revolution were times of turmoil in Old Braintree and its North Precinct, which was later called Quincy.

Abigail's husband, John, was away most of the time at the Continental Congress in Philadelphia, leaving 31-year old Abigail to manage the farm and look to the needs of four small children, Abigail, John Quincy, Charles, 5, and Thomas Boylston, 3.

There were days of alarm as the British, penned up in Boston by the brand new Continental Army, foraged up and down the coast for supplies. Refugees from occupied Boston and the inner towns of Dorchester and Roxbury sometimes slept in the kitchen and in the fields.

As the wife of a member of Congress, Abigail was a center of attention. The house on the Coast Road was a favorite stopping place for travelers to Plymouth. Politicians up from Philadelphia made it a point to stop by for a visit with John Adams' wife.

Abigail was invited to visit Gen. George Washington's headquarters at Winter Hill. The aristocratic Washington was suspect among New Englanders. He was a Virginian; he was an Anglican; and, it was said, he held slaves. But John Adams liked him and Abigail was soon charmed.

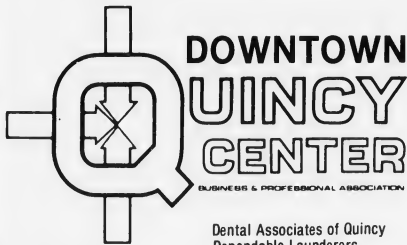

ABIGAIL ADAMS CAIRN

One day, young John Quincy came home to find his Uncle Elihu melting down Abigail's pewter spoons in the kitchen to make bullet molds. He looked at his mother and she looked back at him and something indefinable passed between them.

"Do you wonder," wrote the sixth president of the United States some 68 years later, "that a boy of 7 who witnessed this scene should be a patriot."

In 1896, where the old Coast Road (now Franklin St.) meets Viden Rd. atop Penn's Hill a stone cairn was built to mark the spot where Abigail and young John Quincy watched the Battle of Bunker Hill. It is open to the public free of charge.

The Thomas Crane Library

A Romanesque Architectural Beauty

He came to Quincy as a boy of 7, grew to young manhood on a farm in Quincy Point, learned the granite-cutters' trade, and left at the age of 26 to win fame and fortune in stone in New York City.

That was the last Quincy saw of Thomas Crane for half a century until one February day in 1880, five years after his death, when his son, Albert, appeared with $20,000 with which to build a memorial -- preferably a library -- to his father.

"My father always retained a strong feeling for the town of Quincy," was his only explanation.

Albert Crane himself chose the man to design the building, Henry Hobson Richardson, grandson of the English scientist Dr. Joseph Priestley and the foremost architect of the day.

His reputation was so formidable that he was able to tell Crane, "I can not guarantee that the building, when completed, shall conform to (your) ideas of beauty and taste," and still get the job.

Richardson's Romanesque building, which now houses the reference section of the library, was dedicated on May 30, 1882, with the principal oration delivered by Charles Francis Adams, Jr., chairman of the Board of Trustees. It was Adams who gave the library its name. Albert Crane wanted it to be "The Quincy Free Public Library." Adams insisted on "The Thomas Crane Public Library."

"Who's giving the building?" asked Albert Crane.

"You are, but you wouldn't have if it hadn't been for me," said Adams, who was used to having his way around Quincy, and that was that.

President John Adams' modest collection of books was housed in the library until 1893, when it was discovered that in 11 years only two persons, one of them Charles Francis Adams, Jr., had asked to see them. They were then transferred to the Boston Public Library.

At the start, Richardson's magnificent building was all but hidden behind a grain store, a hotel, an office building and four homes that lined Washington St.

Albert Crane, however, was a persistent man and, by the time he died in 1917, he had purchased and torn down all the buildings, leaving a broad expanse of open space to enhance the library.

But before the lawn could be seeded, World War I intervened and, in a burst of patriotism -- "Food will win the war," they said -- the area was planted with potatoes, tended by an expert brought in from Maine. The experiment failed.

THOMAS CRANE PUBLIC LIBRARY

"There wasn't a potato in the lot that was anywhere near as large as a golf ball," said Mayor Joseph L. Whiton. The harvest was donated to the poor farm.

Albert Crane also put up $64,000 to build the Spear St. wing of the library in 1907-08 and the Crane family gave yet another $164,000 for the free standing addition, built in 1936, that now houses the stacks and the children's section.

The Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., is open to the public, free of charge, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Friday, year around, and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday, September through June.

Moswetuset Hummock

'Birthplace Of Massachusetts'

The Indians saw it as a hill (wetuset) shaped like an arrowhead (mos) so they called it "Moswetuset" and when English tongues got through mangling the word it came out "Massachusetts," which became the name of the bay and then the state.

The little wooded hillock near the junction of East Squantum St. and Quincy Shore Drive was once the seat of the sachem Chickatabot, who comes down through the pages of Quincy history as a rather pathetic figure.

He was the chief of the Moswetuset Indians, a once great tribe that occupied the coast north of Plymouth.

A few years before, under the great sachem Nanepashemet, the Moswetuset had been able to field some 3,000 warriors for a war with the Nanepashemet was killed.

Then came the plague.

In two years the mighty Moswetuset were all but wiped out. No more than 60 of them were left to till their fields on the banks of the Neponset River. Sachem Chickatabot fled his home on the hill in Wollaston and took refuge on Moswetuset Hummock.

That was the situation in 1621 when Capt. Myles Standish landed from a shallop with an exploring party of Plymouth Pilgrims that included the Indian guide Squanto (or Tsquantum), whose name was given to the peninsula that stuck out in the bay.

The tragic Chickatabot died not long after the Pilgrims' visit and he was succeeded as sachem by his son, Josiah Wampatuck, a boy who knew a good deal when he saw one.

Wampatuck sold what was left of his virtually deserted tribal lands to a group of whites for 12 pounds, 10 shillings. The lands included most of what is today the city of Quincy and the towns of Braintree, Randolph and Holbrook.

Moswetuset Hummock, identified by a marker stone and maintained in its natural state, is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

Adams Academy

On Site Of John Hancock's Birthplace

By modern standards, the boarding house at the corner of Hancock and Depot Sts. had all the aspects of a genteel prison.

Residents were forbidden to leave between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m. They could not enter or leave at any time except by the hall door. They were banned from pool halls and bars. Smoking materials also were forbidden to them.

In exchange for good behavior, plus tuition ranging from $75 to $150 a year, they were given the best prep school education of the day for they were students at Adams Academy, which flourished from 1872 to 1907 in Quincy.

The academy was a gift of John Adams, the second President of the United States, who always had his checkbook ready to fill the spiritual and educational needs of the citizens of his beloved Quincy.

The trust fund, nourished by "rents, profits and emoluments" from certain Adams-owned properties, was set up in the Adams will of 1822, but it was not until 1869 that the fund was deemed large enough to start construction.

The location was specified by Adams himself as the corner of Adams and Hancock Sts., site of the birthplace of his childhood friend, John Hancock, the first signer of the Declaration of Independence.

The doors opened to the first students, 24 of them, on Sept. 4, 1872. Five years later, the academy reached a peak enrollment of 154 with an international student body --25 from Quincy, four from Washington, D.C., 125 and 14 states, two from England and one from Chile.

It had one of the earliest prep school football teams, too, recording a tie with the Resolutes of Boston on Oct. 21, 1876, a scant seven years after Princeton and Rutgers played the first college game. It whipped Andover three times from 1877-79.

The admissions catalogue specified that applicants be "well prepared in the usual studies of good grammar schools" and warned that "no pupils are desired to give them a collegiate education."

The best known headmaster was Dr. William Everett, once acclaimed as one of the seven smartest men in the world. He ran the academy with a firm hand from 1878 to 1893 and again from 1897 to 1907. From 1893 to 1897, he was a U.S. congressman from Lynn.

Dr. Leverett, an aimable if sometimes waspish eccentric, was widely known as the man who hated Abraham Lincoln. He had reason. His father was Edward Everett, whose masterful oration at Gettysburg was over-shadowed by Lincoln's notes scribbled on the back of an envelope.

It was Dr. Everett who signaled the passing of Adams Academy -- and many other 19th Century classical prep schools -- at graduation exercises in 1907 when he said that "unless someone comes forward and planks down $50,000, the academy will be closed."

Nobody did and on June 22, 1907, the Adams Academy officially closed its doors.

The building today is occupied by the Quincy Historical Society, which maintains a museum and research library in the old classrooms. The museum is open all year, Monday through Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., and Saturday from 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., or by appointment. The library is open Monday & Wednesday from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., and Saturday from 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., or by appointment. There is no admission charge. It is closed Sundays and holidays.

John Adams Author

A Constitution Is Born In Quincy

"Voted, to send only one Delegate to represent them in the Convention appointed to be convened at Cambridge on the First day of September next for the purpose of Framing a New Constitution. Then the Honorable John Adams Esquire was chosen for that purpose."

Braintree Records,
Aug. 9, 1779

There is every reason to believe that the Honorable John Adams Esquire didn't really want to go.

He had arrived home only seven days before on the French frigate La Sensible after nearly 18 months in Paris helping to negotiate a commercial and military alliance with France. He was in such a rush to get home that he apparently landed the day before La Sensible reached Boston by rowing ashore from Nantasket Roads.

He missed his wife, Abigail, terribly, and she him.

"One was angry, another was full of Greif, and the third with Melancholy, so that I burnt them all," he wrote to her from Passy on Dec. 18, 1778, listing his complaints with her most recent letters. "If you write me in this style I shall leave of writing intirely, it kills me.

"Am I not wretched Enough, in this Banishment, without this? What Course shall I take to convince you that my Heart is warm? I beg you would never more write to me in such a strain for it really makes me unhappy."

"How lonely are my days?" she wrote on a Sunday evening, Dec. 27, "How solitary are my Nights? How insupportable the Idea that 3000 leagues, and the vast ocean now divide us -- but divide only our persons for the Heart of my Friend is in the Bosom of his partner."

Somewhere on the vast ocean the two letters passed each other.

Paris and the dissolute court of Louis XVI held small appeal to the Puritan in John Adams, even when his closest everyday companions were Dr. Benjamin Franklin, still with an eye for the ladies at age 73, and the swashbuckling Capt. John Paul Jones, half patriot, half pirate, who had just taken command of the leaky old East Indiaman he had renamed Bon Homme Richard.

The American colonies, newly reborn as the United States of America, were going through the most dismal period of the War for Independence. Inflation was rampant; butcher's meat, a dollar to eight shillings a pound; flour, fifty dollars a hundredweight. The news from the fighting front was of defeat, privation and horror.

Like many Braintree wives whose husbands were away at war, Abigail Adams was forced into the unaccustomed role of head of the household, a function she filled with determination.

"I cannot avoid sometimes repining that the gifts of fortune were not bestowed upon us, that I might have enjoyed the happiness of spending my days with my partner," she wrote, "but as it is, I think it my duty to attend with frugality and economy to our own private affairs; and if I cannot add to our little substance, yet see to it that it is not diminished."

She abstained from drinking black market tea, allowing herself one tiny complaint: "I should like a little green (tea), but they say there is none to be had here. I only wish it for a medicine, as a relief to a nervous pain in my head to which I am sometimes subject."

John Adams attended the opening session of the Constitutional Convention in Cambridge on Wednesday, Sept. 1, 1779. On Saturday, he was named to a committee of 30 to prepare the declaration of rights and the constitution. On Monday, the committee delegated the task to a subcommittee of three, John and Samuel Adams; and James Bowdoin.

Thus it was that John Adams wound up in the law office of his home at the foot of Penn's Hill, paired with his firebrand cousin, Sam, and his ailing friend, James Bowdoin, to write a Constitution for the state of Massachusetts, which in turn became the model for the Constitution of the United States.

The patient, hard-working John Adams, of course, did most of the work.

"I was by the Convention put upon the Committee -- by the Committee upon the subcommittee -- and by the subcommittee appointed a sub subcommittee -- so that I had the honor to be principal Engineer," he wrote to his friend, Edmund Jennings. Payroll records indicate that he was paid 90 pounds for his work.

The so-called "Adams draft" of the Massachusetts Constitution was accepted by the Convention with a few alterations but by that time John Adams was long gone back to Europe, this time to help negotiate a treaty of peace with Britain and serve as America's first minister to London. He did not see the farm at the foot of Penn's Hill again for another eight years.

But he was immensely heartened by these words from the pen of his ever-loving Abigail, written on Oct. 15, 1780:

"Our Massachusetts Constitution is read with admiration in New York and pronounced by the Royal Governor as the best republican form he ever saw."

Josiah Quincy Homestead

Lookout For Spying On British Ships

Abigail Adams stood with her great uncle, Col. Josiah Quincy, in a window of his mansion overlooking Wollaston Beach and watched the tall masts of 170 ships stand slowly out to sea. It was March 17, 1776. The British were evacuating Boston.

But even in triumph there was tragedy.

Aboard the departing ships were more than 1,000 Loyalists, Americans who had chosen King above country, and one of them was Abigail's cousin, Samuel Quincy, the Colonel's only remaining son, an avowed Tory.

"I take a long farewell," his sister, Hannah, wrote to him for one last time. "Let it not be published that a brother of such brothers fled from his country. Can you expect to walk uprightly now? Can you take fire in your bosom and not be burned?"

Two of Col. Josiah Quincy's sons had died young. Now he had no more.

But there was no time for regrets. The work of revolution had begun. The second floor of the house at what is now 20 Muirhead St., Wollaston, was a lookout from which the 66-year-old Colonel spied on British ship movements for his friend, Gen. George Washington.

A few months before, Col. Quincy watched the Royal Governor, Gen. Thomas Gage depart and he scratched on a pane of window glass the reminder: "Oct. 10, 1775, General Gage sailed for England with a fair wind."

This time he remained in the window for three days as the British tall ships moved restlessly about the Harbor as if reluctant to leave. Finally, on March 20, the last of them passed through the roadstead and out to sea.

The mansion in Wollaston reached full social flower under the aegis of the Colonel's grandson, the third Josiah, the "Great Mayor" of Boston, president of Harvard and Congressman, who called it "Tranquilla" and used it as his summer home.

It was there that the Marquis de Lafayette visited one Sunday afternoon after dinner with his friend, ex-President John Adams at the Adams Mansion. He carried flowers from the Adams garden for Mrs. Eliza Susan Quincy and her five attractive daughters.

The house was built in 1770 by the old Colonel himself, the first in a line of six Josiahs. It was said that, while most families passed their line from sire to son, the Quincys went from 'Siah to 'Siah.

But, while there were six Josiahs and innumerable Edmunds, the city was named for yet another member of the prolific family -- Col. John Quincy, the great grandfather of John Quincy Adams sixth president of the United States.

The Josiah Quincy Homestead is open to the public from June 1 to Oct. 15, Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday from 12 noon to 5 p.m. Visits may be made at other times by appointment. Admission is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children. Residents of Quincy are admitted free.

How Many Miles From Boston?

Stone mile markers across Hancock Street from each other indicate that the traveler is both 7 1/4 and 10 miles from Boston. And both are correct.

The 10-miles marker was placed on the Old Coast Road, one of the oldest highways in the United States still in existence, which went from Boston to Plymouth in 1639 by way of inland Milton.

The 7 1/4-mile marker was raised after the first bridge over the Neponset River was built in 1803, creating the Neponset Turnpike, which is today Hancock St. in North Quincy and Wollaston.

WRITING TABLE in old law office is spot where John Adams labored over his law cases in the John Quincy Adams Birthplace.

It Was Richard

For years, the first name of Capt. Wollaston, the leader of the original settlers of Quincy in 1625, was lost to history.

Only recently did the researches of H. Hobart Holly, historian of the Quincy Historical Society, turn up the information that it probably was Richard.

"That among these rights are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness"— Where else but in America can so many people's aspirations

On Trash Truck

7 Felled By Chemical Fumes

By DAN CONNELLY

Seven person were rushed to Quincy City Hospital Tuesday, felled by chemicals that leaked from bottles ruptured when compacted in a trash truck making pickups in Wollaston.

Deputy Fire Chief Thomas Gorman said the three man crew of a BFI trash truck was on Cheriton Rd., Wollaston, making its routine stops.

The men were unaware that one of the barrels they emptied outside a home contained the chemicals.

After being deposited into the well of the truck, the compactor was turned on. The compressor crushed the bottles and released the intoxicating fumes.

The truck crew, a Quincy police officer responding to the incident, and three women were subsequently felled by the fumes.

Held at Quincy City Hospital for further treatment are BFI employee Robert Callahan, 34, of Dorchester, and Lorraine Brennan, 37, of Quincy. She reportedly tried to wet down the escaping fumes with a garden hose.

Treated at the hospital were Frederick Ash, 37, of Weymouth, and Carl Cuhn, 51, of Dedham, both BFI employees.

Also treated there are Daniel Kennedy, 42, of Wollaston, first Quincy police officer on the scene, Ann Amendolare, 46, of Wollaston and Florence Flaherty, 56, of Wollaston. Deputy Fire Chief Gorman had the area sealed off and awaited the arrival of a hazardous material unit of the Boston Fire Department to respond and assist in neutralizing the area.

One of the chemicals is believed to have been a container of DDT.

'Being Blamed For GD's Errors'

Shipyard Union Says It Is Being Made Scapegoat

The president of the Shipbuilders union at General Dynamics shipyard in Quincy, charged this week his membership is being made the scapegoat for that corporation.

Dick Piccuito, of Quincy, who heads Local 5, AFL-CIO, Industrial Union of Marine & Shipbuilding Workers of America, said his union is today bearing the blame for the past errors of General Dynamics.

Piccuto, who has worked at the shipyard for 37 years, was referring to recent events which have resulted in 300 workers being laid off, and no major contracts in sight when the shipyard finishes the last of five military cargo ships next spring.

He also cited what he called the unwillingness of GD to be more competitive when bidding on future work, and noted nearly 3000 other workers face the loss of jobs in the future.

"The general public should realize that all of these events threaten the livelihood of over 4000 workers," he said. "Quincy shipyard has done a good job. We have built good ships and have in some cases built them under budget."

Piccuto, in responding to the July 11 meeting at Quincy City Hall in which yard workers and a group promoting alternative uses for the yard verbally clashed in a shouting match, said:

"I stand behind my members. We do not want our fate determined by people who know nothing about shipyards."

Piccuto was a patient at Quincy City Hospital on the day that the meeting was held.

Councillor Patricia Toland, who heads the Blue Ribbon Task Force on General Dynamics, said,

Sidewalk Bazaar: Good Buys, Good Fun

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

If you'd like to shop for bargains and be entertained at the same time, the 15th annual Sidewalk Bazaar in downtown Quincy is for you!

The three day event, which starts today (Thursday), will feature good buys as well as entertainment ranging from an organ grinder and monkey to celebrity look-alikes.

Mayor Francis McCauley will cut a ribbon today

(Thursday) at 10 a.m. at Granite and Hancock Sts. to officially open the annual bazaar.

The mayor, as well as Steven J. Gillig, QCBPA president, and Simone Rimani, last year's Miss Quincy Bay, will be driven from Quincy City Hall in an antique car chauffeured by Bob Barker of Quincy Type-writer Service.

At the ribbon cutting site, McCauley and Gillig will be joined by officers, directors and members of the QCBPA as well as a number of Miss Quincy Bay Beauty contestants.

The annual event is sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Hancock St. between School and Granite Sts., will be turned into a pedestrian mall as the street is blocked off to traffic. Merchants will display merchandise at brightly colored booths.

The Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant Friday at 9:05 p.m. at Quincy Center Plaza, will be the highlight of the festivities sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Thirty-one contestants will compete for the crown and the honor of reigning over Quincy Bay Race Week July 31 to Aug. 4.

More than $3,000 in prizes will be shared by the five finalists. The winner will receive the largest share.

Radio station WJDA will cover Sidewalk Bazaar activities live.

The Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant and other activities will be telecast live by Quincy Cablesystems Ch. 3.

Quincy Sun Ch. 8 will show highlights of the Sidewalk Bazaar and a preview and highlights of the Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant.

Robert Quinn Appointed Asst. City Solicitor

A 33-year-old Quincy lawyer with a general practice emphasizing real estate has been appointed assistant city solicitor by Mayor Francis McCauley.

Atty. Robert Quinn, whose office is at 111 Willard St., West Quincy, will be sworn in Monday, August 5, at 9 a.m. by City Clerk John Gillis.

Atty. Joseph A. (Jay) MacRitchie, who was recently promoted from assistant city solicitor to city solicitor, will also be sworn in.

Quinn, who lives at 117 Beach St., Wollaston, will fill the position vacated by MacRitchie.

McCauley said he has known Quinn for several years, and appointed him to the Quincy Commission on Handicapped Affairs where he was elected chairman.

The mayor said Quinn's practice will allow him sufficient time to devote to the $27,500 a year position with the city.

"He doesn't do a lot of trial work," said McCauley. "He has the type of practice he can work around."

"He knows the other members of the law office, and we're very pleased to have him on board," said McCauley.

"I look forward with great anticipation to serving the McCauley administration and the City of Quincy," said Quinn, a Boston native.

He emphasized that he intends to work with city departments and boards before legal problems arise, reiterating the sentiment of MacRitchie last week.

ROBERT QUINN

"I hope that my experience in the areas of real estate, election law and bankruptcy will be fully utilized for the benefit of the city," said Quinn.

Quinn is married to the former Mary E. Houston, vice president and immediate past president of the Quincy League of Women Voters, and sister of State

Coins Stolen

An undetermined amount of rolled coins was reported taken from a cash register at D'Angelo's, 480 Southern Artery.

Bethel Diehl of D'Angelo's told police glass in a side door was broken out.

Sen. John P. Houston (D-Worcester).

They have two daughters, Kathryn, 5½, who will enter first grade at the Parker School, and Elizabeth, 3.

Quinn has been engaged in private practice of law since December, 1977. He received his law degree in June of that year from Boston College Law School, Newton.

He also received a bachelor of arts degree from U. Mass/Amherst in June 1974, and was graduated from Catholic Memorial High School in June, 1970.

He served as an alternate to the 1984 Democratic State Convention, delegate to that convention in 1983, and is a member of the Massachusetts Fields School Neighborhood Committee and Quincy Lions Club.

Quinn is also a member of the Massachusetts Bar Association, Norfolk County Bar Association, Commercial Law League of America and Massachusetts Conveyancers' Association.

He is also a Democrat.

"That's o.k.," smiled McCauley, a Republican. "We can have an ecumenical administration."

Apartment

Break

Henry Benke of Sea St., reported to police that a gold chain with a cross worth $400, $50 in cash and a black briefcase with citizenship documents were stolen from his apartment.

RUTH HAGGERTY, long-time Squantum School principal who is leaving in August, was honored at a recent retirement party in the school's media center. An exhibit on "A Principal Is..." had students give their idea of Miss Haggerty's job. "A principal is someone who makes sure we have a good education and a safe school and even puts a band-aid on a cut when nobody else is around," wrote Michelle Disher, a fifth grader.

It's Your Barn-For The Razing

If anyone is more interested in razing than raising an antique wood barn then read on.

Bill and Madaline MacDonald would dearly love to have someone raze a wood barn on their property at 64 Mears Ave., Houghs Neck, which poses a potential hazard for their grandchildren.

So this is the deal they are willing to strike to whoever is interested:

"We would like to have someone come down and dismantle the barn and take all the wood away," said Madaline. "The only thing we want left is the foundation and flooring."

Later we plan to have someone put up a railing and turn it into a deck for picnic purposes, and a safe area of play for our grandchildren.

Mrs. MacDonald said the two-story clapboard barn is about 25-feet square (give or take a couple of feet). Back in 1901 a doctor had it built to house his horse and buggy. The second floor was a hayloft.

"Ten years ago when Bill and I moved to Houghs Neck we had all kinds of plans for renovating that barn. But Bill came down with an illness which eventually cost him his sight. Since then we have used the barn for storage," she said.

So, if anyone is more interested in razing than raising a wood barn they can contact the MacDonalds.

'Feet First' Diving Campaign

Quincy City Hospital's Emergency Room, Bay State Ambulance and the local McDonald's are "diving into" a campaign to get young swimmers to jump "Feet First, First Time" into any body of water.

The advice is meant as a simple but effective way to avoid spinal cord injuries. Quincy will be the first community in New England to start the program.

Information on Spinal Cord injuries will be given out at the Civil Defense booth at the Quincy Square Sidewalk Bazaar which begins today (Thursday).

There will also be coupons for Coca Cola and T-shirts for a Spinal Cord Injury Prevention Day Saturday, July 20, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at McDonald's, Hancock St., North Quincy.

Residents may bring a coupon from the local paper and receive a free Coke. For a $1 donation, a "Feet First, First Time, Prevent Spinal Cord Injuries" T-shirt will be given to the first 500 to arrive.

Mayor Francis McCauley will give out the first T-shirt. Tony Siciliano, deputy director of Quincy Civil Defense, will place "Feet First" signs where diving accidents are likely to occur in the Quincy area.

The "Feet First, First Time" program was begun in 1980 after seven teenagers who had become quadriplegic from diving accidents were admitted to West Florida Regional Medical Center, Pensacola, over one summer weekend.

The campaign proved successful in that area, and leaders of the 2,500 member Congress of Neurological Surgeons have pledged their support to spread the drive.

Focus of the program is to convince swimmers to jump—no dive—on the first plunge into any body of water, even if they're certain it's safe to dive.

Dr. James Katz, chairman of the Department of Emergency Medicine at Quincy City Hospital, said, "Every summer, we see two to three of these tragedies related to spinal cord diving accidents."

Dr. Katz said he hopes this will become a yearly project for public education.

National surveys put the number of spinal cord injuries at 10,000 to 15,000 each year, with between 1,000 and 2,000 injuries resulting from diving accidents.

Collins To Seek Re-election

You can stop wondering about what Mary Collins will be doing this election year.

She's going to be running for re-election to the School Committee.

She had given some thought — more than just a little — to running for the Ward 6 City Council seat being vacated by Joanne Condon to challenge Mayor Francis McCauley.

"But," she says, "I prefer to remain on the School Committee for at least one more term."

She will be seeking her third term.

Also up for re-election this year are Vice-Chairwoman Joan Picard and Nick Verenis.

There has been some speculation that Verenis might not run but latest indications are that he is very much a candidate for re-election.

Mrs. Collins' decision to seek re-election to the School Committee holds the Ward 6 City Council field to five: Thomas Koch, Thomas Smyth, Richard Sheridan, John Walsh and Thomas Gilmartin.

So far there is only one known School Committee challenger: Frank Santoro.

And no one else appears to be waiting in the wings.

SPEAKING of Mary Collins, she will have a new neighbor next month: Rep. Michael Morrissey.

Morrissey and his wife, Joanne, are leaving their Holyoke St. home and bought one next door to Collins. They expect to move in in August.

The Morrisseys, by the way, are also expecting their first little constituent in August, too.

So, Lansdowne St. in Squantum will have a state representative and a school committee member. It also has a former city councillor, J. Vincent Smyth, now superintendent of the city cemetery department.

Wonder how many streets have two current elected officials as residents?

JOANNE CONDON is confident she will be a winner in the Sept. 10 mayoral preliminary election. She says there is a good omen: that's the date of her daughter, Susan's, birthday who will turn 25.

CONDON

The Committee to Elect Condon will open its campaign headquarters Friday at 6:30 p.m. at 1248 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

WARD 6 City Council candidate John Walsh and his wife, Susan, got a surprise the other day. The baby they are expecting any day now is going to be babies. The doctor told them, it will be not one, but two — twins. They have a son, John, Jr. who will be two this month.

INCIDENTALLY, Susan's maiden name is Lydon. She used to have a vanity plate with that name but let the right to it elapse.

Now Ward 3 Councillor John Lydon is driving around with it.

Reader's Forum Support Civil Rights Restoration Act

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
Many of us take it for granted that it is illegal for an educational institution to discriminate against women.

However, that legal security has been eroded seriously and current efforts to restore it are being sabotaged.

A U.S. Supreme Court ruling in 1984 weakened civil rights legislation by saying that discrimination in federally funded institutions is legal, as long as it doesn't happen in the particular program or activity the government funded.

This ruling has serious repercussions for women, heretofore protected by Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972. Civil rights legislation for minorities, the aged, and the handicapped is also seriously threatened by the Court's limited interpretation.

Legislation is now under review which would restore Title IX and other equity laws to their prior effectiveness. Contact your Congressional representative to ask him to support the Civil Rights Restoration Act of 1985 and to oppose all amendments that jeopardize our rights.

Harold Proposes X-way Link To State Street South

State Sen. Paul Harold, D-Quincy, has proposed a new major traffic link for Quincy—direct access off the southeast expressway into the State Street South business complex in North Quincy.

Harold made his recommendation at a regional meeting July 11 at Quincy City Hall before a joint legislative committee on state transportation problems.

He proposes that $175,000 be included in the committee's $1.9 billion state transportation bond issue, to include a study and the preliminary design for an off-ramp in the vicinity of Neponset Circle.

Harold said this ramp will serve people trying to get into the State Street South business community without clogging West Squantum St., the residential section of Montclair, and the off-ramp that leads from the Neponset Bridge to a set of traffic lights at Hancock St.

Harold's reason for making the recommendation is a timely one. Within the next 10 days the MDC will be announcing it is taking over the Neponset Drive-In Theatre land.

"The ramp I am suggesting can be built on MDC land without infringing on that agency who has future recreational plans for that site," Harold said. "Also, DPW Commissioner Robert Tierney has given his initial approval for the project."

That July 11 meeting at Quincy City Hall was the fifth of nine scheduled regional public hearings to assist cities and towns with their own transportation projects.

The two-year transportation bond issue calls for the authorization of approximately $974 million on state funds. These state dollars generate an additional $1 billion in federal money.

Street Car Tracks Going To War

Purchasing Agent John T. Lane announced that at least 170 tons of old street car rails will be removed from Quincy streets this summer and turned over to the U.S. Government scrap drive.

Lane said the city will receive $14 a ton for the metal, more than $2,000 in all, which will be dug up by Works Progress Administration (WPA) workers and removed by private contractors.

"It was unfortunate that people had to shout in order to make their point."

"But I think everybody who was there grew to understand the other person's point of view a little more."

"Everyone understood that the shipyard workers' main concern was reduced wages. That's a legitimate concern."

"The conversion committee was trying to say that they would be looking for large scale production."

"Much of the meeting was unpleasant, but at the end, there was some understanding, some progress."

Mrs. Toland said her Blue Ribbon Task Force is scheduled to meet Aug. 1 at 2:30 p.m. in the second floor conference room at City Hall.

She said she has invited Gary Grimes, vice president-general manager of General Dynamics, to attend the meeting.

Evelyn Murphy, spokeswoman for General Dynamics said the shipyard will be closed down for its annual two week summer vacation the weeks of July 28 and August 4. The yard will resume full operation Monday, August 12.

'Where Is The Joy?' Sermon Topic At Bethany

During the summer at Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy center, there will be only one worship service at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

This Sunday, July 21, the Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach the sermon entitled, "Where Is The Joy?" based on the text in the Gospel of Luke 15:11-32. Connie Mikami will be the lay scripture reader.

Kevin Galie will be guest organist, and both the prelude and postlude will be from Bach's "Trio Sonata No. 4." Guest baritone soloist, Philip Brown, will sing as the offertory, Mendelssohn's "Be Thou Faithful," and as the second selection, "Be Not Afraid," by Bertrand Brown.

The Sacrament of Christian Baptism will be given to Nathaniel S. Austin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edman D. Austin (Lori-Ann Theriault). The Godparents will be Mr. and Mrs. Donald Austin.

The Church School is closed for the summer, however, nursery care for babies and toddlers is provided.

The service will be broadcast by delayed tape at 11 a.m. over radio station, WJDA, 1300 kc.

A fellowship hour will be held in the Allen Parlor at 11 a.m. following the worship service. Individuals and families from the community are cordially invited to share in both the worship and fellowship.

For additional information about Bethany's ministry and programs, contact the church office at 479-7300.

Healing Service At St. Chrysostom's Church

The Rev. Steven Crowson, Rector of Grace Episcopal Church, Salem, will preach Thursday, July 18 at 7:30 p.m. at the Healing Service at St. Chrysostom's Church, corner of Hancock and Linden Sts., Wollaston.

The Rev. William D. Underhill will be celebrant at the Eucharist.

Fr. Crowson, who spoke at St. Chrysostom's during Lent on the subject of "Healing in the Christian Tradition" and dwell on the wholistic concept of Christian healing, maintains an active healing ministry in Salem.

St. Chrysostom's Church holds Thursday evening healing service each month (August excepted).

Laying-on of hands with prayer for healing will be offered to all who wish to receive that ministry. Clergy and lay ministers will administer it.

Fr. Underhill, rector of St. Chrysostom's Church, has also announced that a fellowship time is held after the service, and that these services are open to everyone.

For further information call 472-0737.

'The Gift Of Hope' Topic At First Church Of Squantum

The second service at the First Church of Squantum Sunday was one of hope. Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin spoke of "The Gift of Hope" and shaped his prayers to that theme.

For the offertory, Janet and Lew Townsend sang the old favorite, "Whispering Hope." They were accompanied by organist Mary Ruth Scott.

In the first service Dr. Langevin continued his series of sermons on the novels of S.E. Hinton, preaching this time on the topic, "Two Ways of Life." The sermon was based on the story of Bryon and Mark, two characters in Hinton's novel, "That Was Then, This Is Now."

Scott Catton and David Williams were users in the early service; Harry Holmes and Stewart Scott were ushers in the second.

In the early service the hymns were accompanied by guitarists Andrew Ogilvie, David Williams and Mary Ruth Scott.

This Sunday there will be two services again: the guitar service at 8:30 a.m. and the traditional service at 9:30 a.m.

The annual summer Lawn Party at the First Church of Squantum will be held at the church Saturday, July 27, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The Lawn Party includes a small flea market and an outdoor cafe. The public is invited.

Rotary Club Grant Aids Child Safety Seat Program

The Quincy Rotary has awarded a $900 grant towards a new child car safety seat loan program sponsored by the American Red Cross.

According to Mrs. Daniel F. Shea, chairman of the Quincy based South Shore Regional Red Cross, the Kids In Safety Seats (KISS) program was created to rent safety seats to protect children riding in a motor vehicle. At present, only infant car safety seats are available for babies from birth to 30 pounds.

"South Shore Regional gratefully acknowledge Quincy Rotary for this $900 grant for the initial purchase of seats. They are a long-time friend and supporter of Red Cross and we deeply appreciate their interest in helping provide safe rides for children in the South Shore," Mrs. Shea said.

"South Shore Red Cross did two studies confirming its belief that a child car safety seat loan program is needed," added Mrs. Shea. Preparations for a baby are expensive and the added expense for a car safety seat can be financially difficult, if not impossible. In addition, there are families who would just like to rent a car safety seat for infants visiting from out-of-state."

The long-term rental of a seat for a newborn going home from a hospital is based on economic need and is conducted in collaboration with an area hospital. The maximum rental period is eight months. The short-term rental is available for babies visiting from out-of-state whose parents would rather not bring a car seat on commercial transportation if a seat can be rented at their destination. The maximum rental period for this is three weeks.

Families involved in the program will be in compliance with the 1981 Massachusetts Child Safety Passenger Law which requires all children under five years of age to be restrained in a properly adjusted car safety seat or seat belt.

First Presbyterian Bible School July 29

Margaret A. DeAngelo, 69, Patriot Ledger Writer

A funeral Mass for Margaret A. (Carline) DeAngelo, 69, a news writer for the Patriot Ledger, was celebrated July 13 in St. John's Church, Quincy Center.

Mrs. DeAngelo died July 10 in Quincy City Hospital after a short illness.

She had worked for the Patriot Ledger since 1969 in the dispatch, classified advertising and news departments.

A former English teacher at Quincy Vocational Technical High School, Mrs. DeAngelo wrote verses for memorial booklets and for the Rust Craft greeting card company. She also had been a traffic supervisor at the former Cranch Elementary School.

Wife of the late James V. DeAngelo, she is survived by a son, Guy F. DeAngelo of Beverly; a brother, Thomasine DelVecchio, both of Quincy; a brother, Felix Carline of Randolph, a sister, Rose Frano of Braintree; eight grandchildren; several nieces and nephews and special friend L. Robert Arth.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery, West Quincy.

Funeral arrangements were by Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., Quincy.

Edward Gentile, 62, Retired Police Detective

A funeral Mass for Edward "Eddie" Gentile, 62, a Quincy native and retired Quincy police detective, will be said today (Thursday) at 10 a.m. in St. John's Church, Quincy Center.

Mr. Gentile died Monday in New England Medical Center in Boston after a long illness.

In 1973, while Gentile was awaiting a kidney transplant, a "friendship evening" was held at Lantana's in Randolph and attended by 750 of his friends and relatives.

He received a kidney transplant successfully on Sept. 5, 1973 at New England Medical Center.

He had worked for the Quincy Police Department for 33 years, starting as a patrolman in 1948. He was appointed detective in 1952 and remained until his retirement in March, 1981.

He was involved in many famous cases, including the Bonomi murder in Quincy in which he was the arresting officer.

He was also employed at Child World in Quincy

Square for 20 years.

He was a World War II Army veteran and a member of Morrisette Legion Post. He was also a member of the All State Retired Police and Firefighters, the South Quincy Bocce Club, and the 92 Club of Quincy.

He is survived by his wife, Anna (Ramirez) Gentile; two daughters, Carole Ann Fucillo of Canton and Rosemarie Gentile of Braintree; a brother, Richard G. Gentile of Quincy; four sisters, Violet DiTommaso of Quincy, Margaret Paige of Winthrop, Mary Gohage of Brockton and Antoinette DiBona of Quincy; and two grandchildren.

Burial will be in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Visiting hours were scheduled for 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday at Bolea-Bunfiglio Funeral Home, 116 Franklin St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the National Kidney Foundation, 344 Harvard St., Brookline, 02146.

William J. Martin, 85 Former Bank President, Civic Leader

A funeral service for William J. Martin, 85, former president and chairman of the South Shore National Bank of Quincy, and national leader in the fight against tuberculosis, was held Wednesday at the Bethany Congregational Church.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, pastor and the Rev. Dr. Peter V. Corea, pastor of Houghs Neck Congregational Church, officiated.

Mr. Martin died Sunday at South Shore Hospital after a short illness.

He was born and educated in Quincy. He attended Pace and Pace Institute, Boston University, Emerson School of Oratory and the American Institute of Banking.

He began his 58-year career with the South Shore National Bank (formerly called the Granite Trust Co.) as a messenger in 1917. He served as bank clerk until he was named assistant treasurer in 1921 and then treasurer six years later.

He served as director of the bank from 1929 to 1966; vice president from 1931 to 1935; executive vice president from 1935 to 1940; president from 1940 to 1965; and chairman of the board from 1965 until his retirement in 1975.

Mr. Martin was involved in the campaign against tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases from both the local and national levels. He served as president of the National Tuberculosis and Health Association, the Massachusetts Tuberculosis and Health League Inc., the Norfolk County Tuberculosis and Health Association and the Quincy Tuberculosis and Health Association from 1940 to 1942.

In 1963, the National Tuberculosis Association, now called the National Lung Association, awarded him a certificate "in recognition for the outstanding leadership in the fight against tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases."

He received the Quincy B'nai Brith Annual Brotherhood Citation for his dedication and devotion to the National Tuberculosis Association in aiding victims of tuberculosis and respiratory diseases and for his many years of unselfish work with the South Shore Council of Churches and Quincy City Hospital.

He was a member of the executive council of the Massachusetts Bankers Association, a director of the Howard D. Johnson Co. restaurant chain, an overseer of Old Strubridge Village, a corporate member of the Morgan Memorial, president of the South Shore Council of Churches and chairman of the board of managers at Quincy City Hospital.

He was a member of the Elks, the Masons, the Quincy Neighborhood Club and the Algonquin Club in Boston.

He is survived by his second wife, Grace D'Angelo Settimelli; a daughter, Marilyn Smith of Quincy; five grandsons and three great-grandchildren. He was the husband of the late Marjory (England) Martin and the father of the late William J. Martin, Jr., the former president of South Shore Bank of Quincy who died of cancer in 1971 at the age of 35.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery, Quincy.

Funeral arrangements were by Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., Quincy.

Donations in his memory may be made to the American Heart Association.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:
Do not confuse compassion with pity or sentimentality. There is a difference between showing compassion toward someone and showing pity or sentimentality. The word compassion comes from two Latin words meaning "to suffer with." It can be said that compassion is something which stands before the bad situations in life and does something about them. It also can be said that pity and sentimentality are simply emotions which do not necessarily lead to action. Jesus continually showed compassion in His words and in His deeds. When Jesus saw men sick, He had compassion on them and healed them. Isn't it true that sentimental cries of sorrow about misfortunes are of very little value? Isn't it true that the Christian person shows compassion when he "suffers with" another person and then takes action to help him in his time of trouble?

Quincy's Babe Ruth Stars Win District Title

Quincy's American League all-stars are the undefeated District 4 Babe Ruth League champions and will play in the state tournament starting today (Thursday) at 5:30 at Lynn's Fraser Field.

Quincy meets the Cape Cod District 7 champion today and will play its second game Saturday at 11 a.m. if it loses tonight or at 8 p.m. if it wins tonight.

Quincy came from behind to edge Braintree, 7-6, last Thursday to claim the district title and finish unbeaten in the tournament.

Quincy jumped off to a 2-0 lead over Braintree in the first inning with Jay Lespasio and Kevin Duffy having key hits.

Wildness plagued starter Bill McDougall and Quincy fell behind, 3-2, after two innings. Ron Fletcher relieved McDougall in the second and Quincy tied it at 3-3 in the fourth on Bill Mulhern's hit.

Braintree regained the lead, 5-3, in the fourth but Quincy fought back to tie at 5-5 in the sixth as Mulhern again had the big hit.

Braintree went ahead, 6-5, in the bottom of the sixth on a crazy-hop ground rule hit, but Quincy, in the top of the seventh, had Duffy on third and Gary Silverman on second with two outs and two strikes on Mulhern. For the third straight time Mulhern delivered a clutch hit to put Quincy up, 7-6. Sean Gately followed with a booming double that rolled under the center field fence and Mulhern was held at third on the ground-rule hit, and stayed there.

The drama continued in the bottom of the inning. McDougall returned to the mound and walked the first batter, who promptly stole second. With the game on the line, McDougall pitched brilliantly, striking out the next two batters and retiring the last on an infield out.

Fletcher was the winning pitcher with five innings of relief.

Cablesystems Junior Champs

Warren, Gallagher Hurl No-Hitters

Quincy Cablesystems clinched the Junior Baseball League's American League title with a 12-8 victory over Keohane's, finishing one game ahead of Bryan VFW.

However, it was Burgin Plainer's Billy Warren who stole the show last week as he pitched a no-hitter and struck out 16 of 18 batters in a 20-0 romp over Kiwanis. It was Warren's final game as a Junior Leaguer.

Ralph Bevilacqua had a grand slam homer and a single and drove in six runs, Mike Gatea had a homer and single and four RBI and Mark Kelleher, Brian Doherty, Joe Foley, Mike Sweeney, Mike Malvesti, Peter White and Tom Balzano had two hits each.

In Cables' title-clinching win over Keohane's, Gary Rawdon and Mike Baylis pitched three innings each, Rawdon striking out five and walking one and Baylis fanning four, giving him 93 on the season. Sal Mangano led the attack with four hits, four RBI and three runs scored, Mike McDonald had three singles, Pat Gallagher two, Tony Stafford a double and single and Rawdon and Baylis a single each. Baylis scored three runs and stole two bases. Joe Check made another outstanding catch in right field and Mike Kavanaugh, Mike Wood, Chris Murray and Aiden O'Donoghue played well.

For Keohane's Rich Kissell had three hits and Tom Ridge and Pat Shea two each.

Gallagher pitched a no-hitter, struck out seven, gave up no walks and faced only 19 batters, one over the limit, as Cable blanked the Elks, 6-0.

Cable scored three runs in the first when O'Donoghue singled, Baylis homered, Rawdon tripled and Stafford singled. It added three in the third when Baylis doubled and Rawdon, Chris Peck and McDonald singled. Check, Kavanaugh and Jason April all made fine defensive plays.

Cable romped over a National League leader Houghs Neck, 11-1, as Baylis threw a one-hitter. The only hit came in the first inning by George Rosentis. Baylis struck out eight, giving him 89 on the season, and walked only one.

Gallagher and Baylis each went 3-for-4, Stafford had two doubles, Baylis driving in four runs, Stafford had two doubles, Rawdon a double, McDonald a double and Mangano, Peck and Kavanaugh a single each. Chris Murray and Mike Wood played well. Dave Gamsby had a good game for Houghs Neck.

The annual all-star game will be played Friday night at 7:30 at McCoy Field.

Junior Championships At Quincy Tennis Club

Brockton's Chris Langway won the boys' 16 and under title last weekend in the South Shore Junior B championships at the Quincy Tennis Club.

Langway used a steady and patient game to defeat Quincy's Neal Nigro in the semifinals, 6-4, 7-5, before defeating Somerset's David Sullivan in the finals, 6-3, 0-6, 6-0. Sullivan had upset the tournament favorite, Stuart Abloh of Chestnut Hill.

Sarah Tierney of Norfolk won her third straight junior B title, winning a hard-fought, three set match over North Reading's Anna Newbers in the semifinals before topping Marlene Kalinowski of East Lyme, Conn., in the finals, 6-1, 6-4.

Kate Butler of Riverside, Conn., made it a successful visit to Quincy with two three-hour, three-set marathon wins over Jennifer Manning of Saugus in the semifinals and Norton's Jackie Dooley in the finals for the girls' 14 and under crown.

Kingston's Dan Rakaukas upset Quincy's Steve Maloney and Weymouth's

Jonathan Yalowchuk en route to the boys' 14 and under title.

The Quincy Tennis Club hosts four New England Lawn Tennis Association championship tournaments each summer. The next event is the South Shore Championships Friday through Sunday, July 19-21.

Patriots Do Well In Midwest Tourney

The Mass. Patriot volleyball teams, featuring several Quincy players, recently spent two weeks in the Midwest, each team playing over 50 games in national championship tournaments.

The US Volleyball Association championships in St. Joseph's, Missouri, were the first stop. The 17 and under squads were divided into a senior and junior team.

The Mass senior team, with Quincy's Colleen Dunn and Karen Marnell, placed 17th after taking second in its pool, defeating Summit City, Indiana, 15-10, 15-9; West Suburban, Illinois Express, 15-5, 15-6; SPRI II, Illinois, 15-9, 17-15, and West Los Angeles Red, 15-8, 15-3. The Patriots lost to North Country, Minn., 4-15, 9-15, and in a playoff game, lost to Kalamazoo, Mich., to take 17th place.

The Junior team, with Quincy's Mario LeVangie, placed 35th, defeating Golden Bear, Calif., 16-14, 15-13, but losing to SPRI I, Illinois, 2-15, 3-15; Smash, Ill., 11-15, 9-15; Circle City, Ind., 7-15, 3-15, and Rogin Cajuns, La., 7-15, 7-15.

The 15 and under team, with Quincy's Lauren Standing, finished 23rd. The team placed third in its pool, defeating Santa Barbara, Calif. 15-9, 15-2; Carolina Juniors, 15-6, 15-8; Sports Physical Therapy, New Mexico, 15-8, 15-1, splitting with Davis, Fla., 15-17, 15-7, and losing to Spikettes of Illinois, 12-15, 10-15. In consolation round action the Patriots made it to the semifinals before losing to 2nd City, Ill., 15-11, 11-15, 11-15, to finish 23rd overall.

The 13 and under squad, with North Quincy's Debbie Panaro and Deirdre

Murphy and Squantum's Erin Murray, finished 19th. In double pool play action, the Patriots lost three out of four games to Neris of Chicago, 7-15, 0-15, 5-15, 15-11, and against San Diego the Patriots won, 15-10, 15-4, 15-9, and lost 6-15. Against Los Altos, Calif., Mass. lost, 1-15, 4-15, 1-15, 5-15, and Against Alamo 7, Texas, split, winning 15-8, 15-7 and losing, 12-15, 14-16. In consolation play Mass. lost to Alamo 8, 2-15, 9-15.

The second step was Lisle, Ill., for the AAU Junior Olympics.

The Patriots' seniors placed ninth, defeating Cincinnati, 15-11, 15-9; UNO, Ill., 14-16, 16-14, 15-13, and losing to Kalamazoo, 4-15, 1-15.

The juniors placed 33rd, the 15 and under team finished 17th and the 13 and under team placed 23rd.

The 13 and under team defeated 2nd City, Ill., 15-2, 15-0, and the Spikers of Ohio, 15-5, 15-6. The team lost to Neris, 1-15, 9-15, and to St. Louis, 11-15, 11-15. In a playoff the team lost to Chaska, MN., 15-4, 6-15, 13-15.

The last stop was LaGrange, Ill., for the FLVBN tournament, a club tournament based on a more informal atmosphere than the larger championship events.

The senior team won, the juniors were fourth.

Mario LeVangie was named to the all-star team in the 17 and under group.

The 15 and under team finished fourth and the 13 and under team seventh.

Squantum's Erin Murphy also was named to the all-tournament team in the 13 and under group.

The Patriots wish to thank all those who contributed to making their trip a success.

Wollaston Ousted In Legion Playoffs

The New Bedford Junior Legion baseball team parlayed a walk and two hits off Lefty George Denneen into two runs in the eighth inning and a 5-3 victory that eliminated Wollaston, the Zone 6 champions, from the state playoffs.

Wollaston scored all its runs in the fifth inning when Ed Gildbody walked, Ed Densmore singled and Joe Crowley also walked to load the bases. Bruce Nogueira then lofted a high fly behind second base and all three runners scored when the ball fell safely.

Wollaston, which was forced to play six tournament games in six days, lost the opener of the series to the team from the Whaling City by a score of 8-6 despite a double and two singles by Bob Mullen and a home run by Nogueira.

The Wollaston lineup for the two games included: Densmore ss, Crowley cf, Elkhill p, Nogueira 2b, Mullen 3b, Breingan p, Spooner c, Denneen p, Collidge lb, Woodworth lf, Gildbody, rf, Rizzo 3b.

The Wollaston team earned the right to face New Bedford by whipping Brookline, two games to one with one tie, winning the final game 8-2 as Denneen pitched a seven-hitter and his teammates scored five runs in the first inning.

PONIES TRIPPED

Quincy's Pony League All Stars were eliminated from regional playoffs, 7-3, after running into an exceptional pitching performance by Brockton's Bill Frawley who pitched a perfect game for the first six innings, allowed two hits in the seventh and struck out 14.

Quincy's only runs came in the seventh and final innings when Jack Isbister walked, Bob Densmore singled and Dave Maglio blasted a home run over the fence at the 275-foot mark.

ELEVENTH RACE WEEK

John Bowen's Cayuga drifted through a windless final leg to capture the last race but Bob Dalrymple's Tecumseh, finishing second, had piled up enough points in previous contests to win top honors among the Indians for the 11th annual Quincy Bay Race Week.

BOWEN QUALIFIES

Wollaston's Charlie Bowen fired an 82-77-159 in the qualifying round at Winchester to finish in a 17th place tie and qualify for the 44th State Amateur Golf Tournament. Billy McCarthy, with a 164, and Dick Meehan, both of Wollaston, failed to qualify.

MCGEE STARS

Larry McGee, one of the outstanding Little Leaguers on the South Shore, pitched a four-hitter and belted a home run and two doubles as his Kiwanis team defeated Granite Trust, 9-2, and tightened up the race in the Quincy Service Club League race.

SPORTS BITS '52

Jim Nathanson of Quincy was among four members of the Harvard sailing team who were awarded major H's for their victory in the national dinghy championships in Toledo in June . . . Ron DiGravio pitched a three-hitter as B'nai B'rith whipped Rotary 8-4 in Little League play . . . Al Taylor of Quincy defeated Johnny Gikas of North Weymouth in the evening wrestling show at the Chateau Ballroom, Nantasket Beach, and was immediately signed to take on Ed Muise of Waltham . . . Al Elkhill's one-hitter enabled the Wollaston Junior Legion team to smother Quincy, 11-0, as three Quincy pitchers gave up only four hits but 12 bases on balls . . . Al Benton relieved 19-year-old rookie Dick Brodowski and protected a 7-5 Boston Red Sox win over the Chicago White Sox at Fenway Park . . . Morrisette Junior Legion spotted Weymouth a 12-3 lead at the end of two innings, then came back with 12 runs in the third and fourth and went on to secure a 15-15 tie . . . Bob Kirkland sailed Bob Booth's Huma to victory over Jim Smollett in the Smith sisters' Sea Breeze in the Massachusetts Bay Hustler Class of the Twilight Series Race at Quincy Yacht Club . . . Charlie Bowen was eliminated from the state amateur golf tournament in the opening round of match play, bowing to Henry Ferry of Meadow Brook in an extra hole . . . Ronnie Frongello, the former North Quincy High School pitching star, signed a contract with the Cleveland Indians to play for their Daytona Beach farm club in the Florida State League next season.

Jaehnig Club Upset By Hurricanes

The Hurricanes upset the Jaehnig Chiropractic Club of Quincy, 44-38, in the South Shore Sports Center Men's Summer Basketball League, to tie Jaehnig for second place with a 2-1 record.

The Hurricanes, who were led by Michael White, outshot and outthrust the Jaehnig Club in the second half, breaking a 20-20 halftime tie.

Mark Jaehnig had nine points for Jaehnig. Rich McGuire eight, Chuck Jaehnig seven, Pudge Gill five, Mike Venna five and Pete Gray and Paul Principato two each. Gray and Mike Jaehnig played outstanding defense.

The standings: J.B. Heating, 2-0; Jaehnig, 2-1; Hurricanes, 2-1; Hawks, 1-1; North Quincy, 1-1; John Hancock, 1-1; Gunners, 1-1; Jetsons, 1-1; Beer Bellies, 0-2; Purple Reign, 0-2.

Morrisette Rolls On, Wollaston Edged

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Morrisette Legion baseball team continued its march toward a 23rd Zone 6 championship Saturday when it edged Milton, 3-2, in a makeup game, improving its record to 11-3.

Wollaston dropped to 7-8 when it lost a tough 6-5 decision to Zone 6-B leader Randolph Monday night. Randolph improved to 12-3.

Morrisette was scheduled to play at Dorchester Monday night but due to the condition of the field, the umpires refused to let the game go on. It was unknown at press time if Morrisette would be awarded a forfeit win or the game will be replayed.

Morrisette will host Randolph tonight (Thursday) at 8 o'clock at Adams Field in a makeup game, will meet Quincy Friday night at 8 at Adams, will play Mass. Truck in another makeup game Sunday at 2 o'clock at Strong Field in East Bridgewater, will play at Randolph Monday at 6 and finish the regular season next Wednesday against Canton at 8 at Adams.

Wollaston will play Mass. Truck in Weymouth Monday at 6 and will host Carter Post of Dorchester Tuesday at 8 at Adams.

Quincy, which fell to 1-12 last week, will host Morrisette Friday night at 8 at Adams, will be home to Carter Post Monday at 8 at Adams and will play at Holbrook next Wednesday night at 8:30.

Morrisette pulled out a 3-2 win over Milton in the last inning Saturday in one of the best games of the season.

Chris Bunker pitched all the way for Morrisette and did some gutsy pitching, while Chris Marshall saved two runs with a leaping catch at second base. Tom Ryan had a key hit and Jack Bolster drove in the winning run in the bottom of the seventh with a long drive to the fence in left-center field at Adams Field.

Bunker and Milton's top pitcher, Pat Fitzgerald, pitched out of one jam after another. There were base runners in every inning as Bunker (2-1) gave up seven hits and three walks and Fitzgerald allowed only five hits but gave up seven walks.

Milton scored an unearned run in the first but Morrisette tied it in the second with an unearned run. Tom Connolly walked, stole second and the throw from the catcher went into short left field. As the fielders were deciding who would pick the ball up, Connolly scored.

In the third, with runners at second and third and two outs, Marshall made his leaping grab of a liner headed for right-center, saving Morrisette's bacon.

Morrisette went ahead in the sixth when Connolly walked, took second on a passed ball and scored on Ryan's sharp single to right.

Milton tied it in the top of the seventh when, with two outs, Guy Remmes singled and scored on Fitzgerald's triple to center as the center fielder misjudged the ball.

In the bottom half Marshall walked and Bolster, who was weakened by a bug and had been held hitless, belted a drive that hit the fence one hop to drive in the clincher. Paul Ratti had two hits and Rich Brooks the other one for Morrisette.

Friday night Morrisette defeated Holbrook, 9-2, with Jack Outerbridge getting the win with four innings of strong relief after starter John Christiani suffered an elbow injury and had to leave the game. Outerbridge allowed two hits, walked two and struck out three to earn his first win.

Morrisette scored three runs in the first, four in the third and single runs in the second and sixth to win going away. Brooks had two singles and three RBI, Connolly a single and two RBI, Bunker an RBI single and Ryan an RBI single. Marshall had two hits and an RBI. Brooks, the regular catcher, filled in at third base for the ill Bolster and Rob McDonald, the young backup catcher, did an excellent job.

The previous night, in a makeup game, Morrisette easily defeated Quincy, 10-1, collecting 13 hits, only one for extra bases. Larry Taglieri pitched all the way, giving up five hits and a walk to improve his record to 4-1.

Marshall, Bunker, Denis Cronin and Connolly each had two hits. Bunker, Cronin and Connolly drove in two runs apiece and Marshall, Ryan and Taglieri each drove in one.

Quincy scored its run in the fifth on an error and singles by John McArdle and Joe Palmariello. Palmariello was the starting pitcher but was hard and was relieved after five innings.

Earlier in the week Morrisette had its only bad game of the year and was bombed by Braintree, 13-1. Braintree had 10 hits and 10 walks.

Bunker, Ratti and Mike Joyce all had their troubles on the mound and only Outerbridge, who pitched an inning and two-thirds of scoreless ball, had any luck.

Ted Novio, Braintree's outstanding 15-year-old righthander, pitched two-hit ball for six innings. Bolster and Bunker had the only hits off Novio. Morrisette averted a shutout when Ryan reached on a fielder's choice and scored on Chris Ricciutti's double in the last inning.

Wollaston hopped off to a 4-0 lead in the first inning Monday at Randolph, thanks to walks and a key single by Tom Logan.

Randolph scored a run in the bottom half and tied it up with three runs in the second. Chris Rossi drove in a run in the fifth to put Wollaston ahead, but Pat Madden hit a towering home run to center in the sixth to tie it for Randolph.

In the bottom of the seventh the first Randolph batter hit a routine fly which was dropped for a two-base error and the next batter hit one through the shortstop's legs as the winning run scored.

"It was a tough one to lose and our pitcher, John Comeau, deserved better," said assistant coach Kevin Cahill, who handled the team.

"We are 6-4 in our last 10 games and the last three losses were by one run. Tonight Comeau pitched well and, for the most part, we played well defensively."

Wollaston defeated Milton, 4-2, as pitcher Comeau walked with the bases loaded in the fourth to put Wollaston on the board after Milton had taken a 2-0 lead on a Wollaston error with the bases loaded. Dave Tocchio tied it when he scored on a wild pitch in the fifth and Tocchio drove in the two winning runs. Comeau went the distance for the win.

Wollaston also topped Dorchester, 6-4, with Rossi delivering a bases-loaded triple in the sixth for one of only three Wollaston hits. Steve Higgins pitched six innings, allowing five hits and striking out 12. Higgins and Tocchio had the only other hits as the game was halted by darkness after six innings.

Triple A All-Star Game

The Triple A Baseball game will hold its annual all-star game Saturday at 4 p.m. at Mitchell Field.

The Indians added to their league lead with a 6-3 victory over the Pirates as winning pitcher Mike Picariello pitched a one-hitter and struck out 12. Losing pitcher Matthew Ryan also had 12 strikeouts. Dave Jolley had a key double for the Indians.

The Mets topped the Tigers, 5-2, with Richie Tilton the winning pitcher, striking out nine. Tilton also had two doubles and a single, Steve DesRoche two doubles and a triple and Peter Sullivan a double and single. For the Tigers Chris Lewis and Brian Contrino had doubles.

The Pirates defeated the Mets, 11-8, with Brian Davis the winning pitcher. Ryan had two doubles, Kevin Hirtle a double and single, Jason Radzevich two singles and Brian Davis a double for the Pirates. Center fielder Danny Melzard made a great throw to nail a runner at the plate. For the Mets DesRoche had three singles, Samson Lee three singles and Sullivan a double.

Hirtle was the winning pitcher and had a grand slam homer, a double and three singles and drove in eight runs as the Pirates rolled over the Braves, 20-6, scoring 11 runs in the third inning. Brian Davis had a double and three singles, Mark Luggelle a double and single and Mark McGillicuddy two singles. For the Braves Brendon Toland had a homer and triple and Paul Murphy two singles.

The Indians blasted the White Sox, 14-0, with winning pitcher Bobby Fitzpatrick striking out 14. Terry McCarthy had three singles, Picariello a homer and single, Andy Colleary and Sean Cleary two singles each, Paul Colleary a double and Patrick Lydon, who made two outstanding catches in center field, a double.

The standings: Indians, 14-3; Mets, 11-5; Tigers, 8-8; Pirates, 8-8; Braves, 5-12; White Sox, 2-12.

Readers' Theatre Workshop At Thomas Crane Library

The Thomas Crane Public Library is looking for children, eight to 12 years old, interested in acting in a short play which will be performed in front of an audience and videotaped for showing on Quincy Community Television.

If this sounds like a challenge and fun besides, join the Readers' Theatre Workshop which will be held at the Adams Shore Branch Library for six weeks beginning July 16.

Paula Sitarz, former children's librarian at the Central Library, will conduct the workshop, assisted by Lori Seeger, children's librarian at the branch library.

Each child who participates in the workshop will be assigned a role in the play and may also become involved in prop making and other aspects of play production.

Interested children may sign up at any library unit or call Lori Seeger at 471-2400 for further information.

Neil Borden In 'The Music Man'

Neil Borden of Quincy will appear in the Curtin Call Theatre production of "The Music Man" July 26 and 27 and Aug. 2 and 3 at the theatre clubhouse, corner of Commercial and Faxon Sts., Braintree. All performances will begin at 8 p.m.

Borden will play Tommy Dijas, the town "bad boy," in the play which is set in River City, Iowa.

WEEK OF: JULY 18,

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
Week has a lighthearted mood; you can accomplish much if you don't take yourself too seriously. Pets may be in the weekend picture; perhaps you play godparent to man's best friend.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
Deceptive trend is at work; although higherup may be in a light hearted mood, your performance is taken quite seriously. Romance situation stabilizes. Financial news needs clarification.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
Selection is the keyword now. You have an unusually high number of options; the key is in making the appropriate choices. Romance and friendship dominate the weekend.

TAURUS - April 21-May 21
Arranging priorities is your key task; examine goals and organize them according to importance. Children figure prominently in the picture; give them as much special time as possible.

GEMINI - May 22-June 21
Good week for laying the groundwork for upcoming tasks. If making a commitment, especially in romance, it's wise to rehearse first. Sur prise visitors arrive on the weekend.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
Accent is on taking on new hobbies or learning new skills. Communications improve; you can get a direct line to a senior person. Celebrities are in the week's picture.

LEO - July 23-August 22
Spotlight is on reunions and patchups. Family powwows lead to improved relationships with older and younger relatives. Love life perks up after the weekend.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
Plans are rearranged and appointments rescheduled during this rapid-paced week. Career path may take a new turn. Avoid impulsive decisions that relate to job, family or education.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
Youngsters help boost your confidence while older relatives see you as a role model. Follow-ups are all-important. Collect overdue promises and promptly return calls and letters.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
A friend's candid comments may sting at first but listen closely to the message while trying to ignore the criticism. If offering criticism yourself, diplomacy is the byword.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
Thursday-Friday find you confronted with multiple challenges, at home and at the workplace. Weekend offers chance for reconciliation. Moneybells needs tightening from Monday on.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
Thursday-Sunday are dotted with coincidences, make the most of them. Monday-Wednesday offer opportunity for earning extra cash. Imaginative approach can lead to a bonus.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You have an instinct to help others, but the key this year is to allow friends and families to assert their independence. Meanwhile, promote your own talents. Travel and adventure are highlighted through much of the next eight months.

BORN THIS WEEK

July 18th, actor Red Skelton; 19th, singer Vicki Carr; 20th, actress Diana Rigg; 21st, actor Don Knotts; 22nd, actor Orson Bean; 23rd, singer Rudy Rinaldi; 24th, actress Ruth Buzzi.

Koch Club To Hold Parents, Awards Night

Police Club Raps Bank Of N.E., 20-8

After losing a surprising two games in a row before the all-star break, the first place Quincy Police Club got back on track with an easy 20-8 victory over Bank of New England Hancock in the Babe Ruth League.

The Police started off with seven runs in the first inning and pitcher T. J. Steen struck out nine in only four innings. He allowed only one hit and no runs.

The Police needed only one hit to score its seven runs in the first, the lone hit being a single by Michael Ainsley. In the second Ainsley singled as did Wayne Chambers and Steen hit a towering home run as the Police led, 11-0, after two innings.

Police continued to take advantage of errors and walks and added three runs in the fourth with no hits.

Hancock got on the board with two in the fifth on hits by Mark Lindenfelzer and Bob Higgins, but the Police came right back in the bottom of the inning with two as Ainsley collected his third hit and scored on Billie Bellew's double. Jeff Calvert doubled in Bellew.

Hancock scored three runs in the sixth when Chris Higgins reached on an error and scored, Bob Higgins and Chris Abate walked and were driven home by Chris LaForest's single.

Police finished up with two in the bottom half when Dan Overby, who had an outstanding game, singled, Steen doubled and Chambers and Bellew drove in the runs with singles.

Hancock scored twice in the top of the seventh on Hank Miller's single and several walks.

Mike Cronin made several key plays at second for the Police. Tom Roberts and Jim Ward played fine defense. Jeff Calvert made his first appearance as catcher and did well and Rick Ames and Chambers pitched well in relief of Steen.

For Hancock Miller went two-for-three, Kevin Daly, Mike Bertrand and Jamie Tapper played well in right field and 13-year-old Kevin MacDougall turned in a respectable pitching job in relief of Chris Higgins.

Bryan Post VFW defeated the Elks, 7-1, behind Rob Cinquegrano's outstanding pitching. He allowed just one unearned run and didn't walk a batter. Catcher Jay Rodriguez played a fine defensive game.

Cinquegrano and Rodriguez had a triple and single, Bill Mulken had two hits and Mark Molloy and Ron Fletcher had singles. Bryan's infield played strong defense, with Gary Silverman, Fletcher, Mulken and Sean Murphy playing errorless ball and turning two double plays, just missing a third. Chris Standing, Brian O'Malley, Jamie Greene and Sean Mulken also played well.

Bob Murtomer had two singles for the Elks.

The Broadmeadows District of the Koch Club Boy's Baseball and Girl's Softball Leagues will conduct the 24th annual Parents and Awards Night on Tuesday, July 23, at 6:30 p.m. at the Broad Meadows Junior High School Field located at 50 Calvin Road, Quincy. The rain date is Thursday, July 25.

The Koch Club Boys Baseball and Girls Softball Leagues are commemorating the 35th anniversary of this popular spring and summer recreation program conducted at four neighborhoods in the city each year.

The district, division and adult volunteers have made three and one half decades of success possible by working in unison with the boys and girls along with the fathers and mothers with enjoyment the most important feature and competition secondary.

The Koch Club of Quincy is celebrating its 37th anniversary and the Broad Meadows District was founded 24 years ago by Anthony T. Delmonico, Broad Meadows District director. Delmonico has been associated with the Koch Club for 26 years, spending two years with the North Quincy District before returning to his own area to form the Broad Meadows District in 1962. Tony and Gerry Delmonico have been instrumental in providing wholesome recreational enjoyment for thousands of boys and girls and men and women in baseball, softball, basketball and bowling activities.

The Broad Meadows District, since 1964, has annually awarded $100 each to a boy and girl graduate of Quincy High School. These scholarships have totaled $4,400 of the $11,800 presented by the Koch Club since 1959. The Koch Club, in 1973, on the 25th anniversary of the organization, established a long-range scholarship fund that will begin in 1998, the 50th anniversary of the club, guaranteeing perpetual annual scholarships. The 25th anniversary events brought $3,000 for the project and the North Quincy and Broad Meadows Districts donated $1,000 each.

ASBESTOS LUNG DISEASE

Asbestos dust causes serious lung ailments; the diseases appear suddenly, years after exposure. Today numerous SHIPYARD WORKERS, MASONS, and PIPEFITTERS of the 1930's-1970's have lung afflictions because they inhaled asbestos particles many years ago.

If you worked in one of those professions then and now have a lung disease, you may be eligible to receive money damages or workers' compensation. Relatives of living and deceased victims can also recover in some cases.

BUYING A HOUSE LOT

QUESTION: Can you give me advice on buying a lot in order to build a house?

ANSWER: Generally speaking, the more you pay for a lot, the surer you are of getting your money's worth. If you pay x-amount of dollars for a developed lot with utility lines already in, you may be better off than buying the same lot for half the amount before roads and utilities are built out to it. Development costs vary, but almost anywhere they are rising. If you are not a land expert, have a Realtor do your negotiating. His or her most valuable asset is knowledge of local property values, zoning and future land value prospects.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT:
O Holy Spirit, You who enlightens me, who illuminates all things so I may attain my goal. You who gives me the divine gift of forgiving and forgetting the evil done to me and who is ever with me at all moments of my life. I wish during this short dialogue with You to thank You for everything and to confirm once again my wish to never be separated from You, even in the midst of all material distractions. I desire to be with You in eternal glory. Thank you for all Your mercy towards me and all who are dear to me. Must be said three days in succession, after the three days, favor or grace will be attained, even if it appears to be of difficult nature. Then published with instructions as soon as possible, with your initials.

McCauley To Appoint Acting Fire Chief Soon

Mayor Francis McCauley said he expects to name an acting fire chief "very shortly" to run the department after the retirement of Chief Edward Barry Aug. 2.

McCauley said the acting fire chief will be sworn in Aug. 5, at the same time as the new city solicitor and acting city solicitor.

The acting chief will serve until a new civil service list is available, said McCauley.

Deputy Chief Carl Valenti topped the list for the first part of a Civil Service exam for chief, followed by Deputy Chief Joseph Jackson.

The second part of the exam is scheduled for July 20, at 9:30 a.m. at Boston Latin School.

A four-hour exam on a complex fire problem will be given, said Valenti, who noted that it could take four to six months for the results to be released.

TWO NEW Fire Dept. lieutenants were sworn in recently at City Hall. From left, are Fire Chief Edward Barry, City Clerk John Gillis, and Lts. Robert J. Kay of Plymouth and Thomas M. Connors of Marshfield. The two men will report for duty June 8.

Tent, Sleeping Bags Stolen

A tent worth $105 and two sleeping bags estimated at $100 were reported stolen from the front yard of Paul and Violet Botticelli of Jenness St., West Quincy.

New Animal Shelter Planned

Department of Public Works to begin plans for a new animal shelter.

The present shelter, behind the Registry of Motor Vehicles on Broad St., has for a number of years been insufficient for the city's animal sheltering and caring needs, said McCauley.

Problems like rodents, odors, and insufficient security have plagued the dog pound for some time, he said. There is a shortage of dog cages and the pound has no facilities for cats.

Quincy's Dog Pound was not built as an Animal Shelter, but rather as a smokehouse for the city's Poor Farm, said the mayor.

Heating and ventilation are two big problems as is the fact that the pound has only one common outside cage for the animals, said McCauley. Modern shelters have individual, outside cages for each animal for which the shelter is caring, he said.

Proposals will be solicited from architects and selection of a qualified architect will be made through the designer selection process.

The process of selecting an architect is expected to take six to eight weeks. Planning will be carried out through the fall and winter of 1985-1986.

Thief With A Big Headache?

A thief who must have had a big headache reportedly stole $150 in Extra Strength Tylenol tablets and capsules from the Rite Aid Pharmacy at 126 Quincy Ave.

A clerk told police that a black man, about 20 years old and 5 ft. 10 inches tall, ran out of the store with a brown paper bag.

He had nothing in his hands when he came into the store, the clerk said.

The critical center 1/3 of the Spinal-Guard mattress has been specially reinforced with heavier coils. Its special construction gives extra support to the heaviest part of your body. Helps keep your body in a firm, level sleeping position all night long. You wake rested. And Spinal-Guard could relieve the discomfort of a backache caused by sleeping on a saggy mattress. You not only get extra support, but extra sleeping comfort, too, thanks to Spinal-Guard's luxurious layers of cushioning.

And that's edge-to-edge comfort because of Spinal-Guard's flex-edge non-sag support construction.

Valenti Named Acting Fire Chief

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
Mayor Francis McCauley announces that he will appoint Deputy Fire Chief Carl V. Valenti acting fire chief upon the retirement of Chief Edward Barry Aug. 2.

CARL VALENTI

Valenti will be sworn in Monday, Aug. 5, at 9 a.m. in the mayor's office.

New City Solicitor Joseph A. (Jay) MacRitchie and new Assistant City Solicitor

Robert Quinn will also be sworn in.

McCauley said that Valenti will assume the full powers of chief, and will sit on the Quincy License Board.

His salary will also increase from $41,943 as deputy chief to $48,854 as acting chief, said McCauley.

Valenti will serve as acting fire chief until a permanent chief is appointed from a Civil Service list.

McCauley said he does not expect to make a permanent appointment until the end of 1985 or beginning of 1986.

Valenti topped the list for the first part of a Civil Service exam for chief, followed by Deputy Chief Joseph Jackson. Valenti is also senior deputy chief in point of service. The second part of the exam was given last Saturday. Results could take four to six months to be released, said Valenti.

"I'm honored to be selected by the mayor," said Valenti, who joined the Fire Department as a firefighter Dec. 7, 1957. "I'll do the best job that I am capable of doing."

Valenti said he intends to carry on the same policy that has been in effect for the last few years.

"I don't intend to make any major changes right away, but I can foresee some minor changes in the near future," he said.

"There are policies that I'd like to put in, policies that I'd like to modify. I'd like to improve on some things that we have now, not taking anything away."

"But I'll sit on things for a while, and get used to the job. Then I'll be in a better position to evaluate things."

Valenti was promoted to lieutenant in May, 1970, and to captain in February, 1974.

He became deputy fire chief in July, 1978.

A Navy veteran of World War II, Valenti and his wife, Emily, live at 139 King Phillip St., Weymouth.

They have a son, Michael, a member of the Brockton Fire Department, and two daughters, Terri and Cindy.

The Valenti's also have five grandchildren.

Statement On Shipyard's Future Called Premature

By DAN CONNELLY

Reports that a statement on the future of the General Dynamics Quincy shipyard is forthcoming were emphatically denied Tuesday by a shipyard spokesperson.

Evelyn Murphy told the Quincy Sun Tuesday:

"We, too, hear these persistent rumors that continue to circulate in Quincy about the yard's future. The rumors persist and we continue to deny their reliability."

"General Dynamics stands by its earlier management statement that a decision regarding the future plans of the shipyard will be made only after management has carefully studied their position in a competitive business.

"If and when a statement is issued by General Dynamics I do not know whether it will come from Quincy or at management's home base in St. Louis, Mo."

Rumors probably will continue regarding the shipyard. It will close down for its annual two week summer vacation the weeks of July 28 and August 4. The yard plans to resume full operation Monday, August 12.

At a meeting of general membership of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association in June three Quincy bankers voiced the opinion that it is Quincy's advantage to have General Dynamics operating its shipyard—it helps the city's economy.

Drugs Stolen

A total of $138.93 in over the counter drugs was reported stolen from CVS, 22 Independence Ave., South Quincy.

Susan Doherty, assistant manager, said a customer observed a white male, with a dark complexion and a mustache remove the drugs and walk out of the store.

Squantum Fire Station To Be Enlarged

The city expects to award a contract about the middle of September for $105,000-125,000 worth of renovations to the Squantum Fire Station.

And if all goes well, the work should be done by the latter part of 1985 or early 1986, according to Mayor Francis McCauley.

"We'll have a first class fire station when we're done," said McCauley of the structure which he said is about 42 years old.

Part of the reason for the renovations is to accommodate a new 1500 gallon per minute fire pumper which costs $159,995 and is too large for the station.

That pumper is temporarily located at the Atlantic fire station until the work is completed at the Squantum station.

500 Voting Machines Arrive

The long-awaited voting machines have finally arrived in Quincy.

About 500 machines -- half of those on order -- were delivered to city hall Tuesday and will be used in the city's preliminary election Sept. 10.

Total cost of the mach-

Other renovations are also needed at the Squantum station, said McCauley.

ines, booths and lighting will be $158,000, said City Clerk John Gillis.

"They'll revolutionize the entire city," said Gillis, a veteran of many election nights which stretched into the early hours as paper ballots were counted.

Fact Finder Named To Air QCH-Nurses Dispute

A former member of the state Labor Relations Commission has been named fact-finder to hear the labor dispute between Quincy City Hospital and its registered nurses.

Both said a hearing by fact-finder Gary Wooters of Brookline, probably will be held August 5 or 6 at Quincy City Hospital.

The 355 staff nurses, who are represented by the Massachusetts Nurses Association, have been working without a contract since July 1. Contract negotiations between the two groups broke off last month.

Wooters, a former member of the state Labor Relations Commission, was chosen by the hospital and nurses from a list of "neutrals" provided by the state Board of Conciliation and Arbitration.

Fact-finders are not employed by the state; their fees, are charged to both parties in the labor dispute.

The fact-finder usually holds a hearing attended by both sides, during which time evidence is presented on the issues being disputed.

The nurses have charged that their salaries are among the lowest in the area, and that the hospital does not have enough staff to care adequately for patients.

But hospital officials maintain staffing is adequate.

After the August hearing at City Hall, which usually lasts one day, the fact-finder makes a series of recommendations for reaching a settlement.

The recommendations are not binding; both sides must go back to the bargaining table. If a settlement is not reached within 10 days, the fact-finder's report is made public.

A separate issue, which will not be considered by the fact-finder, is whether the nurses who called in sick during an alleged sickout last month should be paid.

Mayor Francis McCauley and members of his administration were scheduled to travel to Washington yesterday (Wednesday) to voice concerns over a proposed 20 percent reduction in the HUD Community Development Block Grant Program.

McCauley will be joined by Planning Director James Lydon and Principal Planner Richard Domas as well as mayors and city managers who will make up a 10 to 15 member Massachusetts delegation for the one-day trip.

The House and Senate Budget Committee conferees are beginning to discuss in more earnestness the 20 percent reduction in the CDBG program as part of the federal budget beginning Oct. 1, 1985, according to a Planning Department report.

A reduction of this magnitude would seriously affect the CDBG program in Quincy in the period July 1, 1986-June 30, 1987 and would result in a loss of approximately $427,000 in federal funds on a yearly basis, the reports state.

A cut in Quincy's CDBG program, presently funded at $2,134,000, would seriously impair the ability of Quincy to deal with community and neighborhood development issues confronting an aging Northeast city.

Given that well over 85 percent of the Quincy CDBG program is aimed at addressing the needs of the low and moderate income population of Quincy, it is quite apparent that the deficit reduction efforts at the federal level will have severe repercussions on the most needy of the local Quincy population, according to the report.

A cut of $426,800 in CDBG funds represents: The entire planning and administrative budget of the Quincy CDBG program; or The combined budgets of the Elderly Outreach/Elderly Van Program ($165,000); the Community Center Program ($154,000) which now funds seven neighborhood centers; and a park renovation/rehabilitation program ($100,000) encompassing parks and playgrounds in the Atlantic, Houghs Neck, Southwest and Wollaston neighborhoods; or The Quincy Center Traffic Improvement Program ($428,200), a program aimed at upgrading a number of major traffic intersections and a program even more necessary now with the Burgin Parkway Extension or All of the housing-commercial rehab programs, street and sidewalk rehab, park renovations, community centers and elderly outreach workers presently planned for the Quincy Point and Southwest neighborhoods, two of the Quincy neighborhoods with the highest concentrations of low and moderate income families.

"CDBG has been one of our more successful programs in its 11 years," said McCauley.

The proposed 20 percent cut could really make it difficult for us in all parts of the city."

"Low income and senior citizens would be affected," said Domas.

Domas also noted that the National League of Cities and National Community Development Association are pleased that the Massachusetts delegation of mayors is taking the lead.

Man Sought In Rape

Police are still seeking a white male in his mid 20s in connection with the rape of a 15-year-old girl last week in Quincy Point.

According to police Sgt. Daniel Lyons, the girl was walking to her friend's house July 17 about 8 p.m. when the man grabbed her from behind and pulled her into his car.

He drove a short distance away and sexually assaulted her, Lyons said, before he let her go about an hour later. The girl was threatened but not beaten, Lyons said.

When she was freed, she walked to her girlfriend's house, according to Lyons, the police were called and she was transported to Quincy City Hospital. She was later released.

Lyons said the man was described as about 5 ft. 10 in. with long hair.

Sidewalk Bazaar: A Fun And Business Success

By DAN CONNELLY

Quality merchandise and sunny skies provided the attraction for thousands who shopped and browsed at the 15th annual Downtown Sidewalk Bazaar that once again provided a healthy shot in the arm for summer business in downtown Quincy.

Steven Gillig, president of the sponsoring Quincy Center Business and Professional Association (QCBPA) described the three-day bazaar as "tremendous as usual."

He said the merchants as usual did an excellent job setting up their merchandise for a sidewalk sale.

"I spent more money than I had planned to spend but it was all merchandise I needed and the price was right," Gillig said.

"Our sidewalk bazaar goods consist of quality merchandise, taken right off store shelves and displayed on the sidewalk at reduced prices.

"The thousands who were in attendance at this year's bazaar was due to planning and promotion. But wait until next year.

Downtown Quincy will see an even greater turnout of shoppers and browsers. It will all happen because of Quincy Fair now under construction at the site of the former Sear's Roebuck store. As Quincy Fair develops it will provide new and exciting attractions for shoppers at that end of Hancock St.

"Another good feeling I get for this bazaar is seeing the keen interest displayed by young business people, and new merchants to the city.

The Quincy Sun surveyed some of those merchants who participated in the bazaar and found them to be satisfied with the turnout of shoppers and sales. Their comments:

Shelly Forman, a department manager at Remick's: "Sales in men's furnishings (sportswear items) were outstanding. Sales in women's casuals were good. I would categorize our participation in the bazaar as successful.

SIZING UP the low prices with this rack full of slacks. Thousands who shopped at Downtown Quincy's 3-day Sidewalk Bazaar found ticketed prices more than suited their pocketbooks.

for all the merchants. Sales excellent and that is the bottom line."

Burt Cook of Tags Furniture: "Did very well. Equal to last year. There seemed to be more people attending this year's bazaar, probably due to the extra attractions. Yes, all in all sales were excellent."

Leo Fagundes of Friendly Family Centers: "Thursday opener was good. It slacked off Friday and saw a lack of customers Saturday. Could be because of the muggy weather."

Jack London at Quincy Furniture: "We did not have our products out on the sidewalk but our business was good in the store. Yes, there was a good response and we drew in customers.

O'yes, there was a good momentum in gift sales."

Ken Elkins, proprietor of Cheep Feet: "We brought in more stock than ever in anticipation of good sales. We were not disappointed. We did excellent in sales. It was a well run sidewalk bazaar and the good weather provided a boost in customers."

Howard Jacobs of Toodie's Fine Jewelry: "Good, in fact very good. No complaints. This year I set up a sidewalk booth and it was the best thing I could have done. By having a booth on the sidewalk I think I gained 200 customers. Sure the weather was hot...but I had fun."

Dick Leibert owner of Harts Jewelry: "I was pleased with the business. It was hot, but not unbearable so that it would keep customers away. It was a busy bazaar and I was pleased."

Kathy McClusky at Baskin Robbins: "We did fantastic for those three days. 'Course the weather had something to do with it."

Marian Feldman of Jason's Music and T-Shirt Shop: "Business was good. It was hot - unfortunately, but despite the hot weather we had a good response from the shoppers."

Win Brown of Colman's Sporting Goods: "Good crowd Thursday and Friday. Business slacked off somewhat Saturday but that was expected. All in all a very successful bazaar."

Harold Sadof of Eileen's Special Sizes: "The sidewalk bazaar in my estimation was superb. I really felt it was one of the more orderly sidewalk sales. The customers attending this year's bazaar seemed more appreciative than in previous years. The bazaar was extremely successful

$360,000 Grant For Handicapped Housing

Amy S. Anthony, Secretary of the Executive Office of Communities and Development, announces the awarding of a $360,000 grant to the Quincy Housing Authority.

The grant, under the Chapter 689 Handicapped Housing Program, is for development of three staffed apartments to be planned in conjunction with South Shore Mental Health Center (SSMHC) and the Department of Mental Health (DMH).

The Quincy Housing Authority will initially receive a planning grant in the amount of $25,000 to cover preliminary expenses, including the architectural plans and the securing of local zoning approvals.

Secretary Anthony

said, "This grant provides an important opportunity to develop new residential settings, which help to address the shortage of affordable community-based housing for mentally handicapped persons."

Executive Director of the South Shore Mental Health Center Harry Shulman added, "I look forward to working with the Quincy Housing Authority and the Executive Office of Communities and Development to provide the requisite mental health services to assist the residents in adjusting to community living. There is a substantial need for housing for mentally handicapped individuals in the South Shore that we are trying to address."

Vietnam Veterans May Now Lease City Owned Buildings

Cities and towns may now lease space for use as a headquarters by the Vietnam-Era Veterans Association, according to State Senator Paul D. Harold.

Under new legislation effective this week, the Vietnam veterans organization is added to the list of organizations eligible to lease municipally-owned buildings or parts of buildings to use as chapter headquarters.

The law already makes provision for a number of other veterans organizations, Harold said.

Under the law, a city or town may lease space for a period of not more than five years to eligible organizations, subject to regulations made by the mayor and council in cities and by vote of the town in towns, Harold reported.

PREPAYMENT PENALTIES

QUESTION: Is it standard for banks to charge a penalty fee if you pay off a home loan before its designated length?

ANSWER: Normally, yes! Paying off a mortgage in advance of its original loan length is known as "prepayment." Many lenders today require a prepayment penalty if a mortgage is paid off before its original due date. If you do pay this penalty, remember that the IRS treats it the same as interest which means it can be used as a deduction.

In many states, consumer-oriented laws have been passed which prohibit any prepayment penalties after the loan has been in effect from three to five years.

A Partisan Election?

The way Joanne Condon sees it, this year's mayoral race is a partisan election even though, technically, it isn't.

There won't be any Rs or Ds after the names on the ballot like there never is in Quincy's municipal elections.

"But it's a partisan election," says Condon. "The Democratic and Republican philosophies are very much involved."

She says she and her campaign workers have found that out while campaigning door-to-door.

"We have covered 10,000 homes in the past 12 weeks in every ward. We have been in every ward twice and are now starting our third cycle."

"People want to know if I am a Democrat and I am happy to tell them I am. And then they tell me what their concerns are. They are concerned about basic services, public education, public safety."

"They are upset over pay raises for some department heads while teachers and nurses have to fight to get one. They don't think it is fair."

Condon says she has gotten a positive reaction not only from Democrats but from women, too.

"The women tell me it is time for a woman to be mayor of Quincy," she says.

If her reaction reading is what she thinks it is, then she has two pretty big political pluses going for her: Democrats and women.

Latest voter registration figures (July 1) show Democrats and women holding the voting power in Quincy.

Of the city's 46,594 registered voters there are 30,047 Democrats to 6,610 Republicans and 9,937 Independents.

And, there are 26,746 female voters to 19,848 males. Condon has been holding an average of three coffee hours a week in homes in a ward and is now branching out to senior citizens housing facilities.

"I think we're going to win," she says. "The more I get around, the better I feel. The more confident I am."

Win or lose there's been a good side affect on the campaign trail.

"I've lost 15 pounds," she says.

GARSON KANIN, who you might say is a sort of

CONDON

Quincy adopted son because of his long and happy marriage to Ruth Gordon, has many honors to his credit.

And now, a new one: he was recently elected president of the Authors League of America in New York.

Kanin is a dramatist, screenwriter, stage director, movie director, and author—very much a star in his own right.

KANIN

A "FAREWELL TO THE CHIEF" in honor of Fire Chief Edward Barry will be held Friday, Aug. 2, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the conference room at new City Hall.

The public is invited. Coffee and cake will be served.

Barry will retire that date, closing out a 35-year career, nearly 18 as chief.

BARRY

McCAULEY

MAYOR Francis McCauley announces that, at designated times during the summer and fall, he will be available at his campaign headquarters at 1661 Hancock St., to meet with any resident who has a concern to discuss with him.

The first session will be held Saturday, July 27, 12 p.m. to 2 p.m.

STORK DEPT.: Well, the doctor was right. Ward 6 City Council candidate John Walsh and his wife, the former Susan Lydon, are celebrating the arrival of twin daughters. (The doctor had made an 11th hour discovery that it would be twins.)

Allison Lydon, seven pounds, eight ounces, and Kathleen Elizabeth, five pounds, seven ounces, were born July 19 at St. Margaret's Hospital.

Kathleen will always be able to say she is the youngest. She arrived two minutes after Allison.

The Walsh's have a son, John Jr., who turned two July 18—the day before his sisters' arrival.

SPEAKING OF Walsh, his campaign committee is holding a barbecue Sunday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. at his Surfside Lane, Squantum home.

Adams Shore Center Now Established

City Councillor Michael T. Cheney announces establishment of the Community Center for residents of the Adams Shore area.

Programs for senior citizens and the youth of the community will be scheduled and coordinated by the newly appointed coordinator of the Adams Shore Community Center, Lillian Austin.

"I am pleased to announce that the people of Adams Shore will enjoy the Community Center much like the centers in Hough Neck and Germantown."

"We look forward to cooperating with the efforts of the Quincy Recreation Department as well as the other centers that have been established in offering positive programs to the entire community," said Cheney.

Adams Shore Community Center events for July include Beginners Line Dancing, a free blood pressure clinic to be held at the Adams Shore Library, a Seniors Social, a trip to the Hillcrest Restaurant as well as a trip to the July 23 Red Sox Game at Fenway Park. Cheney noted that the people in the Adams Shore area have been fighting long and hard for the establishment of this center. He said, "I feel confident that the center will be a tremendous success for all the people in the Adams Shore area."

Cheney congratulated Marty McGowan, president of the Adams Shore Community Association, as well as Debbie and Al Nigro for their outstanding efforts in establishing this community center.

Lillian Austin, a former president of the Adams Shore Community Association, has been running similar programs for people in the Adams Shore area. "This is not a new experience for Lillian Austin who is the newly appointed coordinator for the center. She has been for some time running similar programs for the people in the Adams Shore area and I feel very confident that she will make the Adams Shore Community Center a tremendous success," said Cheney.

A temporary office has been set up for the Adams Shore Community Center Coordinator at 1193 Sea St.

For more information on programs, Lillian Austin can be reached at 479-2043.

Japanese Students Need Accommodations In Area

Fourteen Japanese college English language students will visit the Quincy area in August.

The visitors are 13 women, including a Japanese teacher, and one youth, said Patricia Welch of Braintree, who taught in Japan for the past two years, and is coordinating the visit.

The visit from Aug. 3 to Sept. 2 has been arranged through the Cultural Home-Stay Institute.

"Although we have found guest hosts for seven of the young ladies and the boy, there is still a need for six additional host families in the Quincy area," Welch said.

During their stay the students will be attending school four mornings a week at Thayer Academy in Braintree. The students are obligated to attend classes because the cultural program includes education.

But their stay here will not be solely in the classroom area, trips are planned for them.

Mayor Praises Efforts In Toxic Waste Accident

Mayor Francis X. McCauley lauded the quick action by city, state and residents responding to a hazardous waste accident last Tuesday which forced the evacuation of 30 Wollaston residents from their homes and sent nine people to the hospital.

McCauley's comments followed his review of a report submitted to him about the hazardous material accident on Cheriton Rd., by Anthony Siciliano, Acting Director Public Safety/Civil Defense.

McCauley said: "That was a great team effort on everybody's part. He also said that by coincidence, plans were already in the works before the Cheriton Rd. accident to have a city-wide scheduled hazardous waste pickup sometime soon after Labor Day when most people have returned from vacation.

Fire Chief Edward Barry and city public works commissioner Paul Anderson reportedly are considering setting up depositories in each of the city's six wards. The depositories would be guarded until the materials could be removed from the city.

Last Tuesday containers of a wood preservative and other chemicals left at the curb for collection caused a toxic mist when the compactor on a rubbish truck began to crush the trash.

Nine persons, including the three-man rubbish crew, were rushed to Quincy City Hospital. Two persons were held overnight. One of those was Lorraine Brennan of 49 Cheriton Rd., a nurse who rushed to help the victims and became ill from the toxic fumes.

Two days after the accident, July 19, she was again admitted to Quincy City Hospital complaining she said of nausea and general bodily weakness. She was released July 21.

She is disappointed no one from the Environmental Protection Agency or Board of Health has contacted her or those others who required medical treatment... just to find out how we are doing. "It seems as if all has been forgotten." She adds she has yet to learn the results of drug screen tests that were taken.

One thing she is sure of: "Those policemen, firemen, EMT's and others who responded so quickly did one fantastic job during what I feel was a most frightening emergency."

The Civil Defense lists the following personnel who responded to that toxic scene:

Thomas Rodger, Area II Director, and Douglas Forbes, Jr., Sector Director, both from Mass. Civil Defense Agency, Bridge-water, Lt. Gerald McDavitt and Lt. Edward Connolly, United States Army Reserve; Sr. Capt. Joseph Pearson, Charles Roffo, William Dunn, Jr. and Clarence Grogan, all of the Quincy Auxiliary Police Department.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Vice, Liquor Traffic Down

Police Chief Ernest H. Bishop, speaking over Radio WNAC in Squantum, proudly announced that Quincy has less vice and liquor traffic than any city of its size in the country.

"We have had very few serious crimes in the last few years and it is a saying among the crooks that you had better keep away from Quincy," said Bishop.

"We claim that Quincy is free of vice and liquor trafficking than any city of our size in the country and this claim is endorsed by federal officials."

WOMAN PRINCIPAL LOSES

Houghs Neck residents apparently lost out in their bid to have Miss Elizabeth Garrity, a teacher in the Quincy school system for 42 years, named principal of the newly enlarged Atherton Hough school.

The Quincy School Committee refused to reconsider its appointment of H. Forrest Wilson to the post and Committeeman Col. Warren E. Sweetser proposed a resolution that only men be named schoolmasters.

There were two other women principals of Quincy schools, Miss Margaret Sweeney of Gridley Bryant School and Miss Lucy Hennigan of Willard School.

MEN WITH TAILS?

Everyone was talking about the reports of men with tails brought back from the Philippine Islands by Lt. William F. Malnati of 60 Bedford St., Quincy, who spent 13½ months with the U.S. Geodetic Survey in Luzon.

Malnati said he saw men with tails six to eight inches long but he denied it was evidence that man descended from monkeys.

He received support from Chalmers F. Rose of 837 Sea St., Houghs Neck, a former Marine, who said he saw pictures of the men with tails while serving with the Marines in the Philippines in 1926.

FORE RIVER UNAFFECTED

Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams said that President Hoover's order to suspend construction of cruisers applied only to government shipyards and would have no effect on the $11 million cruiser slated to be built at Fore River.

Meanwhile, the John A. Boyd Camp of United Spanish War Veterans was spearheading a campaign to have the new cruiser named "Quincy" in honor of the city in which it was to be built.

Quincy 'Delighted' With Deer Island Selection

Mayor Francis McCauley said he is "delighted" with the decision of the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority to place both a primary and secondary sewage treatment facility on Deer Island off Winthrop, not Long Island off Quincy.

But he says his administration will watch the situation closely to make sure Boston's mayor and city council don't attempt to move Deer Island's House of Correction to Long Island.

"A jail doesn't belong there either," said McCauley, "the island should be kept in a natural state."

Boston Mayor Raymond Flynn said last week he would "work with the governor, the state legislature and the authority, if requested to do so, to remove and relocate the Suffolk County House of Correction in the event Deer Island was chosen."

Flynn's position clarified one of the last outstanding issues, according to Philip Shapiro, interim executive director of the MWRA.

State Sen. Paul Harold said he spoke to Flynn about future uses for Long Island now that the sewage facility will not be located there.

"He gave me no guarantee," said Harold, "but he said his desire is still to maintain Long Island as the site for the hospital as well as a recreational and park facility."

Harold said he also obtained the support of Senate President William Bulger in working to keep the jail off Long Island.

McCauley said there are a number of good sites for the jail in Boston.

"If they turn their eyes to Long Island, it would be very detrimental to the City of Quincy," said McCauley, who noted that the arguments to keep a jail off Long Island are the same as they were against a sewage treatment plant.

"We will be watching very closely what goes on. We're ready to take action if a serious attempt is made to put the jail on Long Island."

McCauley said he thinks Boston Mayor Raymond Flynn is sincere in wanting to preserve the island.

McCauley thanked the residents of Quincy and the South Shore who presented a united front to convince the MWRA.

"The logical choice was Deer Island," said McCauley, "there is no sense desecrating Long Island."

"It was a team effort of a lot of people who deserve credit."

"It shows people can get together when there is a cause worth fighting for."

State Rep. Thomas Brownell also praised the decision of the MWRA.

"I am very pleased that the authority had the common sense to adapt the most intelligent option. Nut Island should never have been under consideration and Long Island is just as inappropriate. If Long Island had been chosen, Quincy would have had to face three major treatment facilities in the area; Nut Island, Moon Island, and Long Island. That isn't fair or necessary."

"I further congratulate the Board of Directors in acting decisively by voting a mandate in a 10 to 1 vote. It shows that the new authority can act effectively and responsibly even when confronted with a most complex and difficult decision. My office is more convinced now than ever that our decision years ago to work for the creation of a new sewer authority was the right solution to our water pollution problems in Quincy Bay and Boston Harbor. Although the people of Winthrop at this time feel that this decision is unfair, I am confident that we can work together to make the facility environmentally acceptable to all. They can be assured that my office will do everything within its power to support all mitigation measures that help Winthrop."

City Councillor Michael T. Cheney said that after reviewing the actions of the MWRA, "it is clear that everyone gained by this action."

He has called upon both state and federal officials when writing their final Joint Environmental Impact Report and Statement that they include all the mitigating measures that were outlined by the MWRA.

Cheney stated that the impacts will not be as severe on Winthrop because in other actions the MWRA took was the recommendation for barging of construction materials and personnel as opposed to the trucking.

The MWRA also recommended that a buffer zone between the community and the sewer treatment facility be part of the mitigation.

Cheney said, "The bottom line for the citizens of Quincy is that we will be rid of Nut Island in 10 years and Long Island will be preserved."

"It is my belief that the mitigating measures that will be taken to place a sewer treatment facility at Deer Island will be enough to soften the impact on that community."

Cheney noted, "We must now move forward with the cleanup of the Bay by encouraging the MWRA to maintain its present sewer facilities at Deer Island and Nut Island."

"There is much work to be done before the bay is restored as a viable resource. However, this is another major step forward, and we will continue the fight until it is won."

Ella Knapton Honored By Hospital Auxiliary

Mrs. Ella Knapton of Quincy was honored recently with a surprise 90th birthday celebration at the annual meeting of the Quincy City Hospital Auxiliary at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

Mrs. Knapton has been an active volunteer at the hospital since 1956.

On the day of the annual meeting, she was celebrating her 90th birthday. She was surprised to find that the meeting's agenda was designed to recognize both her birthday and her 34 years of service to the hospital.

Senator Paul Harold commended Mrs. Knapton on behalf of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The House of Representatives also acknowledged Mrs. Knapton's contribution to the community and Quincy City Hospital.

The City of Quincy and Mayor Francis X.

McCauley recognized Mrs. Knapton with a proclamation presented by Councillor Patricia Toland, chairman of the Health and Hospitals Committee of the Quincy City Council.

The director of Quincy City Hospital, Mark Mundy, expressed the appreciation of the hospital for Mrs. Knapton's devotion.

She continues to go to the hospital on a regular basis to visit with patients.

Beth Johnston Toastmistress President

Walsh Calls For Different Council Meeting Location

John J. Walsh, candidate for Ward 6 City Councillor, has called for Quincy City Council meetings to be held in various neighborhoods of the city at times throughout the year.

"Public attendance at City Council meetings is almost non-existent," Walsh said. "Holding City Council meetings in the community would allow greater citizen involvement and participation in the workings of city government."

Walsh said one of his first acts as councillor would be to move that Chapter 2, article 3, sections 22 and 23 of the Revised Ordinances of the City of Quincy be amended to allow the council president to schedule, when appropriate, the council meetings to be held at locations, within the city, other than the council chambers.

Walsh added that with the many school auditoriums across the city his plan could be implemented, "at no cost to the taxpayers."

"Greater citizen participation in government can only come about by making the process open and available. Many people just cannot get to City Hall to attend council meetings."

Condon Opens Mayoral Headquarters

Mayoral candidate Joanne Condon welcomed an estimated 200 friends and supporters Friday night at the opening of the Condon for Mayor Headquarters, 1248 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Condon said that the headquarters is an important step in her campaign for two reasons.

First, with a large number of volunteers, a central location is a necessity.

Also, the headquarters allows for a "drop-in center" for additional people interested in helping her campaign.

Brownell Praises MDC

For Quincy Parks Improvements

The Metropolitan District Commission received high praise from a Quincy state representative for that agency's recent beautification of Quincy Shore Drive and Caddy Park.

In a letter to Commissioner William Geary, Rep. Thomas Brownell of Quincy said:

"I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate you and the MDC as a whole for the fantastic job the Commission has done on beautifying and cultivating its parks and roadways.

"The improvements in my home district of Quincy have been particularly impressive. The planting of flowers and trees along with placement of carved signs have made the drive along Quincy Shore Drive visually satisfying. The improvements to Caddy Park have once again made it a beautiful and safe place for children and adults."

Lydon Seeks Holbrook Rd. As Permanent 'T' Access

Councillor John J. Lydon, Jr., has requested the MBTA to make permanent the temporary access to the 'T' parking lot at Holbrook Rd., North Quincy.

In a letter to Gino L. Palmacci, director of real estate management, Lydon said:

"Upon visiting the site, I found that the control booth that was a temporary structure has been turned into a permanent concrete structure.

"I wish to call your attention to the commitments made by the 'T' both upon the opening of the lot as well as during the construction of the office building at 200 Newport Ave. The original commitment was not to use the Holbrook Road access and most recently, during construction, that it was to be used temporarily.

"The thought that a public agency arrogantly refuses to acknowledge commitments to the Quincy public is quite astounding. We are vociferously opposed to the use of the Holbrook Road access and demand that the 'T' acknowledge their previous commitments to the City of Quincy."

Toland Calls For Check On Quincy Sq. Lighting

City Councillor Patricia M. Toland said that while collecting signatures on her nomination papers for re-election, she has heard several complaints about the lack of lighting in the Quincy Square area.

"Residents who live in the general vicinity who wish to take a stroll on a summer evening have said that some parts of Quincy Sq. are too dark and could possibly pose a threat to safety.

"Also, people who park in the parking garage in daylight, have dinner or shop, and return to the garage find a very dark passage down Clivedon St."

Mrs. Toland said she has written a letter to Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson and requested an assessment of the situation by his office and the feasibility of a review by Mass Electric.

For Tricia Tanner Pageant Was Better Second Time Around

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Some things are better the second time around.

Just ask Tricia Tanner, 19, of Weymouth, who was selected Miss Quincy Bay of 1985 one year after not qualifying as a finalist in the 1984 pageant.

"I had second thoughts about returning for this year's pageant," said Tricia. "My father wanted me to enter again so I decided to do it."

The pageant, highlight of the annual Quincy Sidewalk Bazaar, was co-sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and the Quincy Bay Race Week Association.

Tricia, the daughter of Thomas and Josephine Tanner, was chosen from among 31 contestants in the annual pageant held Friday night at Quincy Center Plaza with a crowd of more than 3,000 people.

She was crowned by Simone Rimone, last year's winner, and will reign over Quincy Bay Race Week July 31 to Aug. 4.

Runners-up were Leanne Kennedy, 17, of Quincy, first; Rosemary Wilhauck, 19, Milton, second; Sheri Oberstein, 18, Braintree, third; and Diane Gustafson, 17, Braintree, fourth.

Tricia will also receive the largest share of over $3,000 in prizes which will also be divided among the four runners-up.

In addition to capturing the crown, the brown-eyed beauty was named most photogenic by media photographers who covered the event.

DELIGHTING THE crowd during the swimsuit competition portion of the pageant is Tricia Tanner, 19, of Weymouth, who was later selected Miss Quincy Bay of 1985.

"That was a total surprise," she said.

A bigger surprise is the fact that she thought she couldn't be named a finalist because she was selected most photogenic.

Tricia had quite a cheering section the night of the pageant. Besides having her mother and father, she received support from her grandmother, aunt, a brother, three sisters, and numerous friends.

Last year, Tricia admits she was nervous during the entire pageant but this year was a different story.

TRICIA TANNER is all smiles as she presented the Miss Quincy Bay trophy by Beth Ann Streng, pageant committee chairwoman.

"Once I stepped on stage, I was able to relax. I knew what to expect. The pageant also ran much smoother than last year's. Beth Ann Streng (committee chairwoman) did a great job organizing the pageant and making the girls feel at ease," stated Tricia.

For the swimsuit competition, Tricia wore a black with blue and pink striped v-neck suit.

She selected a strapless, white-laced gown for the evening gown competition.

DEBORAH REIDY, 19, of Hingham, walks down the runway during swimsuit competition in the annual Miss Quincy Bay Pageant which attracted a crowd of over 3,000 people.

working young lady.

Presently, she is a full-time employee of the Welch's Home Care Service as a homemaker for the elderly.

In a few weeks, she'll return to Southeastern Massachusetts University as a junior majoring in education and sociology and also a residence hall assistant.

She hopes to be a special education teacher someday.

Tricia, who's looking forward to the entire year as Miss Quincy Bay of 1985 encourages past contestants to enter the pageant again.

And why not, it certainly paid off for her.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK.

Most of us are hoarders. Some worse than others. When was the last time you were in your basement or attic and were amazed at the amount of things that sentiment lead you to save? Did you find that in some instances nature had taken its course? That beautiful wool coat that was too good to be given away had suddenly developed some moth holes in it? Those items you put away—you just might have use for them again—had somehow become mildewed!

We all realize that thrift is a genuine virtue, but isn't it true that avarice and miserliness are vices? It can be said that to lay away some things with a definite end in good. But isn't it also true that when we start piling up and saving things for the mere satisfaction of having them—degeneration begins?

Sadly, too many times material possessions exert a profound tyranny over our lives. . . Can't it be said that nothing indicates mental and moral balance any more definitely than one's ability to maintain a right attitude toward things? . . .

Rev. Romeo Levasseur, 61, Celebrated First Mass At Sacred Heart

Rev. ROMEO LEVASSEUR

his first Mass Sunday, Feb. 4, 1963 at Sacred Heart Church in North Quincy with a reception following at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall.

Fr. Levasseur entered Our Lady of LaSalette in 1939 and served the order as a professed lay brother for 24 years until his ordination serving in the Philippine Islands as a missionary from 1948 to 1955 with the LaSalette Missionary Society.

In 1974, he was named associate pastor of St. James Church in Stoughton, where he served in the right to life movement, and established the St. James Prayer Group. Later he actively participated in the protest against a so-called adult bookstore in Stoughton Center. The store subsequently closed.

He is survived by three brothers, William C. Levasseur of Glendale, Ariz., Daniel G. Levasseur of Brewster, Channel Levasseur of Somerville; four sisters, Constance Hobbs of Glendale, Ariz., Aura Lopez of Somerville, Theresa Brandos and Simeone Koch, both of Quincy. He was the brother of the late Joanne Hanna and the late Leo Levasseur.

Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery in Randolph in a plot for deceased priests of the parish. Committal prayers were led by Bishop Hart and 150 participants including priests, relatives and friends participating at the graveside service.

Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Donations may be made to St. Mary's Parish Building Fund, 211 North Main St., Randolph.

A celebration of the Rite of Christian Burial was held for Rev. Romeo Levasseur affectionately known as "Father Mayo" Saturday morning at St. Mary's Church, Randolph with over 400 in attendance.

Principal celebrant of the Mass was Bishop Daniel Hart who celebrated with 40 priests including several deacons and LaSalette lay brothers representing the Archdiocese of Boston and Our Lady of LaSalette Missionary Society.

Among those joining Bishop Hart in the service was Reverend Cornelius J. Heery, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy. Vicar of area parishes, Father William Calter, Pastor of St. Mary's Church, Randolph where Fr. Levasseur was Associate Pastor and Fr. Robert Brennan, Pastor of St. James in Stoughton where Father Mayo had served for nine years as Associate Pastor.

Eulogist was Fr. Thomas A. DiLorenzo of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, who told of the many obstacles Fr. Levasseur overcame in his determination to become a priest.

At the wake Friday evening at the Keohane Funeral Home, Bernard Cardinal Law attended and led the large group in attendance in the recitation of the Rosary.

Fr. Levasseur died July 17 in Carney Hospital, Dorchester, after a long illness.

Born in Van Buren, Me., he entered the LaSalette Order as a lay brother in 1939. He served with the missionary group in the Philippines from 1948-1955 and was ordained a LaSalette priest in 1963 by Bishop James Connolly in Fall River.

Fr. Levasseur was ordained on Feb. 2, 1963 at Fall River and celebrated Private funeral and burial services were held recently for Ruth W. (Wilbur) Wiggin, 84, a longtime Quincy resident.

Mrs. Wiggin died Sunday at the John Scott Nursing Home, Braintree, after a long illness.

Born in Weymouth, she lived most of her life in Merrymount.

She was a member of the Eastern Star and the Merrymount Bowlers.

Wife of the late Milton B.

Wiggin, former past president and chairman of the board at the Colonial Federal Savings Bank, who died last August, she is survived by a daughter, Barbara Burrell of Hingham; a brother, Ashton D. Wilbur of Easton; two grandchildren and one great-grandson.

Arrangements were made by the Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., Quincy.

Howard Simpson, 64, Material Control Manager

Funeral services for Howard L. Simpson, 64, of Wollaston, material control manager for Engineering Design Associates, were held July 20 at the Winslow Congregational Church, Winslow.

Mr. Simpson died July 18 at Quincy City Hospital.

Born in Winslow, Maine, he lived in Dighton before moving to Wollaston 20 years ago.

Burial was in Pine Grove Cemetery, Waterville, Maine.

Arrangements were made by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy, and the Reddington Funeral Home, Waterville.

Among the many structures he helped build and top off with the traditional Christmas tree was Boston's highest, the 62-story John Hancock Tower on Sept. 27, 1971. (According to Carmine D'Alimpro of Quincy, president of the South Shore Building Trades, when the structural steel frame of a building is completed, a "topping off" ceremony is held with placement of a Christmas tree and an American flag.)

A memorable photo taken by free-lance photographer Russ Adams of Reading showed Mr. Brown reaching out to receive the traditional topping

Joseph Brown, 63, Boston Skyline Iron Worker

A funeral Mass for Joseph E. Brown, 63, of North Quincy, an iron worker who helped put most of the tall buildings in Boston's skyline, will be celebrated today (Thursday) at 10 a.m. in Sacred Heart Church.

Mr. Brown died Sunday at home after being stricken with a heart attack while relaxing on his porch.

He was known as one of the "fearless guys" who balanced themselves atop windswayed girders while bolting steel beams together higher and higher onto buildings of the New Boston that rose during the 1950's, 60's during the 1950's, 60's, and 70's.

An ironworker for 38 years, he was former president and business agent of Local 7 of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers Union of Boston.

Among the many structures he helped build and top off with the traditional Christmas tree was Boston's highest, the 62-story John Hancock Tower on Sept. 27, 1971. (According to Carmine D'Alimpro of Quincy, president of the South Shore Building Trades, when the structural steel frame of a building is completed, a "topping off" ceremony is held with placement of a Christmas tree and an American flag.)

off tree from friend and fellow ironworker Jimmy Connolly as Connolly danced along the girder high above the streets of Boston.

Mr. Brown was born in Dorchester and had lived in North Quincy for 27 years. He was a graduate of Dorchester High School.

He was a member of the Redberly Council, Knights of Columbus in Dorchester, and the Squantum Yacht Club.

He was a World War II Navy combat veteran whose ship was attacked by Japanese kamikaze planes in the Pacific.

An iron worker since 1947, he was a union business agent for nine years. He was also steward on some of the city's major construction projects including the Prudential Building, the new Federal Reserve Bank, the new Shawmut Bank building and the Tobin Bridge. He also worked at the Seabrook atomic plant in New Hampshire.

He is survived by his wife, Agnes (Santosuosso) Brown; two sons, Daniel J. Brown and Joseph M. Brown, both of Quincy; a daughter, Deborah J. Smith of Quincy; a brother, Charles Brown of Newington, Conn.; a sister, Phyllis Costello of Bath, Maine; and four grandchildren.

Burial will be in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Visiting hours were scheduled for Wednesday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. at the Alfred D. Thomas Funeral Home, 328 Granite Ave., Milton.

Paul Shea, 66, Maintenance Man

A funeral Mass for Paul L. Shea, 66, of Quincy, retired maintenance man for Sigma Instruments, Braintree, was celebrated July 20 in St. Joseph's Church.

Mr. Shea died July 16 in the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, Boston, after a long illness.

Born in Quincy, he had lived in Milton before moving back to Quincy 31 years ago.

He was a member of St. Joseph's Holy Name Society, Quincy Point, and served with the Army during World War II.

He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth (Fostello) Shea; a son, Paul L. Shea II and a daughter, Ann Elizabeth Shea, both of Quincy; a sister, Helen Riehnardt of Milton and several nieces and nephews. He was also the brother of the late James Shea and Walter Shea.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by Joseph Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., Quincy.

Clara Pearce, 92, Lifelong Resident

A funeral service for Clara M. Pearce, 92, a lifelong resident of Quincy and a former local educator, was held July 24 in the Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., Quincy.

Miss Pearce died July 21 at the Quincy Nursing Home following a long illness.

Born in Quincy, she was raised in Quincy and attended Quincy schools. She was a retired assistant principal of the Mass. Field School in Quincy.

A member of Christ of the advisory board of the Atlantic Assembly of the Rainbow Girls and organizations of the Quincy Cooperative United Methodist Church.

She is survived by her husband, Ernest Burns; two sons, Alan Burns and Steven Burns, both of Quincy; three daughters, Karen Canning of Rockland, Susan Burns and Robin Burns, both of Quincy; a brother, Frank Haskins of Quincy; and three granddaughters.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Donations may be made to the Quincy Cooperative United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Quincy, 02170, or to the American Cancer Society, 47 West Elm St., Brockton, 02401.

Avoid Spinal Cord Injuries Campaign Starts

The Quincy City Hospital Emergency Room, Bay State Ambulance and McDonald's joined in a campaign recently to get young swimmers to jump "Feet First, First Time" as an effective way to avoid spinal cord injuries.

Quincy is the first New England community to start this on-going campaign, which found roots in 1980 in a Pensacola, Fla., medical center, when, in one summer weekend, they saw admitted seven teenagers who had become quadriplegic from diving accidents.

Dr. James Katz, Chairman of the QCH Emergency Medical Department, claims that, "every summer, we see two to three of these tragedies related to spinal cord diving accidents." The focus of the program is to convince swimmers to jump - not dive - on the first plunge into any body of water, even if they're certain it's safe to dive.

The program opened July 20 at McDonald's on Hancock St., across from the MBTA Station in North Quincy. One brought in a coupon from The Quincy Sun or The Patriot Ledger and received a free Coke, and for a donation of $1, a "Feet First, First Time, Prevent Spinal Cord Injuries" T-shirt was given to the first 500 to arrive.

Women In Management Psychology Topic

The role of women in management positions in corporate life will be analyzed and discussed by host Tim Lynch and his guests on "Psychology Tonight" Wednesday, July 31, at 8:30 p.m. on Quincy Cable Ch. 3.

Dr. Priscilla Glidden, Academic Director of the Management Training Program at Simmons College Graduate School of Management, and Gail Deegan, Treasurer of Eastern Gas and Fuel and the first woman to hold a corporate office in that company, will be guests.

Dr. Glidden, Miss Deegan and host Lynch will discuss the challenges for women in management positions, existing barriers to higher level management positions, and the importance of higher education for women managers.

Sexual bias and stereotypes in the workplace will also be discussed, as well as practical strategies for women in management and strategies for planning a successful career in management.

Human Spirit Problems, Quantum Church Topic

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor spoke Sunday about two problems of the human spirit.

At the early service, his sermon was "The Problem of Self-Esteem". This sermon was the third in a series about the characters in the novels of S. E. Hinton. The subject of this sermon was the personality of Rusty James, the central character in Hinton's novel, "Rumblefish".

At the second service, Dr. Langevin spoke on the subject, "The Problem of Spiritual Pride." His text was taken from Jesus' parable of the Pharisee and the publican.

In the early service, ushers were Sarah and Susan Midram. The hymns were accompanied by guitarists Andrew Ogilvie, David Williams and Mary Ruth Scott. In the later one, the ushers were Leon MacIntyre and Stewart Scott. The offertory anthem was sung by Susan Scott.

The annual summer Lawn Party at the First Church of Quantum will be held around the church Saturday, July 27, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The lawn party includes a small flea market with an outdoor cafe and tables for bric-a-brac, baked goods, Quantum T-shirts and various crafts. The public is invited.

Quincy Nursing Home Honors Volunteers

Bethany Congregational Church was the setting for the annual volunteer luncheon held recently for the Quincy Nursing Home activity staff and their volunteers.

The luncheon, which marked the end of another year, featured an Italian buffet provided by the Home's dietary staff under the direction of Dominic Eno.

Denis Fox of Quincy and the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, was honored as the Volunteer of the Year for the countless hours and efforts he has contributed since January 1983.

The following organizations were presented with plaques in recognition of their outstanding contributions through volunteer entertainment, religious or community services: Belles and Beaux; Hi-Lo Luncheon Group; St. John's Sodality; Sunshine Club; Salvation Army Corps, Capt. Medsite, a unique new medical facility operating within a business community will officially open its door Friday, July 26, at State Street South office complex in North Quincy.

Sponsored and affiliated with Carney Hospital and expanded through the cooperation of developer Peter O'Connell, the new medical facility, located in the Howard Johnson Plaza Building, will offer a range of health care services, including occupational medicine, immediate treatment for injuries or illness, physical examinations and health promotion services.

"With approximately 12,000 employees within a five minute walk of Medsite, the need for convenient and specialized occupational health services is crucial," Dennis Hines, Medsite Clinical Director.

Hines, of North Central Ave., Wollaston, added: "Health hazards associated with video display terminal use has been the subject of much debate. A recent study has established that radiation emission from VDT's is negligible but musculo skeletal problems persists. Medsite can assist employers and employees by providing the latest ergonomic guidelines and special mid-range VDI vision testing with its new equipment."

Another area of focus for Medsite is health promotion, "Health is no longer defined as the absence of illness," said Medsite Director Dr. Thomas H. Winters, internist with training in occupational medicine. "Our goal is to assist patients to achieve a higher level of wellness."

Adds Winters: "Our affiliation with Carney Hospital is a great asset. Being able to use the medical staff and the resources of a 422-bed teaching hospital just 10 minutes away means that our patients will receive the best medical services available."

The new facility will be open from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

VFW, Cable In Playoff Victories

Quincy Cablesystems defeated State Street, 3-1, as the Junior Baseball League playoffs got underway last week. Cable had finished first in the American League. Mike Baylis, the winning pitcher, struck out 13.

Cable scored first on successive triples by Pat Gallagher and Baylis, but State Street tied it when Richie Burns walked and scored on two straight singles. Cable scored the winning runs in the fifth when Mike Wood walked, was bunted to second by Aiden O'Donoghue, went to third on Gallagher's groundout and scored on Baylis' single. Baylis stole second and scored on Sal Manganaro's single.

Gary Rawdon also had a double.

Joe Crespi was a hard-luck loser, pitching well for State Street with nine strikeouts. Mike Kavanaugh, Chris Murray and Gallagher made excellent defensive plays.

In other playoff action, Bryan VFW Post edged Boston Gear, 6-5, with Scott Dunn the winning pitcher with 3 2/3 innings of outstanding relief.

Kevin Mullay had a triple and a single, Richie MacDonald a triple and Dunn, Steve Carroll, Brian Zimmerman and Sean Donovan a single each.

For Boston Gear, Fred Regan had two doubles and Sean Cafferty, George Walsh, Pat

McDouth, Danny Duncan and Nicholas a single each.

VFW defeated Cable, 7-1, with Donovan the winning pitcher. He allowed five hits, struck out five and issued no walks. VFW played errorless ball, as it did against State Street, with Mark Walsh, Mark Cahill, Donnie Anderson and Robbie O'Connor outstanding.

For VFW MacDonald had a triple, double and single, Eddie Costello, Donovan and Carroll two singles each and Mike Geddes, Dave Bogan, Mullay and Chris Barrett one each.

For Cable Baylis had a double and two singles, Manganaro a double and Tony Stafford a single.

Babe Ruth Stars Lose In State Playoffs

Quincy's American League all-stars, District 4 champions, made an excellent showing in the Babe Ruth League state tournament in Lynn, but were eliminated by Cambridge in their third game, 8-7.

Quincy started off with an exciting 4-3 victory over Plymouth in 10 innings. Starting pitcher Bill MacDougall went the regulation seven innings and the winner, Ron Fletcher, went the last three to gain the win. Both pitched outstanding ball.

Plymouth moved in front, 1-0, in the second inning, but Quincy tied it in the third as Peter Tufts walked, stole second and scored on Jay Lespasio's double.

Quincy took a 2-1 lead in the fifth when Rob Hubbard walked, pinch runner Mark Molloy stole second, went to third on an infield out and scored on a wild pitch.

Plymouth tied it in the seventh and went ahead, 3-2, in the top of the eighth inning. Quincy fought back and tied it in the bottom half on a walk to Scott Crowley and MacDougall's long triple.

In the 10th Lespasio singled, stole second and scored the winner on Kevin Duffy's clutch line-drive single.

Quincy turned in two of the finest defensive plays in the tourney. With a runner on third, right fielder Tufts caught a fly ball, fired a perfect throw to first baseman Bill Mulkern, who relayed to catcher Crowley to cut down the runner at the plate. An inning later, with a man on first, center fielder Lespasio chased down a long double, prevented the ball from rolling to the fence and made a fine throw to shortstop Fletcher, who relayed to third baseman Sean Gately. The lead runner was trapped off third base and tagged out by Crowley.

Quincy lost the second game, 8-2, to host Lynn, the tournament favorite and was the victim of a no-hitter by Lynn's second-line pitcher. Lespasio and Duffy pitched well for Quincy.

Quincy was eliminated by Cambridge as Fletcher, Duffy and MacDougall pitched well. Gately had a fine defensive game behind the plate and Fletcher had a booming triple. Molloy, Lespasio, Duffy, Gately and Bill Murphy had singles.

Matt McNamara, Gary Silverman, Joe Taylor and Bob Thomas all played well. The squad was coached by Bryan Post's Jim Higgins, Tom Foley and John Molloy.

Quincy compiled an overall 5-2 record in playoff action and the team is grateful to the Quincy Babe Ruth League officials, fans and parents for their support.

The team also thanks Quincy Police Club coach John Franceschini who, on short notice, arranged for uniforms and championship T-shirts for the team.

Nationals Win AAA Star Game

The National League, scoring seven runs in the fourth inning, defeated the American League, 12-5, in the annual Quincy Triple A Baseball League all-star game.

The winning pitcher, Richie Tilton, blanked the Americans for three innings, gave up one hit, struck out four and issued no walks.

Matthew Ryan and Brian Bellow had two hits each, Josh Wood a triple and Brian Davis and Kevin Hirtle doubles.

For the American League Andy Coleary had a double and two singles.

Samson Lee played strong defense at third base for the Nationals and Scott Parrish made an outstanding catch for the Americans.

Tilton and Coleary were named the game's Most Valuable Players.

The league thanks Tom Mullaney for doing the announcing.

Wallace, Higgins Star In S.S., Park League Games

Jack Wallace, who was building a reputation as Squantum's "meal ticket," blanked South Quincy on six hits and scored the only run himself as Squantum edged the Southies, 1-0, in a South Shore League game at Kincaide Park.

South Quincy's Eiro Ruuttila allowed only five hits but three of them came together in the Squantum sixth as Wallace singled, took second on Jack Casey's infield hit and scored on Ed Heap's double to left field.

South Quincy had its best scoring chance in the third inning when a pair of walks and Lou Marini's single loaded the bases with one out. But Wallace forced Gus Pena to hit into a double play to end the threat.

The Squantum lineup included: Burke 2b, McLeod cf, Casey 3b, Heap 1b, Frazer c, Dinsmore lf, White rf, Varguss ss, Wallace p.

The South Quincy lineup included: Salvucci rf, Birch 2b, Regan 1b, Marini 3b, G. Pena ss, Kusser cf, Sacchetti lf, J. Pena ph, Triglia c, Ruuttila p.

HIGGINS STARS

Center fielder John Higgins cut down three runners at the plate, one of them for the final out of the game, as Sacred Heart of North Quincy regained sole possession of first place in the Quincy Park League with a 4-2 victory over the Braintree Franciscans.

North Quincy scored all its runs in the first inning on a double by Bill Cobban, singles by Higgins and Paul McGuigan, a walk and an infield error. Bob Murphy allowed seven hits in chalking up his sixth straight victory on the mound.

The Sacred Heart lineup included: Scott ss, Higgins cf, Johnson 3b, Donovan 1b, McGuigan rf, Cobban lf, Doherty c, White 2b, Worthington 2b, Murphy p.

SPORTS BITS '48

Mrs. George Dalton, wife of the Norfolk County medical examiner, used a three iron to ace the 145-yard third hole for the first hole-in-one of the season at the Wollaston Golf Club . . . Eddie Stanky, the Boston Braves' second baseman, suffered a broken ankle in a collision with Bruce Edwards of the Brooklyn Dodgers and word was that he would be lost for six weeks . . . Bill Hoxie pitched three-hit ball for St. Ann's as the Wollaston team pounded Blessed Sacrament, 10-4, in a CYO League game . . . Bob Holland belted a triple and a home run and Charlie Fallon also homered as the Quincy Knights walloped the Weymouth Town Team, 15-3, in a South Shore League game . . . Dick Donovan, former North Quincy High School and Sacred Heart ace, was sporting a 7-3 record with Evansville, the Boston Braves farm team in the Class B Three-I League . . . Charlie Ford's King Cole won the Quincy Star race by several minutes over Allan Donkin's Nala II in twilight races on Quincy Bay . . . Bill Callahan finished six-up on the card to edge Otto Price who was five-up, and win the handicap vs. par tournament at Wollaston Golf Club . . . Ray Cattaneo, the Boston College High School all-scholastic shortstop from South Quincy, worked out for the Boston Braves at Braves Field . . . The Braintree White Sox beat Greer's of Quincy, 3-2, to take second place in the South Shore League but George McCall, the Greer's firey manager, protested the game when Umpire Tom McGrath called it at the end of six innings while it was still light enough to play . . . Ted Williams, who was batting .386 for the Boston Red Sox, was selected to play left field for the American League in the annual all star game in St. Louis . . . Jack McDermott's long home run gave the Quincy Junior Legion baseball team a 1-1 tie with Milton at Milton Town Field . . . Ray Shaughnessy of the Montclair Men's Club and John Long of the North Weymouth Vets hooked up in one of the Park League's best pitching duels in years, a scoreless tie on Montclair Field.

ASBESTOS LUNG DISEASE

Asbestos dust causes serious lung ailments; the diseases appear suddenly, years after exposure. Today numerous SHIPYARD WORKERS, MASONS, and PIPEFITTERS of the 1930's-1970's have lung afflictions because they inhaled asbestos particles many years ago.

If you worked in one of those professions then and now have a lung disease, you may be eligible to receive money damages or workers' compensation. Relatives of living and deceased victims can also recover in some cases.

Morrisette Wins 23rd Zone 6 Title

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Morrisette Legion baseball team clinched its 23rd Zone 6 championship Sunday with a 7-3 victory over Mass. Truck of Weymouth, its seventh win in a row, improving its record to 15-3.

Morrisette, which played Dorchester Tuesday and Canton last night (Wednesday), is scheduled to open the playoffs Friday against the Zone 6-B champ, either Braintree or Randolph. However, due to a large number of makeup games, this series could be pushed back.

Wollaston, which came along fast after a slow start, improved to 10-8 last week with a 12-4 win over Mass. Truck, while hard-Luck Quincy topped Carter Post, 9-6, Monday night for its second win in a row, making its record 3-18.

John Cristiani, who recently returned to action after suffering an elbow injury, was the starting and winning pitcher for Morrisette Sunday, improving to 4-1. He scattered eight hits, struck out eight and walked two. He helped himself at bat and in the field. He singled in the fourth and fifth runs and made two outstanding defensive plays. He grabbed a wicked line drive and turned it into a double play and made a great stop of a ground ball which appeared headed into center field.

He was relieved by Larry Taglieri (5-1) in the sixth inning, Taglieri earning a save.

Morrisette started off with three runs in the first inning on walks to Chris Marshall and Chris Ricciuti, two wild pitches, a ground out, Chris Bunker's double and Tom Ryan's RBI single. It added two in the second on hits by Cristiani, Rich Brooks and Tom Connolly. The final two runs came in the fifth when Jack Bolster singled, Bunker walked, both moved up on a wild pitch, Bolster scored and Ryan's sacrifice fly and Bunker scored on Brooks' single.

Marshall, Ryan, Brooks and Connolly had two hits each. Mass. Truck had solo home runs by Paul Carey and Mike Marshall, who was the losing pitcher.

A much-improved Quincy team gave Morrisette all it could handle for five innings, at which time the score was 5-5, but Morrisette rallied to win, 9-5.

Jack Outerbridge, Morrisette's starter, had his troubles and gave way to Mike Kubera in the second with a 4-3 lead. However, Kubera also had his problems and Cristiani, in his first appearance since his injury, put Quincy down in the last three innings. Kubera was the winner. Andy Palmieriello was the losing pitcher.

Ricciuti, in only his second start, led Morrisette's offense with three hits, including a double and triple and had an RBI. Bunker had two hits and three RBIs. Brooks had two hits and an RBI and Denis Cronin and Bolster each drove in a run.

For Quincy Mike Drachio had three hits, Mc Ardle two hits and Jerry Arroyo and Palmieriello each drove in two runs.

Morrisette scored seven runs in the fifth inning to come from behind and top Randolph, 12-7, combining 10 hits with 11 bases on balls.

Morrisette took a 2-1 lead in the second inning, but Randolph scored five runs in the fourth for a 6-2 lead. Trailing, 6-5, Morrisette came up with seven in the fifth to tie the win. Bunker reached on an error, Cronin walked, Connolly laid down a perfect bunt for a hit and Ryan doubled in Bunker and Cronin with the tying and go-ahead runs.

Paul Ratti started for Morrisette but gave way to Kubera in the fourth. Outerbridge came on in the fifth and earned the win, but needed help from Taglieri. Bunker and Brooks had two hits each, while Bunker, Cronin and Ryan each drove in a pair of runs.

In its previous game Morrisette, for the second time in four days, won a nail-biter from Milton, 2-1, behind the pitching of Taglieri and strong defense.

Morrisette had only two hits, both by Bunker, but capitalized on two Milton mistakes for two unearned runs.

Morrisette took a 1-0 lead in the fourth when Bunker and Cronin walked, moved up on a balk and Bunker scored on Ryan's sacrifice fly. Milton tied it in the fourth on a double by Peter Kibble and a single by Steve Desmond but Morrisette, for the second straight game, won it in the seventh when Connolly walked, stole second, took third on Brooks' fly to right and scored on a wild pitch.

Taglieri, getting stronger as the game progressed, retired the last 10 batters in order. He walked only one.

Wollaston exploded for eight runs in the sixth inning to break a 4-4 tie and romp over Mass. Truck, 12-4, as John Comeau went all the way for the win.

Dave Tochchio and Steve Constat each had bases-loaded singles in the big inning. Ken Runge had three hits and drove in two runs and Steve Austin had two singles. Comeau allowed five hits and struck out six for the win.

Steve Higgins pitched a no-hitter in the previous game as Wollaston squeezed by Holbrook, 2-1.

Holbrook led, 1-0, after two innings but Higgins scored on Austin's double to tie the game and in the seventh Dave Zuroms tripped and, following two intentional walks, Bob Kane singled in Zuroms with the clincher.

Quincy, having rough sledding all season long, edged Milton, 5-4, for its second win of the season, as Jerry Arroyo had an outstanding game. He fielded 10 of 11 balls hit his way and had two hits and two RBIs. His two-run single helped Quincy cut Milton's lead to 4-2 in the third. Quincy added two in the fifth on Drachio's single. Arroyo's double, two walks and sacrifice fly by Dave Happs. A sacrifice fly by Tony Orlando, a walk and singles by Joe Ciardi and Happs scored the winning run in the seventh. Pat Harrington pitched a six-hitter for Quincy, evening its record at 1-1.

Frazier Athletics Director At Silver Lake

Ralph Frazier, who played football at North Quincy for three years, coached the Raiders for six seasons and was the highly successful wrestling coach at Duxbury for the past several years, has been appointed athletic director at Silver Lake Regional High School.

Frazier succeeds Tony Sirrico, who recently resigned after several years in the position.

Frazier was an outstanding lineman at North Quincy in 1954, '55 and '56 and coached the Raiders from 1969 through 1974.

He never enjoyed a victory over Quincy while playing, the closest being the 1956 game in which he gave the Raiders a 13-12 lead by kicking an extra point, only to have Quincy's Noel Balducci score the second of his two touchdowns in the final period to give the Presidents a 19-13 win.

He was 3-3 as coach against Quincy. He led the Raiders to three straight victories over the Presidents in 1971, '72 and '73.

Jimmy Fund Hockey At Arena

The New England Pro-Am Hockey League, which plays at the Quincy Youth Arena, will hold its second annual Jimmy Fund all-star game tonight (Thursday) at 7 o'clock.

A number of pro players, including former Bruin Craig McTavish, and many outstanding college players, will play in the Jimmy Fund game.

The league, under the direction of co-founders Bob and Mike O'Connell, has attracted over 800 players who compete in one of four divisions: Freshman/sophomore, high school, junior and senior. The league showcases the top talent available in the area with all games at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Beginning Aug. 15, the junior division will again host an invitational junior tournament. Teams from Chicago, Detroit and New York will be joining the New England Juniors in a four-day, round robin tournament.

Recreation Dept. Adds Football Camp

Football has been added to the program of self-supportive summer instructional camps offered by the Quincy Recreation Department.

According to Barry J. Welch, Director of Recreation, the non-contact football camp will emphasize fundamental skills necessary to play in this sport. Prior exposure to the sport of football will not be necessary.

The camp will be co-directed by Ken McPhee, head coach of North Quincy High School and Jack Raymer, head coach of Quincy High School. They will be assisted by members of the staffs of the Quincy Youth Football League. The program will include individual drills, demonstrations, video tapes, films and lectures.

The camp costs $17 and will be conducted from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. August 5-9 at Faxon Field. The program is for boys age 11-14 years. Registration must be done in advance weekdays at the Recreation Department, 100 South Artery, Quincy, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. No registration will be taken at the campsites.

For additional information call the Quincy Recreation Department at 773-1380 ext. 204.

Agganis Game Bus

The North Quincy Football Boosters Club is sponsoring a bus to the annual Harry Agganis Football Classic Friday night at Landrigan Field in Wakefield.

The bus will leave North Quincy High School at 6 p.m. Game time is 7:30.

North Quincy coach Ken McPhee, who played in the game in 1966 when he was an all-scholastic lineman on North Quincy's undefeated team, will be one of the assistant coaches for the West team.

Defensive tackle Al DiBella and running back Steve Kelly of North Quincy and quarterback Bill Shaugnessy and fullback Joe Cullen of Quincy will

Festival To Benefit Sheltering Coalition

A festival to benefit the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition will be held Friday, August 23, at Pageant Field and the new Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre. Merry Mount Park, Quincy.

Proceeds will be used to assist the Coalition in its sheltering the homeless of the Quincy-South Shore area during the coming winter months.

Last winter the Coalition aided some 200 homeless and hungry individuals through its shelter program at the Salvation Army headquarters and St.

John's Parochial school in Quincy.

The festival will consist of a fair, special booths and a talent variety show.

Nancy Powers, Coalition executive director, said there is an urgent need for volunteers to assist in putting on the festival. Persons interested in helping may contact Mrs. Powers at 472-2345.

The Coalition is made up of 45 churches, social and civic agencies in the Quincy area. The group was formed two years ago to help the homeless and hungry of the area.

Blueberry Bonanza Aug. 3-4

Chickatawbut Hill, located in the Quincy section of the Blue Hills, will hold a blueberry picking bonanza Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 3 and 4 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

MetroParks naturalists will assist and direct pickers to big, blue, blueberries.

Call 828-9146 or 727-5215 for further information.

Lori Fitzpatrick Pageant Contestant

Lori M. Fitzpatrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Fitzpatrick of 105 Oxenbridge Rd., Wollaston, has been selected as an entrant in the 1985 Little Miss Junior Massachusetts Pageant to be held Sunday, Aug. 11 at the Sheraton Lincoln Inn, Worcester.

This state event will select Massachusetts' representative to the Little Miss Junior America Pageant staged at the Sheraton Bal Harbour on Miami Beach, Fla., in October.

Lori was selected as an Entrant-At-Large and will be competing with girls from all over Massachusetts for the title of Little Miss Jr. Massachusetts.

She is a student at Sacred Heart School, Quincy, and participates in Girl Scouts, Quincy Track Club, and Sacred Heart Choir.

LORI M. FITZPATRICK

Her other activities include biking, swimming, running and attending LaFemmina Model & Finishing School, East Milton.

Maria, Rene Rancourt At Summerfest '85

Maria and Rene Rancourt, a husband and wife vocal duo, were scheduled to perform last night (Wednesday) as part of Summerfest '85.

Sponsored by the Quincy Sons of Italy lodge, it was to be held 7 to 9 p.m. at the Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre in Merry Mount Park, off Southern Artery.

Bus service was to be provided beginning at 6:45 p.m. from City Hall. The bus was to return passengers to City Hall after the performance.

The event was to be the first complete performance at the Amphitheatre since Ruth Gordon's appearance last November, according to Joseph J. LaRaia, cultural commission president.

7 Receive Bike Rodeo Awards

Seven Quincy youths were awarded certificates in a bicycle rodeo and safety course program at the Ward 2 Community Center, 16 Nevada Rd.

The event was sponsored jointly by the community center, Norfolk County Extension Service 4-H program, and the Quincy Police Department.

Along with the road safety course these participants had to correctly complete a series of maneuvers through a marked course before receiving their certificates. They were:

Richard Bagen, 74 Littlefield St.; Kelli and Matt Langille, 30 Edison St.; Carmen Lorenzano, 74 Germaine Ave.; Keith Martinson, 1 Odem St.; Dan Piccini, 114 Baxter Ave.

The bicycle rodeo and safety course program was directed by Playground Director Patti McBride; Safety Officer Tony Pollaro; Norfolk Extension Agent Jay Field.

STARSCOPE

by Clare Annsell

WEEK OF: JULY 25.

AQUARIUS — January 21-February 19
Thursday Monday goes on financial dealings. It's important that you read all the fine print. Property transactions are highlighted. Romantic partner responds to sentimental approach.

PISCES — February 20-March 20
Thursday Tuesday offers opportunities for business out or entering into partnership arrangements. Financial undertakings need meticulous research. In romance, spontaneity is the key word.

ARIES — March 21-April 20
Week finds you involved in public speaking engagements. Verbal skills are sharp, winning you a key admirer. Travel is in picture. You may return to a much favored destination.

TAURUS — April 21-May 22
Investigation is the keyword. Scrutiny beneath the surface before forming an opinion. Absent minded streak can lead to embarrassing situation, but sense of humor saves the day.

GEMINI — May 23-June 21
Look for new interests that complement existing ones. Period marks the beginning of a friendship cycle, either you forge a new relationship or a present one is significantly enhanced.

CANCER — June 22-July 22
Business usually well with pleasure, so long as one doesn't distract you from the other. Friend from long ago may contact you. You may take an interest in psychic studies.

LEO — July 23-August 22
Honor is the keyword, both at work and in community projects. You take on a leadership role, whether you choose it or you're chosen. Puzzles are solved by Wednesday.

VIRGO — August 23-September 22
Scientific study is highlighted this period, you may make some useful discoveries. You excel at bringing friends together, and this week they return the favor.

LIBRA — September 23-October 22
Surprises highlight the week, and companion may shock even you with his or her unpredictability. You can express feelings through a new medium, possibilities include painting, poetry, or sculpture.

SCORPIO — October 23-November 21
Self discipline is strong and it's a good week to launch a diet. Self confidence may dip, however, but rises again by Tuesday. Guarantees aren't foolproof. Buyer, beware!

SAGITTARIUS — November 22-December 22
Good week for tending to such ordinary tasks as bookkeeping and filing. Travel ideas may be offbeat, avoid acting impulsively here. Partner may be unexpectedly dramatic.

CAPRICORN — December 23-January 20
Gardening or working with plants is highlighted this week. Decorating is featured too, you have a way with colors. One caution: watch for slick salespeople and "irresistible" deals.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Your strengths include generosity and enthusiasm and creativity. You express yourself in a theatrical way. But you tend to steal the spotlight from others and are sometimes bossy. A cooperative approach leads to financial gains by mid-'86. The key is to share center stage.

BORN THIS WEEK
July 25th, writer Neil Jones, 26th, singer Mick Jagger, 27th, director Norman Lear, 28th, actress Sally Struthers, 29th, actor Robert Iler, 30th, director Peter Bogdanovich, 31st, actor Dan Murray.

MDA Swim-A-Thon At Hancock Pool

The Quincy Swim-A-Thon to benefit muscular dystrophy will be held today (Thursday) at the Lincoln Hancock Community School Pool, 300 Granite St., from 5:30 to 8:45 p.m.

Swimming instructors from the Quincy Recreation Department will again participate in this 8th year of the Swim-A-Thon which has raised over $25,000 for the fight against muscular dystrophy.

The event is sponsored by the Quincy South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee in conjunction with the Lincoln Hancock Community School Council and the leaders of the Quincy Recreation Department.

Co-chairmen of this Swim-A-Thon are Nancy Joyce, Supervisor of Swimming for the Quincy Recreation Department, Ron Iacabucci, Chairman of the Lincoln Hancock Community School Council, and Barry J. Welch, Director of Recreation.

Those participants in the Swim-A-Thon obtain pledges for laps they swim in the A.A.U. size pool. The event is open to children and adults.

Recreation swim instructors expected to participate are:

Wrestling Camp Opens July 29

The Quincy Recreation Department has re-scheduled the wrestling camp it conducts as part of its summer sports camp program.

The camp will now be conducted July 29 to Aug. 1 at Quincy Vo-Tech from 6 to 8 p.m. and registration will begin immediately at the Quincy Recreation Department, 100 Southern Artery. Advance registration is required, and is taken on a first-come, first-served basis from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays until July 26. No registration will be taken at the door. The cost is $16.

The camp is open to all boys from the ages of 11 to 17 years. The camp will focus on presenting the fundamentals of wrestling, so that prior exposure to the training and conditioning as they apply to wrestling will also be stressed. Each camper will be taught and drilled in the proper procedure of successful takedowns, escapes, reversals, and pinning combinations and will be given plenty of opportunity to apply what he has learned through actual competition. All competition will be by weight and awards will be given to the most successful competitors.

For additional information call the Quincy Recreation Department at 773-1380, ext. 204.

Con Com Meeting

A regular public meeting of the Quincy Conservation Commission was scheduled to be held last night (Wednesday) in the second floor conference room at Quincy City Hall.

First on the agenda at the 7:30 p.m. meeting was the Northeast Quincy Trust — removal of existing debris, fill, install retaining wall, pave and revegetate property at 81-111 Brackett St.

Also scheduled was a discussion with Public Works Commissioner Paul N. Anderson, on the construction of interceptor sewers located on East Howard St., Cleverly Ct., Furnace Brook Parkway, and lands off of Frederick, Adele and Willards Sts.

Suffers Burns

Mark Carolan of 356 Washington St., Quincy, suffered first and second degree burns on his hands as a result of a fire which originated in a wastebasket in his apartment's living room and caused an estimated $1,500 damage.

Carolan was taken to Quincy City Hospital where he was treated and released.

Careless disposal of smoking material is suspected as the cause, according to Dep. Chief Thomas Gorman.

Coliform Count High At Wollaston

By DAN CONNELLY

Two Quincy officials sampled the water at Wollaston Beach Tuesday, as worry about pollution continued to keep swimmers away from city beaches.

Ward 1 Councillor Michael Cheney accompanied Acting Health Commissioner Dick Stuart as they waded knee deep into the water and conducted a water sampling to determine the various levels of possible water pollution.

This test is done every Tuesday, but the results won't be back until Thursday from a Bedford laboratory, said Stuart.

The newly formed Massachusetts Water Resources Authority, which also tests water quality at 34 Boston area beaches, checks for bacteria on Wednesday. Those results should also be available on Thursday.

Cheney, in a letter to Philip Shapiro, Acting Executive Director of the authority said: "The water samples taken by the Quincy Health Department July 23, indicates that the coliform count of 1400 parts per million exceeds the State Standard for Wollaston Beach which is 500 to 700 parts per million."

"The high coliform counts, in my opinion, are directly related to the inefficient treatment of sewage at the Nut Island Sewage Treatment Plant. I would like to request that the authority fund a shoreline sampling program of Quincy beaches for the remainder of the summer."

Stuart tested 16 other beaches where the city recreation department holds swimming classes. These beaches include: Parkhurst, Edgewater Drive, Rhode Street, Sea and Babcock, Post Island Road, all in Houghs Neck area, and two other beaches in Germantown. When bacteria results are known he will announce an immediate advisory to swimmers.

"There is no reason in the world why Quincy residents should have to put up with this for another day," said Cheney. "It is an issue that involves the public health and well being of all the citizens of Quincy. Something must be done!"

Cheney also recommended the new water authority adopt the following schedule relative to water quality:

- Samples be taken on a biweekly basis.

Layoffs Continue

Toyota Plant Sought For Shipyard

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Mayor Francis McCauley has written to the president of Toyota Motor Corporation urging him to consider Quincy, and particularly the General Dynamics site, as the location for a plant in the United States.

The action followed the announcement last week by Gary S. Grimes, vice president-general manager, that the shipyard will close in mid-1986 after completing the Maritime Prepositioning Ships under contract.

Layoffs of the over 4,000 workers have already begun.

In the July 30, letter to Choeichiro Toyoda, McCauley stated that he was aware that Toyota is searching for a site to build a plant in this country.

"Our city has experienced a recent surge in economic development which has resulted in our emergence as a primary focus for suburban office and commercial development in the New England area," wrote McCauley. "I believe this to be a result of our premier location, a strong work force and a progressive city government."

"Quincy also has a long standing traditional blue collar work force for the most part employed in the industry of shipbuilding. General Dynamics, a major defense contractor, with a waterfront shipbuilding facility of about 180 acres, has recently announced that it will be closing its Quincy plant."

"Needless to say, this is a tremendous blow to not only the city's economy but to that of the region."

"I would urge you to consider Quincy for your plant location and I personally wish to assist you in whatever manner that I may in your examination of a Quincy location."

An information packet from the Planning Department was sent to Toyoda as well.

The Planning Department has also sent such packets to companies interested in commercial and residential uses for the shipyard, according to James Lydon, Planning Director.

Lydon said that from a rash of inquiries he has had five serious calls from substantial organizations interested in the site.

"To put that shipyard back to business one way or another is the challenge before us now," said Councillor Patricia Toland whose Blue Ribbon Task Force on General Dynamics will meet today (Thursday) at 2:30 p.m. in the second floor conference room of New City Hall.

Secretary of Labor Paul Eustace, a member of the Governor's cabinet, will address the group on the role the state will play in the relocation and retraining of workers from the Quincy shipyard, she said.

Mrs. Toland said, "Secretary Eustace has been a very effective member of Governor Dukakis' cabinet. He will, I am sure, contribute much to our understanding of the role that the state with all its resources can play in alleviating the many problems associated with a plant closing when it is of a magnitude of General Dynamics."

Grimes will be unable to attend the meeting because of the shutdown of the shipyard for a two week vacation, said Mrs. Toland. Councillor Joanne Condon said that a Forum for Concerned citizens, Employees and Businessmen to Save the Shipbuilding Industry in Quincy will be held Monday, Aug. 5, at 7 p.m. in the council chambers at City Hall.

"This meeting will be called to discuss the continuation of shipbuilding in Quincy which has existed for over 100 years and which is an integral part of our history," said Mrs. Condon. "The purpose of the forum is to work with both General Dynamics and elected officials to either

Radar Unit To Combat Speeders On QSD

The Metropolitan Police are now armed with a new radar unit to help them in their war against speeding, and one of the critical locations where it will be used is Quincy Shore Drive. Fifteen Kustom Hr-12 hand-held radar units, considered state-of-the-art equipment, will assist the Metropolitan District Commission law enforcement unit in implementing a new intensive traffic enforcement program.

Besides Quincy Shore Drive, other areas to receive extra patrol with the new units will be Centre St., West Roxbury, and Old Colony Ave., South Boston.

Those locations are designated high accident zones and as a result, the Metro Police are forewarning motorists to slow down and obey traffic regulations. The likelihood of getting caught in one of the intensive enforcement radar zones is a lot greater with the new radar units.

Stock Bonanza For Cable TV Investors

Because two investors expressed an interest in selling their stock in Quincy Cable television system, American Cablesystem is offering to buy and all of the shares owned by 21 minority shareholders for more than 12 times the original price of $100.

The parent company of Quincy cable said the $1.270 per share price now offered was determined by American to fairly reflect its estimate of the current value of Quincy Cablesystems.

The 21 investors, including 13 individuals and eight non-profit Quincy groups, bought 20 percent of the stock for $100 a share in the fledgling company in 1981. American owns the remaining 80 percent of the Quincy franchise.

The following is a list of 21 charter investors:

Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall, developer Peter O'Connell, Sam Mele, a scout and former player for the Boston Red Sox, Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Also, Cerebral Palsy Association of the South Shore, David J. Keefe, American Cablesystems' regional manager, Boston Attorney Thomas E. Finnerty, The Rev. M. Alicia Corea and Boston trial lawyer Lawrence F. O'Donnell.

Also, Joseph Donovan, Paul Kelly, 59ers Building Association of North Quincy, Albert Slate, Quincy Teen Mothers Program, Quincy Youth Hockey, and South Shore YMCA.

Also, Richard Sweeney Jr., Peter Valle, Andrew Walsh, 1000 Southern Artery Senior Citizens Center, and Ward 2 Civic Association.

American also owns cable systems in Milton, Randolph, Scituate, Hingham, Hull, Cohasset, and Norwood, and is in the process of acquiring County Cable TV of Hanover and Community Cable of Dedham.

Change In Fishing Licenses

The right to fish under non-commercial lobster and crab licenses will now apply to members of the licenseholder's immediate family as well as to the holder himself, State Senator Paul D. Harold reported this week.

Under new legislation effective Aug. 6, the non-commercial permits authorize the holder and "members of the holder's immediate family living in the same residence as the holder" to take lobsters and edible crabs, but only by the use of pots.

Sentator Harold noted that non-commercial licenses allow the taking of the shellfish only for consumption, and not for sale.

The new law sets a limit of one license per family in a household, and allows a maximum of ten pots or traps at any one time.

Deputy Chief Jackson Injured In Accident

Quincy Fire Department Deputy Chief Joseph Jackson was injured in a four-car accident Monday night while on his way to a fire at the closed Bowldrome on Quincy Shore Drive.

Jackson, who was alone in the car, was taken to Quincy City Hospital where he was treated and released. He received a mild concussion, cuts and abrasions, and hurt his left shoulder, said Dep. Chief Carl Valenti, and will be out for a short period of time.

The car was a total wreck, Valenti said.

Also taken to QCH where they were treated and released were Stephen Doherty, 28, of 25 Morse St., Wollaston, operator of one of the cars, and his passengers, Deborah, and Michael, 18 months; and Michael Fredenburg, 24, of 190 Beach St., Quincy, operator of one of the other cars.

The third car was operated by Timothy Morrison, 18, of 55 Gridley

St., West Quincy.

According to Valenti, Jackson came to almost a full stop at the intersection of Coddington St. and Southern Artery before proceeding with caution with siren blaring and lights flashing.

Jackson was three fourths through the intersection when his car was struck. Two other cars were also involved in the accident.

"Deputy Jackson exercised all of the precautions that he's trained to take," said Valenti.

When Jackson was taken to QCH, Dep. Chief Thomas Gorman took over at the small fire inside the bowldrome which was quickly extinguished, Valenti said.

No estimate of damage was available for the fire which was apparently caused by a molotov cocktail tossed inside the building, Valenti said.

The Fire Prevention Bureau is investigating, he said.

DeCristofaro Urges Boat Landing At Quincy Lumber

Quincy's Ward 2 councillor has proposed to the Metropolitan District Commission the possible purchase of the Quincy Lumber Yard on Southern Artery for use as a public boat landing.

Ted DeCristofaro in his letter to Commissioner William J. Geary said: "Although the City of Quincy has 26 miles of waterfront, the city does not have a public boat landing."

"This is a prime location for this type of facility because it is on a main street and not close to any residences."

"There is enough space to allow a passive area as well as a boat ramp -- possibly a fishing pier that would be used for pleasure fishing and other forms of relaxation."

He said the MDC has inspected the property and initiated discussions with the present owner, and urges the MDC to move forward with the acquisition of this property, either by negotiated purchase or eminent domain.

DeCristofaro said he pledges his cooperation to that agency in working toward the establishment of a public boat landing facility and a recreation/relaxation area.

Johnson Says No Evidence Found In QJC Alleged Entrance

By DAN CONNELLY

No evidence was found concerning an alleged entrance into a file cabinet in the Learning Resource Center at Quincy Junior College said President O. Clayton Johnson.

Johnson told The Quincy Sun a prompt investigation was conducted and a report filed indicating no such evidence was found to support such claim.

He was referring to a suggestion made at a Quincy School Committee meeting July 24 by a librarian, Susan Riley of Hingham, that the president of the college had taken papers from her office.

Johnson, in a statement said:

"During an emotional time when one is personally defending continuation of his, or her career, it is very reasonable to suspect that unsubstantiated statements might be made.

"As I recall what was said during the committee meeting I do not recall that Mrs. Riley indicated that a specific person may have removed the alleged file. Rather, she seems to have indicated that a file belonging to a former employee who resigned over a month prior to the alleged entrance, was missing. Given the emotion of the moment and where there is no counter view presented, it is easy for misinterpretation and uncertainty to occur, and for incorrect assumptions to reach the public."

The school committee had ordered an investigation into staff members' charges after they listened to allegations of union busting at the college and favoritism at Quincy Vocational - Technical School, and the alleged suggestion of a missing file folder. The charges were brought by tenured teachers and librarians at the two schools who were scheduled to be laid off.

Johnson's statement continued: "The truth is that the school committee exercised responsibility assigned by indicating to the college administration that, given priority for a quality education, it desires to maintain an enhanced LRC staff serving day and evening at this time.

"The administration of the college accepts those policy directions and will carry out those goals by making necessary budgetary adjustment. While the decision was a difficult one for the committee, no fault can be found in the reasonableness of the intent to provide students with quality educational supporting services.

"In my opinion we should not let limited concerns overshadow the continuing, and difficult, financial needs of the college, which receives no public funds for support. The issue of quality continuation will not be solved by continuing to recommend reduction in staff to achieve an annual balanced budget. The future will only become brighter by securing additional funds to extend and enhance the educational services provide.

"Throughout my tenure at Quincy Junior College the school committee has reinforced the need to maintain a college in this community and region, and every member thereof has been understanding of that value and supportive of our future.

"In addition, everywhere I go through our city, I am personally met with warmth, support and best wishes for our future.

"Citizens, city officials, community and business leaders, school personnel, faculty and students have been understanding, supportive and helpful. I think that we now need together to get on with the job of making our college the best in the Commonwealth."

Boston, Quincy Should Work Together On Long Island Future

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Now that Long Island has been rescued from the fate of being the site of a sewage treatment plant, what plans are being implemented to insure that Long Island does, in fact, become that cornerstone for harbor recreational activity?

Will Long Island be more than a chronic hospital or homeless shelter site? Will it become county country despite statements to the contrary by Quincy and Boston politicians during the debate over Deer or Long Island as a treatment plant site?

Long Island is an underused harbor island and far from an oasis for tired city dwellers. I wouldn't swim off its coastline and could think of far more tranquil surroundings to relax in.

I urge both Boston Mayor Ray Flynn and Quincy Mayor Frank McCauley to create a citizens committee made up of residents of both communities to develop some land-use options for the future of Long Island. Both cities must be willing to jointly develop the island. Boston may own the island but access is through Quincy. A joint solution to the island's future may well be the only viable course.

A lot of promises were made during the Deer Island vs. Long Island debate and now is the time to show the commitment behind them.

Praise For QJC

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

With all the unfavorable comments being tossed around re: Quincy Junior College it seems to me that a little "good news" couldn't hurt.

I am upset at the number of supposedly intelligent people who continually make it a point to say something negative about our schools. So Massasoit has a pool — big deal. If my kids want to learn to swim they can join the 'Y'.

The campus and/or physical features do not have any influence on the education taking place inside the buildings.

I have had the pleasure of having two children enrolled at Quincy Junior College this summer. My daughter Carole is presently enrolled in the evening division as part of the requirement for an Associate Degree in Hotel/Restaurant Management. My son Robert just finished an exciting two weeks at the Summer Institute for Gifted/Talented Children. This by itself is not such a world shattering news item, but I wonder if any other family has two children enrolled in the same college at the same time with 13 years difference in their ages! (She is 24, he is 11).

There is one thing I would like to say — I believe that we have some of the best teachers that you could find anywhere. It isn't often that you find children from fifth grade to high school seniors happily going off to school in the summer.

Arts And Crafts Display Thursday, Friday

The annual Arts and Crafts display featuring projects made by participants of the city's 26 supervised playgrounds will be held today (Thursday), and Friday, at McIntyre Mall, Quincy Sq.

The display will be open from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and the public will be asked to cast a ballot on their favorite project.

The project receiving the most votes will be designated "City Champion" and participants from the winning party will receive gift certificates provided by area merchants. The businesses providing prizes for this year's competition are: McDonald's Restaurant, Baskin Robbins Ice Cream, and Friendly's Ice Cream.

The display is under the supervision of Arts and Crafts specialists: Karen Robertson, Kimberly Curran, and Lisa Ventola.

The Pageant: A Fun Night

Well, you can't please everyone.

An estimated crowd of 3,000 took in this year's Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant and, from the reaction, enjoyed it.

But, the Patriot Ledger didn't.

In a recent article, a staff writer took a pot shot at the pageant which has become a local summer tradition.

He said it was the first live pageant he ever attended and from where he sat, it was a "cattle show."

All physical, no talent, he complained.

"I was equally revolted by the whole scene as my companion, a woman," he wrote.

Well, maybe they should have gotten up and left and given their seats to someone who might have appreciated them.

A lot of work goes into putting on this pageant and those responsible deserve a little credit — not undue negative criticism.

Because of outdoor physical limitations at Quincy Center Plaza, in downtown Quincy, there really is no room for a talent category unless all the talent was restricted to singing.

Where, for example, could a ballet dancer or an acrobat perform without risk of injury or landing in the middle of Baron Hugo's band?

If the pageant were held inside in a large auditorium, a talent category certainly would be considered.

But, the fact that the pageant is held outdoors on a summer night right in the heart of downtown Quincy makes for a pleasant evening and adds to the fun of it.

That's what is and what it is intended to be: a pleasant, fun night, with some lovely — and nice — young ladies competing for the title of Miss Quincy Bay and over $3,000 in prizes.

The final winner of the pageant is not judged solely on how she looks in a swimsuit or evening gown, but for poise — and how she answers a question she is hearing for the first time.

The Miss Quincy Bay Pageant has never been billed as a preliminary event to the Miss America Pageant, or Miss USA or Miss Universe.

It is strictly a local beauty pageant.

Those who enter it — win or lose — seem to find it fun, and a good experience and when it is over, have a fond memory to cherish through the years.

It's not a "cattle show."

It's a pleasant, fun night. Period!

THE DEATH OF Kay Kyser saddens anyone who still appreciates the "big band" era. He had one of the most successful bands and radio programs, "Kollege of Musical Knowledge," back in those days of talented musicians, and singers and music you liked to dance to.

For Frank Mitchell of Quincy Cooperative Bank, Win Bettinson of WJDA, and myself, Kay's death is a tremendous loss.

We three got to know him when he was film and broadcast director at the Christian Science Mother Church in Boston in 1979.

Mitchell made the arrangements for us to get together

Don't Leave Handbags In Shopping Carts

Quincy police are cautioning woman shoppers not to leave their pocketbooks unattended in carts while doing their shopping.

The warning followed a number of thefts, including three Saturday.

Two women, Anne Falzone of Blue Hill Parkway, Milton, and Catherine Main of Martensen St., reported their wallets stolen while they were shopping at Shaw's, Quincy Ave.

Miss Falzone said her wallet with $55 cash, and ID card were taken. Miss Main said her wallet with $26 and a door and mail box keys were stolen.

Miss Falzone said that the only person near her cart was a black female, about five foot seven inches, 120 pounds, in her early 20's with a loose, Afro style haircut, wearing jeans and a lilac T-shirt with a black male wearing a baseball cap.

Two black males and a black female were seen leaving the parking lot in an old brown car at a high rate of speed, police said.

A few hours later, Mary

E. Julian of King St., Dorchester, reported to police the theft of her tan leather pocketbook containing $45 from her shopping cart at the Stop & Shop, Newport Ave.

Miss Julian told police her car keys, license, checkbook and credit cards were also stolen when she turned her back to her cart.

New Law On Fences Along Highways

is not removed, the DPW may move it onto the owner's land, or take it to the nearest DPW maintenance area. Senator Harold said, if the object is taken to the maintenance area, the owner will have three weeks to claim it, or it may be destroyed.

Harold noted that the legal principle of "adverse possession", by which ownership of land may be claimed after 20 years' occupancy, does not apply to state land or state highway layouts.

HANK PASQUERELLA has found his own versions of "dog days" while campaigning for mayor in Quincy's six wards.

"All the dogs I have met have come equipped with a barking mechanism," he says. "I do believe in freedom of speech, but freedom of bark certainly tests the limits of our fair constitution."

"So far, my campaign rhetoric has been limited to "nice doggie, good doggie, don't make so much noise, doggie."

Pasquerella says that one dog owned by an elderly woman in Ward 4 really didn't like him.

"The dog was chewing my leg from ankle to my knee cap. The lady kept saying, 'Bad dog, bad dog.'"

"I said, 'Lady, haven't you got any stronger words in your vocabulary?'"

"After the dog got through with me, the lady told me she was voting for Joanne Condon. I got even with her. I told her her dog had bad breath."

Pasquerella adds that he was delivering flyers to a house in Ward 2 and came across a sign on the door that read, "Beware, Barking Mother-in-law."

"I wasn't taking any chances," he says. "I fled."

Boys Convince Ross Of Need For New Ball Field

Mayor Charles A. Ross announced plans to convert five acres of city-owned land off Sea and Palmer Sts. into a new playground and baseball field.

The Mayor's disclosure came after a meeting with four youngsters from Germantown and Adams Shore, who convinced him of the difficulties arising out of sharing their pasture field with a herd of cows.

"There has been a great deal of discussion about other uses for the shipyard, but before we pursue these uses, or 'throw in the towel' so to speak, I feel very strongly that we have not done enough 'leg work' to keep this historic facility in our city."

Mayor McCauley said that he will call a meeting in mid to late August of South Shore economic and real estate leaders to discuss the future of the General Dynamics site.

Among those that will be invited are Gary Grimes, of General Dynamics Quincy Shipbuilding Division; Ron Zooleck, Executive Director of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce; Peter and William O'Connell, of the O'Connell Company; Thomas Flatley of The Flatley Company; Donald Moulton of Meredith & Grew; Paul and Steve Ricciardi of the Ricciardi Company; Charles Pearce

Chairman of the Quincy Savings Bank; Steve Gillig, President of QCBPA; James A. Sheets, Quincy City Council president; James Lydon, Planning Director; Arthur Foley, Mayor's Office; a representative from Senator Paul Harlow's office and a representative of Congressman Brian Donnelly's office.

"Purpose of the meeting is to discuss and begin to elaborate upon elements of General Dynamics' closure statement," said McCauley. "To initiate coordination or action between state, federal and local government, and to begin to discuss future options that are available to both General Dynamics and the city and to begin to formulate a uniform government policy."

"While we are all disheartened by the closing of an institution that has long been part of this community," said McCauley, "Quincy is in a very positive position."

"With this one exception, our economy, because of our economic development efforts, has never been stronger, and our unemployment rate has never been lower."

Coliform Count High At Wollaston

• In the event that the coliform count exceeds the state minimum standards, the authority take daily samples of the water in Quincy Bay until such time as the coliform count meets water quality standards, thereafter returning to biweekly testing.

• That the authority contact the Nut Island Sewer Treatment Plant personnel and inform them of the high coliform counts in order that they may diagnose and correct any problems within the plant, and adjust the level of chlorine and pre-chlorination.

• The authority send a copy of all findings, on a biweekly basis, to the designated Quincy city officials.

Ron Iacobucci, candidate for City Councilor-at-large, requested in a letter to Mayor Francis X. McCauley that the city health department monitor and publicize water sample test results on a daily basis so that people can make their own judgement on the condition of beach areas.

"The Quincy Health Department has a responsibility to monitor the water samples and issue warning or close down the beach areas," said Iacobucci, "but there is always a grey area with numbers, for example, when the coliform count is high but not dangerous, the public has a right to know and make their own assessment before swimming."

Iacobucci added: "I ask the Quincy Sun and the Metropolitan District Commission to work with the City so that this information can be published and posted on a daily basis. This is a valuable city service for the summer months and it is little to ask when the public safety and health are at stake."

Safe Swimming Tips

Because of Quincy's proximity to bathing beaches, Liberty Mutual Insurance is urging residents, and visitors to the city's beaches, to observe the following swimming related reminders for a safer, fun-filled summer.

- Know how to swim; approximately 6,500 people die in the U.S. each year from drowning.
- Teach children to swim.
- Choose safe places where the water is free from pollution, currents or undertows.
- Only warning signs; select a location supervised by a qualified lifeguard.
- Wait one hour after a meal to avoid stomach cramps.

• Persons under the influence of alcohol are highly susceptible to drowning.

• Get out of the water if you begin to feel tired or cold, as cold muscles are more likely to develop cramps.

• If you get into trouble swimming, remain calm.

• Learn rescue methods.

• Avoid swimming after dark.

The insurance firm also warns that many people are severely injured each year from diving into the shallow waters, or hidden underwater objects.

Mr., Mrs. Joseph LeBlanc Celebrate 50th Anniversary

A Mass of Thanksgiving was held recently at the Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, to celebrate the 50th Wedding Anniversary of Joseph E. and Marion (MacPhee) LeBlanc of North Quincy.

A reception with 145 guests followed at Lantana, Randolph.

Guests included their Matron of Honor and Best Man, Christine and Lawrence Kerr of Newton. Guests came from California, Canada, Michigan and Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. LeBlanc are the parents of two daughters, Mrs. Eileen Trainor of Bakersfield, Calif., and Mrs. Anne Quintiliani of North Quincy. They are the grandparents of seven granddaughters who were all in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. LeBlanc were married at Sacred Heart Church, Newton, on June 29, 1935. They have lived at their present address in North Quincy for 42 years. Mr. LeBlanc was a Firefighter for the City of Quincy for 33 years before retiring 14 years ago.

MRS. HAZEL GENEREAU, left, newly elected president of the Quincy City Hospital Auxiliary, accepts the gavel from outgoing president Mrs. Marion DeSantis.

Hazel Genereau Elected QCH Auxiliary President

Hazel Genereau of Quincy was recently elected president of Quincy City Hospital Auxiliary at the organization's recent meeting at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

The gavel was passed from Mrs. Marion DeSantis of Quincy, who has served as president for the past two years, to Mrs. Genereau, a six-year veteran of the QCH Auxiliary.

A unanimous decision of the general membership produced a revision in the by-laws of the QCH Womens Auxiliary, to change its name to the QCH Auxiliary, effective immediately, thus opening membership to both men and women.

Other newly-elected members of the QCH Auxiliary include Ruth Dahlgren, first vice president; Carol Herbai, second vice president; Rita Lynch, treasurer; Esther Weeden, assistant treasurer; Adelle O'Brien, recording secretary; Corine McNeice, corresponding secretary.

The Board of Directors will include Marion

DeSantis as a director for three years, Esther Weeden for two years, and Helen MacIntosh for a one year term.

Mrs. Genereau's first official act was to thank Mrs. DeSantis for the job she had done over the past two years as president of the auxiliary.

During that time, the auxiliary worked on behalf of the hospital, operating the Cherry Gift Shop, and overseeing the Coffee Shop, as well as holding its traditional Thanksmas Fair and Holiday Mini Fairs at the hospital.

The auxiliary has also donated hospital equipment and new furnishings for patients' rooms.

Mark J. Mundy, Quincy City Hospital director, expressed the appreciation of the hospital to the QCH Auxiliary for its generosity and kindness.

'Food For The Journey' Sermon At Bethany

During the summer at Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Centre, there will be only one worship service at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

This Sunday, August 4, the Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach the sermon entitled, "Food for the Journey," based on texts from 1 Kings 19:1-8 and the Book of Acts 9:1-19. Sandra S. Jones will be the lay scripture reader.

Holy Communion will be celebrated. Deacons and deaconesses serving the communion will be Irene Belcher, Carol Massey, Harry Massey, and Kinya Mikami.

The service will be broadcast by delayed tape at 11 a.m. over radio station WJDA, 1300 kc. Wendell Cosgrove will give the communion commentary during the broadcast.

Guest instrumentalist will be George Vallarini who will play as the offertory the violin solo, "Sonata No. 12 in D Minor" by Corelli. The second selection will be J. S. Bach's "Arioso" with Mr. Vallarini playing the viola. Bethany's organist, Peter E. Krasinski will be at the console, performing two compositions by Jean Langlais, "Pastoral Song" as the prelude and "Pastificio" as the postlude.

Nursery care for babies and toddlers will be provided during the worship.

A fellowship hour will be held in the Allen Parlor at 11 a.m. following the service. Individuals and families from the community are cordially invited to attend and share in both the worship and fellowship.

Bethany will join with other churches in the greater Boston area in ringing its church bell on Tuesday, August 6, for 10 minutes beginning at 8:15 a.m. This is in remembrance of the dropping of the first atomic bomb which fell on Hiroshima, Japan, 40 years ago.

For additional information about Bethany's ministries and programs, contact the church office at 479-7300.

Campaign Drive At First Church Of Squantum

The Board of Trustees of the First Church of Squantum have announced the beginning of a financial campaign to raise money for the improvement of the church building and the parsonage. The campaign will run from Aug. 1 to Sept. 8.

Board Chairman Luther Swenson said that a letter was being sent to all the members and friends of the church this week telling them about the drive.

"It's all part of a five-year plan developed a little over a year ago," Swenson explained. "The first year we raised money to put a new roof on our church building. Now that's done and we want to move on."

"The money being raised this time will go for improvements to the parsonage, rewiring, roofing and siding, and for improvements to the church building, new doors on the front and back, overhead ceiling fans in the sanctuary, some additional insulation on the top floor, protective panels over the stained glass windows in the sanctuary and a new fellowship hall floor."

Barbara Anderson, Chairman of the Stewardship Committee, said that her committee hoped that persons receiving the appeal would complete the pledgecard and return it to the church, either by mail or by way of the offering plate, on or before Sunday, Sept. 8.

"On that morning," Anderson said, "we hope to dedicate all the pledges that have come in. We expect a good response because that's the kind of people we have. When they know the need, they give very well."

Sunday morning there were two services at the church. During the first, church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin preached the fourth sermon in his series on the novels of S.E. Hinton. This one, on the characters in Hinton's novel "Tex", was entitled, "When Life Seems Less Than Perfect."

Robert Dixey and David Ahern were ushers. Guitarists Andrew Ogilvie, Steven Williams and Mary Ruth Scott provided the music.

At the second service, Dr. Langevin spoke on the subject, "The Only Sure Thing about the Future." His text was Psalm 139.

Tore Wallin and Stewart Scott were ushers. Special music was played by violinist James Sumner accompanied by Mary Ruth Scott.

During August there will be only one service at the church each Sunday at 9:30 a.m. Visitors are welcome.

St. Boniface Festival Starts Aug. 7

St. Boniface Parish will hold its 25th annual four-day summer festival from Aug. 7 - 10 on the church grounds, Palmer and Shed Sts.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK.
The affairs of our country are vast and complex. It seems there is a growing tendency to forget the original principle of individual liberty, dignity and responsibility. It seems there is a trend to let powers and forces take over, think, and plan for us, to tell us what we must do. . . . Is this Americanism? Discuss this subject with your neighbors and friends and you will surely discover that many people will agree our nation has drifted from the founding principles. Is it not time for all of us to rediscover these principles? Is it not time to review attitudes and accomplishments that has given America its strength and stability? Is it not time for all of us to pledge to build a Statue of Liberty in our hearts, a statue of responsibility and re-commitment to principles seemingly forgotten? Your opinions on this or any thought you read here is always welcome and most appreciated. . . .

There are many misconceptions about funeral costs. That's not surprising, really, as there are other charges involved in a funeral, then those of the funeral director. . . . cemetery or cremation charge. . . . monuments or markers. . . . newspaper death notices and flowers. Many also believe that funeral directors will not discuss funeral or burial costs frankly and specifically. Nothing could be further from the truth. Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., adjacent to the Quincy Historical Society Home, stands ready to give you whatever cost information you desire at any time. Roger Hamel, Donald McCarthy and Joseph Thompson are thoroughly trained in the profession they have chosen and ready to discuss frankly, funeral cost information. ## Firemen's Muster Sunday To Help Jerry's Kids

The Wail of sirens will rant the air Sunday at noon in Quincy as one of the largest firemen's muster drills ever assembled on the South Shore will be held at the Elks Lodge grounds in Squantum, to aid the fight against muscular dystrophy.

John Keegan a member of the Quincy Firemen's Muster Drill Team who is sponsoring the event, said a fire engine parade will begin at noon when some 40 or more pieces of fire fighting equipment leave Shaw's Supermarket area on Quincy Ave., and proceeds along Hancock St. to East Squantum and the Elks Home at 440 East Squantum St.

There the apparatus and firemen will assemble. Some 12 to 14 drill teams, comprised of six men or women to a team, will dramatically demonstrate, against the clock, the quickest and most efficient way to suppress a fire.

Also on display for public inspection will be a gallery of antique and new firefighting equipment.

Trophies in three categories will be awarded to the oldest piece of apparatus, farthest unit traveled, and people's choice.

Muster Chairman Michael Butts, co-chairman Keegan and Michael Connors of the firemen's union, are finalizing plans with the Elks for Sunday's muster special.

Keegan hopes this muster will far exceed last year's 2000 attendance. That muster brought in over $1200 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association last year.

Admission to the event which runs to 5 p.m., is free.

You Can Win $1,000 In Boston Harbor Treasure Hunt

How well do you know Boston Harbor and the islands?

If you know them well enough, you can win $1,000, $300, or $100.

Marina Bay, in cooperation with the Metropolitan District Commission and The Quincy Sun is sponsoring a special and entertaining Treasure Hunt that will test your knowledge of Boston Harbor and make you a possible winner.

What is the Treasure Hunt and what do you have to do?

This is a hunt of facts, legends, myths, trivia and history of the islands that surround us. The Treasure Hunt combines your nautical skills, with your knowledge of the islands. It's fun, it's free, it's easy, and you could win $1,000!

RULES

1. There is no entry fee.

2. All entry blanks must enter using a boat name.

3. You can have as many people help you with the questions as you want.

4. Only one entry per boat.

5. The Treasure Hunt is in two parts.

First: Fill in as many answers as you can on the attached pages. Each question is worth one point.

Second: On Saturday, August 17th, you must turn in this entry blank, and the answers to its many questions as you can at Marina Bay headquarters. Then you will be given the final Treasure Hunt clues. The Treasure Hunt headquarters will open at 8:00 am to hand out the last of the clues. Then you jump in your boat to try to solve the last ten questions worth 10 points each. You have to be back before 3:00 pm sharp.

non-Marina Bay boats to pick up your clues on Saturday, August 17.

PRIZES

First Place $1,000

Second Place 300

Third Place 100

Awards will be judged by the most number of points. Answers will be tallied by a panel of judges. The decision of the judges is final. In case of a tie, the prize money will be split among the winning teams.

INCLEMENT WEATHER

In the event of inclement weather, the Treasure Hunt will be postponed to Sunday, August 18. Please telephone the Marina Bay office at 328-0600 the morning of August 17, should the weather be questionable.

AWARDS CEREMONY

There will be a reception and party after the Treasure Hunt in the Marina Bay Tent. All participants are invited to attend, and hear the answers to the mystery question!

1st ANNUAL BOSTON HARBOR ISLAND TREASURE HUNT...

$1,000 FOR THE WINNER!

What is it?

A treasure hunt of the facts, features, myths, trivia and history of the islands that surround us. You'll enjoy the competition, challenge your nautical skills and search your mind (or your friend's) for little known facts hidden on our islands.

How does it work?

On Page 12 of today's Quincy Sun is a Treasure Hunt Clue List. Then for two weeks, you and your mates will answer the questions or go find the answers any way you can! Then on Saturday, August 17th after 8 a.m., you'll be given the final Treasure Hunt hints. Then you'll scramble around for visible clues to complete the last dash of the Treasure Hunt search. Then back to Marina Bay with the answers—and get the treasure. $1,000—that's what you can win. You enter by boat name and can have as many mates as you want. There will be prizes for second and third place too... and fun for everyone!

It's free to enter and all you need is a boat and imagination!

Peterson Calls For War On Drugs

Mayoral candidate David J. Peterson said the City of Quincy "needs a Mayor who is willing to implement a war on drugs."

"So far, I don't see any evidence that Mayor McCauley is fighting dope in Quincy at all."

"In fact, I recently read a report issued by City Hall showing Quincy still has numerous financial accounts with the Bank of Boston."

The Bank of Boston has admitted they laundered $1.22 billion of illegal small bills, and circumvented US currency reporting requirements for over four years. They were fined $500,000.

"Just this past March, in hearings before a congressional committee, Assistant US Treasury Secretary John M. Walker testified 'There is every indication that the $600 million of small bills that this bank took in was laundered drug money. Why else would the money be in $20 bills?'"

"Voters who have signed my petitions were especially interested in my proposals to crackdown on the dope plague; people were shocked that Quincy still does business with the now infamous Bank of Boston," said Peterson.

As part of an all out war on drugs, Peterson stressed his administration would:

Seek ways that Quincy and other cities can cooperate with Attorney General Meese in prosecution and prison terms for officials of financial institutions that coordinate and profit from the estimated $4 - $6 billions of drug sales.

Call a national conference of elected officials to support and expand President Reagan's actions to shut down the international flow of drugs.

Restore all budget cuts in vital city services, especially Police Dept. and Schools.

Set up a Police Task Force to coordinate information with other State and Federal law enforcement agencies to hunt down and convict local pushers and suppliers.

Iacobucci Calls For Development Freeze

Ron Iacobucci, candidate for City Councilor-at-large, has called for a freeze on development in Quincy until a master plan has been created.

"After 20 years of unregulated growth, it is time to say no to the special interests on the issue of development and do what is in the public interest—establish a master plan for the City and then go forward with development," said Iacobucci.

"In the interim period, only one standard should apply to development proposals—that they have strong neighborhood support, and I do not mean just the immediate abutters but whole streets and neighborhoods surrounding the proposed development," said Iacobucci.

"The councilors-at-large that represent the entire city should have taken a leadership position on this issue. They have not, so now I am calling for action before we lose control of what we want our city to become. It is time that we address ourselves to the question: where will Quincy be in five, 10 or 15 years? The city has not approved a master plan for development since the 1960's. It is the recent surge in development that has directly contributed to the traffic, sewerage, density and public safety problems we have today," said Iacobucci.

Iacobucci called for the development freeze Tuesday night before the Quincy Zoning Board of Appeals as he spoke in opposition to the proposed eight-story development of the present Wonder Bowl on Southern Artery.

"I am personally aware of approximately 1,000 units of proposed development in just that immediate area," he said. Uncontrolled, that would be outrageous. The problem is this, the Zoning Board will consider the merits of this proposal and make a decision. It will be a decision made in a vacuum. Only a master plan for development can look at the total picture—development of the Duane site and lumber yard across the street, development of Captain's Cove just down the street and development of Dutton's up the street. It is only when you look at the total picture that we can do what is right and in the best interests of the City and the people," said Iacobucci.

"It is time to begin that process and put in place a mechanism that will give us this plan. To be successful the process must include the City's Planning Department, the City Council, the Mayor and especially the people. It is essential that we have total neighborhood and community input."

"Twenty years ago if we were to plan for what we are today maybe we would not be disappointed with what we have today, that is what I am hearing from people across this city."

"That is why it is now critical to plan for the next 20 years. Quincy is hot, developers just want to build higher, wider and faster, so that is why we must review and evaluate the present restrictions and requirements made of them. The master plan should not just address the issue of managing construction growth but all forms of land use including housing, business, industry, recreation and deal with height limits in certain areas, design guidelines that place emphasis on preservation and open space, jobs, parking and especially traffic."

Richard Koch, Jr. To Seek Re-election To City Council

Councillor at Large Richard J. Koch Jr., announces he will seek reelection to the City Council.

Koch notes he has a 100% attendance record at council meetings since he was elected.

Now serving his second term, he is chairman of the Finance Committee and Public Safety Committee.

Koch co-sponsored the ordinance to restrict pornography in the city by banning adult bookstores and adult movie theaters in residential or business zoned areas.

He says he has been a leader in speaking out to slow the pace of development projects which are encroaching on the residential neighborhoods.

He cites specifically his vote against the rezoning of Marina Bay property in Squantum to business and his attempt to make the whole property Planned Unit Development, which requires council approval.

He also points to his vote against the continued expansion of the NFPA complex in West Quincy.

Koch has voiced the concerns of the overburdened sewer system since 1979, and has supported every appropriation to work

He has supported the rebuilding of Quincy City Hospital and the new Police Headquarters.

Koch has also sought to replace the entire communication system of the Fire Dept., rather than a phase in over three years, citing the safety of the firefighters as a top priority.

A lifelong resident of Quincy, he is a graduate of North Quincy High and holds a B.S. degree in criminal justice from Northeastern University, Boston.

Married to the former Nancy Kelly of Wollaston, he is the father of three children. The family lives at 70 Cross St., West Quincy.

Nutley Endorsed By Sheet Metal Union

Thomas J. Nutley, candidate for the Ward 6 City Council seat in the September primary election, announces he has received the endorsement of The Sheet Metal Workers Union, Local 17.

"I'm delighted that this union chose to endorse me after carefully evaluating all of the candidates for the Ward 6 council position," said Nutley.

"My long history of union membership, my commitment to the creation of jobs for all and my qualifications for the council position all played a large part in their decision, I'm sure."

"If, and when, I'm elected, I will do everything that a city councillor can do to ensure that everyone who wants, and needs, a job will have the opportunity to be employed."

Lydon Opposes Holbrook Rd. As 'T' Parking Lot Access

Councillor John J. Lydon, Jr., and Rep. Michael Morrissey are attempting to set up a meeting with the MBTA to discuss access to the 'T' parking lot at Holbrook Rd., North Quincy.

Lydon is opposed to the MBTA making permanent the temporary access to the lot.

It was incorrectly reported in last week's Quincy Sun that Lydon was in favor of making the temporary access permanent.

48th Edition

Quincy Bay Race Week Underway

The 48th edition of Quincy Bay Race Week, the highlight of the summer sailing season, got under way yesterday (Wednesday) with Wessagusset Yacht Club hosting the first day of racing.

Quincy and Braintree clubs host today's racing at Quincy, Town River is host Friday. Wollaston and South Shore clubs will be co-hosts Saturday at Wollaston and Squantum and Metropolitan clubs will host Sunday's final day of racing at Squantum.

Quincy Yacht Club is celebrating its 111th year, while Wessagusset is celebrating its 83rd year. South Shore YC is the newest member of the Quincy Bay Race Week Association, joining a year ago. It was the first addition to the association in 10 years.

This year's entries won't approach the 334d Race Week in 1970 when 1800 boats competed in a five-day stretch of excellent sailing weather. The previous record was set in 1967 when 1667 boats raced.

The 1800-boat figure may never be equalled as one-design racing and week-long regattas have been on the decline for several years.

Race Week still remains the biggest event of the summer for boating enthusiasts, men, women, boys and girls. It offers five days of one-design racing, two days of ocean racing, a marine parade and several social events.

The outside-line race committee, led by Ray Regan, will handle the ocean racing.

The Tornado, Hobie Cat, 210, 110, Thunderbolt, Hustler, Ensign, Flying Scot, 420 and Laser classes will take their starts from the outside line.

The annual colorful marine parade of decorated boats of all sizes, using the theme of Historic Quincy, will start at 1 p.m. Sunday at Town River. Led by chief marshal Al Shaughnessy, the parade will pass Wessagusset and Quincy Yacht Clubs, Nut Island, Manet and Wollaston beaches, Wollaston and Squantum Yacht Clubs and a parcel of judges, who will award prizes for the best decorated boat in each of four divisions -- cruisers, auxiliaries, open boats and outboards.

Last year's parade had less boats than the previous year due to a late afternoon

(4 p.m.) start necessitated by the tides, but was as colorful as ever.

Rendezvous Night will be held Friday at Town River Yacht Club.

Cup Day will be Oct. 6 at 3 p.m. at Metropolitan YC when prizes will be given for yacht racing and the marine parade.

Last year's Race Week was held in perfect weather without a single race being halted because of conditions.

For the first time in Race Week history one club took all top honors in the marine parade. Braintree again had the most boats entered, the most decorated boats, Braintree's Lee Benoit was the winner and he also had the most original theme, a Pilgrim theme. Braintree also won in the auxiliary boat class.

Another highlight was Joe Carven Jr. of Weymouth winning the Hustler Class title for an unprecedented fifth year in a row.

Race Committee chairman Ray Regan counted 1120 registered starters, a gain of more than 100 over the previous year.

Aaron Prelak is this year's QBRWA president.

Night Football Games For Quincy, North

By TOM SULLIVAN

With crowds dwindling every year at Saturday afternoon football games, the Quincy and North Quincy teams will experiment with one Friday night game each this fall at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

North will host Weymouth South Friday, Sept. 13, at 7 p.m., and Quincy will be home to Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday, Sept. 20, also at 7.

Several South Shore schools have installed permanent lights and crowds have increased considerably.

Randolph's crowds nearly doubled last season following the installation of permanent lights, and Braintree has added lights at its field.

Middleboro erected lights many years ago and always has had good crowds at Friday night games.

Crowds at Quincy and North games have been getting smaller and smaller each year. Playing Friday nights will do away with football on television and other Saturday attractions as competition.

In addition to facing Suburban League rivals Brockton, Newton North, Waltham, Cambridge and Brookline, Quincy will play non-league games with Malden, Everett, Revere and Weymouth North, while North Quincy will meet Milton, Medford, Somerville and Weymouth South.

North's coaching staff remains intact this year with the exception of the addition of former Raider Jamie Walsh as freshman coach, but there will be several coaching changes at Quincy.

Jaehnig Tops Hull, League Race Close

The summer session of the South Shore Sports Center men's basketball league has reached the halfway mark and a tight race is shaping up.

The Jaehnig Chiopracitic Club of Quincy outlasted the Beer Bellies of Hull, 91-78, and is one game behind J.B. Heating and John Hancock.

The score was tied, 37-all, at halftime but the game shifted into high gear as both clubs' offenses heated up. Hull took a five-point lead with 10 minutes to play, only to see Jaehnig, led by the outside shooting of Jim Timmons, bounce back down the stretch.

Chuck Jaehnig had 24 points, Timmons 18, Mark

Jaehnig 15, Steve Jaehnig 11, Mike Venna nine and Mike and Don Jaehnig six each. Venna also played outstanding defense.

In an earlier game Jaehnig dropped a tough 46-42 decision to J. B. Heating, despite a combined 21 points from Mike Jaehnig, Venna and Timmons.

The standings: J. B. Heating, 4-1; John Hancock, 4-1; Jaehnig Club, 3-2; Hawks, 3-2; Gunners, 2-3; Hurricanes, 2-3; North Quincy, 2-3; Beer Bellies, 2-3; Jetsons, 2-3; Purple Reign, 1-4.

Morrisette Again Ousted By Braintree

By TOM SULLIVAN
For the second time in three years the Braintree Legion baseball team's Zone 6-B champions have eliminated Morrisette's Zone 6 champs from the state playoffs.

However, it was a lot closer this season. Two years ago Braintree rolled to two straight walkaway victories.

This year Morrisette rallied from a 4-0 deficit to win the opener last Saturday, 5-4. Braintree pulled out a 3-2 squeaker in the second game Sunday afternoon, then rolled to a 10-1 win in the clincher Sunday night. The two games Sunday were necessitated by Legion rules that the series had to be completed by Sunday night.

Braintree, the defending state champion, goes on to meet Fall River's Zone 9 champions.

Morrisette overcame a 4-0 deficit to defeat Braintree, 5-4, in the series opener, scoring all five runs in the bottom of the third inning at Adams Field.

Braintree had scored three times in the first and added a run in the top of the third but Larry Taglieri (6-1) settled down and blanked Braintree the rest of the way.

Morrisette sent 10 men to the plate in the third and scored its five runs on three hits, three walks and an error.

A bases-loaded walk to Paul Ratti forced in a run and another scored on Jack Bolster's fielders choice. After Denis Cronin walked to again load the bases, Tom Ryan delivered a clutch double to right-center to drive in the tying and go-ahead runs.

Chris Bunker had an RBI single, Ryan had two hits and Tom Connolly, Chris Marshall and Taglieri one each.

The second game Sunday afternoon at Braintree was a heartbreaker for Morrisette. Morrisette had the first two runners on in the first inning but were unable to move the runners along and nothing resulted.

Pete Nesserella hit a two-run homer over the left field fence in the bottom of the first. Morrisette tied it in the fourth on a hit, two walks, a fielders choice and a throwing error which enabled Bunker and Cronin to score.

Morrisette missed other chances by faulty base running and failure to execute bunts.

Braintree scored the winning run in the sixth on three hits and a walk.

Morrisette had the tying run on second with one out in the seventh but the shortstop made a great leaping catch of John Cristiani's drive which looked like a sure game-tying double or triple.

Cristiani pitched an outstanding game in defeat. Marshall had two hits and Ratti, Cronin, Rich Brooks, Connolly and Cristiani one each.

Morrisette, down after the tough loss, could collect only three hits Sunday night but the game was close for five innings. Braintree holding a 3-1 lead.

Coach Ray Cattaneo had to use rarely-used Bunker pitching against Chris Lane, one of Braintree's best.

Bunker tired in the sixth and Braintree sent 11 men to the plate and scored seven runs.

Morrisette finished 18-6 overall and won its 23rd Zone 6 title.

Morrisette bowed to Randolph, 6-4, in its final regular season game as Randolph jumped off to a 6-0 lead.

In its previous game Morrisette had come from behind to top Canton, 7-5, with Ratti pitching three innings of one-hit relief to earn the win. Bolster went 3-for-3, Rob McDonald 2-for-2 and Bunker 2-for-4.

Cattaneo faces a real rebuilding job next season as he loses eight of his top players.

Dick "Berger" Ryan, who did an outstanding job as the team's scorer and statistician, pointed out that Bunker, Bolster, Cronin, Ryan, Brooks, Jack Outerbridge, Connolly and Ratti have ended their Legion careers.

Coming back will be Mike Joyce, Cristiani, Marshall, Taglieri, Chris Ricciuti, Steve Minichiello, Bob Hunter, Rob McDonald and Tom McDonald. Cattaneo expects to return for his 17th year as coach along with his longtime assistants, Connie Carozzi and Bill Corcoran.

The Braintree-Morrisette series was held up by a dispute between Braintree and Zone 6-B runnerup Randolph.

With Braintree leading by one game, the teams played on Wednesday of last week but the game had to be called with the score tied, 4-4, because of Braintree's 10:30 p.m. curfew.

Randolph coach John Mariani, a former Quincy High player, insisted the game should be replayed, but Braintree coach Don Fredericks argued it shouldn't, due to the season-ending deadline.

Randolph played and defeated Morrisette last Thursday night, while Braintree defeated Canton and Weymouth, staying a game ahead of Randolph.

District chairman Warren Demers ruled the 4-4 tie should be replayed but was overruled by state chairman Roy Holt.

Holt said "the regular season had to end on Thursday and that the tie game should have been replayed that night instead of the Randolph-Morrisette game and the two Braintree games."

Mariani and Randolph athletic officer Arthur Conrad appealed to the Legion's state athletic committee which met Saturday morning and the committee ruled in Braintree's favor. Therefore, Braintree ended at 18-3 and Randolph at 17-4.

"I don't mind losing on the field, but I hate to lose off the field," said a frustrated Mariani. "I knew what the outcome would be even before the state committee met. We didn't have a chance."

Wollaston, which last year defeated Morrisette in a playoff game for its first Zone 6 title in more than 30 years, finished second to Morrisette this year, with a 12-9 record. Several of its defeats were by one run, including a string of three one-run losses in a row.

Wollaston wound up its season by losing to Milton, 8-7.

In its previous game, Wollaston had defeated Mass. Truck, 7-3, as Steve Higgins pitched a one-hitter and struck out 13. Bob Kane drove in three runs and Steve Austin two.

Meanwhile, Quincy finished a frustrating season in fine style, winning three of its last four games to finish at 4-18.

Quincy finished with an 8-4 win over Holbrook, piling up an early 8-0 lead.

Ed McArdle, Jerry Arroyo, Joe Ciardi and Mike Draicchio each had two hits, while Andy Pamariello scattered six hits and struck out 10 in six innings. Ciardi pitched the seventh.

In its previous game, a 9-6 win over Carter Post of Dorchester, Quincy took advantage of poor Carter defense and timely hitting to rally from a 4-1 deficit.

Big hits by Ciardi, McArdle and Greg Chambers, each of whom had two RBIs, helped put Quincy in front. Tony Orlando and Pat O'Sullivan later added run-scoring hits.

Cinquegrano Paces VFW Over Hancock

the benefit of muscular dystrophy will be played Monday night at 8 p.m. at Adams Field.

The previous four games have raised $1800 to fight muscular dystrophy.

The game will pit the Zone 6 stars, coached by Morrisette's Ray Cattaneo and Dick Travers, and the Zone 6-B stars, coached by Braintree's Don Fredericks and Randolph's John Mariani.

The coaches will select the three top players from each team to play in the game.

Bryan Post VFW defeated Hancock Bank, 8-3, in the Babe Ruth League, as Rob Cinquegrano pitched a four-hitter, struck out nine and allowed just one earned run.

For the season Cinquegrano has struck out 34 in 30 innings and has compiled an outstanding 1.20 ERA, giving up only four earned runs in 30 innings.

Catcher Jay Rodriguez had a fine defensive game and led the VFW offense with a tremendous home run. Gary Silverman, Cinquegrano, Bill Mulken, Mark Molloy, Mark Dwyer, Sean Mulken and Jamie Greene all had singles. Shortstop Ron Fletcher drew three walks, scored twice and played excellent defense. Chris Standing, Sean Murphy and Brian O'Malley also played well.

For Hancock Chris Higgins had two singles. Mark Lindenfelzer a triple and Rich Connolly a single. Pitcher Bob Higgins struck out seven.

Bryan Post also defeated Barry's Deli, 14-6, as Fletcher overcame some early wildness, allowed only four hits and struck out seven. Fletcher has struck out 53 in 52 innings.

Molloy had three hits, including a double, stole three bases and scored three times. Bill Mulken had a double and single, stole three bases and scored twice. Silverman had two hits, Rodriguez a booming ground-rule double and Cinquegrano, Dwyer and Sean Mulken singles. Fletcher walked three times, stole two bases and scored twice, and Standing and Murphy played well in the outfield.

For Barry's Kevin Duffy had a double and single, Karl Staskyvicz a long double and John Quinlan a single.

ASBESTOS LUNG DISEASE

Asbestos dust causes serious lung ailments; the diseases appear suddenly, years after exposure. Today numerous SHIPYARD WORKERS, MASONS, and PIPEFITTERS of the 1930's-1970's have lung afflictions because they inhaled asbestos particles many years ago.

If you worked in one of those professions then and now have a lung disease, you may be eligible to receive money damages or workers' compensation. Relatives of living and deceased victims can also recover in some cases.

Quincy, North Players Agganis Standouts

By PETE ZOIA

It was Quincy Night at last Saturday's 24th annual Harry Agganis all-star football game played at Landrigan Field in Wakefield, as the West came from behind to edge the East, 20-19.

In one of the most thrilling games in the series between two evenly-matched squads, four players from Quincy and North Quincy stood out brightly as the West pulled out the victory in the final two minutes.

Quincy quarterback Bill Shaughnessy was selected the West's offensive MVP and nose guard Joe Cullen of Quincy was named the defensive MVP. It was the first time in history that players from the same school were named the MVP's.

Defensive lineman Al DiBella and defensive cornerback Steve Kelly of North Quincy also played brilliantly and DiBella, who did not play as long as Cullen, easily could have been named the defensive MVP.

North Quincy coach Ken McPhee was an assistant to West coach Bill Tighe and was delighted with the performances of the four Quincy and North Quincy players.

With the West trailing, 13-0, midway through the second quarter, Shaughnessy took command, connecting on three passes of 19, 16 and seven yards. Skip Jackson of Burlington scored 30 yards to the two and Sean Cummings of Lexington scored.

A few minutes later an interception by the West put it on the East 23. Shaughnessy, who did a great job of scrambling throughout the game, scrambled for five yards and, on a fine spread formation play, the Quincy star passed to Brockton speedster Odell Wilson, who sprinted to the two. Wilson then went around right end for the score. On a well-executed fake kick play, Shaughnessy passed to Brockton's Sherrod Rainge for the two-point conversion and the West led, 14-13, at the half.

QUINCY'S Bill Shaughnessy, left, had an outstanding game at quarterback in the Harry Agganis all-star football game and was selected the West's offensive MVP, while Quincy teammate Joe Cullen, playing his first game at noseguard, was named the defensive MVP. It was the first time in the series 24-year history two players from the same school were named the MVP's.

In the first half North Quincy's DiBella came back with a big play as he blocked the extra point attempt. The Curry College-bound DiBella made numerous tackles and twice sacked the quarterback.

The East went ahead, 19-14, in the third period on a 25-yard pass. The pass attempt for the two points failed.

With 2:23 left and the West on its own 43, Shaughnessy lost no time showing who was boss. He scrambled around and hit Wilson for a 37-yard gain to the East 20. Shaughnessy, shaking off tacklers and about to be sacked, hit Rainge on the eight and Rainge scored the winning touchdown.

Kelly, an all-scholastic halfback at North Quincy who played both ways, was used as a defensive cornerback only. He made one of the outstanding hits of the night on an East ball carrier and covered his territory flawlessly on passes. He is headed for the University of New Hampshire.

"This was the greatest thing that has happened to Quincy football," said Quincy coach Jack Raymer. "Both Shaughnessy and Cullen are going to UMass Amherst and some of their coaches were here, including recruiter Jim Reid. They were delighted with the performance of both boys. This is the first game Cullen has played noseguard and he did a remarkable job. That is where they intend to play him at UMass.

"DiBella and Kelly also played outstanding games and the four boys proved they certainly belonged here."

"The City of Quincy has some great athletes, it's just that North and Quincy have to share them, unlike most communities," said McPhee. "They were overlooked by everybody. They are all great athletes, but because of height, weight or size, they were overlooked by major colleges. Shaughnessy was under a lot of pressure. The East disrupted a few things we did on offense and he was scrambling an awful lot. He was throwing side arm and was unbelievable."

"He has that unique ability to get himself out of pressure, and you need that in a good quarterback."

"Shaughnessy is one of the finest high school quarterbacks I have seen," said West coach Tighe. "He is the most unheralded kid in the state."

"I thought he played an excellent game," added East coach Ken Perrone. "There were four plays where we had him sacked but he got out of it with the pass or run and kept the drive alive."

Bryan Post VFW, the American League champion won the Junior Baseball League title with a hard-fought 2-1 victory over National League champion Houghs Neck, 2-1.

Sean Donovan of VFW and Billy Campbell of Houghs Neck hooked up in an excellent pitching duel. Campbell was especially strong with men on base as VFW had the bases loaded in the first and fifth but could score only one run. Donovan gave up five hits, struck out nine and walked just one, allowing only a run in the fourth.

The game went into extra innings and Scott Dunn came on for VFW and struck out the side.

Donovan drove in the winning run with a single in the seventh after Brian Zimmerman had singled and Steve Carroll and Mike Geddes walked.

Zimmerman had three singles, Carroll two, Dunn a double and Richie MacDonald and Donovan a single each.

For Houghs Neck Brian Campbell, Billy Campbell, Mark Bogan, Brian Mantville and Joe Nabstedt had the hits.

VFW advanced to the championship game with an easy 17-3 win over the Elks with winning pitcher Richie MacDonald striking out nine.

Eddie Costello had two doubles and a single.

Zimmerman two doubles, Geddes and Kevin Mullay a double and single each and MacDonald and Carroll two singles apiece.

For the Elks Tony Bianco had a triple, Eddie Rizzitano, Eric Fagerlund and Mike Murray a double each and Chad Stemedon a single.

The members of the championship Bryan Post team were Mark Cahill, Mark Walsh, Bogan, Donovan, Geddes, Costello, Christine Barrett, Dunn, Robbie O'Connor, MacDonald, Zimmerman, Carroll, Mullay and Donnie Anderson. It was the last Junior League game for MacDonald, Zimmerman, Carroll, Mullay and Anderson.

A Brockton woman was the winner of a $1,295 Apple IIc home computer system awarded by the Citywide Parents' Council (CWPC) at the Quincy Center Sidewalk Bazaar.

Donna Dempsey's name was drawn by Mayor Francis X. McCauley. The winning ticket was sold by Ellen Ogilvie, a parent at the Atlantic Middle School.

The computer was top prize in a raffle held by the CWPC in an effort to raise funds at the 3-day Sidewalk Bazaar to purchase computer equipment for the Quincy's public school system. The Apple IIc was donated by Unicom of Dedham.

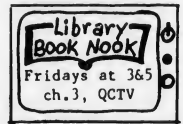

A second prize of a computer course at Unicom was won by Eugene Ronayne, assistant principal of the Hough Atherton Elementary School on Sea St.

The drawing was the result of the CWPC's decision to make computer literacy the educational goal of the parent group for the 1984-85 school year. The CWPC said they will continue to accept donations from Quincy businesses and organizations to support this goal. Contributions are tax deductible.

WEEK OF: AUGUST 1

AQUARIUS — January 21-February 19
Week finds you taking a stand on a controversial issue. Friends benefit from your support and upbeat philosophy. At work, experimentation can bring positive results.

PISCES — February 20-March 20
Thursday Saturday accent legal or other negotiations. Weekend may find you immersed in new hobby. Aim to clear up misunderstandings. Relationships improve by Wednesday.

ARIES — March 21-April 20
First part of the period is filled with social activity, but after the weekend the focus is on a major new project. Important allies come from unexpected quarters.

TAURUS — April 21-May 22
Self discipline and patience can lead to key accomplishment by Wednesday. Renewed relationships are spotlighted through the weekend. You may make an interesting contribution to the arts.

GEMINI — May 23-June 21
You take on a peacemaking role, especially where family disagreements are concerned. If entering a business partnership or sharing expenses, be sure all terms are understood.

CANCER — June 22-July 22
Branching out is favored, you may be signing up for an unfamiliar course of study. Collecting money should become less difficult. Weekend finds you catching up on household chores.

LEO — July 23-August 22
Mixing with a stimulating group of people makes for an intellectually stimulating week. Tempers — including yours — can be short on the weekend. Financial luck is possible.

VIRGO — August 23-September 22
A commonsense approach is needed in most areas, if planning a diet, resist fads. Avoid snap decisions with regard to finances and career. In romance, spontaneity is all important.

LIBRA — September 23-October 22
Good week to develop professional skills or to enroll in an academic program. Self discipline is weak, be especially careful about being too long under the August sun.

SCORPIO — October 23-November 21
Career or volunteer activity offers some interesting new options, avoid making hasty decisions. Romance is on the upswing, but don't try to second guess the love of your life.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22-December 22
Funches pay off — so long as you don't take them too seriously. Expect to spend added time meeting with accountant or balancing checkbook. Challenging job is on the horizon.

CAPRICORN — December 23-January 20
A cultural week in which creative writing, music or painting figure prominently. Moneybills should be tightened, resist accompanying a friend on a shopping spree.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You're a born leader, an adventurer, and you're bursting with imaginative ideas. These traits can lead to career expansion over the next eight months. The key is to be more willing to adapt your ideas, more generous about sharing the limelight.

BORN THIS WEEK
August 1st, actor Dom DeLuise; 2nd, actress Myrna Loy; 3rd, actress Dolores Del Rio; 4th, singer Hank Ryan; 5th, actress Lou Anderson; 6th, actor Robert Mitchum; 7th, singer Lana Cantrell.

3 Promoted At Granite Cooperative

The Board of Directors of the Granite Cooperative Bank has formally voted the promotion of three of the bank's employees. Marjorie Corcoran has been elected vice president. Previously she was Assistant Treasurer in charge of the lending department.

Main office manager Ann

MacDougall has been elevated to the position of Assistant Vice President in charge of the savings department.

Branch manager Francis Denvir has been promoted to Assistant Treasurer and will continue to head the bank's operations at the 100 Granite Street office in Quincy Center.

The promotions were announced by Robert Foy, president.

The Granite Cooperative Bank was incorporated in 1953 and maintains its main office at 440 Hancock St., North Quincy. It is the only banking institution to have all its offices in the city of Quincy.

$24,000 In Arts, Humanities Grants

Grants totalling $24,000 have been awarded to the Quincy Historical Society and the Studebaker Movement Theatre Company of Wollaston, by the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities.

In making the 1985-86 grants announcement, State Sen. Paul Harold said two of the awards are the council's merit aid grants to support the basic programs of both organizations.

The Quincy Historical Society will receive $5400, and Studebaker will get $8600 for this purpose. In addition the Quincy Historical Society will receive a $10,000 cultural research grant in support of an educational program with the fourth grade of the Quincy Public Schools entitled: "Quincy, from settlement to city: An introduction to the effects of the environment and natural resources on the changing economic and social history of Quincy from 1625 to the present."

"I am proud that the Quincy Historical Society and the Studebaker Movement Theatre Company have been chosen by the council on the arts and humanities from among its many applicants for funding," Harold said. "It is a recognition of the contributions both cultural groups are making to the quality of life in the city."

The Quincy Historical Society also received good news that they will receive an $11,920 grant from the Institute of Museum Services.

The Institute, a federal agency that offers general operating support to the nation's museums, received 1,264 applications for the 1985 competition. Quincy's application was one of the 449 applications that received an award.

Lawrence J. Yerdon,

Director of the Society, indicated that the grant would be used to continue the expansion of the society's public exhibition and education programs. The society's museum is housed in the historic Adams Academy Building at 8 Adams St.

HOME OFFICE DEDUCTION

QUESTION: I understand there are new restrictions on taking a home office as a tax deduction. Could you explain?

ANSWER: No longer will the IRS allow you to drop a briefcase on a table and deduct the entire room as a home office deduction. Now the "office" must be used EXCLUSIVELY for business use. Also, expenses cannot exceed earned income from the business.

If the office fulfills these parameters, the amount deductible will depend on the office area in relation to the rest of the house. If it is 10% of the house area, you can deduct this percentage of the house's light, heat, repairs, depreciation, taxes, etc.

A HOME OFFICE must be used exclusively for business to qualify as a deduction.

Patrolman Injured In Chase

Quincy Patrolman Charles Middendorf was listed in good condition Tuesday in the intensive care unit at Quincy City Hospital after he fell in the dark 10 to 12 feet into a culvert while pursuing an alleged car thief.

Middendorf, 30, a member of the Quincy Police Department for two years, suffered a fractured skull, according to Police Capt. Paul Nestor.

Arrested in the incident Sunday night was John T. Lowe, 29, of 8 Sterling Square, Boston. He was charged with unarmed robbery, larceny of a motor vehicle operating a motor vehicle negligently; two counts of assault and battery by means of a dangerous weapon, failing to stop for a police officer, and speeding.

He pleaded innocent to all charges and bail was set at $100,000 surety or $10,000 cash. Lowe was committed to Dedham County Jail and his case was continued to an Aug. 2 conference at 9 a.m.

According to Capt. Walter Frazer, the incident began when Paul Fastrum of Weymouth, a cab driver for Lincoln Cab Co. of Boston, stepped out of the vehicle to straighten his clothes outside of the Stop and Shop, Southern Artery. The suspect pushed Fastrum out of the way, got in the car and drove off, said Frazer.

Four cruisers attempted to stop the cab which started north on Washington St. at a high rate of speed, on the sidewalks, and the wrong way up the street, according to Officer Kevin Gibbons.

Two cruisers were rammed during the chase, said Gibbons, and the suspect's car came to a stop when it hit a building on Quincy Ave.

Gibbons said the suspect fled into a wooded area off Circuit Rd. and was chased by himself, Middendorf, and other officers.

Night Patrols Beefed Up On QSD

The MDC has beefed up night police patrols along Wollaston Beach and Quincy Shore Drive in an effort to ensure safe and enjoyable recreation during summer evening hours.

"Our main objective is to make sure that people can enjoy themselves in areas free from youth drinking and disturbances," said Metropolitan District Commissioner William Geary. In the past, the patrols have had success dispersing crowds and alleviating noise, Geary added.

Request for funding by Quincy Representatives

Michael Morrissey, Thomas Brownell and State Senator Paul Harold helped pass the legislation which secured $20,000 for the increased patrols. The state places the money into a special MetroPolice budget which can only be used for these particular areas.

The increased patrols will be visible at night, during weekends and on holidays.

Cardinal Offers Help

McCauley, Condon: 'Save Shipyard'

• Condon Sparks Petitions, Rally

By LINDA WILKINS

A rally and petition drive aimed to keep the Quincy shipyard open as a shipbuilding facility will be launched within the next two weeks.

City Councillor Joanne Condon, a mayoral candidate, who is spearheading the effort said:

"There hasn't been a concerted effort to keep the shipyard open until now. All of the plans and directions made have been in a scattered variety. We're trying to bring together those people interested in a positive effort to keep the shipyard open."

Part of that effort was a forum held Monday night to discuss the continuation of shipbuilding in Quincy.

"In the past few weeks, I've met a lot of people and many of them are concerned about the closing of the shipyard," Condon said.

She added that Cardinal Bernard Law offered his assistance after a South Shore Chamber of Commerce breakfast Tuesday, at which the future of the shipyard was discussed.

"He said if he could be of any assistance, we should ask. Just to know that he's on their side has got to make the shipyard workers feel good," she said.

Condon plans to contact the Cardinal and "tell him what we're doing as far as saving the industry. We're going to ask for his support and help at each level we need it, whether it be at a meeting or through a letter."

"We're selling ourselves short if we don't go out and try to save the shipyard," she said.

"Shipbuilding in Quincy is more than just a tradition. For over 100 years, we have been building ships that helped win our wars and kept America economically strong. We have the experience, the know-how and a highly trained workforce. In the city of Quincy, shipbuilding is our business."

In an emotionally charged speech, retired shipyard worker Irvin Coughlin echoed Condon's sentiments.

"My family has a history in that shipyard," he said. "Everyone in my family worked there at one time or another. I had 50 years down there before I retired. My working life was spent there. It's got to continue as a shipyard. I know I don't want to see any of those terrible concrete condominiums in there and I'll tell you, they'll come in over a lot of dead bodies in Quincy Point."

"Some people buried the yard long before it was time," said Theodore DeCristofaro, City Councillor of Ward 2 where the shipyard is located. DeCristofaro, who is working with Condon to save the shipyard, said, "I have no solutions or anything special I could contribute. I just want to help in any way I can."

Several people who spoke at the forum complained of a lack of support from local and national politicians. Richard Post, president of Norfolk County Labor Council, said he was resentful that the mayor and the city council had not communicated with him about the closing of the shipyard.

"We can't get to the congressmen or the senators. Everyone seems to be hiding from this. They're ducking the issue, just hoping it will go away."

"We've got to get the politicians moving," said Tony Svizzero, New England Regional Director of Shipbuilder's Unions.

Svizzero said looking at alternative uses for the

26 Candidates File Papers

By DAN CONNELLY

There were no last minute surprises as the Tuesday 5 p.m. deadline for filing nomination papers to run in the city elections this fall passed by quietly at city hall.

Twenty-six candidates, seven of them women, turned in their nomination papers, to run for mayor, councillor-at-large, ward city council, school committee.

Assistant City Clerk Thomas Burke said a light turnout is expected in the Sept. 10 primary.

He added that the Ward 6 race will draw considerable excitement because that race is wide open. Six candidates are entered. Joanne Condon vacated that seat to run for mayor.

One interesting aspect to consider in the September primary and the fall general election Nov. 5, is that the latest voter registration figures (July 1) show Democrats and women holding the voting power in Quincy.

Of the city's 45,594 registered voters there are 30,047 Democrats to 6,610 Republicans and 9,937 Independents.

And there are 26,746 female voters to 19,848 males.

Councillor-At-Large race is a repeat of two years ago. Ronald Iacobucci is again facing the same three incumbents.

Incumbents in wards 1, 2, 4, and 5 need not worry. All are unopposed.

Looking to unseat two on the three-member school committee board are Frank C. Santoro of 80 Haviland St., and Margaret Nigro of 245 Winthrop St.

On Monday, Marilyn D. Hanabury of 429 Quincy Shore Drive, became the sixth candidate in the ward 6 race.

As of today (Thursday) the list of candidates by contest line up like this:

For mayor - Mayor Francis X. McCauley, Joanne Condon, Sabina Kavanaugh, Herman Pasquerella and David Peterson.

For City Councillor-At-Large, Patricia Toland, Joseph LaRaia, Richard Koch, Jr., and Ronald Iacobucci of 59 Andrews Rd.

For City Council Ward 1 - Michael Cheney.

For City Council Ward 2 - Theodore DeCristofaro.

For City Council Ward 3 - John J. Lydon, Jr.

Challenger is Howard A. Mackay of 19 Ardell St.

• McCauley Seeks Reconsideration

Mayor Francis X. McCauley will ask General Dynamics official to reconsider closing the shipyard in Quincy at a meeting between the officials, people in the general area and political leaders.

"I'm going to ask them if they'll reconsider the action of getting out of Quincy," said McCauley. "My commitment is to save the skilled workforce in the area."

McCauley said his first concern is shipbuilding.

"Naturally, we'd rather build ships down there, but Navy contracts are running down. If we can't have shipbuilding there, we need some kind of industry that will preserve the workforce."

In response to comments made by General Dynamics workers at a forum to discuss the saving of the shipyard held Aug. 5 at City Hall, McCauley said he is available to talk with anyone at any time concerning the shipyard.

"If I haven't had a meeting, it's not because I'm not available," he said.

Although McCauley plans to ask General Dynamics to change its decision about closing the yard in 1986, he said he will continue to look at alternative uses of the yard.

"If the people who own it say they're going to close it, it makes a little sense to look at alternatives. You have to look at the facts of life," he said.

McCauley said he has not received a reply from the president of Toyota Motor Corporation concerning a letter he sent urging him to consider Quincy, and particularly the General Dynamics site, as the location for a plant in the United States.

Special Meeting

An open discussion on the future of shipbuilding at the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard is scheduled to take place at a special City Council meeting tonight (Thursday).

The meeting will begin at 6:15 p.m. in the Council Chamber at City Hall.

The discussion was suggested by Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia.

Also among the agenda items:

- Redrawing of ward and precinct lines.
- Designating polling places.

- Order authorizing Mayor Francis McCauley to convey a portion of Willard St. roadway to the MDC.
- Home rule petition establishing revolving fund incorporating sewer-use charges for major developments in the city.

- Communication relative to proposed zoning change from residence C to Planned Unit Development at Quincy City Hospital.
- Resolve concerning toxic waste disposal.

License Board Meets Thursday

The License Board will hold a special summer session today (Thursday) in the City Council Chambers, at City Hall, to hear 11 requests, including the following:

Request from Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition at the Knights of Columbus Building on Foster St., Quincy Center, to use the building as a shelter for the homeless of Quincy.

Request from Caritas Communities, Inc., 21 Gay St., Quincy Center, for a lodging house license for 6-8 Mechanic St., Quincy Center.

Request from Southeast Management Co., 94 Bigelow St., Quincy Center, for a lodging house license at 94 Bigelow St.

High Schools Secondary Release Dates

Arthur S. Woodward, Director of Secondary Education for the Quincy Public Schools, announces the following schedule dates for secondary release afternoons for high schools in the 1985-86 school year.

Oct. 8, Nov. 12, Dec. 10, Jan. 14, Feb. 11, March 11, April 8, and May 13. All dates fall on a Tuesday.

600 Names Still Sought For WWII Memorial

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

About 600 names of South Quincy men and women who served in the U.S. Armed Forces during World War II are still being sought for inclusion on a granite memorial planned for Liberty Park at Liberty and Trafford Sts.

Some 900 names originally appeared on a wooden memorial that was set up at the spot in 1945 but disappeared when the memorial deteriorated in the early 1960s.

Once completed, the memorial will include more than 900 names. "The problem is that we can't find the list," said Gino Sacchetti of Braintree, an ex-SeaBee who still considers South Quincy his hometown.

Sacchetti began looking for names in March and so far has only collected about one third of the names needed to complete the memorial.

He has asked anyone who might have a list of the names that appeared on the old memorial to send information to him at 4 Edwards Rd., Braintree 02184 or to Alfred Peruzzi, 156 West St., Quincy 02169.

Sacchetti also said if the list can't be located, then families of South Quincy World War II veterans need to come forward in order for a new list to be compiled.

It is hoped by Sacchetti and his group that the new memorial will be dedicated Memorial Day, 1986.

"Everything hinges on locating the original list of names that were dedicated June, 1945. If we can't find that, we need to make a new list ourselves -- it's as simple as that," Sacchetti said.

Condon Collects 6,000 Signatures

Joanne Condon, candidate for Mayor, turned in her nomination papers Monday at Quincy City Hall.

Although only 50 verified signatures are required to get on the ballot in Quincy, Condon said her campaign workers collected over 6000 signatures.

"Collecting all of these signatures gave me and my campaign staff an excellent opportunity to meet people from every section of the city," Councilor Condon said. "We talked about their concerns and saw first hand the problems they talked about."

Condon said she plans to continue to meet and talk with even more Quincy residents in the coming months.

"The best way to serve the people is by meeting as many of them as possible. I am running as 'The Peoples Mayor' because I like people and deal well with them. As mayor I want to see to it that every person in Quincy has the opportunity to have input on what goes on in our city," Condon added.

Five Residents Receive Local 103 Awards

Five Quincy residents were among the more than 250 honored by Local Union 103 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers during an awards banquet held recently at the union hall, Dorchester.

Recipients of anniversary pins and the number of years they have been Local 103 members are as follows:

Francis Downey of 171 Sherman St., 25 years; Arthur O'Connell of 172 Sea St., 35 years; Thomas Rollins of 93 Edgewater Dr., 36 years; Gerard Smith of 34 Ardell St., 35 years; and Ronald Tierney of 30 French St., 25 years.

John E. Flynn, International Vice President from the I.B.E.W. regional office in Quincy, Jack Taylor,

Business Manager of Local 103, and a number of union representatives from both the international and local level also attended the awards dinner.

Lydon Supports Traffic Engineer Position

Ward Three Councilor John J. Lydon, Jr., has forwarded a letter to Mayor Francis McCauley supporting the recommendation of the Mayor's Task Force on Traffic Improvement to establish the position of Traffic Engineer.

Lydon stated that with the continuous growth within the city, this action should be taken as quickly as possible in the interest of public safety.

Quincy End Of Xway Repair Nearly Finished

The state expects that by mid-August most of the reconstruction of the Southeast Expressway between Quincy and Braintree should be completed and all lanes in this portion open to traffic.

With this section completed, the south end of the reversible lanes will be shifted to a new location just south of Granite Ave., in Milton.

"This new location for the reversible lanes should allow motorists a longer, smoother entrance to the northbound express lanes, improving traffic flow and safety," Public Works Commissioner Robert T. Tierney announced.

He added: "We expect that the relocation of the southern end of the reversible lane will improve Expressway traffic flow.

There will be more room to make a smooth transition to and from these lanes. This will also be the first opportunity for travellers to experience a fully reconstructed portion of the Southeast Expressway."

Final paving of the northbound roadway will be done two lanes at a time during non-peak hours and will be completed by mid-August.

Patrolmen Reject Contract Offer

The Quincy police patrolmen have unanimously rejected a contract offer made by the city after almost a year of negotiations.

About 60 patrolmen attended the contract meeting at Fore River Club House, said Paul Curtin, Vice President of the Quincy Police Betterment Association. There are about 160 union members.

The major issue in the contract, which was the first to be offered by the city since negotiations began last fall, is money.

The city offered the union a two-year contract which included a small increase, said Curtin. The increase would be retroactive to June 30, 1984, when the police contract expired.

"There was a tentative agreement between the city and the union but the union turned it down," said Mayor Francis X. McCauley. The next step is to return to the bargaining table, he added.

Curtin said the union will continue to negotiate and has no plans to put pressure on the city through public demonstrations.

Red Cross KISS Loan Program Starts

The Quincy-based South Shore Chapter of the American Red Cross has begun its Kids In Safety Seats (KISS) public service program.

It will provide the rental of infant car safety seats to families in need for the protection of their children while riding in motor vehicles. The types of rentals are:

Long-term: In collaboration with Quincy City Hospital, for newborns of families with genuine financial need. Maximum rental period is eight months. There is a $5 fee plus $10 deposit. The deposit is refundable upon return of seat in good condition.

Short-term: For infants visiting from out-of-state. The maximum rental period is three weeks. The fee is $5, plus a $5 deposit, refundable upon return of the seat in good condition.

Merle Jones Lindsay, Regional Director, Red Cross Community Services said they are starting out small (35 seats) with a major thrust on long-term rental.

By fall they hope to know if there is enough of a need to warrant expansion.

The program was developed because the Red Cross felt that preparations for a new baby are often expensive and the purchase of a new car seat can be financially difficult, if not impossible, for families with limited resources.

The minimal fee for the seats is for maintenance plus deposit, which will be refunded upon return of the seat. The KISS program also wants to thank the Quincy Rotary Club for their generous grant for the initial purchase of car seats, Lindsay said.

Auto Excise Tax Abatements Amended

Auto excise tax abatements and refunds must total at least $5 under new legislation now in effect, State Senator Paul D. Harold said.

The new law amends the excise tax law so that town officials will no longer have to deal with abatements in minimal amounts, Harold said.

The law previously provided a $5 minimum excise tax on motor vehicles, and abatements could not reduce it below $5.

The new amendment provides that no abatement shall be granted in an amount of less than $5, and no refund shall be paid in an amount of less than $5, Senator Harold said.

ON SECOND MORTGAGES

QUESTION: I don't have enough cash for the down payment on an investment property. Do you think a second mortgage would be the answer here?

ANSWER: If all the OTHER numbers fall into place as far as the investment goes, a second mortgage might be JUST your answer. The seller or some other lender may agree to loan you the balance of the down payment in this manner.

The second mortgage usually carries a higher interest rate and a shorter payment time — usually from three to five years. But, in today's financial climate, the second mortgage (or some sort of seller-assisted financing) is always an ingredient to consider in order to finalize a sale.

A SECOND MORTGAGE can be an excellent way to finalize a sale in today's market.

Hiroshima: Right At The Time

Anyone who read a newspaper or watched television this week, knows that Tuesday marked the 40th anniversary of the dropping of the atomic bomb on Hiroshima.

Four decades have passed since that historic—and horrible, in the eyes of many—Aug. 6, 1945.

Seeing some of the TV documentaries and reading some of the stories in the newspapers makes you feel like you are being taken on a guilt trip.

To some people today who weren't even born in 1945 and weren't around to know the feelings of those times, it was a dastardly deed.

But if you go back 40 years ago—and four more—it seemed like the right thing to do at that time.

Brig. Gen. Charles Sweeney of Milton who flew a camera plane in the Hiroshima bombing and three days later—Aug. 9—piloted the command plane for the second A-bomb dropped on Nagasaki agrees.

Even though that second bomb killed 73,884 people and the first one over 130,000.

Sweeney told me some years ago in an interview that "given the same circumstances, I would do it again."

The main circumstance was this: thousands of American sailors, soldiers and marines—maybe a million—would have lost their lives in an invasion of Japan.

The two bombs brought the war to an end and those servicemen came home alive.

A lot of people who remember Aug. 6, 1945 seem to forget Dec. 7, 1941.

Japan showed no mercy when it sneak-attacked Pearl Harbor and left thousands of bodies of American sailors entombed forever in sunken ships in a watery grave.

SWEENEY

If there hadn't been a Pearl Harbor attack, there may never have been a Hiroshima or Nagasaki bombing.

It is almost certain that if Japan had devised an atomic bomb first, it would have been dropped on San Francisco or if Hitler got his hands on one first, it would have been earmarked for New York City or Boston.

I was in one of the first landing parties to touch Japanese soil when Japan stopped fighting—and before it formally surrendered.

It was at Yokosuka, south of Tokyo and Yokohama. We saw caves where suicide speed boats were hidden and could hardly believe it: they had 1935 or 1936 Chevrolet engines in them.

Throughout the war in the Pacific, we had dodged kamakazi planes diving onto carriers and other ships of the Third and Fifth Fleets.

Off Okinawa, destroyers like mine were assigned to radar picket duty between Okinawa and Japan. And we spent some exciting moments—to say the least—knocking down those suicide planes before they hit us.

Those suicide speed boats would have been piled with explosives and come out ramming ships off the Japanese coast if there had to be an invasion.

To those of us who were out there, dropping the bomb on Hiroshima and Nagasaki was the right thing to do at that time. And, if a third one was needed, that might have been all right, too—at that time.

What we should learn from Hiroshima and Nagasaki is that atomic warfare—with today's bombs that would make those first two look like jelly beans—would be horrible and we should do everything possible to keep it from happening.

And to prevent the stage—like a Pearl Harbor—from being set to let it happen.

There shouldn't be a feeling of guilt. There should be a feeling of hope that nations really realize the consequences and work together to prevent the bomb that will end it all from ever being dropped.

MIRHA President Comments On Lead Paint Problem

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The purpose of this letter is to comment on recent editorials pertaining to lead paint and Bailus Walker Jr., Commissioner of Public Health, statements regarding discrimination by owners against families with small children and voluntary compliance with lead paint laws.

Lead poisoning, NCT lead paint poisoning, is one of the most misunderstood issues with a mixture of fact and opinion, generally stated as fact. It is difficult to sort out the various facets so that workable solutions can be developed and implemented.

The Massachusetts Rental Housing Association lobbied at the State House to establish a study committee to review the current lead paint law. Worcester City Councilors, tenants groups, health officials, and the 17 senators and representatives of the Health Care Committee all agreed and voted overwhelming approval of this study commission.

Our owners association was openly commended by several State Legislators for our genuine concern for the problem and our willingness to work together with all parties to eliminate the problems associated with this law.

At that hearing, there was no evidence presented that owners are discriminating against families with children to circumvent the lead paint law. Our association knows of no documented evidence of this type of discrimination. The Massachusetts Rental Housing Association does not approve of discrimination of any kind. This issue was not part of our lobbying efforts. We are surprised that, with the many salient, and much more significant points made by all parties, this factor receives any attention at all by the media or by Mr. Walker. The hearing was very positive in tone with owners, tenants, enforcement officials, medical personnel and legislators all smiling, shaking hands and exchanging optimistic views that we can accomplish something that will help families and owners.

Voluntary compliance is one of the major topics to be discussed when the study commission convenes. Currently, the lead paint department is not allowed to participate in voluntary lead abatement by owners for liability reasons. Owners who choose to delead must do so through private contractors who issue private delead certificates. Because of the complexity of the removal process and interpretations of what's in compliance, these private certificates have not proven to protect owners from liabilities or from being cited by the Lead Paint Department at a later date. For example, if paint is sanded off to bare wood and repainted without a thorough washing, a later test will show a lead reading. Some owners have deleaded 2 or more times. In some cases, units previously abated by the Lead Paint Department have been re-cited and the owner forced to delead again. This factor alone discourages the voluntary compliance that Mr. Walker points out is the reason the law fails.

Current owners do not apply this lead paint but are as concerned as anyone with the problem. However, since lead paint removal is state mandated, why is it not state funded? Why not make low interest loans available? Another alternative is tax credits.

Why not encourage owners to delead by conducting voluntary programs through the local lead paint departments in conjunction with the financial incentives mentioned above?

History shows strict enforcement of the current lead paint law lead to destruction of housing units. Since older housing stock is a major supply of family sized housing, it becomes obvious the ultimate victim is and will continue to be the low to moderate income family with small children who will find less and less large units available at a reasonable cost.

Lead paint is a societal problem. Why can't all of us work together and mutually develop workable solutions? This is one area where we can't afford to engage in interesting intellectual debates, but must have honest exchanges of ideas that will help. Let's throw down our verbal and semantical weapons, stop arguing and spend our energies moving ahead.

Don Dupree, President
Massachusetts Rental Housing Association

$500 In Pediatric Equipment Donated By Kiwanis Club

The Quincy Kiwanis Club of Quincy recently donated $500 worth of pediatric trauma equipment to the Quincy Fire Department's Rescue Squad.

"This pediatric medical equipment will be used on Rescue 1 and it will be of great benefit to the young children who will have need of it under emergency conditions," said Fire Chief Edward Barry in thanking the club for the donation.

The equipment included two AMBU rescue breathing packs, one TRAC 3 pediatric-traction splint, one pediatric dual head scope and one TYCOS MOD II Sphygmomanometers.

The club learned of the need for the equipment during a Pediatric Trauma Management Course for EMT's, nurses and other emergency medical personnel that it sponsored in January.

The donation is in conjunction with an effort to present the importance of pediatric trauma care and the Kiwanis Pediatric Trauma Institute in Boston.

The club recently celebrated Kiwanis International's 70th birthday with a donation of $6,000 to the New England District sponsorship of the Kiwanis Pediatric Trauma Institute.

The Pediatric Trauma Institute is the first of its kinds in the nation and is located at the New England Medical Center, Boston, according to Sweeney.

The Kiwanis Foundation of New England, Inc., has initiated a "Pride Drive 85" this year to raise $245,000. All Kiwanis clubs have been urged to participate.

Last year, Kiwanis groups raised $250,000 throughout the region.

The Kiwanis Club of Quincy has been recognized as the third largest contributor in New England for its donation last year of $5,000.

Harbor Pollution Bill Sabotaged, Dr. Ash Charges

Dr. Richard M. Ash, the city health commissioner, charged that the Metropolitan Sewer Construction Commission and certain members of the Legislature were deliberately sabotaging legislation designed to eliminate pollution from Quincy Bay and Boston Harbor.

"It's the old story," said Dr. Ash. "They have stalled every year since the question of pollution came before them and they are stalling now. Action will be delayed until the next session of the Legislature in 1943 and then we'll go through the same thing again."

Dr. Ash's comment came in the wake of the failure of the State Senate to act on a bill that would permit the Commission to apply for federal aid in the construction of a $3 million sewage treatment plant on Nut Island.

The Senate then turned its attentions to impeachment proceedings against Governor's Council Daniel H. Coakley, who was charged with misconduct in office in connection with a pardon granted to Raymond L.S. Patriarca, Rhode Island's Public Enemy No. 1.

"After the senators finish the Coakley trial they will be so worn out that all they will want to do is go home," said Dr. Ash.

GAS CURTAILMENT URGED

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin directed city department heads to curtail use of gasoline in city-owned vehicles as an example to Quincy residents to cooperate with Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes' voluntary reduction of gasoline consumption campaign.

"We must reduce our gasoline consumption by a third," Burgin told city workers.

He urged them to plan truck routes to avoid unnecessary driving, shut off the motor when the car or truck is standing still, have carburetor and spark controls checked frequently and have all city-owned vehicles off the streets by 5 p.m. daily.

shipyard is not the answer. "Jobs are not going to be there by converting those shipyards," he said.

Arthur Foley, the mayor's administrative assistant who represented Mayor Francis McCauley at the forum, said the mayor has met both privately with General Dynamics officials and publicly with commissions and committees.

"The primary goal of these commissions and committees should be to maintain shipbuilding in that area, but we shouldn't overlook other types of industries," he said.

Ron Iacobucci, candidate for Councilor-at-Large, said he has "contempt for the task forces created to look at alternative uses for the yard.

"They're sending the wrong signal," he said. "The two city task forces are nothing more than agents for special interest groups. Conversion and alternative uses will not promote jobs."

"The Shipyard is not closed. The image one would receive in the city of Quincy is that they locked the door and threw the key away," said City Councilor Joseph J. LaRaia, who worked at the shipyard in 1962 and 1963.

"Every day that goes by without affirmative action indicates the inevitable closing of the yard. If we don't make this effort, then higher ups will consider this inaction or little action as giving in to the inevitable."

Representatives from the offices of the governor, U.S. Senator John Kerry, Senator Paul Harold and Rep. Thomas Brownell as well as Rep. Michael Morrissey were also present at the meeting.

"I think by attending the meeting they were able to see the other side of the coin," Condon said.

"We're going to call on the city of Quincy to remember the senators and congressmen if we don't get some action from them," said Richard Piccittio, president of Local 5 shipbuilder's union. "I want to see a petition drive, a rally, and a march on Washington if necessary."

(Gene Edwards Studio)

Ruby Pearl Married To Stoddard K. Hardwick

Martha Mary Chapel in Sudbury was the setting for the recent wedding of Ruby Pearl and Stoddard H. Hardwick.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the bride's cousin, Justice of the Peace William Geary of West Bridgewater.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Robert Goodwin of Brockton, is the daughter of the late Morey Pearl, band leader during the 1930's and restaurant entrepreneur, and the late Jeannette M. (Goodwin) Pearl, country western singer/guitarist and radio star of WSAR, Fall River, during the 1930's.

She is employed by Quincy Community Television, Quincy Cable-systems Ch. 3, where she organizes community produced television programs.

The bridegroom is the son of William F. and Violet C. Hardwick of North Barnstead, N.H.

He is employed by W.B. Mason Office Furniture

Brockton.

A string and flute quartet from the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, played musical interludes during the ceremony which were written by the bride.

Joanne Mitchell of Plymouth, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Elizabeth M. Hardwick of North Barnstead and Donna Bresnick of Randolph.

Philip F. Hardwick of North Barnstead, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were William F. Hardwick of North Barnstead, father of the bridegroom, and Edward Collagan, Jr. of Plymouth.

Flower girl and ring bearer were the bride's children, Heather and Paul Nyhan.

A reception was held at the Marlboro Country Club.

After a wedding trip to Martha's Vineyard and New Hampshire, the newlyweds are living in Quincy.

Medi Mart Blood Pressure Clinic

The Medi Mart Drug Store at 225 Quincy Ave., Presidents Plaza, Quincy, will hold a free blood pressure screening for the public Wednesday, Aug. 7, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The screening will be conducted by qualified personnel. Anyone with an elevated reading will be advised to see a physician.

To help customers keep track of their blood pressure, Medi Mart has developed a new wallet size record card. The card explains blood pressure and the ranges for normal, border line and high blood pressure. The blood pressure wallet card is being distributed to customers at all Medi Mart pharmacies.

The clinic is one of a series of health screenings held regularly by the Medi Mart Drug Stores.

Helena Aho On Wheaton Dean's List

Helen M. Aho, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keijo I. Aho of 9 Morton St., West Quincy, was named to the Dean's list for the first semester at Wheaton College, Norton.

Sterling Students Raise $2256 For St. Jude's

Sterling Middle School students raised $2,256.83 for St. Jude's Research Hospital by their participation in two math-a-thons and cash donations.

The top two math-a-thon winners were Michael Faico and Rachel Greenfield.

Seventh graders also recently donated $200 and adopted 2 1/2 year-old Emily Hoskins, a St. Jude patient.

Students have received praise from the hospital and are expecting to hear from Emily's parents.

Coordinating the St. Jude effort is Robert J. Mattsson, seventh grade math teacher.

Along with the donation, get well cards will be sent to Emily.

Four Residents QCH Babysitting Course Graduates

Four Quincy residents were among 15 students graduated from Quincy City Hospital's initial session of "Safe Babysitting," offered in conjunction with the 4-H Club.

Mary Morris, Amy Czarnowski, Lisa Marie Dymet and Cindy Psota graduated from the course which covered such topics as home safety, infant and child care, entertainment, first aid, nutrition, growth and development, and the responsibilities of a babysitter.

The six week course, designed with the assistance and cooperation of the Quincy Fire and Police Departments, culminated in distribution of Certificates of Successful Completion of the Program.

The course was conducted by the Department of Maternal and Child Health at the Hospital, by Anne Marie San Antonio, Assistant Director of Nursing for Child and Maternal Health, Valerie Corwin, R.N., and Nora Joseph, Play Therapist.

The hospital will be offering the "Safe Babysitting" course again, for boys and girls aged 11 and up, at a later date.

Lay People Preach At Squantum Church

Lay people are filling the pulpit at the First Church of Squantum during the month of August.

Last Sunday, Tom Williamson preached on the topic, "A Time for Receiving Too." Stewart Scott led the service, both reading the Scripture and offering the prayers. Marie Mildram was the organist. A quartet including Diane Lindblad, Genevieve Todd, James Sumner and Fred MacMillan sang the offertory.

Leon MacIntyre and Tore Wallin were the ushers. Harry Holmes was the greeter. Grace Holmes and May Lewis hosted the Fellowship Hour after the service.

During August there will be only one service at the church each Sunday at 9:30 a.m. Visitors are welcome.

There will be two services again, at 8:30 and 9:30 a.m., on the first Sunday in September.

Dana Ricciardi Named Director Captain Robert Forbes House

Dana Ricciardi of Quincy is no stranger to museums, so when the Trustees of the Captain Robert Forbes House Charitable Trust recently appointed her director, they thought themselves fortunate, said Martha Reardon, Chairman of the Board of Trustees.

"We are fortunate to find a person with such a breadth and scope of experience," Miss Reardon said. "We look forward to working with her and the staff on the future of this important South Shore institution."

The Captain Robert Bennet Forbes House is the former home of the China Trade Museum. It is located at 215 Adams St., Milton.

Mrs. Ricciardi has been a member of the Museum staff since 1977, when she served as Museum Registrar and Curator of archives and photographs.

She planned and super-

DANA RICCIARDI

vised the first complete inventory of the Museum's 10,000 or so objects, and acted as curator for the exhibition "Through Western Lenses: Visions of China in Transition, 1860-1950."

She earned her bachelor's degree at Connecticut College in New London and her M.A. and Ph.D. in medieval studies at the University of Pennsylvania.

"Both of my parents have worked for many years in the museum field, holding curatorial positions at the Cooper Union (now the Cooper-Hewitt) and the Metropolitan Museum in New York, where my father is now Curator Emeritus. So I had many opportunities to attend courses and lectures, and to visit Museums both in this country and in Europe. In fact, the name Dana acknowledges my father's debt to his mentor, John Cotton Dana, founder of the Newark Museum in Newark, N.J.," Mrs. Ricciardi said.

Mrs. Ricciardi has been active in the Quincy Historical Society as a member of the Governing Board and Museum Committee, serving as chairman of the committee in 1982 and 1983.

She is the wife of Stephen C. Ricciardi and the mother of two children.

Virginia Keane Named V.P.-Controller At Merchants

Quincy resident Virginia Keane has been named vice president controller of Merchants Cooperative Bank of Boston.

Keane has been with

Merchants for 23 years and served in various capacities including controller, assistant treasurer and most recently as assistant vice president.

She attended the American Institute of Banking and is a member of the Financial Managers Society and the Young Executives Club.

MEET ONE OF YOUR FELLOW COMMUTERS.

Introducing the Airport Water Shuttle. The fast way to commute between the South Shore and Logan or Boston.

From the South Shore, the Water Shuttle beats Expressway traffic to the airport. At Logan, a free shuttle bus takes you right to your airline terminal.

The Water Shuttle features big, comfortable commuter boats with lots of seating. And a "galley" that offers refreshments and newspapers.

Just drive to Marina Bay in Squantum or Pemberton Pier in Hull. You'll find plenty of free parking. And then it's easy sailing to Logan with a stop in downtown Boston.

The fare to Logan is $6.50 one way. Discount commuter books are available.

Why flounder around in traffic? Take the Airport Water Shuttle.

For more information call Marina Bay Commuter at 328-0600 or Bay State-Provincetown Cruises at 732-7800.

Harold L. Boussy, 68, Retired MBTA Machinist

A funeral Mass for Harold L. Boussy, 68, a retired employee of the MBTA, was celebrated Monday in Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy.

Mr. Boussy died Aug. 1 in the Veterans Administration Hospital in Brockton after a long illness.

He was born in Boston.

Mr. Boussy was employed as a machinist by the MBTA for 35 years before retiring in 1972. He served in the Navy during World War II.

Husband of the late Mary W. (McDonough) Boussy, he is survived by four sons, Thomas H. Boussy and Robert J. Boussy, both of Quincy, Paul V. Boussy of Milton and Richard F. Boussy of Weymouth; a daughter, Marie A. McLaughlin of Hingham; four sisters, Helen Nelson and Jeanette Doherty, both of Quincy, Mary Quinn of Weymouth and Evelyn Kornmuller of Whitman; and 15 grandchildren. He was the brother of the late Fred Boussy.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery, Quincy.

Arrangements were made by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the Children's Happiness Foundation, P.O. Box 266, Marshfield, 02050.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK.

Friendship is a great gift in life. It is equally great in the giving as well as in the receiving. Real friendship requires a genuine like of the person, not what the person can give us or do for us. To receive is to give. Unlike a birthday or Christmas gift, the gift of friendship is intangible. Above all, it is a gift we must earn. This is often a forgotten truth. Because of this, friendship can be easily forfeited. For example —

All of us have forgetful friends. And lest we ourselves forget, let us remember we too at times are the forgetful friends to others. We forget to say, "Thank you" ... forget to say nice-to-hear things on this 'n that ... forget to give a word of affection and encouragement ...

Incidentally, may we take this opportunity to say "Thank you" to all of our friends who have taken the time to write, phone and comment on these articles ...

McGrath Wants Bowladrome Secured, Cleaned

Ward 5 Councillor Stephen J. McGrath has asked the Police Department, Building Inspector and Health Coordinator to take steps to secure and clean up the Wollaston Bowladrome on Quincy Shore Drive.

"This site has been the location of serious trouble within recent weeks," said McGrath.

"Most recently, a Molotov Cocktail was thrown in the rear of the premises causing a fire. The site is full of broken glass and the parking area looks like a junkyard," stated McGrath.

The building was recently closed and is to be torn down and replaced with a condominium development," he said.

"I have spoken with Police Captain William Murphy - Acting Fire Chief Carl Valenti - Building Inspector, Allan MacDonald - Health Coordinator, Dick Stuart; asking that the owner be contacted to secure the building and rear parking lot," McGrath stated.

"I would like the parking lot chained off to prevent people from driving in there," said McGrath.

"The neighbors have been patient long enough on this matter. I want this problem taken care of," stated McGrath.

North Quincy Candidates Night Aug. 22

The League of Women Voters will moderate a candidate's night Aug. 22 at 8 p.m., for Ward 6 candidates, and other candidates seeking city-wide political office.

The meeting will be held at the Elks Hall, 440 East Quantum St., and is sponsored jointly by Quantum Community and Atlantic Neighborhood Associations.

Walsh Would Appoint Senior Citizen Coordinator

John J. Walsh, candidate for the Ward 6 City Council seat, says he will appoint a "Senior Citizen Coordinator" to serve the elderly of Ward 6 in matters pertaining to city government and other areas.

"When elected to the City Council," said Walsh, "one of my first acts will be to appoint a volunteer senior citizen coordinator to help me better meet the needs of all seniors in Ward 6."

Walsh said the post would be strictly volunteer and would not cost the city any money. Among the duties of the senior citizen coordinator will be the listing of all senior services available to ward residents (federal, state, and local), scheduling meetings between Walsh and senior groups, researching senior citizen grants, responding to particular problems that face local seniors and other tasks.

"We must never forget those who have gone before us and those who have contributed so much to our quality of life here in Quincy," said Walsh in reference to seniors. "As the Ward 6 City Councilor, I will fight any cutback attempts towards senior citizen programs in Quincy, in Massachusetts, in the United States. I believe in the old adage, 'honor thy elders.'"

Walsh urged those seniors who would like to support him to call him at 773-3543.

LWV To Host Outdoor Candidate's Night

The League of Women Voters of Quincy, will hold an open, outdoor candidate's night for mayor and councilor-at-large, Tuesday, Aug. 27 at 7 p.m., at McIntyre Mall, adjacent to City Hall.

Corinne F. Mitchell, public relations spokesperson for LWV said those participating to date in the candidate's night include:

Mayoral candidates: Incumbent Francis X. Mc-

Cauley, and candidates Joanne Condon, Sabina Kavanaugh, Herman Pasquerella, and David Peterson.

Councilor-at-large: Incumbents Patricia Toland, Richard Koch, and Joseph LaRaia, and candidate Ron Iacobucci.

Spokesperson Mitchell added that Quincy City Clerk John Gillis will attend the candidate's night to register new voters.

LaRaia Candidate For Re-election

Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia announces his candidacy for re-election to the City Council at-large.

LaRaia will complete 18 years of elective office this year.

His previous public service includes: Councilor of Ward Two, President of the City Council and Mayor in 1976-77. He has served for 10 years as Councilor at-large.

During the past year, LaRaia notes, he has voted consistently to give neighborhoods more input into business development. He has done this by his vote to regulate expansion at the Quincy City Hospital as well as business development at Marina Bay, he said.

LaRaia says he has consistently voted to protect Quincy's investment in its abandoned schools. He urged the Mayor to rebid the Pollard School property which resulted in the city receiving over $100,000 in additional revenue over the first round of bids. When fire gutted the school this year, LaRaia said he protected the city's interest by opposing any reduction in the selling price because of the fire loss.

He said he was the City's most outspoken opponent of the out-of-court settlement with General Dynamics.

"Time has shown," he said, "that the City lost its chance to whittle down its obligation to General Dynamics because of the speedy settlement." He has appeared at the State House to support two bills in the legislature that were designed to ease Quincy's financial burden from the payback to General

JOSEPH J. LARAIA

Dynamics.

"The State," he said, "should be more supportive of Quincy's crisis because of the recent announcement to close the yard."

During the last two years, LaRaia said he has actively voted to promote the Arts in the City. He coordinated the volunteer effort that completed the Ruth Gordon Open Air Amphitheater at Merry-mount Park. The theater received special recognition nationally by the U.S. Conference of Mayors' Committee on the Arts early this summer. He is founder and president of the Quincy South Shore Cultural Commission which has been sponsoring the Summerfest concerts in Quincy for the past three years.

LaRaia is a graduate of Boston College and presently operates his real estate business in Quincy Center. He and his family recently moved to his new residence at 38 Russell Park in Quincy Center. He lives there with his wife, Louise, a registered nurse at Quincy City Hospital. Their three children are Joseph, Jr., Lisa and Robin.

Condon Urges Traffic Signal Change To Curb Speeders On QSD

Ward 6 Councilor Joanne Condon has requested MDC Commissioner William Geary to look into the feasibility of synchronizing traffic signals located between the Neponset Bridge and East Squantum St., in conjunction with other signals along Quincy Shore Drive.

Condon said that she has received numerous complaints from residents of that area that motorists travel at a high rate of speed along this portion of Quincy Shore Drive and the MetroPolice stationed along this roadway stop hundreds of motorists a week for speeding.

"If the traffic lights could be synchronized to operate in conjunction with the lights along the remainder of Quincy Shore Drive," she said, "traffic would be slowed down and it would eliminate constant surveillance by the MetroPolice."

Last week new radar units were issued to help them in their war against speeding. One of the critical locations where it is being used is Quincy Shore Drive.

Lydon Requests State St. Traffic Study

Councillor John J. Lydon, Jr., is requesting that the Metropolitan Area Planning Council study the traffic situation resulting from State Street South.

Lydon also requested a feasibility study of the ramping system at Neponset that would allow a new means of access.

In a letter to Alexander V. Zaleski, executive director of the M.A.P.C., Lydon stated, "The City of Quincy hosts one of New England's largest office parks, State Street South. This premier development offers employment to about 10,000 people from both Quincy and the South Shore."

"As the employment at State Street has grown, so has our city's traffic congestion problems."

"Locally, the Mayor has established a Task Force to examine traffic problems within the municipality."

This will go a long way in establishing a municipal policy.

"However, to some extent, our problems transcend our municipal boundaries."

"State Street South is a regional employer and has resulted in traffic problems that are regional in nature."

"The complex lacks adequate egress travelling South and, as a result, a traffic pattern has emerged among motorists which depends heavily upon the traversing of both Quincy and Milton residential streets."

"This has clearly placed an unfair burden upon those who must live in the area."

"With the acquisition of the Neponset Drive-In by the Metropolitan District Commission, it seems clear that we are in a unique position to remedy at least part of the problem of access."

Nutley Urges Speed Traps In N. Quincy

Ward 6 City Council candidate Thomas J. Nutley is urging the police to set traps to apprehend speeders in the Atlantic section of Quincy.

Nutley in a letter to Chief Francis Finn stated:

"Whether motorists are trying to avoid the highly effective MDC speed traps on Quincy Shore Drive, or trying to make better time on the less crowded streets off the drive, the problem of speeding cars on East Squantum St., has become a major problem to the residents of that area."

"I strongly urge the Quincy Police to take action before a fatality takes place on that narrow and winding roadway and on the streets leading to it from the beach."

"Many children use East Squantum St. to visit the local stores and they play on the nearby streets until evening during these summer months."

"The MDC is doing a fine job of apprehending speeders on the boulevard. In fact, they are doing such a good job that the streets of Atlantic have become speedways and it is essential that speed traps be set and this thoughtless and dangerous habit be deterred via stiff fines and loss of licenses, if necessary."

PARTICIPANTS ranging from age five to senior citizens sign up for the 8th annual Muscular Dystrophy Swim-A-Thon at the Lincoln Hancock Community School pool.

Pledge Money Deadline Aug. 23

124 Swim To Help Jerry's Kids

8-YEAR-OLD Nick Pizzi of Germantown did his part for Jerry's Kids at the Swim-A-Thon.

Some 124 persons of all ages took part recently in the eighth annual Muscular Dystrophy Swim-A-Thon at the Lincoln Hancock Community School Pool.

That amount is the second highest in the last five years, according to Barry Welch, recreation director.

The event was sponsored by the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee and the Lincoln-Hancock Community Council in cooperation with the Quincy Recreation Department.

Participants, who ranged in age from 5 to senior citizens, obtained sponsors who pledged an amount of money per lap swum, with a 200 lap limit for all swimmers.

Deadline for turning in pledge money is Friday, Aug. 23.

Boom boxes will be given to the boy and girl turning in the most pledge money.

AM/FM Walk-A-Bout radios with headphones will be given to everyone turning in $75 or more in pledge money.

Jerry Lewis T-shirts will be given to everyone who turns in $25 or more in pledge money.

Every participant who turns in pledge money will receive a citation of merit from the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Pasquerella Urges Tax Considerations For Improvements

Mayoral candidate Herman (Hank) Pasquerella proposes Quincy should extend tax considerations to homeowners by not taxing or reassessing home improvements.

Pasquerella said in a campaign statement that by accepting this proposal, it would provide an incentive for homeowners to pour thousands of dollars into the local economy for purchases and services.

He added that these improvements would not only increase the value of property but would also enhance the value of the neighborhood. The proposal, he said, would not cost the city any revenue loss since the basic house would continue to be taxed, not the improvements.

Pasquerella noted it is not uncommon for government to extend tax considerations to business and industry. His statement brought attention to the renovation and complete restructuring of Yankee Stadium in New York City, costing $40 million. The average taxpayer actually paid these bills, Pasquerella said.

He concluded by saying the individual homeowner is a most consistent taxpayer and the source of immediate revenue. The time has come to prepare and institute a programme that will benefit the homeowner.

Peterson Launches Petition To Save Shipyard

Mayoral candidate David Peterson has launched a petition campaign aimed to save the General Dynamics Quincy shipyard.

The petition, intended to include 50,000 signatures, calls on President Reagan and the U.S. Defense Department to act immediately to keep the yard open.

As a precedent, he pointed out President

Truman's 1952 executive order which kept the nation's steel industry from shutting down.

Peterson said that closing the yard would bring the shipbuilding industry far below what is necessary for national defense.

The petition is to be presented to President Reagan and New England Congressmen, Peterson said.

Montclair Men's Club Elects New Officers

Stanley J. Kovalski Jr. of North Quincy was been elected President of the Montclair Men's Club.

He will be installed at a dinner dance Saturday, Sept. 7, in the clubhouse, 93 Holbrook Rd., North Quincy.

Other officers elected at the regular monthly business meeting held recently are: Stanley W. Kogut, vice president; William H. Connelly, Treasurer; Stanley J. Kovalski Sr., recording secretary; Richard E. Post, financial secretary; Brian K. VanRiper, corresponding secretary; Thomas F. Bridges, Leo Doyle and Richard Cecchini, trustees; and George T. Hatfield Sr., sergeant-at-arms.

Vincent Sullivan Installed Quincy Lions Club President

Vincent Sullivan was installed as president of the Quincy Lions Club during the club's installation of 1985-86 officers held recently at the Neighborhood Club, Quincy.

Other officers installed were Richard Butler, 1st Vice President; Arthur Foley, 2nd Vice President; Leo Sheehan, 3rd Vice President; Dave Smith, Secretary; George Smith, Treasurer; and Donald Uvanitte, Immediate Past President.

Club President Uvanitte presented a check for $3,600 to District Governor Bob Loew. The money will go to the Massachusetts Lions Eye Research. All of the funds were raised through a pancake breakfast sponsored in April.

Also honored at the installation was Eagle Scout Ed Fisher of Boy Scout Troop 117 in Weymouth.

Ed earned his Eagle Scout Award with the help of his father, Ed Fisher II, a member of the Quincy Lions Club.

Eagle Scout Fisher assisted in the collection of over 2,500 pairs of eyeglasses for the needy and also handled the shipping of the glasses as a project.

Quincy City Club Re-elects Officers

The Board of Directors of the Quincy City Club unanimously re-elected Richard J. Koch, 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, president, at the annual meeting held recently at the Squantum Yacht Club.

Thomas R. Burke of 18 North Payne St., South Quincy, was re-elected treasurer and Joseph M. Lydon was re-elected secretary and clerk.

The 19 member Board of Directors also approved a motion to sponsor the annual cookout for the staff and members of the Happy Acres Day Camp at the Park and Recreation Complex Thursday, Aug. 8.

The City Club will open its 11th season Sunday, Sept. 15, with a breakfast meeting.

The City Club is a community service oriented organization with 100 members assisting in the charitable and civic endeavors sponsored by the group.

2 Residents Honored At Thayer

Two Quincy residents were recently honored at Thayer Academy's commencement ceremonies.

David T. Zieper was awarded the Phoebe Lee Hosmer Foreign Language Prize for excellence in the study of Hispanic language and culture. He was also presented the Quincy Cooperative Bank, Josiah Quincy, Jr. Award for scholastic excellence and outstanding citizenship through school and community activity. Susan M. Mildram received the E. Ione Lockwood Music Award for her involvement in musical activities that exhibited talent, effort and personality of permanent remembrance.

ASBESTOS LUNG DISEASE

Asbestos dust causes serious lung ailments; the diseases appear suddenly, years after exposure. Today numerous SHIPYARD WORKERS, MASONS, and PIPEFITTERS of the 1930's-1970's have lung afflictions because they inhaled asbestos particles many years ago.

If you worked in one of those professions then and now have a lung disease, you may be eligible to receive money damages or workers' compensation. Relatives of living and deceased victims can also recover in some cases.

To learn your rights free of charge, or to bring an asbestos claim, contact:

QJC President Addresses National Conference

President O. Clayton Johnson of Quincy Junior College, was an invited speaker at the recent annual National Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators, held at the J. W. Marriott Hotel in Washington, D.C.

Dr. Johnson's address to the conference was titled: "Effective Counseling Ethos for Non-traditional Students". The text compared the social significance of one's family and developmental opportunity to one's potential for achievement and success in a complex society.

His thesis recommended that more supportive and concerned educational services were essential to lead people from "hand-outs" by society to a life of dignity and social productivity.

U.S. Sen. Robert Byrd of West Virginia and U.S. Cong. Augustus Hawkins of California, were keynote and general session speakers.

LASERS and 210s await the starter's gun during Race Week.

TURNABOUTS head for the finish line during Race Week action.

Race Week Success Despite One Day's Loss

The 48th edition of Quincy Bay Race Week was another outstanding success despite the cancellation of one day's racing.

Last Thursday's second day of racing was cancelled when the Coast Guard sent out warnings of dangerous sailing conditions.

The number of boats surpassed last year's total and there were many close and exciting races during the week. Perfect weather prevailed for the final three days of racing.

A highlight of the week was the fifth successive Hustler championship for Joe Curven, Jr. of Weymouth. Joe, with his son, Joe III as crew, piloted Dandy to two firsts, a fourth and an eighth.

Bob and Jo Reis won the Francis Charles Memorial Trophy for winning the 210 series. Hingham Yacht Club skipper Bob was happy to learn he won the trophy, commemorating the late Franny Charles Sr. of Hull Yacht Club. He had never won it before and the trophy is a mahogany half-model of a 210, which pleases his wife, Jo, who won't have to worry about polishing it periodically.

Rick Jakaus of Hingham won his second Laser title by winning the final day's race Sunday.

The Turnabout advanced class race appeared to be the exclusive property of Jennifer and Courtney Drohan of Hingham. Jennifer, 13, had two wins going into the final race, while Courtney, 12, had one. Jennifer won, giving her a second straight Race Week title.

Their race was one of the best of the day, as they battled back and forth throughout the race.

The colorful Marine Parade, back at its usual early starting time Sunday, attracted 119 boats and many boats and crews were dressed in historic costumes as the theme was historic Quincy.

The blessing of the fleet preceded the parade.

Trophies will be awarded at the annual Cup Day, Oct. 6 at 3 p.m. at the Metropolitan Yacht Club.

"THE ENTERTAINER," owned by Jerry Connors of the Quincy Yacht Club, received trophy for the most original decoration in the Marine Parade. The boat was decorated as the Garden of Eden.

Marine Parade Colorful

Ideal weather prevailed for the colorful Marine Parade Sunday, always one of the highlights of Quincy Bay Race Week.

The parade returned to its usual early starting time. A year ago the parade had to be pushed back until late afternoon because of the tides, and the number of boats dropped off.

But this year 119 boats took part following the blessing of the fleet at Town River Yacht Club.

The theme was historic

Quincy and many were dressed in historic costumes. A panel of judges awarded prizes for the most originally decorated boat and the best decorated boat.

The prize for the most originally decorated boat went to the Entertainer from the Quincy Yacht Club, owned by Gerry Connors, and was decorated as the Garden of Eden.

The prize for the best decorated boat went to the Sancho from the Braintree YC, owned by Robert Olson, decorated with a replica of the Merry Mount Maypole. The crew wore colonial costumes. The Merry Mount Maypole stood in Quincy in the early 17th century.

Leading the parade was the Hi, Neighbor, from the Quantum YC. It carried parade chief marshal Al Shaughnessy.

A number of the boats re-created the first Miss Quincy Bay Pageant in 1938 with girls wearing swim suits of that era extending to their wrists and ankles.

Police Club Wins National League Title

The Quincy Police Club ended its regular season in style by defeating Bryan Post VFW and Quincy Local 1139 to capture the Babe Ruth League's National League championship.

The team's 19-3 record was the second best in league history. The police club's 1976 team recorded a 20-2 record. The club is coached by John DiNardo, John Franceschini and Bob McCulley.

The Police Club drew a bye for the league playoffs and expected to play its first game today (Thursday) or Friday.

The club clinched the division title with a 5-4 win over Bryan Post. Wayne Chambers of the Police and Gary Silverman of VFW each struck out six.

Police started early, picking up three runs in the top of the first inning. Dan Overby reached on an error, Joseph Mulvey was hit by a pitch and both scored on Chambers' double. Bill Bellew walked and Chambers scored on a passed ball.

Bryan Post battled back in the bottom half when Silverman and Rob Cinquegrano singled. Silverman stole third and scored on Bill Mulken's sacrifice fly.

Bryan added a run in the third when Silverman (2-for-3 with a walk) collected his second hit, Ron Fletcher singled him to third and Silverman scored on a passed ball.

Bryan took the lead in the fifth when Silverman walked, advanced on Sean Mulken's fielders choice and scored on Fletcher's (2-for-2) single. Fletcher scored when Bill Mulken reached on an error and a Jay Rodriguez' walk.

The Police waited until the last inning to pull out the victory. Jeff Calvert walked, was bunted along by Rick Ames and scored on Overby's towering triple that landed inches away from the home run line on Hancock St. Overby scored on a long sacrifice fly by Joe Mulvey.

Playing well for the Police were Tom Roberts, Mike Iacubacci, Mike Cronin and Brian Kelly. For Bryan Post Sean Murphy and Bill Mulken pitched well in relief of Silverman. Chris Standring, Jamie Green, Mark Malloy and Mark Dwyer played well.

The Police Club wrapped up the season with a 6-1 victory over Local 1139 in a game featuring six doubles, most of which missed the street by inches. Overby was the winning pitcher and Mike Ainsley had a save.

Police began its extra base hit streak in the third when Overby, T.J. Steen and Ainsley had back-to-back-to-back doubles.

Local 1139 scored its run when Ray Grant was hit by a pitch, Jim Bryan walked and Brandon Farrell singled Bryan home.

Police added two runs in the fourth as Tom Roberts doubled, Calvert singled, Overby (3-for-4) singled and Steen had his second double.

The winners finished off their scoring with a run in the seventh when Steen again doubled and scored on singles by Cronin and Ainsley.

Jim Ward and Kelly played well for Police as did catcher Mulvey, who stopped several balls that would have been wild pitches. Mike Sando pitched well for Local 1139 as did reliever Jon Brosnan. Sando had the only other Local hit and Mike Kiley, Mark DeMatteo, Kevin Caldwell, Mike Toland and Hohmann all played well.

Wollaston Credit Home Run Race Thursday

The sixth annual Quincy Youth Commission Home Run 10K road race tonight (Thursday) at 6 o'clock will be pretty much of a Mele family affair.

The race is sponsored by the Wollaston Credit Union and the credit union's Sherry Mele is co-director along with Brian Buckley.

And the official starter will be Sherry's dad, Sam, a major league baseball player for several years and currently a special assignment scout for the Red Sox. Sam holds two American League fielding titles as an outfielder in 1951 and 1952.

In 1947 he was Rookie of the Year, batting .302. He tied a major league record in 1952 by hitting a triple and a home run in the same inning and driving in six runs. In 1961 he was named manager of the Minnesota Twins and was the American League's Manager of the Year.

Sherry Mele and Buckley have been associated with the race since its inception. For the first four years the race benefited the South Shore Council on Alcoholism and was called the Dry Run. The name was changed last year to Home Run because the event benefits Quincy Youth Commission's boys and girls group homes.

The race will start and finish at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Proceeds will be used to benefit the counseling programs geared toward youth from troubled families at the group homes.

Medals will go to the first, second and third place finishers in the following male and female age groups: 15 and under, 16-19, 20-39, 40-49, 50 and over and wheelchair division. All runners will receive certificates. T-shirts will be given to the first 300 applicants. There will also be a special drawing for merchandise prizes. The race is sanctioned by the New England Athletics Congress.

Entry fee is $6 today from 4 to 5:30. The fee was $5 prior to today.

Women's Triathlon Set For Aug. 11

Quincy residents are invited to take part in the second annual women's triathlon sponsored by radio station WROR Aug. 11 at 8 a.m. at Wellesley College.

The three segments include a 1.5k swim in Lake Waban on the Wellesley College campus, a 40k bike ride through Dover, Wellesley and Needham and a 10k run encircling the college. The event is the only major all-women's triathlon in New England.

Participants will be treated to a dinner and seminar on Saturday, Aug. 10, at Wellesley College. All entrants will receive a bag full of items, including a T-shirt, swim cap and water bottle. Awards will be given to the top ten finishers and age group winners. Each finisher will receive a medal and have a chance to win a weekend for two at the Newton Marriott. Entry fee is $40 and entries are limited.

Further information can be had by contacting Conventions, Inc., 45 Newbury St., Boston 02116 (267-0055). Conventions and Dave McGillivray Enterprises are co-directors of the triathlon.

Quincy Team Enters Mud Football Classic

The Ipswich Lions Club will host the second annual charitable Mud Football Classic (The Ipswich Clam Bowl) Sunday, Aug. 11, at Marini Farm on Linebrook Road, off Route 1, Ipswich.

The event will be held rain or shine and gates will be open at 10 a.m.

The Headlock Cafe of Quincy is again entered and will meet the present champions, the Mass Muddas of Merrimack Valley, at 2 p.m.

Proceeds will be used for eye research and other charities of the Lions Club.

6 Advance To N.E. Hot Shot Playoffs

Six Quincy youngsters have captured the city championships in the national Pepsi Hot Shot competition sponsored locally by the Quincy Recreation Department.

The winners are now eligible to compete in New England area play and may advance to play at half time of a Boston Celtics game.

The City Champions are Donna McBride, age 13-15; Nancy Barrett, 16-18; Christine Barrett, 9-12; Sean Donovan, 9-12; Jamie Greene, 13-15, and John Nee, 16-18.

According to Barry J. Welch, Director of Recreation, the event is open to boys and girls age 9-18, and the Pepsi/NBA Competition tests youngsters in speed, dribbling, shooting, and rebounding abilities. The local competition is made possible through the sponsorship of the Pepsi Cola Bottling Co. of Milton. This is the 10th year of this event which includes a district and city wide competition. Over 200 youngsters took part.

The second place winners in the city championship are Anthony Fantasia, Mark Molloy, Pam Deskins, Noreen McBride, Maureen Shea. Third place winners are Sean Gately, Keith Norris, Joe Russell, Erin Doherty and Karin Picarski.

Others who won district competitions and were eligible for the city championship are: Lori Novak, Pam Walsh, Debbie McGrath, Peter Whyte, Patrick Curley, Aidan O'Donoghue, Mike Rose, Brian McPartlin, John McAdams, Bill Warren, Steve Novak, Kevin McPartlin, P.J. Curley, Billy Wysoki, Barry Glynn, Kevin Byron, and Steve Gardiner.

Participants cannot be members of a varsity basketball team.

3 Quincy Girls In Hershey Finals

Three Quincy girls, all members of the Quincy Track Club, will be among 25 youngsters between the ages of nine and 14 who will compete for Massachusetts in the eighth annual Hershey Track and Field Youth program Aug. 15-18 in Hershey, Pa.

The Quincy girls among the 480 boys and girls from across the country are headed by 13-year-old Karen Cashman, one of the top teenage runners on the South Shore.

Karen, along with Robin Guilfooy and Christine Kelley of Quincy and Norwell's Alicia Porro, also a member of the Quincy Track Club, will compete in the 4x100 meter relay.

Karen will be a valuable addition to the outstanding North Quincy High girls' track team, a perennial Suburban League power, this winter and next spring.

This is her fifth straight year as a national finalist.

The girls train faithfully every Tuesday and Thursday evenings at Veterans Memorial Stadium under the watchful eye of QTC coach Jeff Hennessy, who does a fantastic job with the ever-expanding Quincy Club, one of the largest in New England.

In their spare time they practice handoffs, just to keep pace. Cashman, also an outstanding figure skater who competes regularly with the Commonwealth Figure Skating Club, is a fine high jumper, an event that is not included in the Hershey competition.

Since it started in 1975, the Hershey's National Track and Field meet has grown from one local meet in Charleston, W. Va., to one of the largest competitions in the country.

The competition was relocated to Hershey to help local park and recreation departments throughout the country attract additional participants.

During the past eight weeks, 44 local cities and towns conducted qualifying meets with 6,300 youngsters trying for a shot at state competition. At the state finals in Braintree, 480 boys and girls competed.

The winners of local meets advance to the district meet, involving several counties, depending upon how the state is divided. From there a regional team is formed of the top winners representing each state. A minimum of five athletes represent each state of the region. In all, 60 competitors, 30 boys and 30 girls, make up the regional squad, with 480 from across the nation taking part in the finals.

Massachusetts will send its largest contingent ever, with the 25 youngsters, 13 boys and 12 girls, making up more than one-third of the Region Six team. Rhode Island and Connecticut are represented by 10, New Hampshire six and Maine and Vermont five each.

"This is a first for Massachusetts," said Hershey's regional coordinator, Bill Hedlund, Braintree's park and recreation superintendent. "But, the learning experience goes way beyond just competing."

"We try to give the lesson that if you're seeded sixth, all you can do is equal that. If they do that, they'll know they've done their best." Last year Hedlund's Region Six squad finished fifth.

Although the program revolves around sports, Hedlund stresses that it is more than a track meet.

"These kids may never have another chance like this," he said. "They can shake the hand of kids their same age from all 50 states and get a chance to meet Herschel Walker."

Walker, the United States Football League's MVP, and former Olympic standout Rafer Johnson will present the awards.

Other South Shore members of the Massachusetts squad are Jeffrey Anderson, David Cham and Gregory Devine of Hingham; Susan Mathisen of North Weymouth and Jennifer Morrill of Braintree.

Alyson Davis of Quincy will be among the chaperones for the Bay State squad.

Fallon Cup Golf Tourney Aug. 21-25

The 45th annual Fallon Cup Member-Guest Tournament will be held at Wollaston Golf Club Wednesday, August 21, through Sunday, August 25.

The Fallon Cup tournament dates back to 1938 when it began as a Member-Member Four Ball. Today it is a Member-Guest Tournament, Rich in History, steeped in tradition and recognized as perhaps the most prestigious Member-Guest Tournament in New England.

Wollaston Golf Club was founded in 1895 and originally straddled the Milton-Quincy line in North Quincy. Since 1975 the Wollaston Golf Club course has been at its present location, off Randolph Avenue in the picturesque Blue Hills. A charter member of the Massachusetts Golf Association, Wollaston Golf Club is an active participant in Massachusetts Golf.

The Fallon Cup originated in honor of a Boston merchant, Griff Fallon. Wollaston members traditionally invite outstanding amateur golfers in New England to play in this tournament. Participating in the Fallon Cup Tournament over the years have been many Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, Maine, and other State Amateur Champions as well as National Amateur champions. Among them Bill Foley, John Tosca, Jr., Ted Bishop, Dick Siderof, Bill Mallon, Bruce Dourlas, Ed Barry, Warren Tibbitts, Arthur Bemis, Jim McDermott and Ray LaBelle.

Brian Driscoll (Fallon Cup chairman) and his partner, Mike Stone of Dartmouth, will be back to defend their Fallon Cup championship won in 1984.

Qualifying rounds of the tournament will be played Wednesday, August 21 and Thursday, August 22. Match play begins Friday, August 23 and extends through Sunday, August 25 when the semi-finals and finals in all flights will be played.

The public is invited to attend and watch the finest golfers in New England vie for the 1985 Fallon Cup championship.

Cheerleading Camp Opens Aug. 12

The Quincy Recreation Department will once again sponsor a Cheerleading Camp as part of its self-supporting sports camp program August 12-16 from 8:30 - 12:30 at the Quincy Vocational High School Gym.

Directors of the camp, in its second year, are Patti Meyers, Donna McDonald, and Jean Feeney.

There will be special sessions by Maureen Dargon and Sandy Ricciardi former cheerleaders for the Bay State Bombardiers, and Susie Ayberg of Northeastern University.

The camp is open to girls 9 - 15 years of age and the cost is $17. Registration can be done Monday - Friday at the Quincy Recreation Department from 9 - 4:30 weekdays.

No registration will be taken at the camp location. Deadline is Friday August 9.

Panthers Registration

Registration for the Quincy Youth Football League's Quincy Point Panthers will be held Saturday at 10 a.m. at Fore River Field on Nevada Road.

The team is open to area residents, ages 11-14. Birth certificates or baptismal records, along with a $20 registration fee is required at the sign-up.

For further information call head coach Frank Brillo at 471-0057.

Final 4 Cultural Concerts At Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre

The Quincy South Shore Cultural Commission is re-adjusting its summer schedule and is planning to hold the last four concerts at the Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre beginning Wednesday, Aug. 14, and ending Wednesday, Sept. 4.

Public response in support of holding the concerts there has been received as a result of the successful concert held at the Amphitheatre July 24 which featured Maria and Rene Rancourt. Over 700 people attended that event.

In the event of inclement weather, announcements will be made regarding the relocation of the concert that evening. Because of rain, last Wednesday's concert was cancelled. It was not held at the Vo-Tech Gym because of repair work being done at the gym. It was possible to reschedule that concert to Sept. 4.

Bus service will be provided on those dates from Quincy Center to the Amphitheatre and back for those wishing to use that service.

The next scheduled performance to be held at McIntyre Mall will be on Wednesday evening Aug. 7, which will be a variety show.

'Night Of Shooting Stars' At Blue Hills

Reach for a falling star when the perseid meteor showers fly past Chickatawbut Hill in Quincy Saturday, Aug. 10, from 7 to 10 p.m.

The "Night of the Shooting Stars" is hosted by the MetroParks. Reservations and Interpretive and the Blue Hills Trailside Museum. Raindate is Aug. 11.

The perseid meteor showers are one of a shower of meteors which appears to originate in the vicinity of the constellation Perseus.

Pre-registration is required, and there is a $2 fee. Call 333-0690 to register.

For more information about other special programs, call 828-9146.

Historical Society Planning Tour To Herb Farm

The Quincy Historical Society is planning a visit to Caprilands Herb Farm in Coventry, Conn., Thursday, August 22.

There will be a special lecture and tour of the farm's 31 different gardens, lunch in an 18th century farmhouse with a menu that emphasizes the creative use of herbs, and tour of the 18th century barn, greenhouse gallery, bookshop, and the bouquet and basket shop.

The day will be of interest to gardeners, cooks and those interested in early American life, says the society.

The fee includes transportation via deluxe motor coach, all admissions and tips, lunch, wake-up breakfast and snacks.

The tour will leave Adams Academy, 8 Adams St., Quincy Center, at 8:30 a.m. after a wake-up breakfast, and arrive at Coventry about 11 a.m. It will depart about 3 p.m.

A snack will be served on the trip back. Reservations are limited.

The tour will take place rain or shine. For reservations call the Quincy Historical Society at 773-1144.

A portion of the Quincy Historical Society's operating funds for fiscal year 1985-1986 has been made possible with support from the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, a state agency, and through a grant from the Institute of Museum Services, a Federal agency in the Department of Education, which offers operating and program support to the nation's museums.

STARSCOPE

by Claire Annsweil

WEEK OF: AUGUST 8.

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

In recreation, avoid overexertion. In education, explore entirely new fields of interest. And in friendship and romance, the accent is on renewed relationships.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

You may find yourself in the spotlight and can advance a pet cause. Dealings with teachers and in laws are favored. Higher ups may be unexpectedly demanding of your time.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Home repairs should not be postponed and apologies should be made as quickly as possible. Congratulations - and perhaps some awards - come your way from unexpected sources.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Keep your eyes open for bargains, especially in departments of antiques or art. Creative projects may prove expensive, but generally this is a positive business week.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Family members are cooperative and respond well to your big ideas. Stay in touch with old friends, you may pick up some useful news. Small financial windfall may arrive toward the weekend.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Perception is your real strength now, you understand the motives and intentions of the people around you. The period favors entering into new projects - alone or with a partner.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Romantic situation stabilizes and you have a clear idea of where the relationship is headed. At work, your role is to encourage others to fulfill their potential.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Friendship circle is expanding, but don't neglect older friends who have stepped into the background. Self-improvement scheme can lead to promotion in the not too distant future.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Recreational activity can lead to a new relationship, and partnerships are generally favored. If planning to expand wardrobe or paint the house, lean toward the traditional side.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Travel offers a combination of surprise and education. Children respond positively to your suggestions. Job situation becomes more pleasant, thanks to your initiative and perseverance.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

This is not the time to break - or bend - any rules. Follow established procedures and you can make strides in the workplace. Prestigious event is highlight of the weekend.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Surprise events can be carried off with surprising success. Prospects increase for boosting income, but take a conservative approach toward investment. Career idea may backfire.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You can be lucky in financial matters and you're always generous, frank and determined. Also, you're fixed in your opinions. Your skill over the next twelve months lies in your ability to formulate long term goals. The key is to decide which ones you'll pursue.

BORN THIS WEEK

August 8th, actress Connie Stevens, 9th, comedian David Steinberg; 10th, singer Eddie Fisher; 11th, actor Lloyd Nolan; 12th, actor George Hamilton; 13th, actor Neville Brand; 14th, actress Susan St. James.

PERSONAL

TO ST. JUDE, O Holy St. Jude, Apostle and Martyr, Greet in virtue and rich in miracles, near kinsmen of Jesus Christ, faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need, to you I have recourse from the depths of my heart and humbly beg to whom God has given such great power, to come to my assistance. Help me in my present and urgent petition in return I promise to make your name known and cause to be invoked. Say 3 Our Fathers and 3 Hail Marys and 3 Glory Be's. Publication must be promised. St. Jude pray for us, and all who invoke your aid. AMEN. This Prayer has never been known to fail. This prayer is to be said on 9 consecutive days.

PERSONAL

PRAYER TO ST. JUDE Most holy apostle, St. Jude, faithful servant and friend of Jesus, the name of the traitor who delivered your beloved Master into the hands of enemies, has caused you to be forgotten by many, but the Church honors & invokes you universally, as the patron of hopeless cases, of things almost dispensed of. Pray for me, I am so helpless & alone. Make use I implore you, of that particular privilege given to you, to bring visible & speedy help where help is almost dispensed of. Come to my assistance in this great need that I may receive the consolation & help of heaven in all my necessities, tribulations & sufferings, particularly (here make your request) & that I may praise God with you and all the elect forever. I promise, O blessed St. Jude to be ever mindful of the great favor to always honor you as my special and powerful patron & to gratefully encourage devotion to you. Thank you Amen.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT O Holy Spirit, You who enlightens me, who illumines all things so I may attain my goal. You who gives me the divine gift of forgiving and forgetting the evil done to me and who is ever with me at all moments of my life. I wish during this short dialogue with You to thank You for everything and to confirm once again my wish to never be separated from you, even in spite of all material distractions. I desire to be with you in eternal glory. Thank You for Your mercy towards me and all who are dear to me. Must be said three days in succession, after the three days, favor or grace will be attained, even if it appears to be of difficult nature. Then published with instructions as soon as possible, with your initials.

$139,682 Grant To Fund

OHA Elder Services Coordinator

A $139,682 grant has been awarded to the Quincy Housing Authority by the Executive Office of Communities and Development, State Senator Paul D. Harold announces.

Sen. Harold said the grant will be used to fund the position of elder services coordinator who will perform needs assessments and facilitate the delivery of homemaker, medical and other services to elderly residents of the Housing Authority's facilities.

In addition, the funds will be used to continue the Quincy Housing Authority's program of outreach and recruitment of its residents for educational and training programs through the South Coastal Career Development Agency and its youth employment program, said Senator Harold.

You Can Win $1000 In Harbor Treasure Hunt

How well do you know
Boston Harbor and the Islands?

If you know them well enough, you can win $1000, $300, or $100 in prize money in the 1st annual Boston Harbor Island Treasurer Hunt.

Marina Bay, in cooperation with the Metropolitan District Commission, and The Quincy Sun is sponsoring this exciting event to increase the awareness and appreciation of the surrounding harbor and the rich history of the islands.

First prize is $1000; other case and merchandise prizes will be given to the other finalists. The contest combines a persons' knowledge of the islands and harbor, and couples that knowledge with the intrigue of 10 mystery clues given on the last day, Aug. 17.

To enter the contest, pick up an entry blank at Marina Bay, 542 Squantum St., North Quincy, or purchase an Aug. 1 edition of The Quincy Sun. The application appears on page 12. Then answer as many questions as you can out of 100. Bring the answers to Marina Bay on Saturday, Aug. 17 and you will be given the final 10 questions. The last 10 clues require the use of a boat.

The contest is open to anyone and is free. The winner, and answers to the mystery questions, will be announced at Marina Bay on Aug. 17 after 3 p.m.

Joining the Metropolitan District Commission in their sponsorship is the Department of Reservation and Interpretive Services, and the State Department of Environmental Management. For further information telephone 328-0600.

City Allocated $191,165 For Street Reconstruction

Mayor Francis X. McCauley announces today Quincy has been allocated $191,165 by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts for Chapter 90 work.

These funds are to be used for the construction and reconstruction of city streets and sidewalks.

The funds may also be used for landscaping, drainage, traffic control and street lighting projects.

During the past four years the city has received $963,790 in Chapter 90 funds. The city is presently resurfacing or reconstructing all portions of 78 streets at a cost of $1,200,000.

Kelly, who requested the Quincy meeting, said chlorine is damaging Quincy Bay and lowering the salt content which is already below state standards.

He also said he would ask the board to work on a strong water conservation program.

Mayor Francis McCauley will welcome the group.

Leo J. Kelly, an advisory board member and former Quincy City Councillor, said he would suggest that the MWRA board of directors search for an alternative to chlorine to treat sewage

Board To Vote Aug. 20

Compromise Sought On Shelter

By LINDA WILKINS

Proponents of a controversial Quincy Center shelter for the homeless hope to work out a compromise with opposing businessmen before the License Board votes on the issue.

One meeting of representatives of both sides was scheduled for yesterday (Wednesday) and another was being planned.

The License Board which heard arguments for and against last week is expected to make its decision on the Foster St. shelter at its meeting Aug. 20.

"We are more than willing to work with the business community in making the shelter the best for both the clients and Quincy," said Nancy Powers, executive director of the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition.

The Coalition, a group of 45 churches, social and civic agencies and area residents, was formed two years ago to help the homeless and hungry of the area. The group requested to use the Knights of Columbus Building at 25 Foster St., Quincy Center, as a shelter, but area businesses are concerned with the proposed location.

"I'm not opposing taking care of the homeless, but I think there has been no consideration for the people of downtown Quincy," said Robert Colman, owner of Colman's Sporting Goods.

"It's an area that's been getting better over the years and to locate it there, I think would be a mistake," said Steve Gillig, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, at the Aug. 8 License Board hearing on the proposed shelter. The association itself has at this time taken no official position on the issue.

Gillis and Powers hope to set a date by the end of this week to meet, Powers said.

"We have some ideas we'll be discussing with them," she said. "I believe we're going to see through this a better shelter and working relationship with the businessmen."

At the suggestion of Police Chief Francis Finn, Powers and Coalition members, the Rev. William McCarthy, pastor of St. John's Church, and Sheila McIntyre, wife of the late Mayor-Senator James McIntyre, were scheduled to meet yesterday (Wednesday) with Finn and Atty. Stephen Keefe and his clients, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Percy, owners of Miller Studio, 17 Foster St., which is next to the proposed shelter.

"The 12,000 people who come to my business every year are not going to put up with these people, and I'm going to have to move my business out of the City of Quincy," Percy said.

Wollaston Theatre Reluctantly Relaxes 'R' Rated Policy

By DAN CONNELLY

The Wollaston Theatre, Quincy's last movie house, reluctantly is relaxing its admission policy on "R" rated movies starting Friday.

According to Arthur W. Chandler, owner and president of the 60-year-old movie house, located at 14 Beale St., Wollaston, "anyone who has the price of an admission will be allowed to attend 'R' rated movies."

Chandler, who up until this Friday has rigidly enforced the rating system, established by the movie industry years ago, finally yielded to what he terms "an influx of those who have no regard for good values; who only care for what serves their interests."

He also said that he has expended much effort and made many sacrifices through the years in attempting to hang onto "good neighborhood standards at reasonable prices."

ARTHUR CHANDLER

Chandler is also increasing his ticket price Friday for people under 20, but he said that has nothing to do with abandoning the rating system.

The Wollaston Theatre already charges teenagers $1.75, 25 cents more than adults. Chandler said the ticket price for young people will go up to $2 as of Friday while the price for adults will remain $1.50.

Chandler's prepared statement to The Quincy Sun said:

"Nearly 60 years ago the Wollaston Theatre was built for the residents of Wollaston and Quincy so they could have their own theatre for their enjoyment. From the beginning there have only been two owners - both private families. They have tried to present only the best in theatre entertainment whether live on stage or on the screen. Much effort and sacrifices through the years have been made attempting to hang onto good neighborhood standards at reasonable prices.

"After all these years the character of the area has changed drastically. Once we had mostly neighborhoods of young families where everyone knew each other. Now we have a different characterization. We no longer have the young family neighborhoods, we have

Quincy Names On Insurance Money List

The State Treasurer's office has money for 29 Quincy residents and businesses who are among 4000 Massachusetts holders of dormant insurance accounts totaling nearly $1 million.

Under the state's unclaimed money law, the funds have been reported to State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane's office by insurance companies doing business with the Commonwealth and includes unpaid life insurance benefits, unpaid benefits on health and liability insurance policies, pension checks and customer over payments.

Thomas Walsh, a director in the treasurer's office, said that under Massachusetts' unclaimed money law, accounts dormant for at least five years are deemed abandoned and must be reported to the treasury. One way for that department to locate the rightful owner or legal heirs to return the money is through the cooperation of newspapers.

"Many of these accounts represent the cash value of life insurance policies which the owners do not realize they are entitled to claim," said Crane. "My office is making every reasonable effort to locate the owners or legal heirs to return these funds to those who are due them."

More than 1000 accounts range between $100-$500; 239 accounts between $500-$1,000; 132 accounts between $1,000-$5,000; nine accounts between $5,000-$10,000 and five accounts more than $10,000. The remaining accounts are less than $100.

Last spring Crane released the names of 36,000 Massachusetts residents who were owed more than $13 million, most of this resulting from unclaimed savings accounts.

Persons who believe they may have a valid claim to this list should call the treasurer's office at (617) 367-7780 or Toll Free 1-800-632-8027.

College Students Will Need Vaccination Proof Next Year

Students entering college in Massachusetts will have to show they have been vaccinated starting next year, State Senator Paul D. Harold reports.

The new law applies to students entering college as freshmen after Sept. 1, 1986, and is phased-in to apply to those transferring as sophomores, juniors, and seniors.

Harold said the new law will apply to all fulltime students under age 30, and will also apply to both full-time and part-time students, both undergraduate and graduate, who study health science and have contact with patients.

Students will be required to present a certificate of immunization against measles, mumps, rubella, tetanus, and diphtheria, but those who have attended Massachusetts elementary or secondary schools need only submit a copy of the school immunization record.

Harold said the new law provides exceptions for any student whose doctor certifies that vaccination would endanger the student's health, and for students whose religious beliefs would prohibit vaccination.

The phase-in of the law will apply to: freshmen entering college as of Sept. 1, 1986; freshmen and sophomores entering as of Sept. 1, 1987; freshmen, sophomores, and juniors as of Sept. 1, 1988; freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors as of Sept. 1, 1989, and to all graduate and undergraduate students as of Sept. 1, 1990.

The provisions relating to health students apply as of Sept. 1, 1986, Harold said.

$162,000 From Validated Parking

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The city earned $162,000 from validated parking in fiscal 1985 and the mayor is "very pleased" with the way the system has worked.

"It's been a very positive first year," said Mayor Francis McCauley, "over 100 businesses downtown are participating in validated parking."

"It's a great improvement over the old system where people got parking tickets if their parking meters expired."

Kinney Systems, which operates the validated parking, made $490,000 in fiscal 1985, said McCauley.

The city received $67,000 in leasing fees, and $95,000 in a percentage of Kinney System's profits.

"It was a new concept in Quincy," said McCauley of the system which went into effect May 14, 1984.

"We weren't sure how it would work out. There were a few bugs in the system at first. But the figures are a little better than I had expected."

McCauley said that he has had positive feedback from merchants, and no major complaints.

Under the old system, he got frequent calls or letters from shoppers who vowed never to return to Quincy after receiving a parking ticket at an expired meter.

The money the city receives from Kinney Systems will go into a revolving account for parking areas and will cover such things as resurfacing the lots, meters, and hiring meter maids for other areas of the city.

The city has a five year contract with Kinney Systems, said McCauley. The lease fee will be $67,000 for the first three years, and $75,000 for the last two years.

McCauley Asks Special Council Meeting On Ruscitto Land Proposal

Mayor Francis McCauley has asked Acting City Council President Joseph LaRaia to call a special Council meeting Monday evening, Aug. 19, to act on a proposal by the estate of Peter Ruscitto to sell 180 acres of land in West Quincy to the city.

The site includes the present sanitary landfill operated by the city.

Purchase price of the land would be approximately $515,000 or $2,793 per acre.

The Ruscitto estate would return to the city, $415,000, the amount of back taxes and interest owed to the city on other properties owned by the estate. The agreement also stipulates that once the landfill operation is completed the land would remain open space.

Under the terms of the present lease, the city leases the land for the amount of the real estate property taxes which in 1985 were $51,865. Starting in 1986 an additional rental fee of approximately $60,000 per year would be paid by the city. The present lease expires May 1, 1991.

McCauley said he has briefed the members of the City Council concerning the proposal and that a formal presentation will be made at the council meeting by City Solicitor Joseph MacRitchie and Public Works Commr. Paul Anderson.

McCauley said he favors the proposal and feels acquisition of the property would be advantageous to the city. McCauley also said the City Councilors expressed the view that if the agreement was approved the land would never be developed but remain open space.

Day Care Service At Germantown Center

A new infant and toddler day care service will begin Tuesday, Sept. 3 in the Germantown Neighborhood Center, located in the Snug Harbor Elementary School, 333 Palmer St., Quincy.

A joint project of South Shore Mental Health Center's STEP 1 Program and the Germantown Neighborhood Center, the program will serve children ages one month to 33 months.

The center will operate 52 weeks a year, Monday through Friday from 11:45 a.m. to 3:45 p.m.

The cost is $15.25 per daily session and day care vouchers will be accepted.

Children may participate in the program two to five sessions per week.

Sessions include eating lunch and rest time as well as play activities designed to stimulate individual child development.

Reader's Forum Claims Alexandria Outdoes Quincy In History

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I have been reading "Historic Quincy - a Tourist Guide" the supplement to your July 11th issue.

In it you say that Quincy has "as many if not more" historical sites than any other city of similar size in the United States.

It is difficult for me to imagine that you considered Alexandria, VA, before you made that statement!

I think that Alexandria can match your sites on a one for one basis, and still have many left over!

Lets' see:
We'll put the Episcopal Theological Seminary against Adams Academy, Christ Church (where George Washington was a vestryman) and the old Presbyterian Meeting House (a monument to religious intolerance in VA.) against your First Parish Church.

Cemeteries at the above two churches against your Hancock Cemetery.

Two Lee houses against your two Adams houses.

The Confederate Memorial (that sad soldier who stands with his hat in his hand looking south, to mark the place where Alexandria's sons marched off to war) against Abigail's Cairn.

The Washington and Alexandria canal against your granite railway.

Jones Point Light House against your Moswetuset Hummock.

That leaves three houses in Quincy that don't match up exactly.

But let's put up against them the Carlisle House where Gen. Braddock started his ill fated campaign.

George Washington took the final salute from his troops.

George Washington's town house.

The Ledbetter Apothecary. Now, as to the things you mention, but don't call "Major Historic sites."

Alexandria was separated from Fairfax County.

Alexandria has two of the milestones that were set out to mark the boundaries of the District of Columbia.

Alas, Alexandria, to my knowledge, has no ancient iron works. (You see, it was founded to cut tall masts for English ships).

Now what's left?

Well, Alexandria has the George Washington Masonic Memorial.

Alexandria has cobblestone streets dating to colonial times.

Alexandria has it's Flounder Houses (a unique architectural style found nowhere else).

Alexandria has the oldest daily newspaper in the U.S. I guess we should add the Athenium, one of Gen. Braddock's cannons, two civil war forts (one restored), and the hotel room where Spiro Agnew did his plea bargaining, also the Friendship Tire Co.

If you've read this far, and if you should decide to publish, how about sending me a tear sheet.

Steve Downing, Manager
INTERIOR SELLING TIPS

QUESTION: My husband is painting the outside. How can I make the interior appear its best to a prospect?

ANSWER: After "Hubby" finishes the outside — move him inside. Repaint or wallpaper any rooms that really need it. But use neutral colors. It doesn't pay to outguess prospective buyers. A sparkling kitchen is the heart of any home. Keep it spotless — no dirty dishes — everything in its place.

Children's bedrooms can look like disaster areas. Thin out the excess accumulation of unnecessary belongings and arrange what's left neatly. Also clean out the clutter from closets, basement and garage.

THERE ARE A LOT OF WAYS to perk up the interior of your home to help sell it.

How About Getting Together?

Two years ago, Mayor Francis McCauley had no opposition so there was no mayoral campaign, primary or final election.

It was, politically speaking, a pretty dull year.

This year, with four opponents, it wasn't much more exciting until the bad news from General Dynamics.

It seems to be the only attention-grabbing issue but how hot, from a vote-getting standpoint, is it really?

No one running for mayor or the City Council can be blamed for General Dynamics' decision to close the Quincy shipyard.

And, certainly, no one is about to step forward and take credit for it.

But the scramble is on to see who can do what to come up with what miracle to save the shipyard and, at the same time, maybe get the bigger headline.

A number of special groups and committees have been formed and meetings called to see what can be done to keep the 181-acre site from sitting idle and rusting away and giant cobwebs hanging from the Goliath crane.

Councillor Patricia Toland came up with a Blue Ribbon Task Force that started looking at alternatives even before General Dynamics' decision was made.

She ran into flak from shipyard workers who, of course, want to keep the yard open as a shipbuilding facility. You can't blame them for wanting to keep their jobs and continue building ships.

The Quincy Shipyard going back to Bethlehem Steel's heyday has been one of the finest shipbuilding facilities in the nation and during World War II was the Navy's right arm, turning out aircraft carriers, battleships, cruisers and destroyers that provided much of the muscle to defeat Japan.

That talent is still here and it would be a shame to let it move elsewhere.

Councillor Joanne Condon, McCauley's major challenger, zeroed in on keeping the shipyard open as a shipyard as she organized a Forum For Concerned Citizens, Employees and Businessmen To Save the Shipbuilding Industry in Quincy.

That certainly won some friends and influenced shipyard workers who vote in Quincy. She also made a nice move — personal and political — when she invited Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro to join her group.

The shipyard is in DeCristofaro's ward, but somehow he seemed to have been overlooked a little as committees and groups were being put together.

Mayor McCauley named a group of economic and development leaders to consider other uses for the yard. He even invited Toyota to look the site over as a possible manufacturing plant.

More recently, he says he will also ask General Dynamics to reconsider closing the yard and has offered Local 5 union space in the City Hall lobby to launch a petition drive aimed at keeping the yard open as a shipbuilding facility.

Condon and DeCristofaro announce a rally will be held in front of City Hall Aug. 26 with preserving the shipbuilding industry in Quincy as its goal.

McCAULEY

CHENEY

City Council President James Sheets would like some answers as to why Quincy hasn't gotten "its fair share of Navy contracts." Shipyard workers, he notes, would like to know, too.

LaRAIA

Councillor Joseph LaRaia thinks "too many positions have been taken" which makes it look like the city "has no definite goals."

He could be right. Maybe there are too many committees and groups each going off in a different direction.

Maybe it is time for them to sit down together, plan together and work together to keep the shipyard open. And if it turns out there is positively no way to keep it open as a shipyard facility it doesn't mean anyone failed.

And, if it has to come to an alternative, isn't that better than locking the gates and letting the place pile up in rust?

CITY COUNCILLOR Ted DeCristofaro has retired from one job and started a new one.

He has left his post as a maintenance mechanic at the Adams National Site to join Rep. Robert Cerasoli's House Post Audit Committee.

INCIDENTALLY, DeCristofaro has about 12 bricks from his alma mater, the old Pollard School which he would be happy to give to share with students as a memento.

DeCristofaro's wife, Betty, who also went to the Pollard, has made a beautiful doorstop from another one of the bricks which she and Ted plan to present to Miss Ruth Abbiati, a former teacher there.

HERMAN (HANK) PASQUERELLA and John Walsh are eyeing Megabucks now that they won the big lottery at City Hall.

Pasquerella drew top spot on the Sept. 10 preliminary election ballot among the five mayoral candidates.

Pasquerella and Walsh won first position in the Ward 6 City Council race.

Assistant City Clerk Thomas Burke drew the names.

Joanne Condon got second spot in the mayor's contest, followed by David Peterson, and Sabina Kavanagh with incumbent Francis McCauley in last position.

In Ward 6, Thomas Gilmartin drew second place followed by Marilyn Hanabury, Richard Sheridan, Thomas Koch and Thomas Nutley.

The mayoral and Ward 6 city council contests will be the only two on the Sept. 10 election ballot.

There are not enough candidates for City Councillor-at-large, School Committee and for Ward Councillors 2, 3, 4 and 5 for preliminary contests.

And, that's pretty sad.

After School Care For Children Grades 1-5, Starts Sept. 16

Registration for Quincy residents to participate in the South Shore YMCA's After School Care Program for children in school grades 1-5, begins Monday, Sept. 16 at the "Y", 79 Coddington St., Quincy.

The purpose of the program is to provide children of working parents safe and fun recreational activity each day after school as an alternative to going from school to an empty and an unsafe situation at home.

The hours of the program for children in these grades will be from the end of school to 6 p.m. Children will be transported by the "Y" directly from his or her elementary school to the program site. Parents will be responsible for picking up their children at or before 6 p.m.

Bill Johnson at the South Shore YMCA in Quincy, said the program will be staffed by professionals and para-professionals. The cost will be the equivalent of $35 per week (payable on a monthly basis). Johnson added that space is limited and requested those interested to sign up early.

The Empire State Building in New York City is 102 stories high, can hold about 80,000 people and has seven miles of elevator shafts.

Compromise Sought On Shelter For Homeless

(Cont'd from Page 1)

"Mr. Percy is concerned with the questions not answered by the Coalition," Keefe said at the hearing. "It was indicated that the people who are going to occupy the building will leave at 7 a.m. and arrive at 4:45 p.m. Where do the people go in between? Will the demand for the facility be greater than they can handle and where will the people who are turned away go? These are questions that have not been answered."

"Even I don't know the answers," Finn, a board member, said. He suggested that members of the Coalition meet with the Percy's and their counsel to "see if there's a common meeting ground."

The shelter, as originally proposed, would house 20 men, five women and three families. The families were to have private rooms on the first floor and the others would occupy the second floor. The Knights of Columbus agreed the Coalition could use the building rent free for one year.

In response to the businessmen's concern to mixing children with the single population, and forcing singles to return to the streets from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m., the Coalition issued a prepared statement offering the following changes in its proposal to the Licensing Board:

"Families will no longer be sheltered in the Foster Street location. We will subcontract with an agency in Hingham to care for these families. This will enable the Coalition to sponsor a 24 hour program for singles. They will no longer be without services from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. as previously proposed. They will no longer need to use businesses' restrooms or other services. We will provide a day program staffed by social workers, counselors, a nurse, as well as volunteer assistance."

Since families would no longer be sheltered in that location, the Coalition would request 26 beds for men and five for women, on a permanent basis. The Coalition also would request permission to use the available space on the first floor, which by day will be a lounge area, to accommodate an overflow of up to ten people. Families would stay at the shelter only in cases of emergency until other services could be found.

Those planning to use the shelter would still have to be there by 5 p.m. for check-in.

"They will be frisked for alcohol, drugs, and weapons when they enter the building," Powers said.

She said there would be a nurse on duty to give residents nightly physicals.

"They will be checked each night, they will have showers every night and their clothes will be disinfected at night," she said.

"These people are going to be in Quincy whether we have a shelter or not," said Powers.

Powers said Quincy's homeless can be found at Quincy Courthouse, Quincy Center Post Office, Thomas Crane Public Library, YMCA ballpark, Mount Wollaston Cemetery, under trees and in doorways.

Quincy District Court Judge Albert Kramer said several homeless people have sought shelter at the courthouse and were allowed to stay "out of compassion."

The License Board is scheduled to decide the fate of the shelter at its Aug. 20 meeting at 10 a.m. in the City Council Chambers at City Hall.

The proposed shelter was not voted on at last week's meeting due to what Finn termed "a lack of communication between the business community in Quincy and the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition."

About 17 people spoke in support of the shelter at the meeting and six spoke in opposition.

Finn said he is not sure which way he will vote on the issue, but he did say Quincy has a moral obligation to "put these people up and give them a chance. These are not easy people to deal with. They're anti-social and on mind-altering alcohol. Some become threatening and violent but these are all the more reasons we have to help them."

He said in the past he has voted for Survival, the detoxification center at Quincy City Hospital, and the DOVE center for battered women.

Finn also said he received a telephone call from the building department informing him that Building Inspector Alan MacDonald, who was not present at the meeting, is "adamantly against the granting of the license."

City Clerk and board chairman John Gillis said he could not help but to vote for the shelter. Acting Fire Chief Carl Valenti did not say which way he would vote.

"We're asking you to give us a chance to see how it works out," said the Rev. William McCarthy, pastor of St. John's Church where a temporary shelter was in existence until April when funding ran out. "We are concerned with taking the dying off the streets."

Quincy's Yesterdays

Della Chiesa, McIntyre Warm Up

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa charged that City Council President James R. McIntyre was "playing politics with Quincy's economic future" by using stalling tactics against the so-called "West of the Tracks" development.

"I regret that the Mayor has introduced personalities in this issue which involves so much municipal money," retorted McIntyre, who was preparing to run against Della Chiesa for mayor in the fall elections.

The West of the Tracks development was a $700,000 plan to provide more parking space and better traffic approaches to the underdeveloped area owned by the Grossman interests across the Old Colony tracks from the Ross Parkingway.

SEEK NAVY INTERVENTION

The Shipyard Workers Union warned that members may stop work in East Coast shipyards where naval vessels are under construction unless the Navy Department intervenes in its contract dispute with the Bethlehem Steel Co.

The Navy had declared its neutrality in the dispute which saw members of Local 5 and Local 90 working without contracts at the Fore River Shipyard.

"Unless you dissuade the company from imposing upon its employees the outrageous deterioration in working conditions which the company has demanded our union cannot long prevail upon its members to remain at work," said union officers in a telegram to the Navy.

Wollaston Theatre Reluctantly Changes 'R' Rated Policy

many who live in expensive housing and don't go to a neighborhood theatre, a decline of the middle class family and last an influx of those who have no regard for good values, who only care for what serves their interests.

"Several years ago the movie industry, on their own, rated movies, which included the "R" rating. That "R" rating indicates that those under 17 must be accompanied by a parent or adult guardian. In reality, this is hypocritical because it seems only the Wollaston Theatre enforced it. If the industry only wanted to advise as to content, a simple "R" would suffice indicating bad language, violence and/or sex period.

"This theatre has tried to hang onto the good family and neighborhood values by rigidly enforcing the rating. It is now evident that these values no longer exist - listen to the young with their language and watch their actions. Here, we have both young boys and girls using foul language when they aren't allowed admission. Also adults think nothing of buying tickets for those on the sidewalk who are too young. Even they don't care what is happening to our youth. Everything is for the dollar.

"So reluctantly starting August 16, 1985, any one who has the theatre admission will be allowed to attend "R" rated movies, even 6 year olds if they have the admission price. We don't agree with this policy, but it is futile to do otherwise when most of the youths have already seen these "R" rated movies elsewhere. If someone else cares to carry on the effort we will support them - even to the point of passing legislation. Everyone talks but no one acts.

"Once an area has lost its sense of values there is almost no chance of changing back. So reluctantly we will also join the others, but we will continue to try to bring only quality shows regardless of the ratings."

Hearing Loss Is Not A Sign Of Old Age

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest hearing aid Beltone has ever developed will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

It's yours for the asking, so send for it now. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. The actual aid weighs less than an eighth of an ounce, and it fits completely into the ear canal.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Although a hearing aid may not help everyone, more and more people with hearing losses are being helped. For your free sample write today to: Department 62760, Beltone Electronics Corporation, 4201 West Victoria Street, Chicago, IL 60646.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Robert Louis Stevenson wrote: "The changes wrought by death are in themselves so sharp and final and so terrible and melancholy in their consequences that the thing stands alone in man's experience and has no parallel upon earth."

D. Scott Deware

This great poet's words still are true today. We at Deware Funeral Home have been known through the years to provide guidance and sympathy as well as outstanding facilities to those who have been privileged to serve during their time of loss and crisis. It has been our desire and wish through the years — and will continue to be so — to provide a service — which you have chosen — that is complete in every respect . . .

We are proud to be able to serve you in your hour of sorrow. We are proud to conduct services with dignity and reverence for the departed and to provide comfort, guidance and understanding to the family. We at Deware Funeral Home are dedicated to these high ideals. We are available at any time . . . at any hour . . . to be of instant help and service to you . . .

Marina Bay Hosts Boston Harbor Treasure Hunt Saturday

Marina Bay is hosting the first annual Boston Harbor Treasure Hunt, Saturday, Aug. 17.

This is a hunt of facts, features, myths, and trivia about Boston Harbor and the islands. Winner will receive a true treasure -- $1,000 first prize!

The Treasure Hunt is held in conjunction with the Metropolitan District Commission, and its intent is to heighten the awareness and appreciation of the Islands. Marina Bay is sponsoring the event, and it is open to anyone. Access to a boat is necessary for the final hunt Saturday.

To enter one must answer as many questions as possible from the list of questions on the application. Applications are available by calling Marina Bay at 328-0600.

On Saturday morning, Aug. 17, participants turn in the complete questions on the application, and receives their final list of clues. The questions are worth one point; the clues for Saturday's hunt are worth 10 points. The clues will be handed out at Marina Bay, after 8 a.m. Saturday. All the clues involve the Islands, and their surroundings.

Everyone must be back at the Marina Bay Treasure Hunt Headquarters by 3 p.m. sharp.

The awards ceremony is scheduled for 4 p.m., followed by a reception.

This is the first of its kind in New England. Hundreds of people have entered.

For more information, call Marina Bay 328-0600, or pick up an application at Marina Bay, 542 East Squantum St., North Quincy.

Cerasoli Homestead Exemption Bill Passes House

The House of Representatives has passed a bill extending the benefits of a homestead exemption to unmarried persons.

The legislation was sponsored by Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli, (D-Quincy), and would amend Chapter 188 of the Massachusetts General Laws.

The concept of a homestead exemption is to protect one's home against creditors by preventing their forcing the sale of the home to satisfy debts.

As the law now stands, the maximum exemption allowed is $60,000. Homes with a value of more than $60,000 may be required by the court to be partitioned, with the value of the home in excess of the exemption being assigned as payment of the debt.

However, a creditor will seldom require such partitioning, as "part" of a house is of little value on the open market.

The legislation sponsored by Cerasoli would allow the homestead exemption to include unmarried persons owning homes. Currently, one must be married and/or have children under 18 years of age to qualify.

The bill would also amend Chapter 188 of the General Laws by raising the exemption to $80,000. Cerasoli was instrumental in raising the exemption from $50,000 to $60,000 in 1983.

Cerasoli's homestead exemption bill has been sent to the Senate for concurrence.

"I'm sure the Senate will pass this bill and send it to the Governor for his signature," Cerasoli said.

Kevin Lounsbury At Fort Benning

Recreation Pool Show At Lincoln Hancock Friday

Over 500 persons are expected to watch the 10th annual Quincy Recreation Pool Show Friday, Aug. 16, at the Lincoln Hancock Community School Pool.

The show, entitled "Solid Gold--The Decade of Dunkin'" will feature over 200 participants from the recreation swim lesson classes at the pool. This annual event, which begins at 1 p.m., is free to the public.

The show is coordinated by Carol Maver, David Goulart, Bradley Martin, Kathleen Egan and Susan Swanton, who are members of the Recreation Department Aquatic Staff.

Also assisting are swimming aides Sara Lemos, Mark McCabe, John Murphy, Sara Regan, Diane Young, Margie Swanton, and Margaret Hegarty, class coordinator.

3 Receive Quincy Point Alumni Memorial Scholarships

The Quincy Point Middle School Alumni Memorial Scholarships have been awarded to three Quincy High School graduates, class of 1985.

Each will receive a $300 dollar scholarship.

The recipients are: Vincent Baldi, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Baldi, who will attend Suffolk University; Claudie Cicerone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lougi Cicerone, who will attend Aquinas Junior College; and Danielle Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Morris, who will attend Westfield State College.

The scholarship was first presented in 1956 to commemorate the silver anniversary of the school.

Mrs. Esther Weeden Morton, former teacher at Quincy Point Junior High School, who died June 21, was active in establishing and building up the scholarship fund. The fund is self-sustaining.

PUNCH OUT KOCH

Tuesday, September 10th marks a NEW BEGINNING in the way the City of Quincy will choose it's elected officials. To bring expediency and cost effectiveness to the electoral process, Quincy will switch from the paper ballot to the punch card system.

Tuesday, September 10th also marks a new beginning for WARD 6. For the first time in 8 years, Ward 6 will choose a new councillor and THOMAS P. KOCH is the candidate who can bring expediency and effectiveness to city government.

The Campaign Trail

Pasquerella Urges Quota System On Ship Contracts

Quincy mayoral candidate Herman A. (Hank) Pasquerella says the U.S. Department of Defense should institute a quota system rather than a bidding system to award shipbuilding contracts.

Pasquerella, a candidate for mayor said this would be a new way to save the General Dynamics shipyard, which is to be closed next year.

"Bidding wars do nothing to guarantee quality ships," said Pasquerella. "Modern computers could estimate for the U.S. Navy the cost of a particular vessel, and the Department of Defense could then issue the building order to the yard that most needs the work."

"This plan would keep yards open, shipbuilders working and maintain the trades that may again be essential. It is not outside the capacity of our government to spend money. The government would be spending money to replace old ships on the line with new ones. No plan will work, of course, unless General Dynamics wants it to work, and there lies the rub."

Pasquerella, a teacher of English at Quincy High School, quoted:

"Mark Twain in his statement: Everybody talks about the weather, but nobody ever does anything about it." Twain might have had General Dynamics in mind. The Governor, the Mayor, a State Senator and a local city Councilor have all issued statements or solutions for the closing of the yard. So far, General Dynamics has offered nothing.

"The Governor threatens to take over the yard by eminent domain. But Massachusetts doesn't have a Navy or Merchant Marine. State Senator Paul Harold believes the public has a moral right in the yard, but that is more philosophical than practical for building ships. The Mayor wrote to Japan asking them to take over the yard and build cars. History, too, harbours ironies. Back in 1944, the Japanese would have traded their Emperor for the yard. And the old Lexington lies dead below the Coral Sea thousands of miles away from her birthplace in Quincy. Councillor Joanne Condon held a meeting in the Council Chambers of City Hall, but no one in the hall ordered any ships."

"The future of the yard looks dim unless General Dynamics, a company with a bad reputation, can get some orders. Probably General Dynamics wants lucrative orders. The only three politicians in this State important enough to get orders from the Navy, the most important ship buyer in the country, have disqualified themselves from any influence. Speaker O'Neill is retiring, and Senators Kennedy and Kerry have neutralized their power by their voting records and their attitudes toward military spending. The lowest bidder syndrome further makes it difficult for unionized Massachusetts to get orders. Probably a new approach should be considered."

Edward Pendergast Named To National Committee

Edward H. Pendergast, a CPA from Belmont and chairman of Kennedy and Lehan, a CPA firm in North Quincy, has been named to the National Steering Committee for the White House Conference on Small Business by conference executive Jack Courtemanche.

He is also chairman of a special task force formed by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants to serve as liaison between the conference and CPAs across the country.

Nutley Wants Traffic Study Results Shared

Thomas J. Nutley, candidate for the Ward 6 City Council seat, has written to Mayor Francis McCauley asking that the results of the recently completed city-wide traffic study be shared with Ward 6 candidates.

Nutley said at a recent coffee hour held at the home of Ellen and Robert McCauley, 92 Botolph St., North Quincy:

"I don't want that study to gather dust during this lengthy election period," said Nutley. "There are too many concerns being expressed by Quantum residents regarding increased traffic to and from the Squantum area, especially during the morning and evening rush hours."

"Additionally, the traffic on East Squantum St. and on Hancock St. approaching the Neponset Bridge during the morning and evening rush hours has become intolerable."

"It's important that we address this issue and the impact that recent development has had on the Atlantic-Squamut area before the city approves any further development plans in the North Quincy area."

"I hope that the mayor will meet with all six candidates for the Ward 6 Council position to brief us regarding the implications of the study," said Nutley, "and I will be in contact with him asking that this meeting be held just as soon as possible."

Walsh Calls For Realistic Water Tower Plan

John J. Walsh, candidate for the Ward 6 City Council seat, is urging city officials to "take a closer and more forthright look at their plans for a new Squantum water tower."

Walsh said that the Quincy Public Works Department's water tower plans are "totally inadequate for the future demands for water in the Squantum section of Quincy. As it is, the present water storage facility for Squantum leaves much to be desired."

"Adequate water storage is necessary to provide the required pressure needed to avoid the discoloration of tap water that many Squantum households have to live with," he said.

In addition, Walsh noted because of the poor water pressure of the present system, many households sometimes "are unable to get adequate water to flow in their homes. Such conditions are a disgrace."

Walsh said that, "The present water tower will soon be unable to provide for us needed fire protection as well."

Added Walsh, "public safety considerations as well as our quality of life mandate that this problem be addressed at once. A water storage plan should be prepared, estimated, and proposed for the construction of a water tower that will not have a negative impact upon our community yet will meet the future needs of Squantum."

Condon Committee Poolside Celebration Aug. 20

The Committee to Elect Joanne Condon Mayor will hold a Poolside Summer Celebration Tuesday, Aug. 20, 7 to 11 p.m., at the Quincy Bay Inn.

The celebration will feature music by Java Jive. There will be hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar.

Tickets, which are $25 per person, $35 per couple and may be purchased at the door.

Frederick Smith Jr. Elected V.P. Student Bar Assn.

Frederick Smith Jr. son of Frederick and Marie Smith of Thornton St., Quincy, was recently elected vice president of the Student Bar Association at Western New England College School of Law in Springfield.

Smith received his B.A. in English and History from Boston College in 1981.

Margaret Nigro Candidate For School Committee

Margaret (Peggy) Nigro announces her candidacy for School Committee.

Mrs. Nigro said she is running for School Committee because she is "very concerned" about the direction of the school system. "This is an institution which should be servicing our future leaders and it is not doing its job," said Mrs. Nigro. "Due to the lack of confidence in the public school system, the percentage of parents choosing to send their children to private schools continues to increase."

Mrs. Nigro said she would like to be part of a change that will restore the confidence of these parents in public education.

"I will not be a 'yes person' to the administration but a spokesperson for the parents and the kids," said Mrs. Nigro.

Mrs. Nigro has been a community activist. Over the years, she has been involved with Grenham Youth Center, Great Hill School, Broad Meadows PTO, Houghs Neck Drug & Alcohol Committee,

MARGARET NIGRO

Survival, Quincy Public Schools Amity Program, Board of Director for Manet Health Center, E Board & Vice President Houghs Neck Community Council, Quincy High School Band Parents Organization.

Mrs. Nigro grew up in Quincy, attended Quincy Public Schools and was a part-time student at Quincy Junior College. She and her husband, Jack, have two children, John Jr., a graduate of Quincy Voch-Tech and Mark a Senior at Quincy High School 85-86.

Toland Suggest More Cable Coverage

At a meeting of supporters at the home of Jim French, Pope St., Ward Three, Councillor-at-Large Patricia M. Toland spoke of citizens' rights to know how their government is functioning.

Toland said, "We presently have cable coverage of City Council meetings and that gives 20,000 cable subscribers an opportunity to see their local elected representatives conduct the business of the City."

"I would like to see cable coverage of the various city board meetings. The License Board, the Planning Board, and the Zoning Board of Appeals make important decisions which heavily impact the lives of many citizens in our city. Why couldn't we televise the business of these meetings as well? Many thousands of dollars worth of electronic equipment has been installed in City Hall, and I would like to see much greater use made of it."

"We have a community access channel in Quincy Cable. The value of the volunteer hours are incalculable. The volunteers are responsible for bringing community events into the home. Citizens who cannot go to City Hall for board meetings would have the opportunity to see how decisions are made concerning the city as well as their neighborhood."

"Cable coverage would give us a more informed electorate and would encourage more input into decision making by the average citizen."

Mrs. Toland continued, "Cable television has expressed an interest in providing coverage so I will be talking to members of the various municipal boards over the next few weeks and will submit a resolve to the City Council in September."

Brownell On National Law and Justice Committee

Rep. Thomas Brownell

(D-Quincy) has recently been appointed to the National Conference of State Legislatures' Committee on Law and Justice.

Eight to nine hundred selected state legislators from across the country comprise the Conference's Assembly. They study various state and federal issues under a committee format.

As a member of the Committee on Law and Justice, Representative Brownell will be applying his background as newly appointed Chairman of the State House Committee on the Judiciary.

Representative George Keverian, Speaker of the House, nominated Representative Brownell to the position.

Capt. Russell Hodgkins Receives A.F. Award

Capt. Russell D. Hodgkins Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell D. Hodgkins Sr., 37 Dixwell Ave., Quincy, has been decorated with the U.S. Air Force Commendation Medal at Mountain Home Air Force Base, Idaho.

The medal is awarded to those individuals who demonstrate outstanding achievement or meritorious service in the performance of their duties on behalf of the Air Force.

A 1980 graduate of the U.S. Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo., he is an aircraft commander with the 391st Tactical Fighter Squadron.

Public Safety Development, Key Issues Says Sheridan

A coffee hour was held recently at the home of Rita and Dick Donahue for Ward 6 City Council candidate Richard Sheridan.

While many issues were addressed, public safety and development were key topics of discussion, according to Sheridan.

Sheridan stated, "North Quincy is growing at a rapid pace and we must continue to increase the manning levels of both police and fire departments."

"Although there have been appointments made recently, we are still playing a game of catch-up. I believe the police and fire services are in a bit of a bind trying to meet minimum manning levels on a daily basis."

Sheridan said, "There is a need for more police visibility. As an example, our motorcycle units are spread so thin that it's very difficult to maintain speed traps in key areas of North Quincy."

Sheridan also points out that the Quincy Police Department has the right to use the Boston Police firing range on Moon Island. "I would like to see Boston and Quincy perform joint exercises at Moon Island's Fire Training Academy where both officers and firefighters would obtain hands-on training.

"As far as development is concerned, it has reached epidemic proportions and we've got to control it. At one and a half cars per unit, condominiums have become a burden to traffic."

"At this stage of the game, we can't put a halt on development. It is an important source of tax revenue especially with the threat of the General Dynamics shut-down lurking over our heads."

"If we were to stop development for a period of one or two years, and if the complete shut-down of General Dynamics becomes a reality, our taxes would be seriously affected."

"Rather than a moratorium on development, you could impose an 'annual development quota' to slow it down."

"This would give the city a chance to catch up and formulate a long range master plan," said Sheridan.

Vietnam Vets President Commends Police Officer

The president of the Quincy Chapter, Vietnam Combat Veterans Combined Armed Forces, has written to Mayor Francis McCauley to commend a fellow chapter member and Quincy police officer.

"We would like to commend the fine work of a fellow veteran, Mr. Kevin Gibbons of the Quincy Police Department, for the fine example of 'to serve and protect' the members of our community," said David D. Lawson.

"In the a.m. of July 29, the owner of a cab was thrown to the ground in front of the Stop and Shop on Southern Artery. His cab (source of income) was stolen. Officer Kevin Gibbons immediately tried to apprehend the person who assaulted and stole this car and return the car to its owner.

Now some might say excessive this or that, but the message received on the street is that 'you're gonna get caught - these guys don't give up.'

"I, for one, think that the work done that morning was a fine example to the City of Quincy, and its abiding citizens should sleep easier in the knowledge of the fine protection afforded them by a Viet-Nam veteran police officer who is still in the service of his country as a police officer in Quincy."

Six Quincy Residents In 'A Chorus Line'

Six Quincy residents will appear in The Company Theatre's presentation of "A Chorus Line" Aug. 16, 17, 23, and 24, 8 p.m. at South Junior High School, 280 Pleasant St., Weymouth.

Camp Fire 'Join-Up Day' Aug. 19

Quincy Camp Fire will hold "Join-Up Day" Monday, Aug. 19 from 12 noon to 3 p.m. on the lawn of United First Parish Church, Hancock St., across from City Hall in Quincy Center.

Camp Fire representatives will be on hand to answer questions about the 75 year-old non-profit youth organization and its activities in Quincy.

Boys and girls from kindergarten through sixth grade will be able to sign up for membership in Camp Fire.

Camp Fire's citywide program for 1985-86 includes a variety of social service projects, field trips to the Statue of Liberty and Roger Williams Zoo, a square dance, talent show-ice cream social, sock hop, bowling tournament, 76th birthday celebration, camping, and a family picnic-game day.

In addition, for youth members who become affiliated with Camp Fire clubs rather than joining as members-at-large, there will be a variety of arts and crafts, field trips, and skill building activities offered at weekly club meetings.

All registered Camp Fire youth members are given the opportunity to earn emblems of achievement as they advance in the Camp Fire program and participate in national projects.

There will be face-decorating and Camp Fire balloons offered to children on "Join-Up Day".

Raindate is Tuesday, Aug. 20.

DaRocha, Johanson Home Run Race Winners

Tony DaRocha of Dorchester, a former Boston University trackman, was the overall winner last Thursday in the sixth annual Quincy Youth Commission Home Run 10k road race.

DaRocha's time was 31:43. The first female finisher was Mary Hynes Johanson of Belmont, who finished in 38:39. The wheelchair winner was Bob Hall, who narrowly edged last year's winner, Jack Coakley. Hall's winning time was 29:27.

Quincy's Sam Mele, former major league baseball star and currently a special assignment scout for the Red Sox, was the official starter for the race, which attracted 329 runners.

Sherry Mele of the sponsoring Wollaston Credit Union and Brian Buckley of the Quincy Youth Commission were the co-directors of the race.

More than 100 volunteers assisted in the operation of the race, proceeds from which will be used to benefit Quincy Youth Commission's counseling programs geared toward youth from troubled families at the commission's boys and girls' group homes.

The men winners in the various age groups:

15 and under: Matthew Corcoran; 16-19: Ed Willis; 20-39: DaRocha; 40-49: Ed Burke; 50 and over: Doug Rogers.

The women winners in the same categories:

15 and under: Suzy Burba; 16-19: no entrants; 20-39: Johanson; 40-49: Irma Walat; 50 and over: Betsy Page.

The top men finishers: 1, DaRocha; 2, Dick Mahoney; 3, Jeff Mello; 4, Richard MacDonald; 5, Tom Woolley; 6, Willis; 7, Chuck Ajemian; 8, Peter Hollinder; 9, Mike Donovan; 10, Mark Matthews; 11, Jim Brinkman; 12, Doug Tolle; 13, Mark Costello; 14, Dave Gutsch-ritier; 15, Dave Beatty; 16, Corcoran; 17, Eric Lundquist; 18, Michael Cormican; 19, Robert Wyman; 20, Robert Dondoghue.

The top female finishers: 1, Johanson; 2, Denise Fretz; 3, Judy Romous; 4, Karen Kandalaff; 5, Barbara Peterson; 6, Mary Ford; 7, Burba; 8, Walat; 9, Gail Richie; 10, Marybeth Powers; 11, Diane Hogan; 12, Rhea Pantazopoulos; 13, Debbie Perry; 14, Connie Cahill; 15, Mary Kennedy; 16, Sue Grandi; 17, Anne Montgomery; 18, Stacey Edwards; 19, Ellen Bliss; 20, Kathy McDonald.

Prizes donated by many businesses, were given to the runners and Olympic medals were awarded to the first three finishers in each division.

Burger King, Hendries, Coca-Cola, Pepsi Cola, Fruit and Poland Springs provided refreshments.

Charbonnier Team Wins Broom Classic

Thirty-two players from the Quincy area recently competed in the second annual Broom Classic golf tournament at Presidents' Golf Course.

A playoff was needed to determine the champion as two teams finished nine under par after 18 holes.

The team of Capt. Rick Charbonnier, Al Bortolotti, Robert Lawson and Ricky Lawson won the sudden death hole, topping the team of Capt. Brian Buckley, Richard Kelley, Paul Cadigan and Bruce Buckley. Buckley's team had forced the playoff with birdies on the 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th and 18th holes.

The summary:

Charbonnier, Bortolotti, Robert Lawson and Ricky Lawson, 61; Brian Buckley, Kelley, Cadigan and Bruce Buckley, 61; Brad Buckley, Todd Smith, Steve Mele and Brett Buckley, 62; Don Smith, Stan Radzik, Ed Coughlin and Roger Hohmann, 62; Barry Sullivan, Gerald Phelan, Tom Coyne and Joe Boyd, 63; Mitch McBride, John Franceschini, Ken Furfari and Dave Haight, 64; Paul Donoghue, Bob Lawson, Charlie Bergeron and Jim Borden, 66; Rich LoGuercio, Ed Miller, Fred Gianelli and George McCall, 66.

Awards were presented to the top three teams as well as individual awards by host pro Arthur Cicconi. One facet of the competition that distinguishes the Broom Classic from other such events is the fashion contest. Golfers were required to wear costumes in order to enter.

The winners of the "best dressed" award were Barry Sullivan and Gerald Phelan, as they played as the "Blues Brothers."

Police, HN Meet In Babe Ruth Finals

After being shut out, 2-0, in the opening game of the Babe Ruth League playoff series, the Quincy Police Club came back to win the next two games over the Sons of Italy and advance to the championship series against Houghs Neck Legion.

The Police and Houghs Neck meet today (Thursday) at 5:30 at Adams Field.

The reasons the season has lasted so long are the success of the league all-stars in tournaments and several rainouts.

The Sons of Italy surprised the Police (19-3 during the regular season) in the opening game, the first time all season the Police team was shut out.

Brian Mosher was the winning pitcher and T.J. Steen the loser as both pitched outstanding ball.

The Sons of Italy scored a run in the fourth when Ed Flavin and Jim Dennis walked and Flavin scored on a long double by Jon Fennellatore.

In the fifth Joey Russell, Flavin and Dennis walked and Fennellatore drove in his second run with a single.

Wayne Chambers, Steen and Mike Ainsley had hits for the Police and Tom Roberts, Rick Ames, Bill Bellew, Jeff Calvert, Mike Cronin, Jim Ward and Brian Kelley all played well. For SOI Jim Ross, Franny Calabro, Paul McLellan and Danny MacDonald played fine games.

In game two the Police roared back to wallop SOI, 15-4, in a wild game that went into extra innings and saw the Police erupt for 11 runs in the eighth to win it.

SOI got on the board with a run in the third on a homer by Calabro.

Police scored only one run in the fourth despite hits by Joe Mulvey, Wayne Chambers, Bellew and Tom Roberts.

SOI added two runs in the bottom half when Russell and MacDonald walked and scored on a long double by Flavin.

SOI added a run in the sixth when Russell walked, stole second and third and scored on Flavin's fielders choice.

With SOI leading, 4-1, in the seventh, many of the fans left the game, only to have the Police battle back with an extraordinary inning to tie the score and send the game into extra innings.

Pitcher Dan Overby started the rally with a single and Mike Ainsley and Chambers also singled. With two outs, things looked bleak for the Police but Bellew, who went only 11 for 62 during the season, hit a towering triple to tie the score. With Bellew on third, Jeff Calvert hit a line drive but Calabro made a spectacular catch to end the inning.

In the eighth Police went on a tear with a parade of hits and scored 11 runs on eight hits, including a long triple by Mulvey.

In the third and deciding game, Police pulled out an 8-4 victory after trailing most of the game.

SOI scored early on Flavin's single, Dennis' fielders choice and Fennellatore's two-run single.

In the fourth for the Police Ainsley walked and scored on Mulvey's hit.

SOI scored two in the fifth on hits by Fennellatore and Ross but in its half, the Police came back with two to take a 4-3 lead.

Police erupted for five runs in the sixth when Chambers singled, was moved up by Bellew, whose bunt was mishandled and everyone was safe, Rick Ames and Roberts singled, Overby reached on an error and Ainsley doubled.

Larson Finishes Strong But Not Soon Enough

Bud Migneault, the hard-punching light heavyweight from Bridgewater, built up a big lead on points in the early round and then hung on to win a split decision over Ring Larson of Quincy in the 10-round main event at Quincy Arena.

Larson swarmed all over his opponent from the eighth round on despite a cut over his right eye that bled profusely. The bell ending the fight sounded with Migneault reeling along the ropes and Larson pounding at his head seeking a knock out.

Referee Jerry Moore and Judge Ernest Watson of Brockton showed Migneault the winner on their cards while Judge Frank Montgomery of Cambridge voted for Larson. The card kept at ringside by sportswriters had Migneault 5-4-1.

Jimmy Gardner, Larson's manager, challenged Migneault to a return bout but the Bridgewater boxer, through his manager, Larry Barry of Brockton, said he was undecided.

City Tennis Tourney Sept. 4

Applications are available for the 15th annual Quincy Tennis Tournament conducted for city residents by the Quincy Recreation Department.

Once again this year the tournament will be co-sponsored by the Granite Cooperative Bank and will be under the direction of John Franceschini.

This year's tournament will begin on September 4, and as usual will play the majority of its matches at the Vocational Technical tennis courts on Russell Park. There are 10 categories of play including men's 50 and over, men's 35 and over, men's singles, men's doubles, and men's single consolation for first round losers. Women's events are 35 and over, singles, and doubles. There are also boys and girls under 16.

Barry J. Welch, Director of Recreation, pointed out that the sponsorship of the Granite Cooperative Bank has enabled the department to continue a very successful program without placing a burden on the taxpayers of the City. "The tournament really benefits both the participants and the many spectators who enjoy watching the matches to determine the city champion," he said.

"As always we are grateful for our long association with the Granite Cooperative Bank, and their commitment to the Quincy community."

Over 125 persons are expected to compete. Registration fee is $5 and $1 per additional event. The deadline for the return of applications is 4:30 p.m. Friday August 30. T-shirts will be given to all participants.

Applications are available at the Quincy Recreation Department, local tennis courts, and clubs and the two offices of the Granite Cooperative Bank.

For additional information call the Quincy Recreation Department at 773-1380, extension 204.

Quincy Soccer Physical Exam Aug. 24

All boys in grades 9 to 12 at Quincy High and Quincy Vo-Tech School interested in playing boys' soccer must report to the Vo-Tech gym Saturday, Aug. 24 at 9:30 a.m. for a physical exam.

Candidates should also bring a check for $20 made out to Quincy Public Schools Athletic Fund to cover the user's fee.

Practice will begin Monday, Aug. 26 at 8 a.m.

with all candidates reporting to the Vo-Tech locker room ready to practice.

"All interested students are encouraged to help support the continued development of Quincy High School soccer, especially as this is the first time in many years that a full junior varsity as well as varsity schedule will be played," said Coach Charles McLaughlin.

CUBS IN SECOND PLACE

Bunky Haywood pitched a four-hitter and Jack Gallagher's triple accounted for two runs in the first inning as the Cubs beat Wollaston, 5-1, at Dennis J. O'Neil Playground to take over second place in the City League.

The Cubs lineup included: MacIntosh 3b, Cedarstrom ss, Leahy 1b, J. Gallagher rf, Hubbell lf, Haywood p.

The Wollaston lineup included: Wetmore 2b, Erickson 3b, Douglass c, Harrington cf, Stiles lf, Nunn 1b, Cahoon ss, Dunphy rf, Hunter p.

ORBANOWSKI WINNER

Mrs. Gertrude Orbanowski of Quincy defeated Carolyn Perry of Weymouth, 6-1, 7-5, in what was called "one of the most brilliant and steady exhibitions of tennis ever seen in this city by a woman" to win the Ladies Invitational Singles Tournament at the Quincy Tennis Club.

GRANITE TRUST WINS

Chet McCarthy and Howie Burns banged out six hits between them, including a triple apiece, to lead the Granite Trust team to an 8-5 victory over the Weymouth Town Team in a South Shore League game at Legion Field, Weymouth.

The Granite Trust lineup included: Burns ss, Alden cf, Greenhalgh 2b, J. Hughes 1b, McCarthy 3b, McCormack c, Forbush lf, P. Hughes rf, Koerber p.

SPORTS BITS '32

Paul Adams took the deciding fall with his famous rollover scissors in defeating Henri Manseau of Canada in the main wrestling bout at Quincy Arena . . . Joe (Dud) Foy and Frank Gould came from behind to defeat Chet Young and Mike Taliaferro, 6-3, 1-6, 2-6, 8-6 and 6-3, to take the men's doubles title at Faxon Courts . . . Dick Hammond stole home with the winning run in the fifth and final inning as Blessed Sacrament Lyceum beat the Quincy Pirates, 5-4, at LaBrecque Field, Houghs Neck . . . Rivers of Quincy won the shot put, the hammer and discus throws to lead the Karhu AC to the Eastern Finnish track and field championship at Maynard . . . Tony Lazzeri and Frank Crosetti, the second base-shortstop combination of the New York Yankees, were to appear Sept. 23 at a Sons of Italy social night arranged by Paul Mayo . . . Rene Fontaine of Southbridge won a six round bout from Frankie Garcia of Quincy in a split decision that was booed by fans in Salem . . . Jack Curley of Stoney Brae broke the course record with a devastating 71 to win the Cape Cod Open Golf championship at Eastward Hill in Chatham . . . Lennie Spillane scattered nine hits as the Riverside AC defeated the Wollaston Window Cleaners, 3-1, at Squantum Field in a nine-inning game that was played in the near record time of 47 minutes . . . Coach Philip Plaisted, ex-coach of the 1929-30 Quincy League champion West Quincy Pirates, called out candidates for the West Quincy AC football team . . . Ted Nelson pitched a five-hitter as the Squantum AA whipped Quincy Market, 7-0, at Merry Mount Park . . . Norman Sattethwaite won the 1,000-yard swim at the 17th annual Avalon Beach Water Carnival in 10 minutes flat for the second straight year . . . Young singled home Bregoli with the winning run in the last of the 17th inning as the Braintree White Sox edged the Morrisette Post baseball team, 4-3, in the longest game ever played at French's Common, South Braintree.

QTC Members Shine In Hershey Finals

The Quincy Track Club came up with its usual fine performances and won several events at the Hershey Youth program state finals at Braintree High.

Highlights for the QTC were a double victory by Regina Murphy, the relay win by Karen Cashman, Robin Guilfoyle, Chrissy Kelley and Alicia Porro and Paul McLellan's exciting run in the 800.

In 9-10 boys Brian Kondracki placed sixth in the 100, Chris Dupill third in the softball throw and the relay team took fifth but was disqualified due to a lane infraction.

In 9-10 girls Regina Murphy won both the standing long jump and the 50-yard dash, Susan Curtis was fifth in the 400 and the relay team of Murphy, Lisa Valdiviez, Jennifer Nutley and Kelly Meade was a close second.

In boys 11-12 Piet Gauchat placed third in the 100 and won the 200, Sean McCarthy took second in the 800 and Chris Mildrum was sixth in the softball throw.

In 11-12 girls Kim McGahan was third in the 200 but was disqualified for running out of her lane, Lindsay McGovern took sixth in the 800, Rachel Messaline fifth in the softball throw and the relay team of McGahan, McGovern, Amanda Young and Katie O'Shea was second.

In boys 13-14 Paul McLellan took second in the 800, Brian Barrett eighth in the mile, McLellan second in the softball throw and the relay team of Barrett, McLellan, Dan Hobin and Terrance Palma took third.

In girls 13-14 Nancy Sheehy took third in the 800, Sherrin Quintilliani fourth in the mile, Francine Rogers sixth in the standing broad jump and the relay team of Cashman, Guilfoyle, Kelley and Porro won.

"This is the fifth time winning at Hershey for Karen Cashman and Chrissy Kelly," said QTC coach Jeff Hennessy, who has praise for several of his athletes. "Although other team members have done well, these two have been the common denominator. Sherrin Quintilliani's run in the mile was also superb. She has improved in every race and is now ready to break six minutes (she ran 6:01.0 in the Hershey meet), and Paul McLellan's race was unbelievable, running neck and neck with Boston's Omar Simmons and losing by inches, running 2:08. He rates up there with past greats like Bart Petracca, Mike Williams, Roy Higgins and Jerry MacKenzie. He'll be heard from."

The recent Bay State Games, Massachusetts' version of the Olympics, had a definite Quincy flavor as 23 finalists were members of the Quincy Track Club.

Hennessy was a member of the Metro Region coaching staff.

In scholastic boys Kevin Nichols won the discus and took second in the shot put, and Finn Kelly took second in the 800 and was a member of the Central-West relay team.

In scholastic girls Kim Krovitz won the hurdles, Joanne Rudolph and Terry Parker placed 1-2 in the high jump and Debbie McWalters won the javelin.

In open men Brian Donahue took second in the shot put, and in open women, Georgia Traficante took second in the javelin, Michelle Millane won the discus and shot put, Debbie d'Entremont took third in the shot put and discus, Lisa Stack took second in the shot put and Helen Balaovras took second in the discus.

ASBESTOS LUNG DISEASE

Asbestos dust causes serious lung ailments; the diseases appear suddenly, years after exposure. Today numerous SHIPYARD WORKERS, MASONS, and PIPEFITTERS of the 1930's-1970's have lung afflictions because they inhaled asbestos particles many years ago.

If you worked in one of those professions then and now have lung disease, you may be eligible to receive money damages or workers' compensation. Relatives of living and deceased victims can also recover in some cases.

To learn your rights free of charge, or to bring an asbestos claim, contact:

Chowder Cup Hockey At Youth Arena

The second annual Chowder Cup hockey series between the New England Pro-Am Junior all-stars and teams from Detroit, Chicago and a Philadelphia-New York combine will get under way tonight (Thursday) at 7 o'clock at the Quincy Youth Arena, where the New England Pro-Am League plays all its games.

The series will continue on Friday at 7 p.m., Saturday at 1 p.m. and on Sunday with the consolation game at 1 and the championship game at 3.

The N. E. team has 12 players drafted by NFL teams and the visiting clubs have seven draft choices.

Among the New England players are Danny Shea of Quincy, Paul Marshall of Quincy, drafted by the Philadelphia Flyers; Kevin Hefernan and Tim Sweeney of Weymouth North High School, Perry Floria, a fourth round draft choice in the NFL; Dave Buckley of Boston College, Tommy Mutch of Canton, Tommy Sasso of Babson College, Greg Polak, drafted by the New Jersey Devils; Jay Rose, a Detroit Red Wings draft choice; Paul Stanton of the U. of Wisconsin, Chris Stapleton of BC, Tommy Ryan of BU and goalies David Littman of BC and Dave Delfino of the U. of Lowell.

The coaches are John Cunniff, a special assignment scout for the Hartford Whalers, and Don Cahoon, U. of Lowell coach.

The uniforms for the N. E. team have again been donated by Boston Bruins general manager Harry Sinden.

Tickets are $4 per game or $12 for the entire series.

Marshall On Pro-Am All Star Team

Paul Marshall, a native of Quincy, is one of 24 players selected to the New England Pro-Am Hockey League Junior Division All-Star team.

Sponsored in part by the Boston Bruins, the Boston area junior team will compete in the second annual Chowder Cup Tournament to be held Aug. 15-18 at the Quincy Youth Hockey Arena.

The four-day, round robin tournament will bring together the best junior aged players from both the east and west. Also scheduled to compete for the Chowder Cup are junior teams from Chicago, Detroit and New York.

Marshall, a graduate of Boston College High School, has been playing in the New England Pro-Am Hockey League all summer. A recent pick of the Philadelphia Flyers in the 1985 National Hockey League entry draft, he is scheduled to attend Boston College in September. He is the son of Sheriff and Mrs. Clifford Marshall of Quincy Point.

Many of the best high school and junior players and 1988 Olympic hopefuls from the east and west will compete in the tournament. Tickets are priced at $4 for each session (two games per session) and will be available at the door. Children under 12, when accompanied by an adult, will be admitted free of charge.

The round robin format will be followed for the first three days of the tournament: on Thursday and Friday, games will be held at 6:30 and 8:45 p.m., and on Saturday at 1 and 3 in the afternoon. The consolation game will be held on Sunday at 1 followed by the championship game at 3 p.m.

WEEK OF: AUGUST 15

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
Remote travel idea may be realized by the end of this period. Don't hesitate to ask questions throughout the week, it's the only way you'll get all the answers.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
Older relatives respond to your consideration. Routine chores are anything but routine this week. recruit the help of youngsters. Weekend favors spontaneous outtings and visits.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
You find relatives generous with their advice if not with their financial support. Intuitive powers are potent. If tackling new problems, work with established solutions.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
Little difficulties can disturb you more than they should... yet you respond well to tremendous challenges. Creative ventures can prove profitable in the long term.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
Avoid shortcuts in any task, no matter how seemingly trivial. Surprise guests make for an eventful weekend. If traveling with a companion, compromise is important.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
If traveling or at home, the focus is on extended family. You can learn much from older relatives, and you may be spending enjoyable hours leafing through albums.

LEO - July 23-August 22
Small jobs can balloon into major projects, you could be assuming a role of vast responsibility. The key is to set up effective systems. Avoid playing matchmaker this week.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
Career ideas show signs of promise, but don't reveal them till they're ready for presentation. You take a key role in community event. Opportunity may open, for earning spare cash.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
Good week for launching diet or enforcing a budget. Self control is unusually strong and there is a worthy goal to work toward. Social life perks up noticeably.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
An upbeat week socially, but be sure you keep your calendar up to date. Spontaneous travel is featured, along with opportunities for reconciliation. Stay informed of current happenings.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
Prepare for changing moods of friends, changes in scenery if traveling to familiar places, changes at workplace. Writing talents are sharp. Why not record your observations?

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
A little bit of luck comes your way and morale soars. If involved in a debate, stick to familiar topics. People in high places are observing your style and creative flair.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You're ruled by the sun, which makes you confident, proud, bright, cheerful and warmhearted. You tend to be a showoff too, and can be domineering. Friendship is the theme of the next ten months. A lifelong union may be forged early in the next year.

QPA Personnel Consultants First Tenant In Hancock Building

QPA Personnel Consultants are the first tenants in the newly renovated Hancock Office Building on Hancock St., across from the Quincy MBTA station.

The former Elks Hall building recently underwent a $1.7 million renovation to provide necessary office space for professional firms interested in the increased growth of Quincy.

Michael J. O'Mara, president of QPA Personnel Consultants said the decision to open the branch office came after extensive research of the need for administrative support staff in the community.

"We are looking forward to contributing to the future growth of business on the South Shore," O'Mara said. "Since 1980, Quincy has undergone substantial rehabilitation and large companies and organizations, such as the corporate headquarters for Stop & Shop and Massachusetts Department of Education, have relocated in Quincy. This renewed business interest confirms the wisdom of our decision to open our first branch office in Quincy."

O'Mara founded QPA Personnel to provide secretarial and administrative services to the professions, corporations and industries in the greater Boston area.

The Hancock Office Building is part of a master plan to revitalize the downtown Quincy business district. The renovation, which preserved the federal style brick and granite exterior with arched paladium-style windows and columned entrance, transformed the interior into a thoroughly contemporary office environment. The location is surrounded by financial institutions, service industries, restaurants and shopping facilities.

Farmers' Market Turns Over 200 Pounds Produce To Needy

By DAN CONNELLY

A pilot food program to help the state's hungry was launched successfully in Quincy Center, when, for the first time a farmer's market donated fresh produce to a local food program.

Anneli Jonson, who helped organize the Quincy Farmer's Market four years ago, explained that the growers turned over more than 200 pounds of a variety of fruits and vegetables at the end of the selling day to Nancy Bishop of the Quincy Community Action Emergency Food Program, 372 Granite St., which she loaded into an agency van for distribution to centers programmed by that organization.

Jonson, who is with the Norfolk County Extension Service-Nutrition Agency and headquartered at the JFK Health Center, was delighted with the response received so far with the pilot plan.

"The beauty with this program," said Jonson, "is that the farming community can be hooked directly to the needy and help them. No red tape. A one-on-one exchange of goodwill over costs between sheltering coalitions in Quincy and the farmers." Jonson also urged only groups involved in programs to help feed the needy should contact her at 479-1601 for more information about the program.

State Agriculture Commissioner August Schumacher Jr., his aide, Janet Christensen, joined Quincy Mayor Francis X. McCauley, State Sen. Paul Harold, and Rev. Fred Barr, president of the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition, at Quincy Farmers' Market to observe the pilot program in action.

According to Schumacher, the transportation costs and possibly some of the purchasing costs could be picked up by the state Food and Agriculture Department as the program progresses. He said the program is an inexpensive way for the state to help feed the hungry. If the program is successful, the program will be expanded to include all 50 farmers' markets in the state, and if necessary recruit foundations to help pay the costs, he said.

All 12 growers at the Quincy market felt the program was a good idea. Carl Anderson of Anderson Farms, who sells fruit at the market, said, "We load our trucks with what we hope we can sell and hopefully we can get rid of all of it. But if not, I'd rather give it away than throw it out."

Kenneth Moll, a farmer from Hingham, past president and a founder of the federation of farmers' markets in Massachusetts said, "Having the food go to the needy allows the farmers to reap a second harvest. Farmers grow food for people to eat, not for it to be thrown out."

"It is an inexpensive way for everyone to work together," said Rev. Fred Barr. "Now the farming community can be linked directly to the needy and help them."

Father Barr said that while any donation of food helps, fresh fruit and vegetables are especially important because they help the hungry receive vitamins and nutrients that they could not ordinarily get.

City To Purchase 183 Acres Of Land

Mayor Francis X. McCauley signed an order Tuesday for the city to go ahead and purchase, from the estate of Peter G. Ruscitto, 183 acres of quarry land in West Quincy for open space.

McCauley was given the green light at a special City Council meeting Monday by a 7 to 2 vote to appropriate the $511,844 needed to purchase the land and to authorize the sale.

Voting in opposition were Ward 6 Councillor Joanne Condon and Ward 5 Councillor Stephen McGrath.

Under the agreed terms, the Ruscitto estate would return to the city $411,844, the amount of back taxes and interest owed to Quincy on other properties owned by the Ruscitto estate. The site, which includes the present sanitary landfill operated by the city, would then cost the city only $100,000.

"This transaction will be good for the residents of West Quincy because it will preserve 183 acres of open space," said McCauley.

Currently, Quincy is dumping trash on 113 acres of the land. Seventy acres are not included in the city's dumping lease.

The terms also contain an indemnification agreement, which was a cause of concern among some councillors.

"I'm not going to support this particular purchase of the property because we don't know if the city does or does not know what we may be getting ourselves into," said McGrath. "As far as indemnification is concerned, we could be getting ourselves into potential problems," he added.

An indemnification agreement means the city of Quincy will not hold the Ruscitto estate responsible for financial liability arising from lawsuits due to possible pollution at the site.

"We're not trying to put the city's back against the wall," said Atty. R. Hale Andrews Jr., who represented the Ruscitto estate, "but if someone sues and names us as well as the city and says their property was damaged

Stumbling Blocks

No Solution On Shelter For Homeless

By LINDA WILKINS and DAN CONNELLY

What was hoped to be a solution to the controversial issue of a homeless shelter in Quincy Center was still unresolved after the City Licensing Board meeting Tuesday.

The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, who earlier Tuesday opposed a shelter at 25 Foster St., Quincy Center, said it would endorse a new location sought by the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition behind the Quincy Police Station near the city public works garage.

But a letter from Public Works Commr. Paul Anderson to Police Chief Francis Finn, a member of the Licensing Board, stated that the area off Sea St. is not compatible with residential use.

Anderson, who opposes the further crowding of the DPW complex boarded by Sea and Broad Sts., will meet with Mayor Francis McCauley, City Solicitor Joseph (Jay) MacRitchie, Police Chief Francis Finn, Building Inspector Allan MacDonald, members of the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition, and Atty. Stephen Keefe who represents Mr. and Mrs. Edward Percy, owners of Miller Studio, 17 Foster St., abutting to the proposed shelter.

Finn suggested that this meeting be held to work out some sort of solution.

Atty. Matthew McDonnell, the lawyer for the Sheltering Coalition said the Coalition would be willing to entertain alternative locations but that if it can't find one Foster St. would be the location it would advocate.

Another stumbling block with the Foster St. location came when Building Inspector MacDonald questioned the planned dormitory accommodations that the Coalition was planning for that building.

In the letter Anderson pointed out three factors that brought about his objection to the newly proposed site. These objections were:

Safety. I cannot properly safeguard the individuals using the shelter due to the traffic of heavy equipment within the complex.

Available Space. The particular site mentioned at Friday's (August 16, 1985) meeting is sandwiched between the Highway Department's Heavy Equipment Storage Building and a garage used by your Department. This site also borders directly on Town River. This site is not appropriate since it would place the sheltered individuals in the path of heavy equipment again endangering their lives. Second, it is questionable as to whether or not any building could or should be built on the edge of that wetland. Since it is within 100 feet of a wetland the Conservation Commission would have to decide that issue.

Site Planning. As you are aware, the City is planning to replace or upgrade two facilities located on this site: Quincy Police Headquarters and the Dog Pound. Both facilities are in deplorable condition and bring great shame to the City for allowing them to progress to that point. As Commissioner of Public Works I have a responsibility, one that I take seriously, to maintain and replace (when necessary) existing City Facilities. Maintaining existing public facilities and

Baby Locked In Car

A baby was locked in a car at 5 Maple St. Quincy Sq., on the hottest day of the year but police and firefighters came to the rescue.

They were able to unlock the car, which apparently had its keys inside, and free the unidentified baby last Thursday when temperatures reached 93 degrees with high humidity.

and if they win a judgement against us, we feel we weren't under control and would hate to bear the financial burden."

"All we're doing with indemnification is letting Ruscitto out of any lawsuit," said Councillor-at-Large Richard J. Koch Jr.

He said he did not see how the Ruscitto estate could be liable for any pollution at the dump.

According to Public Works Commr. Paul Anderson, the city was notified in 1978 by the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering (DEQE) that the landfill was spewing out leachate and it could be polluting the land.

"We have leachate, but we have tested it and it meets with both federal and state clean drinking act standards," said Anderson.

"The term pollution to me means to make something unclear, it doesn't mean it's toxic. There is leachate there and it is a pollution, but it's not toxic and it's not damaging," said Sheets.

In making the agreement, the council said it will close the landfill by Dec. 31, 1993 and leave the land as open space.

"The long and short of it is that at the end of 1993, we'll have to be out of there," said McCauley.

"We're looking to 263 acres of open space out of 400. It's a tremendous commitment," said Sheets. "This is something the people of West Quincy deserve and would be most pleased with."

"It gives us the opportunity to cooperate with the MDC land acquisition," Anderson said.

The MDC would like to take 80 acres of land in the area, part of what it calls Phase 1, for recreation purposes.

"Tonight, you took much of our second phase," said Leo Kelly, Chairman of the Environmental Control Commission. "I don't know how much your actions tonight took of the second phase, but I hope they took all of it."

Kelly and representatives of the Appalachian Mountain Club, the Friends of Blue Hills, and the MDC were also present at the council meeting to present a plan by the MDC of their proposed acquisition of Quincy Quarry Land for recreational purposes.

Shelter Coalition President

Fr. Fred Barr Leaving Our Lady Good Counsel Parish

The Rev. Fred Barr, a catholic priest who has shared his parish ministry duties with the needs of the poor and homeless in Quincy, is leaving Our Lady of Good Counsel parish, Sea St., Sept. 10, for a new assignment in Belmont.

Fr. Barr, who has been an associate with the Pastor, Fr. James Curtin, at Our Lady for the past four years, is being transferred to St. Luke's.

In a prepared statement to board members of the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition, of which he has been the president for over a year, Fr. Barr said:

"What I am about to tell you brings mixed emotions. I feel sad that I will no longer be working with the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition as President or for that matter in any other capacity."

"I also feel gladness for a new horizon is opening up in my life -- new horizons, new opportunities, new challenges. Cardinal Law has transferred me from my mission in Quincy to St. Luke's in Belmont. The date of that transfer is Sept. 10."

"In the year and a half I've worked with you in the coalition I could not even begin to enumerate the blessings that I've experienced or the opportunities for personal and professional growth that have been afforded me. These past months will always be remembered warmly and with much enthusiasm."

FR. FREDERICK BARR

"I also recognize that we are at this in moment in the midst of intense growth and negotiations in order to become permanent and viable."

"While the nominating committee has not yet placed a slate before us for September's election of board, executive board and officers, I want to place in nomination Fr. William McCarthy, Pastor of St. John's here in Quincy, who has devoted so much of his own ministry, his parish work and energy to the needs of the poor and homeless in Quincy, and who has devoted so much effort to our coalition. I hope this does not seem intrusive or imperialistic on my account."

"Thank you so much for all you are and have done with us. Continue to press on with our mission. September 8 we will be having an ecumenical service to begin the 'new year'. It will also be an opportunity for me to say goodbye. Within the context of that 'evening prayer' a beginning and an ending will take place. Because God is the foundation of who we are and what we are doing, what more appropriate way could we do it."

Fr. Barr said that while he is looking forward to his new assignment at St. Luke's parish in Belmont, he will miss Quincy and Our Lady of Good Counsel parish.

"I have been here for four years. The folks have been wonderful."

"I also will miss those people who I have come to know and respect here in the Quincy community."

"My goodbyes also go out to the Interfaith clergy and the folks working at the Interfaith Sheltering Coalition. I also will miss those I have come to know and respect in the city's political community. I have enjoyed working with them. I hope and pray they continue to make this city the great city it is."

"I especially want to thank Fr. Peter Martocchio who is my former pastor at Our Lady of Good Counsel, Fr. James Curtin, our present pastor, Fr. William McCarthy, pastor of St. John's Church, who I have worked closely with in the shelter, Fr. Neal Heery, local vicar of Sacred Heart Church, Nancy Powers, executive director of the shelter, and Sister Regina Harrington, CSJ, director of religious education and pastoral assistant at Our Lady of Good Counsel."

CD Has Hurricane Kits

This year's Atlantic hurricane season has prompted Quincy's Civil Defense to alert commanders of yacht clubs and marinas that literature in an awareness resource kit on hurricanes is available.

Deputy Director of Public Safety Anthony Siciliano said those interested in obtaining this vital material should telephone the Quincy CD office at 472-6118.

Siciliano, well aware that the dangers of a catastrophic hurricane are made more extreme by the fact that many people reside on vulnerable coastal lands, said that various pamphlets contained in the packet are also available to residents at City Hall, or the Department of Public Works, 55 Sea St.

The informational brochure on hurricanes is published by the Federal Emergency Management Agency and National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

No Basic Change In Shipyard Decision

There has been no basic change in General Dynamics' decision to close the shipyard in mid-1986, Gary S. Grimes told a group of 20 business and political leaders from Quincy and the South Shore.

Grimes, vice president-general manager of the Quincy shipyard, made the disclosure at a private meeting held Thursday at the Quincy Neighborhood Club, according to Mayor Francis McCauley.

The yard has set up an internal committee that will talk about recommendations to General Dynamics on the future of the yard, said McCauley.

"There are three basic routes to go," said McCauley. "dispose of the shipyard to someone else who will build ships there, use it for other industrial purposes, or for real estate."

"Management wants to dispose of the shipyard, if they go that route, to any group that will continue employment at the shipyard."

"The committee will make a recommendation to General Dynamics in St. Louis in the next 90 days."

"At that time, we should have a better picture of what's going on at the shipyard," said McCauley.

The mayor said he is also working with the leadership of Local 5 on a rally Monday, Aug. 26, at McIntyre Mall.

"Members of our administration will be on the streets with petitions asking Quincy residents to sign to keep the shipyard open for shipbuilding purposes," said McCauley.

"We do have that very skilled workforce at General Dynamics," said McCauley, "and we want to keep it intact."

Five-Week Workshop For Parents Of Teens

The Quincy branch office of Family Service of Greater Boston together with the Weymouth Youth Office is sponsoring a five week workshop for Parents of Teenagers beginning Wednesday, Sept. 11, 7 to 8 p.m., at the Tufts Main Library, 46 Broad St., Weymouth.

This group educational workshop is designed to help parents of teens cope with the normal stresses of everyday living and raising adolescents in the 1980's.

Topics covered will include communicating with teens, encouraging self-esteem, drug and alcohol abuse, discipline and problem solving, sexuality and other concerns regarding adolescents.

Gloria Burke, director of Weymouth Youth Office, and Rebecca King, Family Life Education Specialist for Family Service, will be leading the group.

"Let's face it," said Miss King, "the issues confronting us today are different from those our parents had to deal with. New problems require new problem solving skills and the family today cannot afford not to keep learning. Our groups offer people a chance to practice some new skills and share their concerns with others while getting a lot of support."

Parenting groups for single parents, parents of young children and step-parents are among the many group workshops run by Family Service's "Education for Living" program in the area.

Fees are based on a sliding scale and scholarships are available.

For more information, call Rebecca King at Family Service, 471-0630 or Gloria Burke at Weymouth Youth Office, 331-1719.

Diabetes And Health Program At Hospital

Diabetes and Health, a four-week program focusing on the ability of a person to control his or her diabetes - and not let it control them, will begin Sept. 4, at Quincy City Hospital.

The series of weekly topics will emphasize the four cornerstones of diabetes management: What is Diabetes? Living With Diabetes, Medication, and Eating For Health.

The group will meet each Wednesday from 3 to 4:30 p.m. Register at Out-Patient Registration, and there will be no fee.

For more information contact Arleen Ferretti, RN, at 773-6100, extension 427.

LANDSCAPING AND VALUE

QUESTION: Just how important is landscaping to the value of a home when you buy it new?

ANSWER: Good landscaping can enhance the appearance of a new house and make it look "established". It can complement the design, provide a pleasant atmosphere, create privacy and reduce noise. It will also add to the value when selling time comes.

But good landscaping can cost a lot of money. If you want more than the minimum that builders usually provide, have it installed when you buy the house and add the cost to the selling price. This way, you pay it in the mortgage rather than up-front cash.

THERE ARE WAYS to install better landscaping without paying up-front cash.

Voter Apathy Sets In

Voter apathy appears to have settled in for the Sept. 10 city preliminary election.

"Sure looks like," says Asst. City Clerk Thomas Burke.

As evidence, he points to the recent five special new voter registration sessions conducted by the Board of Registrars and the City Election Department.

The five sessions resulted in—count them—14 new voters.

"If that isn't apathy, it's a first cousin," says Burke who also notes that daily registration during regular hours at City Hall is off that of other city—and state—election years.

Despite five mayoral candidates and six contenders for the vacant Ward 6 City Council seat, prospective new voters seem to be yawning instead of paying attention to what they are saying and doing.

There were four 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. registration sessions last Wednesday night in five wards and an eight-hour, noon to 8 p.m. session at City Hall Saturday.

The box score:
Ward 2 (Fore River Clubhouse): No one showed up.
Ward 3 (Furnace Brook School): No one showed up.
Ward 4 (Lincoln Hancock School): Three registered.
Ward 5 (Wollaston Methodist Church): Three registered.

Ward 6 (Francis Parker School): Three registered.
City Hall: Five registered.

Any eligible new voter could have registered at any one of five ward locations and at City Hall.

Burke says he was surprised that Ward 6 produced only three new registered voters at the night session.

"With six candidates you would expect to get at the very minimum 20 new ones . . .," he says.

New voters had until 10 p.m. last night (Wednesday) to register at City Hall for the Sept. 10 preliminary election.

No one was expecting any last minute big rush.

BURKE

Sad.

"There's definitely a lack of interest," says Burke. "And when there's a lack of interest in an election, anything can happen."

Like an upset?

COUNCILLOR Patricia Toland is a bit miffed over our look last week at the Quincy Shipyard closing and the various groups that are trying to either save the yard as a shipbuilding facility or to find an alternative.

In the column we noted that Joanne Condon made a nice personal—and political—move by inviting Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro to participate in her save-the-shipyard-for-shipbuilding group.

We said that DeCristofaro had been somewhat overlooked by the various groups, considering the Shipyard is in his ward.

Toland wants us to know that she was the first to invite DeCristofaro to participate in her Task Force which started looking at alternatives even before General Dynamics announced it was going to close the yard next year.

But, Toland acknowledges, DeCristofaro did not accept her invitation. Apparently because he prefers to work at keeping the yard open for shipbuilding before looking for alternatives.

SMALL WORLD DEPT.: The mayor's executive secretary, Peter Kenney, his wife, Kathy, and son, Mike, 10, recently visited his brother-in-law in Italy. They went to Mass on a military base in Vicenza and listened to a sermon by the chaplain who discussed the philosophy of a priest. And where was the priest from? The South Shore of Massachusetts. "Now that's what you call a small world," said Kenney, who also visited Innsbruck and Salzburg, Austria.

First Parish Church Is 'Alive To The City'

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The Rev. Keith C. Munson has seen a number of changes during his 10 year ministry at United First Parish Church, Quincy Sq.

And one of the highlights, he says, has been seeing the church become "alive to the city once again."

"People in the city are coming to think of it as a place where they might gather for special occasions," says Rev. Munson, 62, whose retirement was effective Aug. 2.

Interim minister Cindy Edson, who grew up in Braintree, will serve for a year beginning in September, he said.

The church was the site for a service for the late Frank Remick, founder of Remick's and father of actress Lee Remick, and for the late Mayor-Senator James McIntyre to lie in state, noted Rev. Munson, who was awarded the title minister emeritus.

A ceremony for hostages in Iran was also held at the church, as are community group meetings and occasions such as the Quincy Junior College nurses' capping and Quincy Christmas Pageant, he said.

"We've opened the doors in a sense," says Rev. Munson, "the calendar is loaded, and we're just delighted.

"This is a vital part of the church, to be available to the community."

Rev. Munson, who is completing 41 years in the active parish ministry this summer, said he also seen considerable attention paid to the Church of the Presidents as a historic site.

"We've maintained the exterior, with special emphasis in recent years on the belfry, as well as the interior," he said.

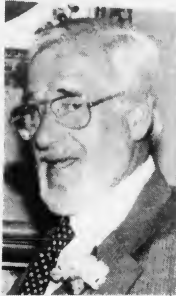

Rev. Munson is looking forward to completion of four projects.

"With the help of Robert Grant, president of the National Fire Protection Association, we've arranged for installation of a burglar alarm system and fire protection system in the building," he said.

Painting and refurbishing of the faces of the clock and installation of new lights on the four faces is expected to be completed in the near future, as well as rehanging of the bell on strengthened supports.

Still, there have been dreams and aspirations he has not been able to attain such as establishing relations with the department of the interior to share in the maintenance of the historic church.

But, two funds have been

established which the congregation hopes will grow to a reasonable capital amount, funds from which can be used to maintain the building.

"I would have liked to have been here when they reached that amount," says Rev. Munson, "but I'm sure the church is going to do that."

Munson plans to retire to Saco, Maine, which he will pursue one of his loves, sailing his 35 Dickerson Ketch with his wife, Peggy.

He is also a ham radio operator and an avid traveller.

"I'd like to charter a barge and sail the French canal, or see the Rhine County in Germany," he says.

Rev. Munson and his wife plan to spend Christmas in Ireland with their daughter, Lynn, and her family.

He has been offered several ministerial positions in Maine, "but I need time and space for myself and my family," he says.

Though he is looking forward to retirement, he also says that he finds it a bit frightening after 40 years of routine.

"I know I'm going to miss parish life, preaching and pastoral relationships."

"I've really enjoyed my years in Quincy. Quincy is a fine city."

"I've been frustrated in the past 10 years when I've heard people be negative towards this community. I see many positive things happening as the city changes."

"If circumstances were such, I'd be pleased and comfortable making this my permanent home."

"It's a fine city with great people."

"I call it a town — a town speaks of people working together, appreciating what they have, helping to build a better place for their children."

Hoover 'Pulling Nation Out Of Depression'

Cong. Richard B. Wigglesworth told a Quincy Rotary Club luncheon that he had nothing but praise for President Herbert Hoover whose reconstruction program, he said, was pulling the nation out of the Depression.

"The nation as a whole," he said, "has yet to appreciate the widespread outlines of the program advanced by the President to meet the onslaught of encircling depression in the difficult days through which we have passed."

PLAYGROUNDS CLOSED

The City Council turned down a request by the Park Board for additional funds and the Board immediately shut down the city's playgrounds in order to save $324 in supervisor's salaries.

Foreman Cardarelli was the only employee left in the Park Department and he was transferred to the Highway Department where there were enough funds to pay for removing equipment from the closed playgrounds.

The Park Board had asked the Council for a supplementary budget of $1,300 to take the playgrounds through to Labor Day.

GIFT FROM SHIPYARD

Residents In Lend-Lease Service To United Way

The old adage "never a lender or a borrower be" doesn't hold true when it comes to these two Quincy residents who really care about helping their community.

Retiree Alice I. Kowlick of Hucks Ave., Squantum, was rehired by MassPort on a consultant basis in order to lend her services to the United Way of Massachusetts Bay.

sets Bay.

Thomas Burke of Henry St., North Quincy, a technical assistant at the Boston Edison Company, has been named a loan executive to that fund drive.

For the next few months, both will be working full time at the United Way, helping corporate and community leaders design and implement fund-raising campaigns.

Many of the health and human service agencies benefiting from these funds serve North Quincy residents. These include: Domestic Violence Ended (DOVE); South Shore Chapter of the American Red Cross, and the Quincy office of the Greater Boston Legal Services.

anniversary fund drive,

Kowlick and Burke will join almost 100 other loaned executives in helping the United Way keep administrative and fund-raising costs to a minimum under this unique lend-lease program. This program will help ensure that of the $39-million the fund hopes to raise this year, 88-cents of every dollar will support people in need.

Doughnuts, Coffee, Safety Tips For Cape Travelers

Quincy motorists heading to Cape Cod this summer can enjoy free coffee, fresh donuts, and learn tips on highway safety and responsible alcohol consumption at the Budweiser "Pit Stop," located on Rte. 3, exit 5, South Coast Expressway.

Sponsored in cooperation with the Massachusetts Information Center and L. Knife & Sons, Kingston-based distributor of Anheuser-Busch products, the Budweiser "Pit Stop" is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. each weekend through Labor Day.

The program represents a unique relationship between the brewery and a state agency involved with highway safety. The message is simple: Don't drink and drive.

The reinforcement message will be redoubled at the stop through distribution of Anheuser-Busch's "Know When To Say When," and "Buddy System" alcohol responsibility materials, including brochures, bumper stickers, blood-alcohol chart key chains and other items.

Housing Authorities Can Now Hire Tenants

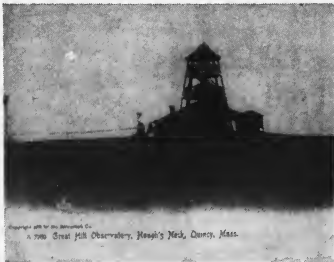

State Sen. Paul Harold of Quincy announces that local housing authorities are no longer prohibited from hiring their tenants as employees under new legislation effective in September.

The new law amends the state Conflict of Interest law to exempt public housing tenants from the prohibition on having a financial interest in contracts in which a city or town has an interest.

Harold noted that the law was also amended last year to allow town employees to serve as selectmen, so long as they waive the salary and refrain from voting on matters affecting their employment by the town.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Silence is a talent as greatly to be cherished as that other aspect, the gift of speech. Yet, it seems the modern world hates silence. We have grown so accustomed to the business of sight and sound that we do not appreciate the meaning of silence. We seldom set aside time for quiet reflection. Isn't it true that most of us become restless if we have to spend any significant amount of time in enforced silence?

Granted, there is a place for noise in this world. It thrives in our hectic world of industry and commerce. Yet, isn't it true that peace and self-understanding is planned, watered and cultivated in moments of silence?

General MacArthur once told a writer that he could not fight a battle without an hour of silence and meditation in the morning. It is silence which makes the soul free. One of the greatest experiences in life can be found in the awe and hush of solitude.

Your reaction and comment either in person, by phone or letter is ALWAYS welcome, on this or any other thought you read here.

'Straighten Up' Topic At Bethany

This Sunday there will be one service of worship at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary of Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach the sermon entitled "Straightened Up," based on the Gospel of Luke 13:10-17. Rev. Joel F. Huntington, associate minister, will lead the worship.

The lay scripture reader will be Carol A. Bohlken. Special music will be provided by the duet of Jean and Win Bettinson who will sing "He Hideeth My Soul" by Crosby and "Who At My Door Is Standing?" by Everett.

Nursery care will be provided for babies and toddlers.

The service of worship is broadcast by delayed-tape over WJDA, 1300kc., at 11 a.m. Sunday morning.

There will be a fellowship hour following the worship service. All are welcome to share in both the worship and the fellowship.

For additional information about Bethany's ministries, contact the church office at 479-7300.

Church School Registration At United First Parish

United First Parish Church, 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Center, will hold Registration Sunday for church school on Sept. 8.

Parents who want to enroll their children in the church school may sign them up before church services, from 10:15 to 10:30 a.m., or during social hour, 11:30 a.m. to noon.

The Church School offers a planned program for infants through junior high school. This year's curriculum includes "About Me" for preschool and kindergarten, "Adventures of God's Folk" for grades 1 and 2, "Stepping Stone Year" for grades 3 and 4, and "What's in That Book You've Got", New Testament portion, for grades 5 through 8.

The church school uses a multi media approach in its classes and offers many activities for the entire church school, such as holiday parties and craft making, field trips, and Morning Circles with a time for sharing and singing.

A Teen Group will be re-established this year, with a variety of activities chosen by the teens.

Wollaston Man To Discuss Religious Book

The Problem Is God by C. Alan Anderson, of Wollaston and Curry College Professor of philosophy and religion, will be the topic of discussion on the "Talking Religion" panel radio program on WRKO, 680 AM, Sunday morning, Aug. 25 from 6:05 a.m. to 7 a.m.

The program, hosted by William Hahn of Wollaston includes Dr. Anderson, the Rev. Murray Kenney of Christ Church, Cambridge; Sister Mary Hennessey of Harvard Divinity School; and Rabbi Kushner of Natick.

Dr. Anderson has been at Curry College since 1966.

In the context of considering competing conceptions of God's nature, the book provides a basic introduction to philosophy and religion, with an emphasis on the process-organic philosophy of the late Alfred North Whitehead.

Dr. Anderson is also the author of the booklet God In A Nutshell, as well as a number of articles.

LEAH SHEA, Elsa Marella, Mario and Maryann Salvatore stand beside Dora Salvatore, whose cookout party is still the talk of South Quincy.

(Quincy Sun photos by Fred Robertson)

TABLES ARE set and 'dinner' is ready for the guests to dine at Mario Salvatore's cookout in South Quincy.

It Was A Party That Will Be Long Remembered

By DAN CONNELLY

South Quincy is still talking about that sidewalk cookout A. Mario Salvatore and family put on for his sister Dora and her fellow patients at New England Sinai Hospital.

It all started when Mario, of 39 Hughes St., was visiting Dora who has been confined at the Stoughton hospital for two years. She mentioned to him in passing that it would be nice to have a party for her second floor hospital friends.

Dora's request triggered the organizational spirit in Mario. He wanted the cookout to be a day to remember but he needed plenty of help to make it so.

Mario didn't have far to look for help. His wife, Maryann, prepared enough food to feed a battalion of hungry soldiers, daughters Teresa and DeDe, and son Arnold and his wife, Wanda, decorated and waited, while neighbors, and members of the Sons of Italy Lodge provided added support.

On the day of the party they blocked off a section of the street as the hospital vans arrived with the honored guests, 50 of them and their attendants.

Maryann Salvatore said Fr. Vincent Massey of the Office of Tribunal in Brighton, was also on hand to welcome Dora and her friends at a cookout which she described as one in which "you name it, we had it"

When 6 p.m. arrived and the guests prepared to depart, there was not a dry eye in the neighborhood. They all wished it could have lasted forever.

Another part of the story that Maryann and Mario Salvatore like to talk about is Dora's involvement in the Sinai Jaycees; the only Jaycee chapter nationwide to be based in a hospital.

Although most members of the chapter are confined to wheelchairs and many are dependent on mechanical breathing apparatus, this Jaycee chapter has rapidly become one of the most active in the state.

Recently Dora Salvatore's therapeutic improvement resulted in her being recognized as "Most Improved Jaycee" and she was the recipient of the prestigious Creed Award.

This presentation came when the chapter was honored with a Massachusetts Jaycees Best Retention Rate award of all chapters in the state.

Mario had another special reason for holding the cookout. He can't forget the determination, and competitive spirit shown in July by a group of Sinai patients who participated in a wheel-a-thon at Hand-i-camp in Bridgewater, to raise funds toward the purchase of a special van for their use.

We need a mayor who knows more than just the budget.

We need a mayor who also knows and cares about the people.

Quincy needs a mayor who will deal with the tough issues: The closing of the Quincy Shipyard, Jobs for our people, development in our neighborhoods, the expansion of the hospital, and public safety.

That's why it's time to elect a mayor for the people. Joanne Condon.

The Campaign Trail

Nutley Wants Halt On Bombs At Moon Island

Thomas J. Nutley, candidate for the Ward 6 City Council seat, has asked mayor Francis McCauley to communicate with him and with Boston mayor Raymond Flynn regarding ending the use of Moon Island for the detonation of bombs found in Boston.

Nutley said in a letter to McCauley:

"The recent severe injuries suffered by two Boston police officers who transported an unexploded bomb to the old city dump in West Roxbury dramatizes the danger both to the police officers, the motorists along the way and to the children and other residents of Squantum who live along the path of the route to Moon Island where potentially explosive devices are usually taken," said Nutley. It seems to me that a quicker and safer means of transporting bombs could be found rather than continuing the practice of transporting the bombs over the expressway in heavy traffic and through the streets of Squantum.

"Either a more quickly accessible location in Boston should be found, or the trip should be made to Moon Island over the water thereby reducing the danger to officers and obviating the dangers to the unaware Squantum residents.

"At any rate, it is unfair to forever expose Squantum residents to this danger," said Nutley, "and other avenues of handling this growing problem must be explored immediately before more officers and/or Squantum residents are injured or killed."

Women Voters League Candidate's Night

The League of Women Voters of Quincy is sponsoring a city election candidate's night Aug. 27.

The event will be held at McIntyre Mall, adjacent to City Hall and will begin at 7 p.m.

Those planning to participate, to date, are mayoral candidates incumbent Francis X. McCauley, and Joanne Condon, Sabina Kavanaugh, Herman Pasquerella, and David Petersen.

Councilor-At-Large incumbents Richard Koch, Joseph LaRaia, and Patricia Toland will be joined by candidate Ron Iacobucci.

Also planning to participate is City Clerk John Gillis. He will demonstrate the new voting machine and register voters.

The league urged those planning to attend to bring their own lawn chair. Rain will cause the forum to move across the street into First Parish Church.

Koch Concerned Over Hancock St. Water Main Project

Thomas P. Koch, Ward 6 City Council candidate, has expressed his concerns over the Hancock Street Water Main Project.

In a letter to Public Works Commr. Paul Anderson, Koch said he had received complaints while visiting homes in the affected areas.

Koch called for better backfiring of the daily digging by the contractor to prevent injuries to pedestrians as well as damage to local residents' automobiles.

Koch urged that additional street cleaning services be assigned to the affected areas as construction debris is tracked throughout local streets.

He further voiced concern that construction materials, since they obstruct the views of pedestrians and motorists, could prove dangerous to both.

In particular, he cited the stockpile of fill located at the corner of Hancock St. and Glover Ave. outside the Sacred Heart School. Koch explained that the pile blocks a pedestrian crosswalk which is used by Sacred Heart and F.W. Parker school children.

This concern was prompted by the fact that schools will be opening in less than two weeks.

Candidate Koch, by drawing the Commissioner's attention to residents' concerns, seeks swift, corrective action to avoid these and any additional potential dangers.

Walsh Calls For 'Gang Squad'

John J. Walsh, candidate for the Ward 6 City Council seat, has called for "an immediate crackdown upon public drinking and the rowdiness that results from such behavior."

In a letter to Mayor Francis X. McCauley, Walsh urged the creation of a "Gang Squad" which would target crowds of people drinking on the streets or in the city's parks.

"Reports of young people drinking is a summer constant," Walsh wrote.

"Many citizens are afraid to leave their homes because they don't want to be harassed or threatened by young drunks. This can't be tolerated. The creation of a Gang Squad would go far to end this terrible problem."

The goal of a Gang Squad is to reduce vandalism and the kind of disturbance that "get the citizens up in arms," said Walsh.

In Ward 6, noted Walsh, Squaw Rock Park and Welcome-You Playground by the Sagamore Inn are "constant trouble spots."

Walsh suggested two moves that the Mayor could take.

"Police should strongly enforce a sundown-to-sunup closing of the city parks and fines should be issued to those who indulge in public drinking."

"What really shakes the youth up is when the police call their parents at 11 at night to pick them up at the police station."

"I believe in arrests. It gets the message across."

Local 285 Mayoral Candidates Night Sept. 5

Local 285 will sponsor a candidates night for the Quincy mayoral candidates Thursday, Sept. 5 at 7:30 p.m. on the third floor of St. John's School Hall, Phipps St..

Air Force Base, Colo. She is scheduled to serve with the 8102nd Student Flight at Otis Air National Guard Base. She is a 1983 graduate of Quincy High School.

Sheridan Urges Squantum Causeway Facelift

Richard Sheridan, Jr., Ward 6 City Council candidate, proposes that the Squantum Causeway undergo a major renovation to erase a flood problem.

Sheridan said in a prepared statement that Squantum's Causeway needs a major facelift. It hasn't undergone extensive work since Vinnie Smith was Ward 6 City Councilor. The road has settled to a point where it literally retains pools of water after a rainstorm.

He added that the curbstones on the Quincy Bay side of the street are laying in pieces scattered along the side of the road.

Sheridan noted that at one time the road would flood during an extreme high tide; now it floods during moderate tides. Putting an ambulance, police car, and additional fire truck in Squantum during high tides is not a solution to the problem. Salt water is a corrosive and raises heck with your vehicle. Those who wish to walk, jog, or bike ride have only one sidewalk to use.

He said the road should be raised 4-5 feet, and if need be, drainage pipes should be installed underneath the road to carry the overflow tide from the marsh on the Quincy Bay side to the marsh on the Boston Harbor side. There should be sidewalks on both sides of the road. Right now the roadside is dumpy, it's been neglected, there is litter strewn in the grass along the whole stretch.

He concluded by stating the speed limit isn't even posted on the causeway, the only posted speed limit is at the end of Lansdowne St. and can only be viewed leaving Squantum.

"It's really sad that there has been no effort whatsoever to beautify the only access road to this small peninsula," he said.

Morrissey Helps 'Collar' Dog Fees

Thanks to the legislative support from a Quincy state representative, municipalities can now keep all canine related fees.

Rep. Michael Morrissey said that previously, state laws dictated local fee schedules, and municipalities had to turn over most of the revenue they collected to the counties.

"Under the law just approved by the legislature, cities and towns, by local option, set their own schedule of fees for dog licenses, kennel licenses, and fines," said James Segel, Executive Director of the Massachusetts Municipal Association.

"Municipalities will also be able to keep all of the revenue, now that they are assuming all of the responsibilities for dog regulation. Also, Morrissey, as chairman of the Committee on Counties, was a leader in urging the legislature to adopt this bill," Segal added.

Kevin Cahill On State Senate Committee Staff

Kevin P. Cahill of North Quincy has joined the staff of the State Senate Committee on Counties.

He will be assigned to the office of the Chairman of the Committee, State Senator William Golden of Weymouth.

Cahill is a 1975 graduate of North Quincy High School, and earned his Bachelor's Degree in political science at the University of Mass., Boston. He also attended Emerson College in Boston, and has served 10 years in the U.S. Air Force Reserve.

Formerly news director of radio station WATD in Marshfield, he also worked as a newscaster at radio stations in Quincy and in Boston.

Cahill will be involved with legislation and research dealing with county government and county functions in Massachusetts. Some of the issues include county charter reform, a proposal for the state to assume the cost of operating county jails, and the future of county government and programs.

In addition, he will handle special projects in Senator Golden's office, including hazardous waste liability, the possible return of commuter rail and the cleanup of Boston Harbor.

Quincy Dental Hygienist Aids Poor In Ecuador

Susan Murray of Quincy, recently returned from a two-week trip to Guayaquil, Ecuador, as part of a six-member dental hygienist team.

The trip was sponsored by the Brockton-based Por Cristo, a non-profit medical organization which provides medical knowledge and assistance to the poor in Latin America, and has been sending teams of dental hygienists to Ecuador since 1980.

The dental hygienists were equipped with 5,150 toothbrushes and visual aids as they traveled to catholic and public schools, orphanages, hospitals, and family centers throughout the rural areas providing the children and adults instruction in proper nutrition, sanitation, and oral hygiene.

Along the classroom shelves, paper cups containing toothbrushes were lined

At 80 She Is Still Doing Nice Things For Many People

By LINDA WILKINS

Last year, Mabel D. Wolff of 70 Carlisle St., North Quincy, made needlepoint baskets for every patient at the Oceanside Nursing Home in Quincy and crocheted lap robes for patients at Long Island Hospital.

Mrs. Wolff is 80 and, according to her daughter, likes to do nice things for people.

"She's a person who does for others," said Barbara (Wolff) Dawson of Braintree. "For the past three years she has crocheted lap robes and has made some 20 robes in all. Last year she made the baskets for patients at Oceanside Nursing Home on Quincy Shore Drive. She even filled each one with candy checking beforehand to see how many would need diabetic candy and supplying that also."

A resident of Quincy for 42 years, Mrs. Wolff has done volunteer work for her church, Memorial Congregational in North Quincy, for 40 years.

"She has the time and is a person who likes to keep busy. She's very clever with her hands and even though she has arthritis, she still manages to keep them moving," Mrs. Dawson said.

Mrs. Dawson said her mother always seems to be baking or crocheting or knitting something.

"She knits a lot and she often bakes things for fairs or for people who have done something nice for her. If someone shoveled her walk, for example, she'd bake that person cookies because that's the way she is," said Mrs. Dawson.

"Maybe I just think she's terrific because she's my mother, but there are a lot of people out there who won't do anything for anyone."

Morning Walks From Fenno Center

The Quincy Council on Aging and the Beechwood Community Life Center will sponsor daily morning walks Tuesdays and Thursdays at 8:15, Wednesdays at 9, and Fridays at 10:30 beginning at the Beechwood Center, 225

Fenno St., Wollaston.

Three trained leaders will direct the walks, at which participants may proceed at their own pace. The walks will expand as the group progresses, adding future distances.

Anyone interested in joining the Walking Club should call Ann English at 471-5712.

Participants will receive their own personal passbook in which to record their miles and may want to enter the Governor's Cup Event September 29.

'Key To Peace' Topic At Squantum First Church

"The Key to Peace" was the title of the sermon preached by Charles Lester Sunday morning at the First Church of Squantum. He spoke of the need to apply the ten commandments of the Old Testament to national and international situations.

Dana Olson gave the call to worship and the prayer of dedication; Ralph Dougherty led the opening prayer; Leon MacIntyre gave the announcements, read the Scripture and offered the pastoral prayer. Robert Gorrill sang the special music and Mary Ruth Scott was the organist.

Ushers were Tore Wallin and Stewart Scott. Grace Holmes and May Lewis were in charge of the Fellowship Hour refreshments.

During August there will

Quincy Camp Fire Holds Citywide Camp-Out

Quincy Camp Fire recently completed the 1984-85 program year with a city-wide camp-out at Camp Kiwanee, Hanson.

The young people sharpened their outdoor living skills by cooking all their own meals outdoors over campfires, learning how to use various camp tools, practicing various knots used in camping, and playing compass orientation games.

Other activities included tennis, badminton, swimming, nature walks, a treasure hunt, and songs and ghost stories by torch-light on the beach.

Highlight of the weekend was a night ceremonial, with every member sending a candle-bearing bark raft across the lake.

Six members completed the last steps of Camp Fire's Progression in the Outdoor Action Program, qualifying them for the first level Emblem, Fire Tender.

They are Gretchen O'Hare, Rebecca Chin, Christine DiStasio, Robin Backman, Janette Archer, and Joanna Dyer.

Those attending made square-knot frogs to bring home as a memento of the weekend.

Camp Fire will hold Registration Days during the summer as well as a Registration Night in the Fall for those wishing to join.

Quincy Cited For Support Of Arts

Quincy's increasing support for the arts has earned national recognition for Mayor Francis X. McCauley and the City Council in the Sixth Annual City Livability Awards program, co-sponsored by the U.S. Conference of Mayors and Philip Morris Incorporated.

As a result, ideas in Quincy's City Livability entry will be placed in the National Clearinghouse on the Arts, as models for other cities to follow.

The awards, determined by an independent panel of judges, salute mayors whose creative use of the arts improves the economic vitality and quality of life of their cities.

The judges noted the city's support of the Ruth Gordon Amphitheater, through the allocation of nearly $600,000 in federal funds. Municipal support has continued with technical assistance and in-kind services provided for various concert series and performances at the Amphitheater.

The judges also liked the city's concern for the preservation of Quincy's cultural and historical heritage. Singled out for special recognition were the Storefront Improvement Program and the Housing Rehabilitation Program, in which the city offers loans up to $5,000, payable at a 5% interest rate over a five year period.

"Offering low-interest loans for facade improvements and housing rehabilitation is the type of economic incentive that may appeal to other cities," said John J. Gunther, Executive Director of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

Also noted by the judges was municipal support for the Quincy Arts Council and Summerfest, a 10-week series of free concerts and plays sponsored by the South Shore Cultural Commission.

$40,000 Awarded For Library Preservation

Mayor Francis A. McCauley announces that the city, through the Department of Planning and Community Development, has been awarded $40,000 by the Massachusetts Historical Commission for the preservation of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

The notice of award was issued by Michael J. Connolly, chairman of the MHC.

The grant, known as the Preservation Projects Fund, was a highly competitive effort, state wide, for funds for the preservation of the state's properties listed on the Register of Historic Places, said McCauley.

Quincy's project was one of 20 in a field of 41 applications.

The total project budget will be $139,000 with an additional $69,000 budgeted from the Federal Jobs Bill Program and $29,000 from the city's Community Development Block Grant Program.

The notice of award came after several months of preparation and the cooperative effort between the Department of Planning and Community Development under the direction of Planning Director James Lydon and Carol Ann Nelson, A.I.A., of the firm Design and Conservation of New Bedford.

The firm was chosen for its specialization in historic preservation and other projects of a similar nature.

The city's pre-application, which was submitted in March, 1985, was one of 41 applicants invited back by MHC to submit a full application. Of the 41 final applicants, half were funded state wide.

The library rehabilitation is a project of roofing and flashing repairs including the installation of new gutters and cleaning of the built-in cast iron down leaders. It is anticipated that the project of roofing and flashing repairs including the installation of new gutters and cleaning of the built-in cast iron down leaders. It is anticipated that the project work will begin in late September/early October.

The Crane Library, listed on the National Register of Historic Places and a candidate for National Landmark status, was designed by noted architect Henry Hobson Richardson (1883-1886) in the Romanesque style and is generally considered the masterpiece of Richardson's libraries.

Ground was broken for the project in September 1880, completed in 1882 and dedicated in memory of Thomas Crane, (1803-1875), a long time resident of the city who prospered by dealing in Quincy Granite.

In 1908, an addition was made to the rear by architect William M. Aiken, who had worked in Richardson's office. This wing matches Richardson's design in scale, materials and detailing.

In 1939, the Albert Crane Memorial Wing (son of Thomas Crane) was built to the southwest with funds provided in the estate of Albert Crane and augmented by the Federal Works Projects Administration grant.

This wing nearly doubled the size of the library. In design, it copies the original building although modifications were required to permit improved lighting.

Other works by H.H. Richardson include the Trinity Church, Boston; the Brattle Square Church, Boston; New York State Capital, Albany; Albany City Hall; the Alexander Dallas Bache monument, the Congressional Cemetery, Washington, D.C.; and the Marshall Field Wholesale Store, Chicago, Illinois.

Miss Nelson will appear before the Quincy Historic District Commission July 29 at 7:30 p.m. for the commission's review of the project. The meeting will take place in the Planning Department Conference Room.

VOLUNTEER WORK — Air Force Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps cadets from Quincy's two high schools and the vocational technical school, volunteered to assist at a 'Cano Day' at the Bedford Veterans Hospital. The event provided therapeutic recreation to over 400 veteran residents. The cadets and their instructors include: Lt. Col. Philip C.J. Denis, T/Sgt. Edward J. Holland, and Gordon Wray, David Engrassia, Hugh McGowan, Francis Hathaway, Shannon Holmes, Lori Henshall, Noreen Duran, Stephen Bell, Patrick Dwyer, William MacNeal, Fred Calef, Peter Preterotti, and Bryan Surratt. The cadets plan to participate monthly in the voluntary service "Adopt-a-Ward" patient program.

Quincy Camp Fire Holds Grand Council Fire

More than 100 Camp Fire members from Quincy and Braintree recently attended the Quincy Camp Fire Grand Council Fire and awards ceremony.

This year's theme was friendship. A member from each club placed a log on the council fire and told how the club had honored the spirit of Camp Fire Friendship during the year.

The Furnace Brook Adventurers led the flag ceremony, with Robin Backman leading the Pledge of Allegiance and "America, the Beautiful."

Tenure awards included a ten year leadership award to Paula Gordon, a five year leadership award to Anne Marks, and five year youth membership awards to Suzanne Wilson and Rebecca Chin.

Anne Mark's and Phyllis Toner's Blue Birds came forward for the traditional Fly Up ceremony, graduating them to the rank of Adventurer. Parents of those graduating put the Adventurer tie and slide on their children as everyone sang "It's Time to Fly." Those flying up were Kerri Toner, Robin West, Kerry Hodges, Jennifer Cleary, Beth Wynne, Mary Quilly, Lori Golden, Jennifer and Kerri Marks, Nicole Fasoli, Tara and Olivia Mannion, Karen Leary, Maureen Flavin, Erin Sullivan and Joanne Hall.

Program Coordinator Fran Meade presented S.O.S. emblems to the 80 young people who participated in the educational and fund-raising program launched by Camp Fire this year which taught its members about the Statue of Liberty and raised money for its restoration.

The ceremonial closed with everyone joining hands and singing "We Are the World."

Camp Fire members participating in the Grand Council Fire received an emblem with the American Indian symbol for friendship as a memento.

Quincy, North Open Football Practice

By TOM SULLIVAN
The Quincy and North Quincy football squads begin practice today (Thursday) with wholesale coaching changes at Quincy and some ironic twists.

In the past teams had to wait until the last Monday in August to get under way but this season they have been given three extra days.

The extra days are welcomed by North Quincy coach Ken McPhee, whose team opens early (Friday night, Sept. 13) in the first night schoolboy game ever played in Quincy.

While the North coaching staff remains the same, except for a new freshman coach, only one Quincy assistant has returned.

At North, the "dean," Ted Sadowski, returns for his 27th season, and also back are Mark Mulvaney, Kevin Cobban and Pete Zoia. Former Radier Jamie Walsh has been named freshman coach to succeed Zoia, who this fall will be a varsity aide. It is a far different story at Quincy.

Second-year coach Jack Raymer has only last fall's freshman coach, Mitch Finnegan, back. Mark and Jeff Giordani and Peter Cassidy have not returned. Finnegan this year will be a varsity aide.

The Quincy staff has a distinct North Quincy tinge this year.

Raymer's new assistants are Peter Chrisom, who formerly coached at Westwood and is currently boys' track coach at North Quincy, former North Quincy standouts Jim Kennedy and Kevin Kelly and a former Quincy player, John Taglieri.

Ironically, Chrisom is the son of North Quincy principal Peter Chrisom, while Kelly is Zoia's grandson.

Kelly is a student at Curry College, where he played football last fall as a freshman. However, he contacted mononucleosis and is unable to play this year. He hopes to play again next season.

Three former Quincy players, Fran Gaudiano, Chris Dracchio and Mark Righini, are the freshmen coaches.

North will begin practices this evening at 6 o'clock at Cavanaugh Stadium and the team will work out at the same time Friday night.

Beginning Monday, the Raiders will begin double sessions, morning and afternoon, at Cavanaugh.

Quincy will work out today, Friday and Saturday from noon to 3 p.m. and beginning Monday will have double sessions, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 3:30.

With Saturday games dwindling, each team will have a night game at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Several area schools have added lights and report attendances up as much as 50 percent.

North hosts Weymouth South Friday night, Sept. 13, at 7 o'clock, while Quincy will meet Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday, the 20th at 7.

In addition to its Suburban League games with Quincy, Brockton, Newton North, Waltham, Cambridge and Brookline, North will face Weymouth South of the Old Colony League, Milton of the Bay State League and Medford and Somerville of the Greater Boston League.

Quincy will face North Quincy, Brockton, Cambridge, Brookline, Waltham and Newton North in the Suburban League, Weymouth North of the Old Colony League and Malden, Everett and Revere of the Greater Boston League.

Wings Top Bruins For Chowder Cup

History repeated itself Sunday at the Quincy Youth Arena when the Detroit Junior Red Wings defeated the N.E. Junior Bruins for the championship of the second annual N.E. Pro-Am Chowder Cup Tournament.

Detroit, which topped the Bruins a year ago in the title game, repeated Sunday with the 7-2 victory before a large crowd at the arena, where the N.E. Pro-Am League plays all its games.

The tournament, featuring the Bruins, Detroit, Chicago and New York, had some of the outstanding junior players in the country.

Twelve of the New England players have been drafted by National Hockey League teams, while seven of the visitors are also NHL draftees.

Scouts from most of the NHL teams were present for the four-day event.

The Junior Red Wings went undefeated in the tournament.

The Bruins, wearing uniforms donated by Boston Bruins general manager Harry Sinden and coached by John Cuniff, a former two-time All-American at Boston College, defeated the New York Rangers, 8-4, lost to Detroit, 7-5, and came back to top Chicago Young Americans, 9-4, to gain a berth in the finals.

The Red Wings started fast and had a 2-0 lead after only four minutes of play.

Tom Lyons of Newton scored first for the Bruins at 5:21 of the opening period on a pass from Quincy's Paul Marshall, who was one of 24 players named to the N.E.

Pro-Am League junior division all-star team.

The Wings led, 3-1, after a period. A disallowed goal and the suspension of the last 2:54 of the period because of a problem with the glass, prevented them from scoring again until there was 1:38 left in the period.

Strong defense by Marshall, a Philadelphia Flyers draft pick, Perry Florio and Dave Buckley helped halt the shelling of Bruins goalie Dave Littman, who made a number of outstanding saves.

Joe MacInnas took a pass from Florio and scored for the Bruins, cutting the gap to 4-2, but the Wings scored three more, putting the game out of reach.

Littman had 32 saves for the Bruins.

MDA Softball Games

Aug. 29 At Adams Field

The Quincy Police and Quincy Fire Fighters will square off in the 6:30 p.m. game opening the annual Quincy softball doubleheader Thursday, Aug. 29, at Adams Field, Merrymount Park.

Co-feature at 8 p.m. will be the Quincy City Officials and the News Media All-Stars.

The Police and Fire Fighters will be seeking to break a tie while the News Media will be attempting to keep their one-game winning streak intact and catch up on the Quincy City Officials' lead in the series.

The big winner is Muscular Dystrophy and all proceeds go to assist in the research, education and patient service programs of the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Tickets can be obtained at the Quincy Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., the Mayor's office at City Hall or any of the City Council members.

Henry Bosworth and Richard J. Koch are co-chairmen of the event.

North Alumni Day At Stadium

The second annual North Quincy Alumni Day will be held Saturday, Aug. 31, at Veterans Memorial Stadium. The North football team will face Braintree in a 10 a.m. scrimmage and the freshman-sophomore teams will stage a short scrimmage at 9:30.

Last year many former North players from as far back as the first team in 1933 attended and it hoped many will be on hand this season.

Fletcher Leads Bryan To Successful Season

Bryan Post VFW completed a successful season by advancing to the semifinals of the Babe Ruth League playoffs before being eliminated by Houghs Neck.

Bryan Post defeated the Elks in straight games, winning the first game, 8-0, as Ron Fletcher pitched five-hit ball and struck out 10.

Fletcher also led the offense with a double, two singles, two stolen bases and three runs scored. Jay Rodriguez had three hits, Mark Molloy two, Bill Mulken had a triple and Ron Cinquegrano, Gary Silverman, Mark Dwyer, Sean Mulken and Chris Standing all singled.

For the Elks Sean Gately tripled and singled and Peter Tufts, Bob Howe and Joe Gately singled.

In the second game Bryan pounded out 21 hits en route to an easy 13-3 victory. Cinquegrano pitched a six-hitter.

Silverman and Bill Mulken had five hits each, Sean Murphy three, Rodriguez, Sean Mulken and Jamie Greene two apiece and Cinquegrano and Dwyer one each.

The Elks were led by Tufts and Bill Murphy with two hits each and Scott Logan and Howe had the other hits.

Bryan rolled over Houghs Neck, 16-6, in the opener of their series as Silverman pitched a five-hitter.

Bill Mulken and Murphy had extra base hits, Cinquegrano and Sean Mulken had two hits each and Molloy and Dwyer one apiece.

Jay Lespasio's two hits paced Houghs Neck. Craig Wright had a booming triple and Scott Crowley and Bob Austin singled.

HN came back to win the second game, 8-1, behind the six-hit pitching of Matt Furtado. Murphy pitched four innings of hitless relief for Bryan Post.

Eric Abboud had two hits for HN and Furtado, Lespasio, Wright and Austin had singles. Rodriguez led Bryan with three hits, while Fletcher, Murphy and Bill Mulken had one each.

Houghs Neck won the clincher, 4-3, with Larry Beguerie and Lespasio combining for a four-hitter. Fletcher went all the way for Bryan and also gave up only four hits.

as Fletcher walked, stole second and came all the way around to score on an over-thrown.

Bryan made it 2-0 as Fletcher (2-for-2, two walks) hit a towering out-of-the-park home run.

HN tied it up as Furtado and Crowley singled and Beguerie hit a two-run single.

Bryan regained the lead on Dwyer's RBI single but HN rallied to win it on Jim Goron's long two-run homer.

Houghs Neck and the Police Club were tied up, 2-2, in the championship series with the deciding game scheduled for last Tuesday night.

ASBESTOS LUNG DISEASE

Asbestos dust causes serious lung ailments; the diseases appear suddenly, years after exposure. Today numerous SHIPYARD WORKERS, MASONS, and PIPEFITTERS of the 1930's-1970's have lung afflictions because they inhaled asbestos particles many years ago.

If you worked in one of those professions then and now have a lung disease, you may be eligible to receive money damages or workers' compensation. Relatives of living and deceased victims can also recover in some cases.

New Police Boat 'Guardian' Patrols Local Waters

The Quincy Police Department has a new 27-foot Harbor Craft with cabin to patrol local waters.

"The Guardian" was purchased from Continental Marina for about $20,000, said Patrolman Leo Luchini, water ways detective.

It replaces a 17-foot whaler which is 28 years old and will be given to the Quincy Underwater Recovery Team, he said.

The department also has a 19-foot outboard, Luchini said.

Luchini, and Patrolman Joe Gillan, officer on the water, patrol almost 28 miles of coastline from mid April to November during daylight hours, but the boats are useable 24 hours a day.

"We enforce the rules of safety, just like on land," said Luchini.

The new boat is docked at Marina Bay, the old one at Clipper Apartments, he said.

Police rescue people from the water an average of 15 times during the season, said Luchini.

An advantage of the new boat is that people taken from the water can be put undercover in the cabin for the ride back to shore, he said, and dry blankets can be carried on board.

Koch Youth League Opens Oct. 5

The Koch Club Youth Bowling League will open its 23rd season of activity on Saturday, Oct. 5, at 9 a.m., at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys on Broad St., and boys and girls between the ages of 7 and 15 years are invited to join and participate.

There are junior and senior divisions with ages 7-11 in the junior league while boys and girls 12-15 years are assigned to the senior circuit.

Anthony T. Delmonico of 35 Gannett Rd. is founder and director of the Loop and boys and girls interested in joining can contact him before the Oct. 5 opening.

The league will bowl each Saturday morning through the winter months with the season closing with an awards banquet next April.

League members returning this season should contact Delmonico and report to the opening session on Oct. 5.

Koch Women Open Sept. 9

The Koch Club Women's Bowling League will open its 31st season Monday, Sept. 9, at 7 p.m., at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys on Broad St., Quincy.

President Pat Lawlor requests that members report promptly at 7 p.m. and invites women who wish to join the league and participate to attend the opening session on Sept. 9 ready to bowl. New members are welcome to join as regular or spare bowlers.

The league will bowl for two weeks for individual scores and averages and will then establish teams for the 1985-86 season.

The Koch Club's league entry in the South Shore Women's Bowling Tourney won the championship in 1984.

Koch Men's League Will Open Sept. 10

The Koch Club Men's Bowling League will open its 36th season Tuesday, Sept. 10, at 7 p.m. at the Quincy Wonder Bowl, 565 Southern Artery.

Members are reminded of the change in location but the same 7 p.m. starting time.

New bowlers are invited to join and participate in the league as regular or spare bowlers. The league will bowl three weeks for individual records and averages. At the end of three weeks teams will be established for the 1985-86 season.

Men interested in joining can attend the opening night activity on Sept. 10 or contact President Steve Mancuso of 91 Putnam St. for further information.

Wind-surfing On Cable Talk

This week's Cable Talk program will be an encore showing of the 1984 popular program on the sport of wind-surfing and hosted by sports enthusiast Diane Solander.

The program will look at the equipment that is used, lessons for beginners, and a very wet demonstration on wind-surfing by program host.

Cable Talk can be seen tonight (Thursday) on Ch. 3 at 9 p.m.

At Marina Bay

Squantum Man Wins $1,000 Treasure Hunt Prize

A Squantum man won $1000 in the 1st annual Boston Harbor Island Treasure Hunt sponsored by Marina Bay.

Ken Johnson, who captained the 20-foot Wellcraft powerboat "Coconut Telegraph", and the first place team, joined 275 other enthusiastic participants in 59 boats as they completed the treasure hunt of facts, features, myths and trivia of the Islands Saturday.

Starting their day at 8 a.m. they handed in the 100 written questions, then they scrambled around the harbor to answer the final 10 questions. These questions included clues at the John F. Kennedy Library, the USS Constitution and climbing through the Corridor of Dungeons at Georges Island.

The questions were printed in the Aug. 1 edition of The Quincy Sun.

Those who were really serious about winning enlisted a fleet of boats. Johnson, upped his odds by recruiting four other boats and 20 people to hunt down the clues.

Jack Waters of Dorchester, captain of a 27-foot Boston Whaler "SeaQuest" and the second-place team, put two boats and eight heads together to win $300.

(Quincy Sun photo by Fred Robertson)

Each third place team was awarded $100. They were: Al Shaughnessy, Jr., "Hi Neighbor IV," Robert Desmond, "Spitfire", Michael O'Connell, "Gringo", George Dolbec "Willy the Whaler", and Bill Currier, "Evergreen".

The purpose of the hunt, said Dusty Rhodes, director of marketing for Marina Bay, was "to heighten awareness and appreciation of the Boston Harbor Islands and offer an activity that's fun as well as challenging."

Everyone agreed the game did all that. To enter one must have answered as many questions as possible from the list of 100 questions on the application. On Saturday, participants after turning in the completed questions on the application, received their final list of clues. The questions were worth one point; the clues for Saturday's hunt were worth 10 points.

Judges for the contest were Larry Corbeil, President of O'Connell Brothers Construction; Larry Creedon, Development Director, World Trade Center in Boston; Karen O'Donnell, Volunteer, Friends of the Boston Harbor Islands, and Dusty Rhodes, Treasure Hunt Director.

Prizes were awarded by Bill O'Connell, Chief Executive Officer of O'Connell Brothers Construction.

QYH Offering 6 $500 Scholarships

Quincy Youth Hockey Association is once again offering six $500 scholarships to present and former members who are now attending post secondary schools.

Applications are available at Quincy Youth Arena and must be returned by Sept. 1. All former applicants who were not winners are welcome to apply again.

For further information call Lorraine Rooney at 479-8371.

North Soccer Physicals

All North Quincy varsity and junior varsity soccer candidates will report to the gym for physicals on Saturday at 8 a.m.

Physicals are mandatory before starting practice Monday.

Roller Skating Rink Admission Law Repealed

The 80-year old prohibition on admission of children to roller skating rinks will be repealed under new legislation effective this month, according to Senator Paul D. Harold.

The law, passed in 1906, prohibited children from roller skating rinks between the hours of 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. Harold noted that this was amended in 1968 to allow children over age 12, and those under 12 if accompanied by a parent or guardian.

The new law removes the reference to skating rinks, but retains the prohibition on admission of children under age 15 to public halls "in which dancing is practiced" unless accompanied by a parent of guardian.

The dancing ban does not apply to dances conducted by charitable, religious, school groups or clubs, Sen. Harold noted.

STARSCOPE

by Clare Annswell

WEEK OF: AUGUST 22

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

This is the week to get on with creative plans. Family gives blessing to a new friend, and disputes begin to diminish at the workplace. Cultural events are highlighted.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Avoid finding yourself on the defensive and keep informed of happenings in the workplace and in the community. You may be assuming a leadership role after the weekend.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Week includes a mixture of lighthearted social events and challenging tasks. Family member is surprisingly supportive. New acquaintance may ask for an unusually large favor.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

This is the week to experiment with new approaches as friends and higher ups are generally responsive. Avoid experimentation in the food department as you're too creative for your own good.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

You have a tendency to volunteer for too many assignments, so think again before making major commitments. Youngsters prove good friends. Weekend focuses on new interests.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Although the week appears quiet, behind-the-scenes much is happening on your behalf. Supervisors are taking note of your style, and admirer is planning the next move.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Week focuses on tried-and-true approaches to love, career, and friendship. In finance especially, avoid impulsive moves. Travel and business blend better than ever.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

A quick-paced, highly eventful week, but allow time to review health needs of family. Romantic setback is reversed after the weekend. Avoid taking "hot tips" too seriously.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Week sees you changing opinions, especially about new acquaintances. Social agenda is unexpectedly lively. If planning a trip check all details, no matter how minuscule.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Personal magnetism is strong and you may be taking on the role of public speaker. Tough money decision may face you. New area of study - perhaps psychology - should be explored.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

You prove a loyal and understanding friend and family member. Property transactions may move more quickly than expected. Watch out for tiny jealousies in career environment.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Business ideas are shrewd but may not be ready for implementation. Romance prospects brighten when you become more sharing. Kind words flow from a highly respected individual.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You tend to worry about little things and sometimes underestimate your talents. These talents are often extraordinary. If you understand the depth of your resourcefulness, the extent of your dependability, you could make this a highly successful year.

BORN THIS WEEK

August 22nd, actress Valerie Harper. 23rd, dancer Gene Kelly. 24th, actor Dennis James. 25th, actor Sean Connery. 26th, poet Carla Ricci. 27th, actress Martha Raye. 28th, dancer Donald O'Connor.

Special Programming On Sun Ch. 8

Quincy Sun Ch. 8 continues its special programs schedule this week while the Video News Report team takes a vacation.

The Video News Report will resume Monday, Aug. 26 at 5:30 and 7:30 p.m.

The special program scheduled for last night (Wednesday) at 5:30 p.m. was "A Tribute To Fr. Joseph Downey."

The pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point, is honored on the 40th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

Tonight (Thursday) at 5:30 p.m. "The Best of Summerfest, '85" will be featured.

On Friday at 5:30 p.m., The Home Run Road Race will be shown.

Women Giving Away Success 'Psychology Tonight' Topic

Dr. Susan Schenkel, author of Giving Away Success: Why Women Get Stuck and What To Do About It, will join host Tim Lynch of Psychology Tonight Wednesday, Aug. 28 at 8:30 p.m. on Quincy Cable.

Host Tim Lynch and Dr. Schenkel will discuss the tendency of some women to degrade their success by denying that it is a result of ability and putting it down to a matter of luck and also the effect of socialization on women entering the business world and how this discounting of their abilities and successes causes problems in their careers.

Also discussed will be current role models for girls growing up in today's society and ways to get over the socialized feelings of helplessness that some women possess.

There are features on your television that you don't even know about.

Beau Bridges in "United States"

Lena Horne in concert

The Borgias

Shaun Cassidy in "Breaking Away"

And they're all on A&E® Features like "The Borgias."

The epic story of Renaissance Italy's most feared family, filmed at over 50 locations throughout Europe.

You'll see "Breaking Away," the series that picks up where the movie left off. Starring Shaun Cassidy as Dave, the bicycle-riding lover of all things Italian.

From the creator of "M*A*S*H" and "Tootsie," A&E proudly presents, "United States." Beau Bridges stars in this modern look at man's oldest institution: marriage.

You'll also discover Lena Horne in concert, award-winning stage presentations and comedies, classic movies like "Spitfire" starring David Niven and "That Uncertain Feeling" with Melvyn Douglas. In fact, the only way to appreciate such an incredible variety of programs is to take a look at A&E.

And surprise your eyes.

General Dynamics, Howard Johnson United Way 'Pacesetters'

General Dynamics, Quincy Shipbuilding Division, and Howard Johnson Company of North Quincy are now running "Pacesetter" fund-raising campaigns for the United Way of Massachusetts Bay.

Employees at the companies will "set the pace" prior to the annual fund-raising drive that aims to raise $39 million during the United Way's 50th anniversary year.

General Dynamics, led by "keyperson" LeRoy E. Bennett, will aim to surpass last year's performance as Pacesetters. Supporting the drive are Union Locals 5 and 90, I.U.M.S.W.A., AFL-CIO, and Local 151, I.F.E.P.T., AFL-CIO.

Howard Johnson Company, an award-winning Pacesetter for the past two years, is being led by keyperson Linda A. Fasoli.

This year's Pacesetters, comprised of 34 corporations and nonprofit organizations, involve about 49,000 local employees, the largest group in the program's history.

In 1983, more than 23,200 individuals and families in Quincy were served by 64 United Way agencies. These agencies include: Domestic Violence Ended (DOVE); American Red Cross, South Shore Chapter (serves 11 communities); Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore; Quincy Visiting Nurse Association; South Shore YMCA (serves 10 communities); South Shore Council on Alcoholism (serves the entire South Shore); Salvation Army, Corps Community Center; Family Service Association of Greater Boston, South Boston Legal Services, Quincy Office; Catholic Charitable Bureau of Boston; Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, South Shore District; South Shore Day Care Services (serves 8 communities); and the South Area Jewish Community Center (Combined Jewish Philanthropies).

Hurley

Insurance Wins Aetna Award

The Hurley Insurance Agency, with offices in Quincy and Braintree, has been named to Aetna Life & Casualty's 1985 Great Performance Club.

The honor is reserved for Aetna's top commercial agencies across the country. The Hurley Agency has been insuring South Shore businesses and individuals since 1940.

$5,500 Approved For Serpos Clinic Expansion

Mayor Francis X. McCauley and Councillor Michael T. Cheney announce that the Bank of Boston Serpos Trust has approved a distribution from the trust in the amount of $5,500 for the expansion and renovation of the Elizabeth Serpos Clinic in Houghs Neck.

The late Mr. Serpos, a long time resident of Houghs Neck, set up the trust in memory of his wife. The income from the Trust has provided medical and dental services to Houghs Neck residents for many years.

Dr. James Will, a Quincy dentist, is Director of the Dental Clinic. The clinic is open two afternoons and two evenings a week and has six part-time employees.

The expansion will allow the clinic to provide both new full and partial dentures service. All Houghs Neck residents are eligible to utilize the Serpos Clinic services.

The management of the proceeds of the Trust fund is vested in an ex-officio Board of Managers consisting of the Mayor, Chairman of the Board of Managers of the Quincy Hospital, the Superintendent of Schools, the City Solicitor and the City Treasurer.

No Solution On Shelter For Homeless

the services they represent is vital and cannot be sacrificed. By no means is a Police Headquarters or Animal Shelter more of a moral imperative than preventing homeless people from freezing to death, however, my responsibility to the citizens and taxpayers of Quincy is to see that public facilities; i.e., water mains, sewers, roads, bridges, and buildings are functioning and able to help provide the services the taxpayers deserve. An addition of a new facility on this site will negatively impact my ability to perform my duty.

At an earlier meeting Tuesday, the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association voted to oppose the granting of a license for the renovation of the Foster St. Knights of Columbus building as a shelter for Quincy's homeless.

But the QCBPA also voted to support an alternative site for the controversial shelter—a site behind the Quincy Police Station, near the city Department of Public Works, and to appoint a committee to work with the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition to find financial support for it.

Steve Gillig, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association scheduled the meeting two hours before the License Board was to vote on the issue.

At that meeting Gillig allowed Nancy Powers, executive director of the sheltering coalition to address the group at the meeting which was held in the director's room at South Shore Bank.

With Powers were coalition members Rev. Frederick Barr of Our Lady of Counsel parish, Mrs. Sheila McIntyre, wife of the late Mayor-Senator James McIntyre, Rev. William McCarthy, pastor of St. John's Church and Atty. Matthew McDonnell, counsel for the Coalition.

Powers told them that the coalition is a group comprised of 45 churches, seven social agencies and area residents who organized two years ago to help the homeless and hungry of the Greater Quincy area. She explained that this area includes the neighboring communities of Braintree, Weymouth, and Milton.

The Knights of Columbus Building on Foster St., in downtown Quincy Center of which the businessmen are opposed as a site for the homeless, was given to the Coalition by the K of C rent free for one year.

Powers told the businessmen that if the Coalition is allowed to use that building as a shelter, it will cost between $30,000 and $40,000 to renovate.

She added that the Coalition had hoped to win approval so that the building would be ready for winter occupancy on a 24-hour basis.

Several businessmen questioned what would happen if more people came to the Shelter than could be accommodated. Powers said if that happened they would be relocated to other centers outside Quincy.

Powers again stated to the group that "these people are already in Quincy whether we have a shelter or not."

Soon after Gillig called for the QCBPA group to continue the morning meeting in executive session.

The summary of that closed meeting was the opposition by the group to the Foster St. location and support for the Public Works area site.

Blood Pressure Screening At Hospital

Quincy City Hospital will conduct free blood pressure screening for the public Tuesday, Sept. 3, 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., in the Ambulatory Care Department.

The screenings, performed by nursing staff, will enable individuals to keep track of their blood pressure, and be aware of dangerous elevations in the pressure. Referral to a physician will be made.

The screenings will take place the first and third Tuesday of every month.

Yacht Club Permit Denied

Wollaston Yacht Club's request for one coin operated pool table and two coin operated video machines was denied at Tuesday's License Board hearing at City Hall.

This was the second hearing at which again no one from the Yacht Club appeared.

The Yacht Club is located on Quincy Shore Drive on Wollaston Beach.

Sun Telethon Pledge Center For 9th Year

The Quincy Sun for the ninth consecutive year will be the Quincy-South Shore area pledge center for the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon this Labor Day weekend.

The telethon committee has raised $792,679 the past eight years and hopes to bring that figure up to between $850,000 and $900,000 this year.

Last year the Quincy-South Shore Telethon Committee raised $113,845 of which $73,590 was from pre-telethon events, $34,844 in telethon pledges and $5,411 in the fishbowl.

Extra telephones will be installed in The Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Sq. to take donation pledges from the Quincy-South Shore area beginning Sunday night at 9 p.m.

The special number to call to make a pledge is the same as the last few years: 328-6622.

Volunteers will man the phones on various shifts during the Jerry Lewis Telethon which will be carried by WCVB-TV (Ch. 5) over the Labor Day weekend.

Activities at the Quincy Sun pledge center will be carried over a cable television network to nine South Shore communities via American Cable-systems.

The telecast will be carried live on Ch. 3 and Quincy Sun Ch. 8 in Quincy and on Ch. 8 in Milton and Randolph from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Labor Day.

It will be seen by delay video tape starting at 2 p.m. in Scituate, Cohasset, Hull, Hingham, Hanover and Norwell.

On camera hosts will be Sun publisher Henry Bosworth and Richard Koch, Sr., executive secretary of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board who are co-chairmen of the Quincy South-Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee and the Sun Ch. 8 newsteam, John Noonan, Leslie Thompson and Frank Cammarata.

Quincy radio station WJDA (1300) will carry live progress reports every half-hour from the pledge center starting at 7 a.m. Labor Day. Roy Lind, Win Bettinson, Charles Ross and Mike Ellis will be behind the microphone.

After Save Our Jobs Rally:

Shipyard Workers Hopeful

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

One of the heaviest hitting political lineups ever seen here promised Quincy Shipyard workers they would do everything they could to try to keep the Quincy yard open as a shipbuilding facility.

The likes of Senators Edward Kennedy and John Kerry and Congressmen Brian Donnelly and Gerry Studds as well as Governor Michael Dukakis were among those who addressed a crowd of shipyard workers and others on McIntyre Mall Monday afternoon under intermittent rain.

They left the shipyard workers cautiously hopeful that something can be done to keep the yard - once called the U.S. Navy's right arm - open for shipbuilding.

Police estimated the crowd at 400 at the rally, organized by Save Our Shipyard, a committee comprised of local and state labor leaders and area politicians.

Their efforts are in reaction to an announcement by General Dynamics that it will close the Quincy shipyard next spring due to lack of shipbuilding contracts.

SEN. TED KENNEDY

"I will speak to whoever I can, whether it is the secretary of the Navy, the secretary of Defense, or the president of the United States."

Both major mayoral candidates termed the rally a success.

Sen. Kennedy, who called the Quincy yard "the finest shipyard in the country," pledged to take the rally's message all the way to the White House:

$30,000 Appropriation Order For Dead Tree Removal

Mayor Francis X. McCauley announces that he will submit an appropriation order for $30,000 to the City Council Tuesday, Sept. 3, for the removal of dead trees throughout the city.

For the past several weeks, the mayor has been visiting Quincy neighborhoods and the biggest single problem has been citizens concerns over dead trees, he says.

The appropriation order, if passed by the Council, would allow the Park and Forestry Department to contract out the removal of large dead trees. Smaller dead trees would be removed by the personnel of the Park and Forestry Department.

There are over 120 large dead trees on the Park and Forestry Department list for removal.

Completion Date For Former Elks Building Sept. 15

The $1.7 million renovation project of the former Quincy Elks' Lodge at 1212 Hancock St., is scheduled to be finished by Sept. 15.

According to Robert S. Conrad, a leasing agent for Coldwell Banker, renovations include construction of a nearby parking lot and interior alterations to conform with zoning laws. "We're turning it into a first-class office space," Conrad said.

Of 34,000 total square feet available, 10,000 square feet has been leased so far. Renters include a social service agency, Kwik-Copy copying Center and QPA Personnel Consultants.

Conrad said the tenants will be moving in between now and next June.

The four-story building was erected in 1924 and is located directly across from the Quincy Center MBTA station.

The American Land Company of Cambridge, purchased the former lodge in January from the Elks.

Developers are the Vanlander Association, a division of American Land Co.

Part Of $1 Million Project

Chestnut St. Work To Be Completed Soon

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Work could be completed as early as Friday on Chestnut St., Quincy Sq., which has been blocked to traffic while the sidewalks are reconstructed and street resurfaced.

The work is part of a 58-street, city-wide project which will cost about $1 million, according to David Colton, DPW deputy commissioner.

The Chestnut St. work, from Dennis Ryan Parkway to Hancock St., will cost about $85,000, he said. If weather is a factor, it could be next Wednesday before that work is done.

Cost of the project is 100 percent reimbursable from the state under Chapter 90, said Colton.

The project which Derbes Brothers of Quincy began in late May, should be completed by the end of October, according to Colton.

Work has been completed in North Quincy, Wollaston and Quincy Point, said

Colton, and is still underway in West Quincy.

Next on the list will be more streets in Quincy Center, followed by Houghs Neck, Germantown, Adams Shore and Merrymount.

The city saved a few years worth of its chapter 90 allotment to finance the work, according to Colton.

Highway Supt. Robert Federico did a complete inspection of the city's streets, and selected those in the worst condition for repair, Colton said.

Similar work on a smaller scale may take place next year, he said.

Plans also call for Water St., from Franklin St. to Quincy Ave., to be totally reconstructed and new traffic signals installed next spring. According to Colton.

Other streets slated for work in the current project

- Rock Island Road (No. 151 Rock Island Road to Marine St.)

- Palmer St. (Snug Harbor School to, and including, Rotary)

- West Squantum St. (Water Break)

- Dimmock St. (Hancock St. to Euclid Ave.)

- Glendale Rd. (Upland Road to Dimmock St.)

- Everett St. (Beale St. to Hillside Ave.)

- Reardon St. (gravel section off Reardon St.)

- Gardiner Road

- Marion St.

- Alstead St.

Work has already been completed on: Newcomb St., Brackett St., East Squantum St. (Faxon Road to Quincy Shore Drive), Belmont St. (Beale St. to South Central Ave.), Huchins Ave. (corner of Essex St. East Squantum St. to Huchins Ave., East Squantum intersection; Federal Ave., (Independence Ave. to Water St.); Hyde St.; Baxter St.; Faxon Lane (Water St. to Blanchard Rd.); Bent Terrace; Phipps St.; Summit Ave.; Fort St.; Hillside Ave.; Nelson St.; Buckley St.; Bates Ave.; Grove St. (Ferriter St. to Bryant Ave.); Mullin Ave.; O'Connell Ave. (Bates Ave. to Mullin Ave.); Minihan's Lane, Forest Ave., Wren Terrace (Partial); Winthrop Ave.; Prospect Ave.; Lincoln Ave.; Landers Road; Sharon Road; Dean Road; Surfside Lane; Bay St.; Sunrise Road; Bellevue Road (Huckins Ave. to Crabtree Road); Winslow Road (gravel section); Sonoma Road (East Squantum St. to Bellevue Road).

Gas Station Held Up

An attendant at Kertzman's Mobil Station, 451 Quincy Ave., was held up by an armed robber who handed him a note which said "This is a stick-up. Give me your money. I have a gun."

The robber got away with about $100, said police, and the attendant was not injured in the Sunday incident.

Attendant Edward Inglis,

22, of Greenleaf St., Quincy Center, described the robber as a 28 year old black male with an Afro, about 5 feet, 10 inches tall, medium weight, wearing a tan trench coat, pink pants, and white sneakers.

Inglis told police the robber showed a handgun from his right front pocket.

McCauley To Veto QCH PUD Zoning

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Mayor Francis McCauley said he will veto an order passed by the City Council which would rezone Quincy City Hospital land as Planned Unit Development.

McCauley said he will issue the first veto of his administration at a City Council meeting Tuesday, Sept. 3, starting at 6:30 p.m. at City Hall.

"My reason for this action is that if the land is rezoned prior to the commencement of the reconstruction which is now planned, that reconstruction would have to be carried out under the new rezoning designation of Planned Unit Development," said Mc-Cauley.

"It is my understanding based on public comments of councillors that this is not the intent of the City Council.

"The resulting delays caused by the PUD process would significantly increase the overall cost of the project.

"Although I did not support this order when it was before the Planning Board, I would not have vetoed it but for the unintended delays which will be caused if the rezoning is done prior to the commencement of construction."

McCauley explained that Planned Unit Development would mean that Planning Board and City Council meetings would have to be held any time there is a change in plans for replacement of a major portion of the hospital.

The council should have held off the action until after building permits were issued, said McCauley.

A home rule petition for a $75,000,000 bond issue for the work was approved by the council in May.

Hospital director Mark J. Mundy wrote to McCauley that he is "deeply concerned" that the ordinance will have a significant adverse affect on the timing of the hospital's major replacement project.

"It was our understanding that the PUD procedures would apply to the hospital only for projects begun after the major replacement was underway and not to the replacement project itself.

"If the PUD process, including public hearings and City Council actions, are applied to delay the sale of the bonds and the start of construction, the cost of the project would increase by about $175,000 per month beyond April 1, 1986, and the DON (legislation for bonding) approval could be jeopardized.

"Simply stated, the project cannot bear the additional delay and expense."

McCauley said the veto must lay on the table for seven days. The council could then override the veto with a two-thirds vote, he said.

A SMALL FIRE in the cellar of Old City Hall last Friday caused an estimated $300 damage. It was caused by careless disposal of smoking material according to the Fire Department.

City Hall Granite Marker Approved For McIntyre Honor

Plans to honor the late Mayor-Senator James R. McIntyre with a granite marker affixed to the front of old City Hall renaming it the James R. McIntyre Government Center were approved by the Quincy Historical Commission Monday night.

The marker will be located above the front door and at the second floor level.

The action followed a City Council resolution that called for "an appropriate memorial on City Hall" to McIntyre.

The commission was concerned that the building, built from Quincy granite in 1884 and listed in the national historical register, not be permanently altered.

Responding to an inquiry by Joyce Baker, head of the local commission, Julie Johnson of the Massachusetts Historical Commission said it was inappropriate to change the name or facade of the building.

However, Miss Johnson said a name change would not be grounds for removing the building from the historical register.

The local commission preferred the name not be cut into the granite facade. McIntyre Memorial Committee members agreed to the alternative.

Mrs. McIntyre called it a "happy compromise."

McIntyre Memorial Committee members who attended the committee meeting with Mrs. McIntyre were James J. Ricciuti, Peter O'Connell, and Sun publisher Henry Bosworth.

A dedication ceremony is scheduled for Nov. 3.

The mall in front of the new city hall is named in memory of McIntyre's father, Capt. William F. McIntyre, who served with the Quincy Police Department for 40 years.

Child Safety Tips For Working Parents

The Quincy-based South Shore chapter of the American Red Cross has available a child safety awareness kit for the working parent.

The kit was developed to help make children of working parents feel safer, while lessening the dangers of being home alone. Some tips included are:

- Hold regular fire drills with the oldest child in charge.
- Teach children how to dial emergency numbers, and have them practice giving directions to your house in the event of an emergency.

- Review standard safety rules.
- Instruct children not to tell callers they are alone.
- Warn children not to let strangers into the house for any reason.

Lady Luck

You might say Lady Luck has been hanging around Joanne Condon's mayoral campaign camp.

As far as the Sept. 10 preliminary election is concerned, anyway.

First of all, she nailed down a strategic second spot on the ballot in the position lottery while incumbent Francis McCauley landed in fifth—and last spot.

Second place may not be as good as first place (which went to Herman (Hank) Pasquerella) but it's not bad when you are considered the major challenger and voters are going to have to look for the incumbent down below.

More important than that, though, is that there's a good six-man preliminary election race for the Ward 6 City Council seat she is giving up to run for mayor. And, of course, Ward 6 is her stronghold.

The large field for the Ward 6 seat should generate a good voter turnout there.

McCAULEY

McCauley, on the other hand, has no ward council race in his home Ward 1 to help bring out voters there.

And, there are no City Council preliminary election races in Wards 2, 3, 4, 5, and nothing at-large. And, no School Committee contest.

So, McCauley has to pull the vote out himself. Question: how many voters will turn out just to cast a vote for one candidate in five wards?

Being the incumbent has its drawback in a situation like this. Most voters will consider McCauley a shoo-in for one of the nominations. Many of them who plan to vote for him will pass up the preliminary election figuring he doesn't need their vote and wait until the final election Nov. 5.

Even if they do stay home, there is little doubt McCauley will win one of the nominations.

But if a lot of those people do not bother to vote, it will give Condon a shot at topping the preliminary ballot.

CONDON

She thinks she can do it. A poll taken by the McCauley camp reportedly says she can't.

Topping the preliminary ballot, of course, is no guarantee a candidate will go on to win the final election. But it helps.

For a challenger topping the preliminary ballot or coming close it can mean a lot of prestige. But more importantly, more financial support.

People who financially back candidates are more generous with their bucks with winners or those who look like winners.

The closer Condon can come to McCauley in the preliminary election the better for her. And if she should take top spot, it could be a brand new ball game.

McCauley doesn't seem to be too upset over last place position on the ballot.

He's a firm believer that the last shall be first. To which Condon responds: Not always.

CITY COUNCIL President James Sheets is back from a white water canoeing trip in the rugged wilderness of Maine near the Canadian border.

The canoe was whipped around after hitting a boulder sideways tossing Sheets into the water and the strong current carried him 30 to 40 feet before he climbed to safety.

"I got a few bruises," he smiles. "But I think my pride was hurt more than my body."

SHEETS

MAYOR McCAULEY has taken an early lead in the preliminary election. His daughter, Jennifer, 18, cast an absentee ballot before returning to the American University in Washington, D.C., where she is a sophomore.

"She was the first to cast a ballot under the new punch card system," said McCauley.

Rape Crisis Expert Guest On 'Psychology Tonight'

Ronnie Ryback, Director of the Rape Crisis Intervention Program at Beth Israel Hospital, will join "Psychology Tonight" host Tim Lynch on the Wednesday, Sept. 4, program at 8:30 p.m. on Quincy Cable Ch. 3.

Host Lynch and Miss Ryback will discuss the problems faced by rape victims and their families, the process of reporting a rape, and the importance of counseling and support for victims and their families. Support is offered to victims of rape at centers such as the one at Beth Israel Hospital, which is in Boston, whether or not the victim decides to report the rape to police.

Also discussed will be safety and rape prevention, the court process and available support for victims during this procedure, and the personality characteristics of rapists.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

AVOID FINANCIAL HEADACHES

QUESTION: I have a good "gift of gab" selling plumbing supplies. Why shouldn't I sell my own home and save the commission.

ANSWER: It takes a lot more than a "gift of gab" to sell a home property today. It's a big financial undertaking and takes a lot of specialized education and financial training to prepare one's self to do the job professionally.

Realtors know that many sales are lost strictly for want of proper financing. They also know the intricate methods and sources of financing. Your home is probably your most valuable asset. The best way to sell it is the professional way — through a Realtor.

KNOWLEDGE OF FINANCING is vital in selling property in today's market. You can't rely on a "gift of gab."

Shipyard Workers Cautiously Hopeful

 shipbuilding contracts being sent overseas.
 "We have watched while the Navy is willing to subcontract ships to Korea, ships to Japan. I asked why?
 "We ought to be building those ships here. I'm going to go down to Washington with Sen. Kennedy when we reconvene and make every effort I can to see that we will change that policy that is willing to see American jobs go for the asking," said Kerry, a four year Navy veteran.
 "Your governor cares very deeply about you, about your family and the future of this state," said Gov. Michael Dukakis.
 "...Basic manufacturing industries are the bedrock of this country.
 "...I and every single person here will do everything we possibly can to work with our congressional delegation to see if we can't get this message through."
 Cong. Brian Donnelly said, "For well over 100 years, the world Quincy-Built has - not only in this nation but across the world - been synonymous with the word Quality-Built."
 "To allow that shipyard to die would be a crime, my friends. It is time we all pull together in solidarity because it is important to us, it is important to the nation."
 "...One thing that Quincy-Built also means is Quincy never gives up."
 Cong. Gerry Studds noted that there are 100,000 shipyard workers in this country, and 100,000 signatures were gathered on local petitions.

 "...In the last five years, 25 American shipyards have closed their doors. We don't want to see that happen here."
 State Rep. Robert Cerasoli said, "What means some-dead."
 Richard Piccuito, president of Local 5 of the Shipbuilding Union, said to the crowd, "We don't want public aid - we want our jobs. We want (the shipyard) to remain open and we don't want to take 'no' for an answer."
 "It is not reasonable or acceptable to let 100 years go down the drain when not every avenue has been explored, said Arthur thing is action, and action has started today. Anyone who talks about conversion is giving it up."
 Said State Rep. Thomas Brownell, "We will do everything in our power to reverse the negative thinking of General Dynamics executives."
 "What we have to do now is send a message to Washington that what we need is a sensible and sane policy for shipbuilding," said McCauley.
 McCauley also introduced Theodore Mann, mayor of Newton and president of the Massachusetts Mayor's Association which unanimously adopted a resolve supporting efforts to retain the shipyard for shipbuilding purposes.
 Mrs. Condon said, "Shipbuilding in Quincy is more than just a tradition. Now is no time to roll over and play

Osborne, president of the Mass. AFL-CIO.
 Mel King, who ran for Boston Mayor against Ray Flynn, said, "This is not just a Quincy issue, it is a working people's issue."
 The following also gave brief remarks, or were introduced, to the crowd, City Councillors Michael Cheney, Theodore DeCristofaro, John Lydon, Patricia Toland, Richard Koch, Joseph LaRaia, Rep. Michael Morrissey and a representative of Sen. Paul Harold.
 In addition, five other senators, and 13 other representatives had been slated to speak in the program which was shortened because of rain. Other union officials also spoke.

 Rev. Cornelius Heery, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, gave the invocation.
 After the meeting, Tony Svizzero, New England Regional Director of the Industrial Union of Marine Shipbuilding Workers of America, estimated that 4,000 to 5,000 workers would have attended the rally with their wives and children had the weather been better.

 "A lot of workers were sent home early from work because of the rain," he said.
 Arthur Batson, national president of the 18,000 member Shipbuilders Union, noted that it was "great to see the senators and congressmen who were able to make it."
 "Shipbuilding is very important to the country," said Batson, we can't let 5,000 to 6,000 workers go."
 Those numbers take on even more meaning when viewed in the context of individual shipyard workers such as Calvin Hathaway, 58, of Quincy.

 Hathaway started at the shipyard as a boiler maker apprentice in 1943 and is set to retire in six years.
 He and his wife, Maria, stood in the rain, huddled under an umbrella until the rally ended. They joined those who sang to a recording by Kate Smith of "God Bless America".
 "I came to the rally because it is important to me," said Hathaway simply.

The Campaign Trail

Koch Wants

Thomas P. Koch, candidate for Ward 6 city council, urges stricter enforcement of the leash law within the city.

In his house to house campaign, Koch said he has received numerous complaints from residents regarding the lax enforcement of the law.

"Many senior citizens," says Koch, "are afraid to walk to the local stores and bus stops because of the number of unleashed dogs."

"Many of the elderly avoid certain streets and even entire neighborhoods because of the threat of unrestrained dogs," continued Koch. "Safe streets for the senior citizens of the area, especially during the day when they must go shopping, should be a top priority."

Koch also received many comments regarding the leash law from parents of school age children. Many feel the need to drive or escort their children to and from school because of their children's fear of the dogs.

"With the opening of schools only a week away, the problem of unleashed dogs should be addressed quickly," said Koch.

Pasquerella Urges Action On 12 Issues

Herman Pasquerella, one of five mayoral contenders, lists 12 issues he feels are timely in the campaign and through a newsletter to the mayor has gone on notice as to what his position is on some of these issues.

They are:
-Put pressure on the MDC to operate that severely outdated treatment plant on Nut Island efficiently and effectively.

-Put pressure on the MDC to clean up Wollaston Beach so the people can enjoy it.

-Get guarantees that uninvited chlorine trucks rumbling through our streets and the chlorine tank sitting in our yard will not jeopardize the well-being of the citizens.

-Equalize the educational system in our city so that all of our students will receive a planned, sound and effective education.

-Treat our city employees with consideration

-Allow homeowners to put additions on their homes or build garages without an additional tax.

-Put pressure on Boston to prevent the transporting of unexploded bombs through our streets.

-Trim the grass around our public areas especially our honored and historic burial ground and City Hall.

-Eliminate the use of parking meters throughout the city on Saturday.

-Clean up our playgrounds and eliminate the weeds that have invaded, conquered and occupied our parks.

"No great city ever had a mediocre school system," he said. "There is money to pay General Dynamics $2.8 million a year, but the cupboard is bare for education."

"Mr. Mayor, you could be paying General Dynamics $53,846.00 a week for the next 10 years whether or not the yard exists in Quincy."

Ban Heavy Trucks From E Squantum St., Walsh Urges

John J. Walsh, candidate for Ward 6 City Councillor recently pledged that one of his first acts as councillor would be to introduce a resolution banning all heavy truck traffic on East Squantum St. between Quincy Shore Drive and Hancock St.

Speaking at a coffee hour held at the home of James and Patricia Knox on Colby Rd., Walsh said, "With the resurfacing of East Squantum St. this summer the City is actually encouraging this type of truck traffic. Just a few weeks ago, a large compressor slid from a truck marked 'Wide Load' near the corner of Bayfield Rd., luckily injury was averted," noted Walsh.

"With the Marina Bay construction project, heavy construction vehicles regularly use East Squantum St. as if it were an interstate highway, this cannot be tolerated. The Atlantic section of North Quincy is one of the City's most densely populated areas, and should not be subjected to such heavy and dangerous traffic," Walsh said.

When elected Ward 6 Councillor, Walsh said that, "The situation will be addressed immediately."

Nutley Wants Illegal Signs Investigated

Thomas J. Nutley, candidate for the Ward 6 City Council seat, has written to Mayor Francis McCauley asking him to conduct an immediate and personal investigation of the illegal placing of political signs in North Quincy.

"It took years to get the law passed which now is in effect and clearly states that political signs shall not be placed in residential areas until at least ten days before the primary election," said Nutley.

"That law has been brazenly ignored in North Quincy since early August providing an unfair advantage to some of the new candidates."

"While the issue may at first appear to be only minor, it really is important. Years ago communities were littered by thousands of ugly political signs on lawns, walls, telephone poles etc., for those many months prior to the elections much to the disgust of the residents. That's why the proposed law was so enthusiastically supported by the people and eventually signed into law," said Nutley.

"I don't think any community wants to allow political candidates to restart that ugliness. Therefore, I urge you (Mayor McCauley) to take immediate action to investigate this situation and have the proper punishment imposed so that future political candidates will be deterred from indulging in similar arrogant and selfish practices," concluded Nutley.

Proposed MBTA Cards Increase Opposed By Lydon

Councillor John J. Lydon, Jr., has written to the MBTA to voice his "strong opposition" to the proposed increase in cost for Senior Citizen ID cards from 50 cents to $3.

"The proposed increase is prohibitive and, in some cases, a hardship to our elders," stated Lydon.

"More than 20 percent of Quincy residents are over 65 years of age and the majority of them depend entirely upon public transportation.

"As you are aware, the legislature approves the MBTA budget. I am certain that the members of the legislature will not support such an increase to our senior citizens."

Quincy Nursing Home Graduates Six Assistants

Quincy Nursing Home recently graduated six nursing assistants to rehabilitation aide positions.

They are: Kathy Wagner, Lisa Keefe, Diane Smith, Mary Shafer, and Robin Raleigh, all of Quincy, and Hanna Lyne of North Weymouth.

The "rehab aides" completed an intensive program to become specialists in geriatric rehabilitation. They assist the occupational therapists, physical therapists, and dietary consultants in a variety of programs which emphasize independence in activities of daily living for residents.

The course was implemented by Kohar Zakarian, R.N., Staff Development Coordinator.

"Rehab aide" programs will be continued until all interested nursing assistants have the opportunity to become rehabilitative aides. The next course will be offered in September.

Computer Awareness Workshop At Library

Participants of the recent 4-H Computer Awareness Workshop at the Quincy Public Library had a chance to meet Minotaurs, Satyrs, and Scorpions.

The participants developed their computer skills while engaging in battle with the mythological creatures using computers provided by the Massachusetts 4-H Foundation.

4-H agent Susan Staniewicz McAlpine said the program was an attempt to familiarize young people with computer components, learn basic commands and reinforce decision-making skills by playing adventure games.

One of the major goals of the 4-H program is to present new experiences for children ages 8 to 19.

For more information regarding the 4-H program, contact the 4-H Office, 460 Main St., Walpole 02081, telephone 668-0268 or 762-2031.

Foster St. Homeless Shelter Is Favored By McCauley

Mayor Francis McCauley said the decision on whether or not to locate a shelter for the homeless in Quincy Center rests with the License Board which meets Tuesday, Sept. 3, at 10 a.m.

But he thinks the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition should have an opportunity to set up the shelter at the Foster St. Knights of Columbus building and see how it works.

"If the License Board approves that location, we will monitor it closely," said McCauley.

"The burden will be on the coalition to run a shelter that will not interfere with businesses and the nearby apartments.

"The (rent free) year lease would give a good amount of time to see how it works.

"The only way to know is to try. If it is run well - everyone is happy.

"If not, we'll take steps. "But they ought to have the opportunity to try."

McCauley said he did not think it would interfere with shopping in Quincy Square because it is not in the heart of the downtown area. Foster St. is located between Chestnut and Washington Sts.

Edward Percy, owner of Miller Studio which abuts the proposed location on Foster St., said that he is still opposed to that site as a shelter for the homeless.

Percy claims that McCauley is disregarding concerns of merchants and backing a plan to make downtown Quincy a "dumping ground" for homeless people from surrounding towns.

He said he is thinking of moving his business out of Quincy.

Asked whether Percy would pursue his opposition in court, he replied, "There is nothing definite on my course of action at this time."

Also opposed to the Foster St. location is the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

The QCBPA did favor an alternative shelter location near the city public works garage, but that idea was opposed by DPW Commr. Paul Anderson.

Anderson said he opposed that location because it is not compatible with residential use.

Piano Learning Center Offering New QJC Program

The Piano Learning Center in Squantum, which two years ago pioneered in this area the use of electronic pianos for group instruction, announces a new program for this fall in cooperation with Quincy Junior College.

The Piano Learning Center is offering a Beginning Piano course for which college credits can be earned.

Quincy Junior College is believed to be the first educational institution of its kind to grant college credit for piano lessons.

"The fact that piano lessons qualify for college credits may seem unusual," Margot S. Herbert, owner of the Piano Learning Center, says. "But when asked about this, I like to quote Dr. Frank Wilson of the University of California School of Medicine who says, 'Music is a blend of scientific, artistic, and physical disciplines—a kind of basic schooling for the brain.'"

"Dr. Wilson, assistant clinical professor of neurology, has found in his investigations a correlation between music study and muscular development, physical coordination, a sense of timing, mental concentration, the ability to hold up under stress, memory skills, and vocal, visual and aural development. Wilson began taking piano lessons at age 40."

"The primary motivation, though, is the pleasure derived from music study. Our piano students enjoy a sense of accomplishment, and their practice time at home is a respite from day-to-day routine and stress," added Mrs. Herbert.

"In our Squantum studio, classes are small—four or five students—and each student has the use of a full-size Baldwin electronic piano. These instruments are equipped with headsets which give beginning players privacy; they can hear their own pianos, but not those of the rest of the class. When headsets are worn, the teacher monitors each student from a central control panel at her 'desk', which is actually an electronic piano, too.

"The advantage of this arrangement is that students receive comprehensive music instruction, including music theory, while actually learning to play the piano, which is more interesting than classroom instruction with books and blackboards only."

Instructor for the Beginning Piano course is Lynn Salmonsens of Boston, who received a Bachelor of Music degree from Hartt School of Music, University of Hartford. She has also studied at Boston University, and will soon complete her graduate work at the Longy School of Music. She is a regular member of the staff at the Piano Learning Center.

Quincy Junior College piano classes will be held at 747 East Squantum St., Squantum, Wednesday evenings, beginning Sept. 11. For more information call 786-8652.

South Shore Security Moves To Federal Ave.

South Shore Security Systems Inc., which provides security personnel for private companies and government agencies, has relocated to 18 Federal Ave., Quincy.

The new headquarters, formerly the Stonecutters Union Building, centralizes the company's general administrative offices, communication center and training classrooms.

Director Frank Froio said the new training center will provide instruction in mobile patrol, interior and exterior building patrol, surveillance, security patrol report writing and other security procedures for the company's 100 member security task force.

"The new office space will allow us to provide a more comprehensive training program for our security personnel," Froio said. "A training program is the one most important element in the operation of an effective security system. It is essential to have well trained security personnel on each security site."

Froio and his wife

NEW HEADQUARTERS—South Shore Security has moved its headquarters to 18 Federal Ave., Quincy. The company moved from 29 Cottage Ave.

Dr. Ofelia Villanueva Appointed JMH Dental Hygienist

Ofelia Veluz Villanueva, D.M.D., of Quincy, has been appointed Jewish Memorial Hospital's new dental hygienist, enlarging the hospital's dental services for patients.

The Massachusetts Board of Registration in Dentistry has given Dr. Villanueva a license to practice in a hospital.

"If they can't come to the clinic, I go to their bedsides to evaluate, clean and swab," she said of her patients at the hospital. "Some are in wheelchairs, some in stretchers."

Besides practicing dental hygiene, she also evaluates patients who need dental examinations.

Dr. Villanueva is developing an in-service education program for the patient and hospital staff, working with Dr. Philip J. Burkat, D.D.S., Chief of Dental Services at Jewish Memorial Hospital (JMH), which is located in Boston.

"It's good that I can finally practice my profession," she said. "This is the first time I've ever worked in geriatrics. I want to show that I can do well."

Dr. Villanueva is a native of the Philippines where she practiced dentistry for nearly five years.

According to Dr. Villanueva, the contrasts in geriatric care between the United States and the Philippines are startling.

"There are no chronic hospitals or nursing homes in the Philippines," she said. "Homes for the aged are in the process of being expanded. Generally, the elderly are taken care of by a member of the family, since Filipinos are noted for close family ties."

Dr. Villanueva has taken continuing education courses at the dental schools of Boston University, Tufts University, and Harvard University.

She is a wife and mother of four children.

MEET ONE OF YOUR FELLOW COMMUTERS.

Introducing the Airport Water Shuttle. The fast way to commute between the South Shore and Logan or Boston.

From the South Shore, the Water Shuttle beats Expressway traffic to the airport. At Logan, a free shuttle bus takes you right to your airline terminal.

The Water Shuttle features big, comfortable commuter boats with lots of seating. And a "galley" that offers refreshments and newspapers.

Just drive to Marina Bay in Squantum or Pemberton Pier in Hull. You'll find plenty of free parking. And then it's easy sailing to Logan with a stop in downtown Boston.

The fare to Logan is $6.50 one way. Discount commuter books are available.

Why flounder around in traffic? Take the Airport Water Shuttle.

For more information call Marina Bay Commuter at 328-0600 or Bay State-Provincetown Cruises at 732-7800.

Quincy Camp Fire will hold their annual Registration Night Wednesday, Sept. 11, from 7 to 8 p.m., at United First Parish Church, 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Center. Representatives of Camp Fire will be on hand to answer questions. A brief slide presentation will give an overview of the Camp Fire program.

Registration will be accepted for girls of kindergarten age for Sparks, in grades 1 through 3 for Blue Birds, and grades 4 through 6 for Adventurers.

Camp Fire offers a wide variety of citywide activities, which will this year include a Square Dance, Bowl-a-Thon, Splash Party, Sock Hop, trips to Roger Williams Zoo and the Statue of Liberty, and camping.

In addition, members meet in small clubs for arts and crafts, skill building, and field trips.

Members earn emblems of achievement as they progress in the Camp Fire program.

For more information, call Fran Meade at 770-2135 or Brenda Chin at 479-1577.

Explore All Avenues For Shipyard Says Sheridan

Richard Sheridan of North Quincy, one of six candidates seeking the Ward 6 council seat, has called for an exhaustive effort to explore all avenues to keep shipbuilding continuing in Quincy.

Sheridan said in a campaign statement that the labor force at the shipyard is being punished for the past sins of GD management.

He also observed that some shipbuilding is being lost to an overseas market. "Korea now builds about 20 percent of the world's gross tonnage and its shipyards are booked with work. Other U.S. shipyards have more work than they can handle. Let's grab the bull by the horns and spread this work out among all the shipyards in the U.S."

Sheridan contends that the Quincy yard is not offering a premium service at competitive rates. "Customers today are more price conscious than service conscious; they are willing to wait a little longer for something that is less expensive."

He also touched on the financial overhead GD shoulders at the yard, and adds these suggestions as a possible solution.

"How can we reduce this overhead in an effort to compete in the shipbuilding market? One idea would be to identify one or more revenue producing markets—such as the manufacturing of double-stack container rail cars, and the involvement of updating conventional rail tracks that criss-cross coast-to-coast with a redesigned track which would safely carry new transporting carriers currently using old track.

"If General Dynamics can target itself into other revenue producing markets then I feel they can be one of the most competitive shipyards in the U.S." Sheridan said.

Quincy Arts Lottery Fund Recipients Announced

The Quincy Arts Lottery Council announces that a number of artists and cultural groups have been granted Arts Lottery funds for the July, 1985 funding cycle through certification by the Massachusetts Arts Lottery Council.

They are:
Parents for art, Quincy

Symphony Orchestra, Wollaston Glee Club of Quincy, Kathleen M. Webb, Quincy Public Schools Council for the Arts, The Scarborough Chamber Players, Quincy High School Alumni Band, Quincy Arts Association, Trudy Dirksmeier, Quincy South Shore Cultural Commission, and South Shore Center for the Blind.

Also, Quincy Choral Society, FOLIO, Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore, John McDonald Jr. and Quincy Community Theatre, Elaine Bonnie Opie, The Pilgrim Review, City of Quincy Dept. of Planning and Community Development, Consortium of Quincy Historical and Community Organizations, Quincy

Historical Society, and Diane Purdy Theriault.

In all 22 grants totalling $20,007 will be distributed for the July, 1985 cycle.

The Massachusetts Arts Lottery Council will again be distributing $1.5 million in January of 1986. It is anticipated that Quincy's allotment of the Massachusetts Arts Lottery Council funds for this cycle will be $20,000.

Applications are now available for the January, 1986 funding cycle. Applications and information can be obtained by writing to Quincy Arts Council, c/o The Mayor's Office, City Hall, Hancock St., Quincy, 02169.

Applications must be type-written and received no later than Sept. 30.

Maria D'Arcangelo To Teach Jazzercise In Italy

Dance Centre South of Norwell and Quincy announces that one of its directors, Maria D'Arcangelo, has been invited to guest teach a jazzercise clinic in Taranto, Italy.

Miss D'Arcangelo, a Quincy resident, believes she is the first to introduce jazzercise to that area. She said that while there are many dance studios and "workout" centers in southern Italy, this is the first time that dance and exercise will be incorporated into one class.

Miss D'Arcangelo, a former apprentice for the Boston Ballet Co. and former dancer for the Nassau Civic Ballet Co., is co-director of Dance Center South.

She is also a foreign language teacher at North Quincy High School.

Capt. William Humiston Completes Course

Air Force Capt. Willis J. Humiston, son of Vera A. Humiston of 125 Granite St., Quincy, has completed the Defense Department public affairs officer course at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

During the course, students were trained in various aspects of print and broadcast journalism and public affairs management. The course work consisted of news and broadcast writing, editing and photography. The students also studied the organization of American government, foreign policy, speech and community relations.

Humiston is scheduled to serve at Kelly Air Force Base, Tex.

He is a 1984 graduate of St. Anselm College, Manchester, N.H.

Michele Saltzman On Dean's List

Michele Saltzman of Wollaston has been named to the Ohio Wesleyan University Dean's List for the spring semester of 1985.

A student must achieve a semester grade point average of 3.50 or better in at least three unit courses to qualify for this high honor.

Saltzman, a junior majoring in International Studies and Spanish attended North Quincy High School.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred A. Saltzman of 33 Cheriton Road.

License Board To Vote On Homeless Shelter Sept. 3

The License Board is expected to decide the fate of a proposed shelter for the homeless when it meets Tuesday, Sept. 3, at 10 a.m.

The meeting, in the City Council Chambers at City Hall, will be the board's first regularly scheduled meeting since the summer recess.

The Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition, a group of 45 churches, social and civic agencies, and area residents, requested to use the Knights of Columbus Building at 25 Foster St., Quincy Center, as a shelter, but area business opposed that location.

Other items on the agenda are:

- Continued hearing regarding Midas Muffler, 82-104 McGrath Highway.

- Continued hearing on the request from Richard A. Toma of 65 Sherbrook Ave., Braintree, for a Motor II license for New England Auto Exchange, 517 Quincy Ave.

- Request from Mrs. Maryann Flukes of Wollas-ton, for a Tag Day license for Friday, Oct. 18, and Saturday, Oct. 19.

- Request from Professional Secretaries International, sponsor of an Art Auction and Sale at the National Fire Protection Association Headquarters, Batterymarch Park, for a one day liquor license for Friday, Sept. 13.

- Request from Denel Santa Lucia of Germantown, for an auctioneer's license.

- Request from Quincy Yacht Club, 1310 Sea St., for a managerial change from Owen McGowan to Stephen E. Murphy.

- Request from Bayswater Marine, 15 Bayswater Rd., Houghs Neck, for a license for storage of 150 gallons of gasoline in the tanks of boats which are stored in a garage.

- Request from Mrs. Deborah Jansen of Randolph, for a one day all alcoholic license for a christening to be held at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall, Sept. 15, from 3 to 8 p.m.

Vo-Tech Dean To Take Legal Action

The Quincy School Committee, by a 4-3 vote, demoted a Quincy Vocational-Technical dean to a non-administrative teaching position.

Eugene Silverio said he will pursue all legal options available to him to be reinstated to his old position as dean of students.

Silverio--an 18 year employee of the school department--charged that the administration wanted to demote him because of a personality conflict he had with the vocational school director Joseph Mazzarella.

However, School Supt. John Osterman said at the meeting that the demotion was necessary because the position of dean of students is being eliminated as part of a reorganization of the school's administration. The reorganization is designed to cut school costs, Osterman added.

In other action, the school committee voted 5-1 last night to retain Helen Ross, the Quincy Junior College's placement director.

Ross' job was one of several jobs that had been cut from the budget earlier this year when the committee approved a reorganizational plan proposed by college President O. Clayton Johnson.

Last month, the school committee voted to retain two librarians whose jobs--like Ross'--had been cut from the budget.

Osterman recommended that Ross' job be cut. But John Buckley, president of the Quincy Teachers Union, asked the committee to vote against the layoff.

He charged that a lesser-paid position with a job description very similar to the placement director had recently been created. Buckley said that appeared to be an effort to force out Ross and cut costs.

In other school committee action, Jane Steele, who has taught in the Quincy Vocational-Technical school's health assistant program for 12 years, was laid off after the committee decided enrollment in the program was too low.

Steele said a school administrator has discouraged male students from enrolling in the program.

Superintendent Osterman said she was being laid off because only 18 students had signed up for the program this year.

Pledge Center On Cable TV Network Monday

(Cont'd from Page 1)

Weekend in Quincy."

There will be music by Baron Hugo, The Citations, the Quincy High School Alumni Band, and Just One Look. There will also be other entertainment, a dunking tank and a moonwalk.

Anyone donating $1 or more to the fishbowl will be eligible to win a $400 Litton microwave oven donated by John Poreca of Vesco, Inc., 273 Willard St., West Quincy.

The first 50 people donating $5 or more to the fishbowl will receive two tickets to the Wollaston Theater donated by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chandler.

Waiting to greet youngsters at the pledge center will be Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, Fred Flintstone, Tweetie Bird and Sylvester. And, from McDonald's of Quincy, Grimace, Hamburglar and Birdie the Early Bird.

This year's 20th annual national telethon will air live from Caesars Palace, Las Vegas starting at 9 p.m. Sunday.

Jerry Lewis will be joined during the 2 1/2 hour Supershow by Ed McMahon, Frank Sinatra, Milton Berle, Liberace, Donald O'Connor, Sammy Davis Jr., Ben Vereen, Carol Lawrence, Casey Kasem, Tony Orlando, Billy Crystal, Mr. T., Lisa Hartman, Emmanuel Lewis, Robert Goulet, Lola Falana, Charo and many others.

In the Greater Boston-Quincy area, the show will be carried by Ch. 5 with Natalie Jacobson and Chef Curtis as co-hosts.

Representatives from the Quincy-South Telethon Committee and pledge center will be among those making appearances on Ch. 5 and on the American Cable-systems cable network.

Money raised by the telethon supports MDA's worldwide research effort and nationwide services program that help people with any of the 40 neuromuscular diseases covered by the association.

They receive medical care and equipment at no direct cost to them or their families.

MDA clinics serving the Quincy-South Shore area are at Boston University Medical Center, Children's Hospital, New England Medical Center and Massachusetts General Hospital.

The Quincy Sun Muscular Dystrophy Telethon pledge center activities will be carried over an American Cable-systems cable TV network to nine communities on Labor Day.

The activities, both inside and outside the pledge center, will be telecast live from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday on Ch. 3 and Quincy Sun Ch. 8 in Quincy and Ch. 8 in Milton and Randolph.

Viewers in Hingham, Scituate, Norwell, Hanover, Cohasset and Hull will see the special program by videotape starting at 2 p.m.

This is the second year of the network coverage with Hingham joining this year for the first time.

There will be interviews with volunteers manning the telephones and those coming to the pledge center to make donations to the fishbowl. There will be music by Baron Hugo, The Citations, Just One Look and other entertainment.

Steve Marx of Quincy Cable-systems will coordinate the TV coverage and Doug Nickerson will be the producer, with a volunteer camera crew.

Hosts for the program will be Sun publisher Henry Bosworth and Richard Koch, Sr., executive secretary of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board who are co-chairmen of the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee and The Sun Ch. 8 news team John Noonan, Leslie Thompson and Frank Cammarata.

WJDA To Cover Pledge Center Activities

For the ninth straight year, Quincy radio station WJDA will team with The Quincy Sun to help Jerry's Kids.

WJDA (1300) will provide live coverage of activities at the Quincy-South Shore telethon pledge center at The Sun, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Sq.

WJDA will begin coverage at 7 a.m. Monday and continue with reports every half-hour until the end of the telethon.

Roy Lind, Win Bettinson,

Charles Ross and Mike Ellis will give progress reports, interview volunteers working at the pledge center and those making donations to the fishbowl.

They will also cover special events at the pledge center.

$792,679 Raised Here By Telethon Committee

The Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee has raised $792,679 the past eight years to help fight muscular dystrophy.

That figure represents money raised at special telethon events, pledges and fishbowl receipts up to Dec. 31, 1984.

It does not include any of this year's special events which won't be tabulated until the Labor Day telethon at the Quincy Sun pledge center.

Last year, $113,845 was raised including $73,590 in special events, $34,844 in telethon pledges and $5,411 in fishbowl receipts.

Quincy Sun publisher Henry Bosworth and Richard

Koch, Sr., executive secretary of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board are co-chairmen of the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee.

Communities coming under the committee are Quincy, Braintree, Cohasset, Hingham, Hull, Milton, Randolph, Weymouth and Scituate.

13 Organizations Sponsoring Telephones

Thirteen organizations are sponsoring telephones at The Quincy Sun based Quincy-South Shore Muscular Dystrophy Telethon over the Labor Day weekend.

Richard J. Koch, chairman of the Telethon Patron Program, notes that by paying for the use of the extra telephones the organizations are allowing money it would have cost for the phones, to go instead to research and patient care programs for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

The 13 organizations doing their part to help Jerry's Kids are:

Riley & Rielly Insurance Co., Quincy Kiwanis Club, Quincy Lions Club, Quincy Rotary Club, Quincy City Club, Koch Club of Quincy, Quincy Municipal Credit Union, Colman Sporting Goods, Granite Co-operative Bank, Bank of New England Hancock, Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy; Sons of Italy, and Quincy Fire Fighters Association Local 792.

Call 328-6622 and you will ring one of the phones.

Mickey, Donald, Fred Flintstone, Grimace At Pledge Center

Some lovable characters will be at the Quincy Sun-Jerry Lewis pledge center Monday to greet youngsters.

On hand will be Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, Fred Flintstone, Tweetie Bird, Sylvester and, from McDonald's of Quincy, Grimace, Hamburglar and Birdie the Early Bird.

The characters are appearing through the courtesy of the Quincy Center

Business and Professional Association's Christmas Festival Committee and McDonald's of Quincy.

Come on down, kids, and meet them.

Cannisters Available

Hey kids, you can help Jerry's Kids.

Muscular Dystrophy cannisters are available at The Quincy Sun telethon pledge center, 1372 Hancock St.,

Quincy Sq.

Take a cannister around your neighborhood and bring it back to help fill the fishbowl at the pledge center.

There will be prizes for those returning cannisters with money for the fishbowl and special prizes for those bringing in the largest amounts.

Clown Faces To Be Painted

Be a clown and help Jerry's Kids.

Millie Fantuccio will be at

The Quincy Sun Muscular Dystrophy Pledge Center Monday to paint clown faces on children.

The $1 donation will go to the fishbowl to help find a cure for muscular dystrophy.

$400 Microwave Oven Pledge Center Prize

A $1 donation to the fishbowl may make you eligible to win a $400 microwave oven at The Quincy Sun Muscular Dystrophy Telethon pledge center over the Labor Day weekend.

The "Go Anywhere" touch control Litton microwave oven is being donated by John Poreca of Vesco, Inc., 273 Copeland St., West Quincy.

This is the eighth consecutive year Poreca has donated a large prize to help Jerry's Kids. He has given six other microwave ovens, a color TV set and a color game computer in the past. The lucky name from among those donating $1 to the fishbowl will be drawn at the end of the telethon Monday.

The Sun pledge center will be open Sunday from 8 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. and Monday from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m.

100 Wollaston Theater Tickets To Be Awarded

One hundred tickets to the Wollaston Theater will be awarded at The Quincy Sun based Muscular Dystrophy Telethon pledge center over the Labor Day weekend.

The first 50 people donating $5 or more to the fishbowl will receive two tickets each to the theater.

The tickets are being donated by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chandler, owners of the Beale St., Wollaston theater.

This is the seventh year in a row the Chandlers have donated 100 tickets.

The $5 donations are not only good for two tickets but will also entitle the donor to a chance to win a $400 Litton microwave oven being given by John Poreca of Vesco, Inc., 273 Willard St., West Quincy.

Volunteers Needed For Dunking Tank

unk, anyone? Volunteers are needed for the dunking tank outside The Quincy Sun Jerry Lewis Telethon pledge center Monday.

Anyone willing to be dunked for a worthy cause?

Those wishing to help are asked to contact William Morrill at the pledge center.

Morrill is donating the proceeds from the dunk tank to help Jerry's Kids.

He is also donating a moon walk to help raise money. He could use some help with that too.

P.S. Dunk tank volunteers should have swimsuits, of course.

Palmer Pub Purchased For Apartment Conversion

The controversial Palmer Pub on Sea St., Quincy, has been bought by the C&J Realty for the purpose of constructing nine single bedroom apartments with space on the first floor for three small offices.

"I am pleased to make this announcement to the Adams Shore community," Ward 1 City Councillor Michael Cheney said.

Last October 100 residents turned out at the Quincy Licensing Board hearing and made it clear that they wanted the Palmer Pub eliminated, Cheney said.

The proposal of C&J Realty was unveiled to Adams Shore area residents at a recent meeting held at the Adams Shore Library.

"A number of people were pleased to hear that the proposal would eliminate the license from its present location and that a representative from C&J Realty had made a commitment to utilize the single-bedroom units for senior citizens.

"The current proposal is one that I have been working on very closely with the owner of the Palmer Pub, C&J Realty and various city departments to protect the interests of the community," said Councillor Cheney.

Cheney further said, "I support this proposal for three reasons: It eliminates the liquor license from its current location at the Palmer Pub; it will provide much-needed housing for senior citizens in the area, and the new construction will be of a wood structure which will fit in with the neighborhood."

C&J Realty has also offered the first right of refusal for office space to house the Adams Shore Community Service Coordinator.

The only concern expressed at the meeting, relative to C&J Realty's proposal, was that of parking for tenants of the nine units.

Cheney pointed out that there is currently no off-street parking for patrons of the Palmer Pub and that C&J Realty's proposal would provide five parking spaces.

Councillor Cheney also pointed out that because the proposed building is located on a bus line, and according to Housing Authority statistics, only 10 percent of their senior citizens have automobiles, parking should not be a major problem.

Delinquent Tax Collections Total $5,634,058

Mayor Francis X. McCauley announces that tax file (delinquent) real estate, personal property tax and interest collections for the period beginning January, 1982 through Aug. 20, 1985, total $5,634,058.

The Mayor noted, that upon taking office in January, 1982, he started a crack-down on real estate and personal property tax owners whose tax payments were in arrears.

These collections represent an increase of $4,199,707 or 293% over a like time prior to Mayor McCauley taking office.

The Mayor said that the drive to collect all overdue taxes would continue and he urges all persons owing back taxes to pay them as soon as possible.

Cerasoli Seeks 2 Shelters 2 Bus Stop Location Changes

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli (D-Quincy) announces he has contacted the M.B.T.A. to request the addition of two shelters for Quincy Point, a change in location of two bus stops and additional bus service to Martensen St.

Cerasoli said, "The requests for shelters, changes in location and additional service were initiated by residents of several senior complexes in the area including Pagnano Towers, 1000 Southern Artery, and Sawyer Towers.

"I have asked for one shelter to be located past Eddie's Diner of Quincy Ave. near the pathway leading to Faxon Commons; the other in front of Quincy Point Congregational Church."

Cerasoli said he also requested the repair of a shelter in front of Union Towers on Washington St. in Weymouth.

Cerasoli said the bus stops he has been asked to change are located at Chubbuck and Washington Sts. and Quincy Ave. at Southern Artery in Quincy.

"Apparently the bus stop at Chubbuck and Washington Sts. was moved from the corner halfway down the block. This move made it inconvenient for seniors at Pagnano Towers who must now walk back to the pedestrian light in order to cross Washington St.

The other bus stop located at Quincy Ave. and Southern Artery is utilized by residents of 1000 Southern Artery and Faxon Commons. It is situated on the side of a small hill with no sidewalk, near oncoming traffic. In their opinion, this location is dangerous and could be a hazard in bad weather.

"As to additional service for Martensen St., it is my understanding that at least two buses serviced Sawyer Towers on Martensen St. at one time but this has been reduced to one daily, of late."

There are many misconceptions about funeral costs. That's not surprising, really, as there are other charges involved in a funeral, then those of the funeral director . . . cemetery or cremation charge . . . monuments or markers . . . newspaper death notices and flowers. Many also believe that funeral directors will not discuss funeral or burial costs frankly and specifically. Nothing could be further from the truth. Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., adjacent to the Quincy Historical Society Home, stands ready to give you whatever cost information you desire at any time. Roger Hamel, Donald McCarthy and Joseph Thompson are thoroughly trained in the profession they have chosen and ready to discuss frankly, funeral cost information. A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK.
With Labor Day, most people's thoughts turn to the coming change in the seasons, and the beginning of school. Let us remember that kids of all ages will be standing, walking, running and in all ways populating the roads and streets around the area in the early morning and late afternoon hours, and that driving with caution is especially important. But we'd like to take this thought beyond the basic "School's out, drive safely" theme, to include some other hopes for the coming school year.
We hope that all teachers, administrators and students approach the new school year with a zest for teaching and learning, to provide the best education that is possible. And we would like to see all the parents of school children examine their own ideas and behavior and make a positive commitment to help in the education of their own kids . . . Too often, people criticize the schools, the teachers, the administrators and the kids when much, if not most, of the blame for what some people feel is a general malaise among our youth starts, grows and ends in the home.
How, for instance, can a parent complain that his child's reading level is pitifully low, when that same parent does nothing to encourage reading . . . and allows hour upon hour in front of the television and fails to instill from a very early age the value of the printed word?
Let us remember that schools, teachers and parents working together can mold young minds and head them in a positive direction . . .

'Worship As Work' Sermon At Bethancy Church

The worship service on Labor Day Sunday, Sept. 1, will be at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary of Bethancy Congregational Church, Coddingtown and Spear Sts., Quincy Center.

Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach the sermon on the topic "Worship as Work" based on the text from the Gospel of Luke 4:1-21. Vivian R. Miller will be the lay scripture reader.

Holy Communion will be celebrated, with Rev. Joel F. Huntington, associate minister, assisting in the liturgy. Deacons and deaconesses serving the communion will be Clifford W. Evers, Olive Hodgkins, Russell D. Hodgkins, and Grace Toy.

The service will be broadcast by delayed tape at 11 a.m. over radio station WJDA, 1300 kc. Bruce Byorkman will give the communion commentary during the broadcast.

Ray H. Cahoon, of Gloucester, will be guest baritone soloist. He will sing as the offertory, "My Lord, What A Mornin'", arranged by H. T. Burleigh, and as the second selection, "The Lord Is My Shepherd", arranged by Maxwell and Feibel. Bethancy's organist, Peter E. Krasinski, will be at the console.

Nursery care for babies and toddlers will be provided during the worship service.

A fellowship hour will be held in the Allen Parlor at 11 a.m. following the service. Individuals and families from the community are cordially invited to attend and share in both the worship and fellowship.

Bethancy Church, along with other area United Churches of Christ, will conduct the outdoor worship at Cathedral of the Pines, Rindge, N.H., on Sunday, Sept. 15, at 3 p.m. Chartered buses will leave from the Church at 12:15 returning by 7:30 that evening, at a cost of $6.00 round trip for adults, $3.00 for children. For reservations call the church office at 479-7300.

violin for the U.S. Senate, a Billy Graham crusade from the Pontiac Silverdome, 16,000 people in the Alameda Park, Mexico City, and many television shows in the U.S., Mexico, Colombia, Honduras, Argentina and Brazil.

Jeanine is also an accomplished musician. She has performed all over the U.S. and throughout Europe and Brazil.

As a violinist, Bill has won many awards and has soloed with several symphonies in the Chicago area. He is a graduate of Roosevelt University and Chicago Musical College.

Bill and Jeanine will present a variety of vocal duets as well as violin solos at Central Baptist Church.

Musical Service At First Church Of Squantum

The worship service Sunday at the First Church of Squantum, 176 Bellevue Rd., was all musical.

Paul Frazer sang "Omnipotence" by Franz Schubert as a prelude.

The call to worship, read by Steve Williams, was from the letter to the Ephesians, "...be filled with the Spirit, addressing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody to the Lord with all your heart, always and for everything giving thanks in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ to God the Father." (6:18b-20).

After the opening hymn, "Life Up Your Heads, Ye Mighty Gates," and the opening prayer by Steve Williams, Paul Frazer sang Albert Hay Malotte's setting of "The Lord's Prayer."

The pastoral prayer was both spoken and sung. It began with a verse of "Spirit Of God, Descend Upon My Heart" sung by the congregation. Sarah Mildram then prayed about the joys and the concerns of the congregation. Her prayer was followed by Steve Williams singing Paul Simon's "Bridge Over Troubled Water" with his guitar. The pastoral prayer concluded with the congregation singing, "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind."

The scripture too was both spoken and sung. It began with a unison reading of Psalm 150 read by Steve Williams. The congregation then sang the same thing as the hymn, "Praise the Lord, His Glories Show."

The offering hymn was "Master, No Offering Costly and Sweet." The offertory anthem, "Abide With Me," was first sung by the congregation in its familiar setting by William H. Monk, and then as a solo by Paul Frazer as adapted by Charles Ives.

The sermon was an elaboration of the call to worship, including seventeen psalms, hymns and spiritual songs led by Mary Ruth Scott, Steve Williams and Paul Frazer. For the sermon, Mary Ruth Scott accompanied the singing on the piano or her guitar, up to this point in the service, she had been accompanying the singing on the organ.

The hymns chosen, which concluded with "In the Garden" and "The Old Rugged Cross," had all been suggested as favorites of members of the congregation.

After a silent prayer at the conclusion of the service, the congregation sang "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" as the sending. There was also an organ postlude.

Donald Frazer was the greeter, Tore Wallin and Leon MacIntyre were the ushers and May Lewis and Grace Holmes were in charge of refreshments at the Fellowship Hour afterwards.

During the musical service, the meeting times for the five choirs at the church in the fall were announced:

Chancel Choir, Thursday, Sept. 5, at 7:15 p.m.;

Youth Choir (9th grade up), Sunday, Sept. 8, 11:45 a.m.;

Crusader Choir (5th to 12th grade), Thursday, Sept. 12, 3:45 p.m.;

Junior Choir (kindergarten to 4th grade), Thursday, Sept. 12, 2:45 p.m. and, Cherub Choir (children not yet in kindergarten), rehearsals resume with the start of Sunday School.

There will be two worship services again next Sunday morning, the guitar service at 8:30 a.m. and the traditional service at 9:30 a.m.

The traditional service will not return to the 10:30 a.m. time until Sunday, Sept. 8, which is also the day upon which the pledges for the Church Renovation Drive will be dedicated.

Youth Baseball League Register Sept. 7

Registration for the 1986 Quincy Youth Baseball Leagues season will be held Saturday, Sept. 7, from 9 a.m. to noon at the North Quincy K. of C. Hall, corner of Hancock Street and Hollis Avenue, North Quincy.

Anyone who played Junior Farm, AAA, International or 12-year-old Junior League must register as well as anyone age 8-15 wishing to join the program. Application fee is 50 cents. Information on tryout dates will be issued on registration day.

Registration is open to any Quincy resident born after July 31, 1970, and prior to Aug. 1, 1978.

ASBESTOS LUNG DISEASE

Asbestos dust causes serious lung ailments; the diseases appear suddenly, years after exposure. Today numerous SHIPYARD WORKERS, MASON'S, and PIPEFITTERS of the 1930's-1970's have lung afflictions because they inhaled asbestos particles many years ago.

If you worked in one of those professions then and now have a lung disease, you may be eligible to receive money damages or workers' compensation. Relatives of living and deceased victims can also recover in some cases.

To learn your rights free of charge, or to bring an asbestos claim, contact:

Morrisette Honors Champs

Steve McKinnon, a former Morrisette Legion catcher for four years, was the featured speaker at the annual banquet honoring Morrisette's Zone 6 champions held at the post home.

McKinnon was the catcher for Morrisette's 1975 Northeast Regional baseball champions who played in the Legion World Series in South Dakota.

"You boys are very fortunate to play for such a fine organization," he told the 1985 players in attendance. "You had an outstanding season and you deserve a lot of credit. I didn't realize Morrisette had won 23 zone championships. That is certainly an enviable record.

"Playing in the Legion World Series in 1975 was one of the biggest thrills of my life and I hope you boys get the chance to make it there. Always do the best you can. We didn't have the talent on the 1975 team that you have, but we all did our best and played our hearts out and it paid off."

McKinnon taught at North Quincy High and at Northeastern University. He is now a businessman in New Hampshire.

Coach Ray Cattaneo was toastmaster and introduced the head table guests, Post Comdr. Hank Bradley, who brought the greetings of the post; Athletic Officer Frank Osborne, Scorer and Statistician Richard "Berger" Ryan, former state Rep. Joe Brett, Morrisette's No. 1 fan who has attended nearly every game since the post started baseball in 1945, and Tom Sullivan of the Quincy Sun.

Cattaneo, Morrisette's highly successful coach for 16 years, has mentioned retiring more than once but promised "to keep coaching as long as you want me."

"I am disappointed tonight by the failure of some of the players to come to this banquet," he said. "A couple are on vacation and are excused, but the others can't be excused. Every player should be here."

Cattaneo thanked the parents and several others for their continued support and gave special thanks to Osborne, who has been an integral part of the baseball program since its inception.

Mrs. Osborne, who has done a good deal of work behind the scenes to help this program, was recognized on her birthday and was presented a large cake.

The players received jackets and team pictures.

• Babe Ruth Baseball Police Club Wins Crown

The Quincy Police Club won the Babe Ruth League championship by defeating Houghs Neck Legion in a hard-fought five-game series.

The Police clinched the city crown with a 4-2 win in the fifth and deciding game with T. J. Steen winning his second game of the series with a one-hitter. He struck out 11.

Jeff Calvert drove in two runs with a long double to left field. Joey Mulvey had an outstanding game behind the plate calling the pitches, while Ricky Ames had a fine game at third base. Mike Connor had the only hit for HN, while Don Steele and Steve Abbound played well in the field.

The Police had won the series opener, 4-3, with Dan Overby the winning pitcher, striking out nine. He needed relief help from Mike Ainsley to end a lost inning rally.

The Police scored first with a walk to Wayne Chambers, a single by Ames and an RBI single by Tom Roberts. HN tied it up on hits by Jay Lespasio and Scott Crowley. The Police won it in the seventh.

Mulvey and Steen had two hits each for the Police and Crowley and Lespasio had two apiece for HN.

Houghs Neck evened the series with a 3-2 win in the second game. Jim Gordon and Lespasio shared the pitching for HN, while Chambers was the hard-luck loser, striking out 11.

Bob Austin and Craig Wright drove in the runs for HN. James Ward and Calvert played strong defense for the Police.

The Police romped, 11-1, in the third game with winning pitcher Steen striking out a career high 13.

Overby had a towering home run and a single. Ainsley and Mulvey had two hits each and Mike Cronin and Brian Kelly sparkled defensively for the Police. Larry Beguerie and Matt Furtado had hits for Houghs Neck and Wright played well in the field.

Houghs Neck again evened the series, scoring three runs in the last inning to win, 5-4, and force the fifth and deciding game. Lespasio was the winning pitcher.

Crowley and Dan Steele led the hitting for HN, with Crowley driving in the winning run. Steen had two hits for the Police. Ainsley pitched well and Billy Bellevue made several outstanding plays at shortstop.

The Police Club is coached by John DiNardo, John Franceschini and Bob McCulley, who thanked second baseman Mike Cronin for submitting scores and accounts of the game to the Quincy Sun. They also thank the parents for their support throughout the season.

The Quincy Legion Post baseball team will have a new coaching staff next season made up of men with a wealth of baseball experience.

Warren Demers of the post announced the resignation of Vic DiGravio and Mario Lopez and the naming of Dick Laracy, Shorty Donovan, Dave Perdios and Fran Donovan as the new coaches. Ed Spring will stay on as athletic director and coach.

Laracy, who was in the Quincy baseball league for 16 years at every age level, has coached five city champions and eight league champions. He coached the Quincy Police Boys Club from 1973 to 1976 when it won three city titles in the four years and lost the league crown in a playoff the other year.

The 1976 team still holds the Babe Ruth League record of 26 wins and only two losses, which included 21 straight wins. It also defeated a team of older Puerto Rican players who came to Quincy while touring greater Boston.

Laracy was a coach for Foley Chrysler in the Junior League that won two league championships and he won city titles with the Braves in the Farm League and last year with the Elks in the Babe Ruth League. He was a member of the South Shore Umpires Association and played his Legion ball for Wollaston.

Shorty Donovan is recognized as one of the most knowledgeable coaches on the South Shore over the past 30 years. When most baseball people, including umpires, had a question on the game, they said, "Ask Shorty." He was a coach with Laracy on the championship Police Club teams and won the city Junior League crown while coaching Houghs Neck Legion in 1972.

A former standout in the old South Shore League, he coached the Quincy Bay Mariners in the later South Shore League with Bob Brill and developed some fine semi-pro players while there. He was also an umpire and played Legion ball at Wollaston before moving over to Quincy when it had its first team and named him captain.

Perdios came up through the Quincy leagues and played for Laracy on a tournament team. He was the shortstop for Morrisette Legion's 1975 Northeast Regional champions who played in the Legion World Series in South Dakota. He played in the Stan Musial World Series for the Weymouth Elks, with whom he starred for several years.

He was an all-scholastic at Abb. Williams and started for four years at Brandeis University under Tom O'Connell, now coach at Princeton. Perdios coached and organized the 11-year-old all-star teams from the Junior League which made fine showings in the Quincy baseball tournaments a few years ago.

Fran Donovan also came up through the Quincy baseball leagues and played on two of the Police Club championship teams, including the 1976 record-setting team. He played for Morrisette Legion, the Mariners and the Braintree White Sox in the South Shore League.

For many years he coached in the Quincy Recreational League and won numerous championships with teams from Houghs Neck. Some of the better players in the Babe Ruth League today learned their baseball from him in the recreational league.

"They say when you are trying to turn a team around and make it a winner, you have to spend more time with a player to develop his skills and help improve his weaknesses," said Laracy when asked why the team needs five coaches. "This cannot be done with only a couple of coaches. Each coach has to spend time with players at the positions best known to the coach."

With the new coaching staff, all positions on the 18-man roster are open. Quincy will have a few fine players back for this season, but they will have to work to make the squad and will not automatically play.

Nationals Win 14-Year-Old's

The National League defeated the Americans, 4-1, in the annual Quincy Babe Ruth League 14-year-old all-star game.

Ray Grant had two hits for the Nationals and Mike Kiley and Sean Thompson had triples. Mike Toland, Tom Roberts, David Gardiner and Chris Higgins had singles. The pitchers, Kiley, Frank Calabro, Higgins, Mike Ainsley and Tim Brillo, combined for a three-hitter.

For the Americans Mark Dwyer, Sean Murphy and Dan Steele had singles. Murphy, Joe Gately and Bill MacDougall pitched well and Tim Baker played a fine game at shortstop.

Playing for the Nationals, coached by John Franceschini of the Police Club and Steve Buckley of Local 1139, were Kiley, Toland and Grant of Local 1139, Calabro of Sons of Italy, Brian Howlett, Brillo and Thompson of Granite City Electric, Tim Evans of Morrisette, Bill Bellevue, Ainsley and Roberts of the Police Club, and Higgins and Gardiner of Hancock Bank.

Playing for the Americans, coached by Bryan Post's Jim Higgins and Tom Foley and Firemen's Ray Dunn, were Baker of Barry's Deli, Murphy, Dwyer and Chris Standing of Bryan Post, Gately, Scott Logan and Rob Buttimer of the Elks, Chris Noble, MacDougall and Mike Walsh of the Firemen. Steele and Mike Connor of Houghs Neck and Nick Dragone, Dan Crespi and Sean McDonough of Golden Print.

Mullaney, Gately MVP's

Michael Mullaney was named the National League's Most Valuable Player and Sean Gately the Americans' MVP as the Nationals defeated the Americans, 14-10, in the annual Babe Ruth League 15-year-old all-star game played under the lights at Adams Field.

Mullaney led the Nationals' offense with three hits, including a triple. Joe Manning had three singles and Ed Flavin a triple and single and T.J. Steen, Dan Biagini and Wayne Chambers two singles each and Mark DiMattio a single. Steen, Bob Higgins, DiMattio, Dan Overby and Chambers pitched for the Nationals and Biagini played an excellent game at shortstop.

Gately paced the Americans with a triple and double, while Bill Mulken, Bill Murphy, Kevin Duffy, Joe Taylor and Steven Rabs pitched well.

Playing for the Nationals, coached by John DiNardo, John Franceschini and Bob McCulley of the Police, were Flavin, John Pennatore and Jim Ross of Sons of Italy, Manning, DiMattio and Mike Sanda of Local 1139, Steen, Chambers and Overby of Police, Biagini and Mullaney of Granite City Electric, Hank Miller and Higgins of Hancock Bank and Bob Keddy of Morrisette.

Playing for the Americans, coached by Rick Higgins of Houghs Neck and Dick Crespi of Golden Print, were Peter Tufts, Gately and Murphy of the Elks, Taylor, David Adams and Jack Mullen of Golden, Mike Pacetti, Rob Hubbard and Matt McNamara of Firemen, Ron Fletcher, Mulken and Gary Silverman of Bryan Post, Craig Wright and Larry Beguerie of Houghs Neck and Rabs, Duffy and Nekil Timberlake of Barry's Deli.

35-Year Career Man

Finnegan Appointed Director Of Athletics

By TOM SULLIVAN
After 35 years in the Quincy school system as a teacher, coach, physical ed instructor, faculty manager and holder of several administrative positions, Marty Finnegan is the new director of athletics for the Quincy schools.
Finnegan was named last week by the school committee to succeed Carl Leone, who has been on sick leave since last winter and will retire this fall.
And the committee couldn't have made a better choice.
"I'm very happy and excited," said Finnegan, who will concentrate on athletics. Leone had been director of health, physical education and athletics. Mary Lydon had earlier been appointed director of health and physical education.

"I think it is important that the director of athletics concentrate on athletics," Finnegan said. "Carl did a tremendous job handling the athletic program as well as health and physical education, but I think it is too much for one man to handle."

Quincy has not had a director of athletics since Leone went on sick leave. Director of Personnel Carmen Mariano has been handling Leone's chores during his leave.

The late athletic director and long-time basketball and football coach Munroe McLean saw Finnegan as a future director of Athletics.

"When I was at Boston University and student-teaching in 1950 under Mac, and he was a physical education instructor, I had to make a decision whether to take the teacher-coaching job I was offered or try some other endeavor," Marty said.

"Munroe McLean, probably more than anyone else, thought I should take the job because he thought I would some day be director of athletics."

Finnegan, a native of Mattapan who moved to Quincy long ago, took that first job, teaching physical ed and coaching baseball and football at Central Junior High in 1951.

Marty switched to Quincy High in September, 1952, teaching and serving as assistant coach in football and basketball. This marked a long and happy association with McLean. The father of seven became head coach of basketball in 1959 and held that position for 13 years.

Marty and McLean were together for some of the most thrilling basketball games in Tech Tourney history, especially those with the Presidents' longtime rival, Somerville.

"We're ever!" said Finnegan. "To me it was like a father and son combination. It was just terrific working with Mac and I learned an awful lot from him. I'll never forget the many hectic games we had in the Tech Tourney."

Marty, a Navy veteran who was stationed at post World War II Pearl Harbor, was interim dean of students last year and on and off for a number of years before that. He also has been interim assistant high school principal, elementary school physical ed supervisor, faculty manager since Bill Hutchinson retired, girls' basketball coach and coach of tennis and golf.

Finnegan also developed the first statewide school drug education program in the state and has been a drug therapist at Boston State Hospital.

Marty earned letters in basketball and track at Boston College High and in basketball and baseball at Boston University.

"I will teach physical education a couple of periods a day, but will do no coaching," he said.

"Jim Carter was athletic director when I first started in at Quincy," he said. "Munroe McLean followed him, then came Ken Rickson and Carl Leone. So I've experienced relationships with some very fine people. Quincy has had a history of fine athletic directors and I hope to continue in that vein."

"Munroe McLean, though, was more or less my mentor. He gave me guidance and the feeling I have for athletes. I'm sure I'll always think of him."

Last fall at the first Quincy and North Quincy Football Hall of Fame dinner at which five former Quincy and five former North players were inducted, McLean was given a special award posthumously. Finnegan had the honor of presenting the plaque to Mac's daughter, Jean Ann McLean, a Quincy teacher.

Marty's son, Mitch, a former Quincy athlete, is an assistant football coach at Quincy. Freshman coach last season, he will be a varsity assistant this year.

One of Marty's first orders of business was to call a meeting with the football coaching staffs of both Quincy and North Quincy this week.

"I think it is most important that we get together and that I hear their problems and receive their suggestions," Finnegan said. "I know they have their problems and I expect a lot of suggestions from them."

Leone was appointed director of athletics in 1969 following McLean's death. Leone resigned as North Quincy football coach after eight years. He has been a Raider assistant for six seasons.

During his 15 years as director of athletics, the Quincy varsity sports programs were expanded, especially those for girls, whose varsity programs began when he took over.

An outstanding quarterback at Quincy High and Brown University, Carl led the Presidents to a 31-6 win over North Quincy in 1946 and at Brown was a teammate of Quincy High principal Lloyd Hill.

Two years ago he was named the Div. I South Athletic Director of the Year by his fellow athletic directors.

Curtain Call Auditions Sept. 10-11

Quincy residents interested in auditioning for Curtain Call Theatre's fall production of "Witness For The Prosecution" should report to the clubhouse, corner of Faxon and Commercial Sts., Braintree, at 7:30 p.m., Sept. 10 or 11.

The play is an Agatha Christie courtroom melodrama. George Stevens, co-founder of Darling Productions, will be director. He has also produced dinner theatres at Christo's, Brockton.

There are 17 male and six female roles in the play. Among the major roles to be filled are a young married man accused of murdering an elderly spinster, his foreign-born wife who he hopes will be his alibi, a gruff but skillful defense attorney and his ambitious assistant, the prosecuting attorney, the presiding justice, and a bitter housekeeper.

"Witness for the Prosecution" will be presented at Thayer Academy in November.

Gift Items Added To Historical Society Shop

The Quincy Historical Society's Museum Shop, located in the Adams Academy, 8 Adams St., Quincy Center, has enhanced its selection of gift items by the acquisition of two items.

The Scarlet Letter, producer of 18th and 19th century American and English reproduction samplers, has reproduced two samplers from the Quincy Historical Society's collection.

The Fanny Hancock sampler is an alphabet sampler in bright turquoise, rose, rust, beige and faded turquoise.

The second sampler is a family register worked by Betsy Adams in 1818.

Instructions are given for personalizing the Betsy Adams sampler with a family's vital statistics.

Hours at the Museum Shop are: Monday through Friday, 9:30 to 3:30; Saturday, 12:30 to 3:30.

WEEK OF: AUGUST 29

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
Moderation is the keyword during a week that favors a generally conservative approach. Important correspondence comes your way after the weekend. Make a point of collecting debts.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
Creative juices are perking; your special touches can take a party out of the ordinary. If making a presentation, don't hesitate to add a bit of flair.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
Organization is keyword, resist tendency to take on too many projects simultaneously. Sense of humor is bright and wins new admirers. Surprise bill may arrive after Monday.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
Memory plays tricks and it's wise to keep a diary of events and appointments. Financial bonanza may arrive by Monday. If seeking any repairs, stay clear of amateurs.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
Good week for concluding projects rather than launching new schemes. Partner may surprise you with travel-related announcement. Family reunion offers opportunity for making friends.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
Profitmaking ideas can be put into action. Bargain hunting is favorable but over due payments remain slow in coming. Solution to dilemma may be found in favorite book.

LEO - July 23-August 22
Comparison shopping pays off, but written guarantees are essential. Decorating and renovating are favored. Property transactions require detailed review. In romance, you soar toward cloud nine.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
You can find yourself mingling with a new group of people and expanding your interests in the process. Recent worries prove unfounded. Partner is unexpectedly shy.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
Avoid being too casual with youngsters, with colleagues, with higher ups. Express your position with assertiveness. Old friends seek advice and encouragement. New friend is demanding.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
Good business week, in which ideas sparkle and you're most persuasive. Stay clear of prying neighbors. Former admirer may contact you. Keep eyes open for special bargains.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
You may make some small financial gains; don't feel guilty if you wish to spoil yourself. Your natural tact and good humor make you highly popular in the workplace or community.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
Romantic comeback may be on the agenda. Mechanical repairs should not be ignored. Youngsters offer uncommonly mature suggestions; don't hesitate to seek out their ideas.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You're self-sufficient, filled with compassion, always logical. In romance you could afford to be more spontaneous. Relationships are spotlighted through the balance of 1985. Unique business opportunity may evolve by mid-'86.

BORN THIS WEEK
August 29th, singer Michael Jackson; 30th, actor Fred MacMurray; 31st, actor James Coburn; September 1st, actress Yvonne De Carlo; 2nd, composer Thomas Richardson; 3rd, actress Valerie Perrine; 4th, actress Mitz Gaynor.

Police, Firefighters, City Officials, News Media Play For Jerry's Kids

The Quincy Police and Quincy Fire Fighters will meet in their ninth annual softball game at Adams Field on Southern Artery tonight (Thursday) at 6:30 p.m. in the opener of a softball doubleheader for Muscular Dystrophy with the City Officials clashing with the News Media All-Stars in the 8 p.m. night-cap under the lights.

The Police and Fire will continue play in a close series. However, the winner is Muscular Dystrophy and Jerry's Kids the direct beneficiaries of the event.

The Quincy Police Department Softball Team has a regular season record in the Greater Boston Police League of 7 wins and 3 losses and recently competed in the 4th annual World Police Softball Tournament in Detroit, defeating Augusta, Ga. 19-2 and losing in extra innings to Milwaukee, 18-17.

Police Department players include, outfielder Bill Shea, outfielder Steve Kring, shortstop Bill Brabazon, third base Tom Malvesti, outfielder Jim Buhl, first base Gerry Gardiner, second base John Ryan, outfielder Dick Praetich, pitcher Mike King, catcher Bob Kelley and subs Lionel Jones and Paul Keenan.

The Quincy Fire Fighters play independent softball and look forward each year to the MDA meetings.

The Fire Fighters roster consists of: First base Chuck Walters, left center Dave Anderson, shortstop Jack Goddard, second base Jim McPartlin, third base Jim DeVarannes, left Jim Kelly, right center Domenic Conio, right Peter O'Hare, catcher Al Trotman, pitcher John Moran and reserves Fred Baldoc, Mike Granahan and Mike Butts.

Facing the city officials will be representatives of The Quincy Sun, the Patriot Ledger, and Station WJDA.

Koch, Yacubian Teams In MDA Game

The Koch Club softball team will meet the Yacubian All-Stars Sunday morning, Sept. 1, at 9 a.m. at Kincaide Park in a softball doubleheader to aid Muscular Dystrophy.

Each of the contestants is contributing to the Quincy South Shore Muscular Dystrophy telethon and the proceeds will be presented to the pledge center at the Quincy Sun office on Labor Day.

The Koch Club had a 12-9 overall record in the South Suburban League dropping a doubleheader in the playoffs.

The lineup for the Koch Club will include Capt. Tom Bowes, Joe Mullen, Paul Schaeztl, Dick Schaeztl, Dick Koch, Jr., Tom Koch, Gary Cunniff, Neil Leonard, Tim Healy, John Cavanaugh, Steve Mancuso, Ed Leary, Thomas Bowes, Bill Cunniff and Matt Keenan.

The Yacubian All-Stars will be led by Dr. Allan Yacubian and Paul Koch in the traditional battle.

The team is part of the over 35 Years League of Braintree

Koch Club Girls Sept. 7

Girls in Grades 4 through 10 are invited and welcome to join and participate.

Girls in Grades 4 through 6 are scheduled in the Junior Division and girls in Grades 7 through 10 in the Senior Loop.

Girls interested in further information may contact Mrs. Janet Crowley, League Director at 139 Highland Ave.

City Tennis Tourney To Begin Sept. 4

The Granite Co-Operative Bank, in co-sponsorship with the Quincy Parks and Recreation Board, will hold the 15th annual tennis tournament Sept. 4 through Sept. 18.

The events will fall into the following ten categories: Men's 50 and over, men's 35 and over, men's singles, men's doubles, mixed doubles, women's 35 and over, women's singles, women's doubles, 16 and under, and girls 16 and under.

All contestants must furnish a can of U.S.T.A. approved tennis balls. Applications are available at the Quincy Recreation Department, local tennis courts and clubs and the two offices of the Granite Cooperative Bank.

For additional information, call the Quincy Recreation Department at 773-1380, ext. 204.

Panthers Select Cheerleaders

The Quincy Point Panthers of the Quincy Youth Football League recently selected their cheerleaders following a week-long practice session and tryouts at Fore River Field.

The cheerleaders, 1984 Nation-Wide Cheerleaders Association's New England regional champions, will defend their title in early December with the following varsity members:

Capt. Dawn Hartnett, Co-Capt. Roberta DiTullio, Robin Parker, Kerry Wood, Lina Russo, Beth Barber, Susan Jacob, Jennifer Barnard, Darlene Quinn, Jennifer Shipley, Janine

Barnard and Bonnie Hanson.

The junior varsity squad, coached by Kathy Myers, includes Capt. Jennifer LaRaia, Co-Capt. Kerry O'Brien and Janet DiTullio, Sheila Cronin, Beth Sullivan, Marianne McSweeney, Maureen Wood, Michelle Minichello, Colleen Skehan, Lynne Feeley, Carrie Carney, Melissa Kipp and Kelly Jacob.

The Youth Football League will open its season Sept. 8 with the Panthers drawing a bye on opening day.

Festival Sept. 21 To Benefit Homeless Shelter

A gala festival to benefit the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition will be held Saturday, Sept. 21, from noon to 8 p.m. at Pageant Field, Merrymount Park in Quincy.

Proceeds from the festival will be used to assist the Coalition in its sheltering the homeless of the Greater Quincy area during the coming winter months.

Nancy Powers, Coalition executive director, said there is an urgent need for volunteers to assist in putting on the festival.

Chairperson Diane E. D'Olimpio said the festival will be a fun day with games, food, entertainment, and much more.

"We are asking faith communities, civic organizations, businesses and others to join in the event by providing a booth, staff, raffle items, or even entertainment to make the festival a community success.

Those seeking additional information about the planned festival can telephone Nancy Powers at 472-4230 or Diane D'Olimpio in the evening at 471-5327.

Dance Company Of Quincy To Begin Fifth Season

The Dance Company of Quincy will begin its fifth season in September along with the opening of a new studio in Bridgewater.

The company's director, Don Bigger, was recently installed as second vice-president of the Dance Teachers' Club of Boston, at the club's summer seminar held at Lantana, Randolph.

The studio announces the formation of the Don Bigger Dance Theatre Troupe which is comprised of advanced students. The premiere troupe show will be presented during the Fall Social Dinner Evening to be held at the D.A.V. Hall, Braintree, Saturday, Nov. 9.

For more information about the studio or troupe, call 479-0646.

Don't Speed On Pike

Quincy motorists planning to travel on the Massachusetts Turnpike's 135 miles of roadway over Labor Day are warned that the 55 mile per hour speed limit will be rigidly enforced.

Chairman John T. Driscoll said the roadway is anticipating a heavy traffic load and "State Police from Troop 'E' will augment regular radar teams in order to discourage excessive speeding."

MBTA Reduced Fare Hearing Here Thursday

It could conceivably cost Quincy special need and senior citizen residents more to ride the transit system at a reduced fare in the future.

A public meeting, at which the Quincy Council on Aging and its interested elders, will be held today (Thursday), from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. at the Lincoln-Hancock St. School, 300 Granite Ave., to review a proposal to increase the cost of obtaining reduced fare identification cards for transit riders in those two categories.

If adopted, it would increase the price of reduced fare ID cards for persons with special needs and senior citizens from 50 cents to $3 to cover administrative costs. Currently, losses totaling $75,000 are being absorbed by the MBTA in the issuance of 30,000 cards annually, said the MBTA.

The meeting will also address proposals to reduce fares for special need riders during rush hours. They currently pay 10 cents during off-peak hours, but must pay full fare during peak hours (7-9:30 a.m. and 4-6 p.m.). The intention is to keep fares at 10 cents at all hours--similar to the current fare structure for senior citizens.

In addition to discussing reduced fares, the transit group will also propose at the meeting measures to curtail abuses in the current system with a set of strict procedures to check fraudulent applications and unauthorized use of reduced fare identification cards.

They will also discuss various other recommendations and proposals in order to institute changes in the administration of the program, including allowing only one replacement card per year at a cost of $10; eliminating the "temporary" special needs category; and applying eligibility criteria in a more strict manner.

The Quincy meeting is one of four planned by the MBTA for the end of August and early September. The other meetings scheduled are in Watertown, Boston and Lynn. All locations are completely accessible to individuals with special needs, said the "T".

Work To Begin On First Parish Church Clock

Mayor Francis McCauley announces that work will begin soon on the United First Parish church clock in Quincy Square.

The work will include the exterior lighting, painting and gold leafing of the clock surfaces, said McCauley. The clock is owned and maintained by the City of Quincy.

The amount of the upgrading is $6,800 and has been approved by the City Council. After the refurbishing, the clock will be well lit for evening viewing, said McCauley.

9-Year Total Nears $900,000—

Sun Pledge Center R $47,325 For Jerry's Kids

For the second year in a row, the weatherman rained on our parade but again, couldn't dampen the spirit.

And when the day was over, we were over again, too. Over the top, again.

For the 2,146 who called in telephone pledges and the hundreds who came by to make donations to the fishbowl and to the many volunteers who gave up a good chunk of their Labor Day weekend to work for Jerry's Kids, Monday was a beautiful day.

The Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Pledge Center based at The Quincy Sun raised $47,325—$7,281 more than last year.

The $47,325 represents $40,207 in telephone pledges and $7,118 in fishbowl receipts.

Last year's Labor Day weekend figure was $40,044—$34,844 in pledges and $5,200 in fishbowl receipts.

In addition to the $47,325 raised on the weekend, the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee expects to bring in $55,000 or more in special events proceeds. Figures for all the special events have not yet been tabulated.

This would put the year's total over $100,000 and bring the committee's nine year total to near the $900,000 mark.

The committee's goal is to reach a $1 million

Shelter Decision Delayed To Oct. 22

By LINDA WILKINS

It will be at least a month before the Quincy Licensing Board votes on the controversial issue of a homeless shelter in Quincy Center.

The board, voting at its meeting Tuesday, continued until Oct. 22, a hearing on the request from the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition to use the Knights of Columbus building at 25 Foster St., Quincy Center, as a shelter.

The Coalition, a group of 45 churches, social and civic agencies and area residents, was formed two years ago to help the homeless and hungry of the area.

Atty. Matthew J. McDonnell, lawyer for the Sheltering Coalition, requested the continuance in a letter to City Clerk John Gillis, board chairman, who was unable to attend the meeting, held at City Hall.

meeting by Police Chief and board member Francis Finn, stated that "The reason for the request is to obtain a building permit and/or certification from the City Building Inspector's office as to the proposed remodeling to be done on the Foster St. location.

"Such certification is required under Mass. General Laws Chapter 140, Section 35; and, while I necessarily do not admit to its applicability, it appears to at least raise some doubt by its statutory wording."

"There's a special statute which says when you're giving a license for a lodging house, plans have to be before the building inspector," McDonnell said. "We have not conceded that the statute applies here, but we didn't want that question before the board."

"Accordingly, the prudent thing to do is to request a continuance, so that assurances can be made to the Licensing Board that the State Building Code will be complied with in all respects.

"It would appear that this certification will take six weeks. Thus, the request for the continuance to Oct. 22," McDonnell further stated in the letter.

Among those present at the License Board meeting were members of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association (QCBPA) which is in opposition to the proposed location of the shelter.

Mayoral, Ward 6 Contests

20% Turnout Seen For First Machines Vote

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Quincy's preliminary election Tuesday, Sept. 10 is an historic one but is expected to attract only a light voter turnout.

For the first time since the city's initial election in 1888, voting machines will be used instead of paper ballots.

City Clerk John Gillis says the punch card machines -- if all goes well -- will speed up the election process. He thinks the official results will be known between 9:30 and 10 p.m.

"The results of last year's state election weren't in until 5 a.m.," remembered Gillis, "those nights are gone forever."

He sees only 20 percent of the city's 46,297 voters going to the polls.

Reason he says, is there are only two contests -- Mayor and Ward 6 City Council -- on the ballot.

"In five out of six wards, there will be only the mayor's race," said Gillis.

"Because of the low turnout," said Gillis, "this will be a very good time for voters to learn how to use the new machines."

"They won't be rushed, and there will be demonstrations at each of the polling places."

"If voters make a mistake, they can have up to three ballots to cast their votes."

"Like anything new, there is resistance at first. But after voters use the new system once, it will become very easy to them."

Mayor Francis McCauley, seeking his third term, will face four challengers in the preliminary election.

Joanne Condon, a four-term city councillor from Ward 6, is considered his major challenger.

Other challengers are Herman A. Pasquerella, 766 Willard St., an English teacher at Quincy High School; David J. Peterson, 559 Willard St., a computer analyst; and Sabina Kavanagh, 857 Quincy Shore Drive, a Quincy businesswoman.

There are six candidates for the Ward 6 council seat being vacated by Mrs. Condon, to run for Mayor.

The committee, which will meet in the Planning Department Conference Room, will also evaluate proposals for the award of design services for construction of the Ross Parking deck.

Central Association To Meet Sept. 11

The Central Middle School Home Association will hold its first meeting of the school year Wednesday, Sept. 11, at 3 p.m. at the school, 1012 Hancock St., Quincy.

Youngsters Raise $1,707 With Cannisters

A total of $1,707.45 was collected by 32 cannister volunteers who travelled throughout the city accepting donations for Jerry's Kids.

The following six volunteers were the top collectors:

Frank Doadid, $196.33; Richard O'Brien, $178.06; Jennifer Santry, $159.34; Peter O'Brien, $159.19; Jennifer Dondoro, $112.53; and Janet Fennelly, $112.53.

Over 25,000 Attend Marina Bay Festival

The third annual Marina Bay Festival held Sunday, at Marina Bay in Squantum, drew a record number of people this year with over 25,000 in attendance.

Over $1,000 was donated to the Muscular Dystrophy fish bowl.

During the Festival, which lasted from noon to 10 p.m., families enjoyed the entertainment of the group Heartbreakers, the Copy Kittens, and many mimes, jugglers and clowns. Children had the opportunity to enjoy such entertainment and free activities as rides and puppet shows.

The highlight of the Festival was a fireworks display, choreographed by Pyrotechnology, Inc., of Boston. The display featured some fireworks never before seen in this area.

In addition, the festivities included an Art Show, sponsored by the Quincy Art Association.

Support personnel were provided by Quincy Civil Defense.

The Festival was sponsored by O'Connell Management and the Mayor's Office, City of Quincy. O'Connell Management is the operator of Marina Bay, formerly the Boston Harbor Marina.

McCauley Sees Drop In Tax Rate

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Quincy's tax rates for fiscal 1986 should be slightly lower than last year if the City Council passes Mayor Francis McCauley's classification plan, and the state also approves it.

McCauley said he expects a residential tax rate of $20.63 and a commercial, industrial and personal property rate of $30.49.

Last year's rates were $21.03 for residential, and $30.86 for commercial, industrial and personal property.

The City Council must pass on McCauley's classification figures and the State Department of Revenue must approve the whole package before the tax rate becomes official.

A public hearing, required by law, on the classification plan is scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 11 at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall.

Monday, Sept. 30, is the target date for putting the tax bills in the mail, according to McCauley. They are due in 30 days.

The State Department of Revenue Tuesday certified the total valuation of the city for fiscal 1986 as $2,056,770,030, McCauley said.

Of that amount, $1,467,585,300 is residential valuation, and $589,184,730 is commercial, industrial and personal property, he said.

The percentages are 71.3539 for residential, according to the mayor, and 28.6461 for commercial, industrial and personal property.

Values last year were $1,436,368,251 or 72.439% for residential, and $546,485,343 or 27.5605% for commercial, industrial and personal property, he said.

Last year's total valuation of the city was $1,982,853,594. That is an increase of $73,916,436 or 3.73%, according to McCauley.

McCauley said he planned to recommend to the council basically the same plan adopted for fiscal 1984-1985. That plan provides for a residential factor of 87.9561, said McCauley, and commercial, industrial and personal property factor of 130 of full fair cash value, the same as the last two years.

McCauley said he could take the package to the state as early as Sept. 13.

He stressed that there are no across the board increases in any of the categories.

Brownell Asks Chlorine Alternative At Nut Island

Quincy Rep. Thomas F. Brownell has asked the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority to stop using liquid chlorine as a means of disinfection at the Nut Island Sewage treatment plant.

Currently, the plant receives deliveries of chlorine from flatbed trailers carrying one-ton canisters of the chemical. However, a new $1.2 million chlorine building at Nut Island will be fully operational by Nov. 30. Under that system, chlorine will be delivered in much larger 16-ton tankers.

Chlorine industry officials say that accidental releases of large quantities of liquid can create a gaseous cloud that could cause injury or death.

According to Brownell, the chlorine building was built over his, the Nut Island Citizens Advisory Committee's and other Quincy officials' objections.

They contend that such a facility is too large, maybe even unnecessary, since Nut Island will eventually be down-graded to a pumping station.

Brownell said, "If the Authority is convinced they need some form of disinfection, they have to find a better way than transporting liquid chlorine through the streets of Quincy. They say 16-ton tankers will mean less trips. It also means that any potential accident will have much worse effects."

The Authority built the chlorine building because of a concern for the safety of their workers. I understand that, but if they're really concerned about public health and safety, they won't truck such a dangerous chemical through Quincy."

A two-car accident at Hancock and Beale Sts. resulted in three people being taken to Quincy City Hospital where they were treated and released.

Injured in the accident early Thursday were Tina M. Russo, 25, of 53 Veronica

"There are alternatives to transporting liquid chlorine," Brownell said. "One option, Sodium Hypochlorite, is very safe and another, generating chlorine on-site, would eliminate the need for trucks."

There may even be options that I'm not aware of. I'm working with Councillor Cheney and Jack Walsh of the Nut Island CAC to have the Authority restudy the disinfection issue. If the Authority isn't responsive, I will consider filing legislation outlawing liquid chlorine."

Rep. Brownell and Councillor Cheney will be meeting with Authority officials soon to determine a time schedule for the study. They hope that a report can be started soon and finished within six or seven months.

Brownell said, "For the next few months anyway, we might be stuck with the tankers. Hopefully, the Authority will agree to the logic behind our arguments and this situation will get resolved."

Ruth Gordon: One Of A Kind

Debbie called me on the intercom, excitement in her voice.

"Ruth Gordon is on the phone."

I picked up the phone and greeted her:

"Hi, beautiful."

She laughed as she always did when I called her that. "Henry," she said, turning serious. "A Charles Flagg called me here and said you wanted him to take a picture of Garson and me for The Sun. Is he your photographer?"

I told her he was, that he had a place on Martha's Vineyard not far from her home and I had told him next time he was down there to go over and say hello and ask to take a photo.

"Okay," she said. "Just wanted to be sure. I probably won't be able to do it today. I have a busy schedule, but tomorrow should be all right."

I thanked her and said:

"I haven't seen or heard much about you lately. You been hiding?"

"Oh, no," she said, her voice rising with enthusiasm. "I've been very busy. Going to make another movie. I'll tell you all about it later. Got to run."

"Don't forget our date," I said before she could run.

"I won't," she said. "I'll touch with you later."

For three years we had been planning to do a television special for Quincy Sun Ch. 8.

It was going to be called something like "Reminiscing With Ruth Gordon." We were going to walk around Winthrop and Elmwood Ave. Wollaston area where she was born and grew up and have her just recall those days as she remembered them.

"We'll make a million with it," she had laughed.

But we never got around to doing it. She was just too busy doing so many other things.

"But we will do it one of these days," she promised, believing there was plenty of time.

The day of that phone call about the photo was Wednesday, Aug. 21.

Flagg took several photos of Ruth and her husband, Garson Kanin and dropped them off to me. They were good—maybe the best ever of the two of them together. They're going to like them, I said to myself, planning to use one of them soon.

Early the following Wednesday, Aug. 28, Dick Koch called me.

"Have you heard?" he asked.

"Heard what?"

"I hate to be the one to tell you because I know of your close friendship. Ruth Gordon has died. A television reporter just called me wanting some information about the amphitheater.

I was stunned.

Just a week ago to the very day she had called about the photo and to tell me about the new movie she was planning to make and how busy she was.

She had sounded just like her old self. Full of pep and enthusiasm. Looking ahead as she always did.

At 88, she still had a lot of things to do.

I told her last November when she came home for the dedication of the Ruth Gordon Amphitheater that she had so much enthusiasm and energy that she could play the role of a high school cheerleader and get away with it.

She laughed at that.

But now, that famous witty voice was stilled. Ruth Gordon, who seemed almost indestructible, was gone.

The phones started ringing, ABC, NBC, Ch. 5, Ch. 56 etc., all looking for information.

was made available to the Associated Press and appeared in newspapers all over the country. It was also shown on TV Chs. 5 and 56 and on Quincy Sun Ch. 8. See Sunbeams column.

We picked out the best photo Flagg had taken that day and gave it to the Associated Press, Ch. 5 and to our own Sun Ch. 8. We also gave videotape clips to Ch. 56 and Ch. 5. The photo appeared in the Boston Globe, The Herald, The New York Times and newspapers all over the country. We gave The Patriot Ledger one of the others.

They are the last known photos of Ruth Gordon. She would have loved them but, sadly, would never see them.

My friendship with Ruth goes back to 1968 when I started The Quincy Sun.

I sent her one of the first copies.

She wrote to thank me and we became friends, communicating by telephone or by letter from then on, and getting together now and then when she came home.

She continued to receive The Sun.

And, she really read it, page by page, story by story. One time when she called she said: "I see your hockey team lost to the Burgin Plainer team."

It was a story back in the sports section but she had seen it.

She said she liked to see the photos of old Quincy in the Burgin Plainer "Remember When" advertisements. "They bring back fond memories," she said.

Once in awhile, she would call to correct a date or a name of long ago.

Her letters were always handwritten—never typed. The personal touch. They were somewhat scrawled though and each one contained a few words that were difficult to make out.

Sometimes it took almost the entire Sun staff to decipher those words.

But the letters were precious. As were her phone calls from the Vineyard and New York City.

She had invited me to be her guest at her Quincy High School Class of 1914 reunion in 1983 but I couldn't make it because I had to take my son, Bob, to the University of New Hampshire for freshman orientation.

She later wrote:

"Sorry you missed the 69th reunion. It was a really warm event. I2 good people glad to see each other. How often does that happen?"

In January, 1982 after we had written a column urging that the uncompleted Ruth Gordon Amphitheater be finished, she wrote:

"Loved reading the note about the Ruth Gordon Amphitheater. Thank you so much for The Quincy Sun."

"Watch Superbowl and you will see the first Quincy born to occupy 30 seconds for which was paid over $300,000 and for only one spot. My first commercial for the Subaru Brat. Thirty seconds! I'll be in a lot of rooms in Quincy. They figure a third of the world's population will watch. Over $300,000!"

"In City Hall, I hope my birth certificate is wearing well."

Although she was fond of her 1914 classmates she was miffed when they went ahead and held their annual reunion last year while she was in Spain.

"The stinkers," she wrote. "They could have picked a different date. If the Neighborhood Club wasn't available on another date, we could have brown-bagged it somewhere else."

But she got over it.

At the amphitheater dedication last year, she smiled, when she thought of it and mused: "I was off making lots of money."

She was delighted at having the amphitheater named after her.

"I am the first person in my family to have a theater named for her. It took a long time. I started toward this 88 years, 11 days and five and a half hours ago. I never face facts, I never listen to good advice. I'm a slow starter, but I get there."

She was grateful to City Councillor Joseph LaRaia for seeing that the amphitheater which was started in 1977 when he was mayor and then virtually abandoned—was finally completed.

And, to Mayor Francis McCauley for proclaiming "Ruth Gordon Day."

The following month she wrote me a letter telling how she felt that day:

"I think it was the best day of my life.

"It was the perfect day—a day on which Quincy seemed to be a dream world all of its own.

"I thought we all took off and went somewhere else. We went somewhere where there was no trouble, or worry, or mean stuff. We all floated off where it all went right.

"I know the work that went into making it happen. Oh My!!"

It was a beautiful day and Ruth Gordon was beautiful that day as she completely captivated her home town.

Although her talent took her to stardom in New York City, Hollywood and overseas, her heart was always here.

She loved Quincy. She was Quincy's "Ambassador of Good Will," and one-woman Quincy Chamber of Commerce.

When I called Garson Kanin on the Vineyard that Wednesday to tell him how sorry I was at Ruth's passing, he told me:

"You were her link to her hometown."

If that is so, I consider it a great honor.

I really loved Ruth Gordon.

I'm going to miss those phone calls and those letters with the words hard to make out.

Most of all, I'm going to miss her.

Not because she was a talented actress.

But because she was a down to earth, nice person, who never gave up and was always ready to take on Broadway, Hollywood, television — and the world.

She was one of a kind.

'Early Pregnancy For Healthy Mom And Baby' At Quincy Hospital

Quincy City Hospital is sponsoring a two-session program, "Early Pregnancy For Healthy Mom And Healthy Baby," for expectant women in their early stages of pregnancy, beginning Thursday, Sept. 12.

The program, for women only, will cover the emotional and physical changes of pregnancy, fetal development, nutrition, exercises and other information that will guide mothers-to-be in making important decisions for themselves and their baby.

Classes will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. on consecutive Thursdays, in the Childbirth Education Classroom in the Family-Centered Maternity Unit.

Expectant women, regardless of their hospital affiliation, may call 773-6100, ext. 291, to register, or to receive a brochure. The program is free to all participants.

Information about other Family and Parent Education courses, sponsored by the hospital's Maternity Department, is available by calling the above number and asking for the Family-Centered Maternity Unit.

Registration is now being accepted for our September programs on Caesarean Childbirth, Breastfeeding, and Sibling Orientation.

Walk To Boston Sept. 9 On Behalf Of Homeless

Quincy residents will join walkers from a number of communities who will participate in a pilgrimage to Boston Common, Sept. 9, on behalf of the homeless.

The 9-mile walk from Quincy will begin at 8 a.m. outside City Hall. The group will trek to North Quincy MBTA station and link up with other walkers. They will then walk over Neponset Bridge and proceed to Boston Common via Neponset and Dorchester Avenues.

Along the route, walkers from Rosie's Place and the Pine Street Inn will join the group as they converge on the Common.

An ad hoc coalition of Eastern Massachusetts faith communities and service providers directly involved with homelessness will sponsor the symbolic walk from North and South Shore, Cambridge, and Dorchester.

There will also be representatives from Cape Cod and Brockton.

According to the coalition, the focus of the pilgrimage for dignity and compassion is:

Concern for the humane side of homelessness, not as a faceless entity; commitment to find affordable housing for all; linking of hands in common effort among those involved in service from the Metropolitan area.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

Steve Downing, Manager

PRICE OR VALUE

QUESTION: Does a low price tag on a house mean it is "automatically" a good buy?

ANSWER: Price is not the only financial consideration — it is not even the most IMPORTANT one. If property is "cheap," there must be a reason. Bargain hunters seldom do well in real estate because they dwell too much on price and not enough on VALUE.

Value is determined by construction, age, zoning, physical condition, comparable prices, income potential (for investment property) and, most importantly, location. Only after value is determined can you make an intelligent judgement as to the fairness of the price.

PRICE IS NOT the overriding consideration. Future value is important.

Public Safety, Shipyard Discussed By Kavanagh

Sabina Kavanagh, candidate for mayor, discussed the issues of public safety, the shipyard, the homeless, and drugs during a candidates night sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Quincy.

"The city is in urgent need of a hotline," said Miss Kavanagh, "where residents can 'drop a dime' and give the Police Department information about drugs or other things going on in the city."

"We also need special policemen for follow-up on the information," she said.

The city also needs more firemen, she said.

"The hospital should have a unit for drug addicts, a heart unit and a kidney dialysis machine for kidney patients," said Miss Kavanagh.

"There is also a need for a hot line going into the hospital for information on drugs, alcohol, cerebral palsy and other problems."

The city also must deal with increased sewerage as the population grows, she said.

ASBESTOS LUNG DISEASE

Asbestos dust causes serious lung ailments; the diseases appear suddenly, years after exposure. Today numerous SHIPYARD WORKERS, MASONS, and PIPEFITTERS of the 1930's-1970's have lung afflictions because they inhaled asbestos particles many years ago.

If you worked in one of those professions then and now have a lung disease, you may be eligible to receive money damages or workers' compensation. Relatives of living and deceased victims can also recover in some cases.

QCAC Cited For Fuel Assistance Program

Fuel Assistance Program Community Action Council (QCAC) was recognized by Citizens Energy Corporation of Boston for its efforts in distributing the non-profit energy company's low cost heating oil to low-income and elderly families throughout the Quincy area this past winter.

Joseph Kennedy, 11 president of Citizens Energy, presented a plaque of recognition to Rosemary Wahlberg, Executive Director of QCAC, stating, "The Quincy Community Action Council has served the public well, and Citizens Energy is pleased to be able to work with this organization to insure that no one is left out in the cold."

Addressing a recent meeting of the Massachusetts Community Action Program Association, Kennedy noted the goal of these programs was "to alleviate poverty, not service it."

Kennedy stressed the necessity for energy conservation in the homes of low-income families to reduce their dependence on fuel assistance.

Citizens Energy Corporation provided over 3 million gallons of low-cost heating oil this winter to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts for distribution through the Fuel Assistance Program.

QCAC distributed over 90,000 gallons of this low-cost oil to poor and elderly families in Norfolk County.

Morrissey Appointed To Water, Harbor Commission

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey has been named a member to the Special Commissions on Water Supply and Boston Harbor, and to a special committee on public employee retirement law.

Morrissey, current chairman of the Committee on Counties, was appointed the additional duties by House Speaker George Keverian.

Morrissey said he has always been an advocate for a better Boston Harbor.

"Over the last few years, we have taken major steps to restore the character of Boston Harbor to be shared by the public and private sector as well. The harbor is big enough to support commercial use as well as recreational needs," said Morrissey.

"Water supply and public employee retirement law are important not only to my constituents, but to all the citizens of the commonwealth. It is for this reason that I will vigorously participate on these committees," he added.

Dual Honors For Young Quincy Chef

At age 23 Paul Sico of Quincy, is well on the road to success.

Sico, of Springfield St., was recently elected to membership in the coveted Massachusetts Chefs de Cuisine, and appointed General Manager of the new 200-seat Whittier House Restaurant, Route 16, West Ossipee, New Hampshire.

Sico, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sico, is a graduate of the Quincy Vocational Technical School, Class of 1979.

For the past four years he has served as assistant executive chef at the 200-bed New England Rehabilitation Hospital, Woburn, at which one of his primary functions has been creating menus for patients and some 750 staff. Before his association with New England Rehabilitation Hospital, Sico was the assistant chef at the exclusive Country Club Heights, a retirement facility adjoining the rehab hospital.

PAUL SICO

The Whittier House is the new acquisition of Edward "Buddy" LeRoux, a general partner with the Boston Red Sox, and Chief Executive Officer of the New England Rehabilitation Hospital.

Becoming a member of the relatively new Chefs de Cuisine is to be associated with an elite and selective organization exclusively for chefs who have made a mark in the culinary world.

Koch Says Basic Services Major Concern Of Residents

Thomas P. Koch, candidate for the Ward 6 City Council seat, reports that basic services remain a major concern of local residents.

Koch said that throughout his house to house campaign he has received many comments regarding the delivery of basic services.

"Residents," says Koch, "are concerned with such things as having their streets cleaned, sidewalks repaired, and new trees planted in place of dead ones."

"Sewerage treatment plants and development are both very important issues and have been addressed accordingly," continues Koch, "but the comments I have received indicate that basic services are just as important."

Koch stresses that a major part of a ward councillor's job should be to guarantee that these types of services are provided efficiently.

Edward Flaherty Promoted At John Hancock

Edward G. Flaherty of Quincy has been promoted to analyst II, western regional services, at John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. it was announced by Sylvia M. Cullington, general director, regional services.

In his new position, Flaherty reviews and analyzes complex loan/surrender/dividend requests on ordinary, monthly and variable life insurance policies.

He joined the insurance company in 1977 as a loan and surrender clerk and entered a four-year military leave with the U.S. Air Force in 1980. He rejoined the Hancock in 1985 as a loan/surrender/dividend clerk in western regional services.

Rev. Zaven Dohanian Interim Pastor At Union Congregational

The Rev. Zaven Dohanian has been called (to serve) as Interim Pastor of Union Congregational Church, 136 Rawson Rd., Wollaston, and began his pastorate on Sunday, September 1.

Rev. Dohanian was born in Somerville, and graduated from Eastern Nazarene College.

His graduate work was done at the Nazarene Theological Seminary, Harvard Divinity School and the University of Southern California. He studied for his Doctor of Ministry at Fuller Theological Seminary, Pasadena, CA.

He has served five churches in Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts over a span of 28 years.

His most recent pastorates have been as Senior Minister at the First Church in Marlborough and Senior Minister at First Congregational Church, Fall River.

Rev. Dohanian has three children: Stephanie (Mrs. Michael Vitale) of East Bridgewater; Lucinda of Providence, R.I.; and James Bryan, who is attending school in this area.

On Sunday, September 15, there will be a luncheon reception for Rev. Dohanian following the worship service.

'Do Not Look Dismal' Sermon Topic At Bethany

There will be one worship service Sunday, Sept. 8, at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary of Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach the sermon entitled "Do Not Look Dismal," based on the scriptural text in Matthew 6:16-18. Harry F. Massey, Jr., will be the lay scripture reader.

The Chancel Choir has returned after a summer sabbatical and will sing as an offertory, "How Near To Us, O God, Thou Art" by Smith. The second anthem will be Copeland's adaptation of the Shaker song, "Tis the Gift to be Simple." Peter E. Krasinski will be at the organ console and directing the choir.

The service will be broadcast by delayed tape at 11 a.m. over radio station WJDA, 1300 kc.

Nursery care for babies and toddlers will be provided.

A fellowship hour will be held in the Allen Parlor at 11 a.m. following the worship service. Individuals and families from the community are cordially invited to share in both the worship and fellowship.

This weekend the Youth Fellowship of Bethany is on a retreat at Camp Burgess on Cape Cod, under the leadership of the associate minister, Rev. Joel F. Huntington.

The Church school will reopen Sunday, Sept. 22.

For additional information about Bethany's ministries and programs, contact the church office at 479-7300.

U.S. Coast Guard Now Accepting Cadet Applications

The United States Coast Guard Academy announces that it is now accepting and processing applications for appointment as Cadet, U.S. Coast Guard, Class of 1990.

Applications are being accepted for both men and women.

Appointments as Coast Guard Cadets are tendered solely on the basis of an annual nationwide competition with no congressional appointments or geographical quotas.

Applications must be submitted to the Director of Admissions, U.S. Coast Guard Academy, prior to Dec. 15. Candidates must arrange to participate in either the College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) or American College Testing Assessment (ACT) prior to or including the Dec. 14 administration for the ACT, and the Dec. 7 administration for the SAT.

Competition for appointment is based on the candidate's high school rank, performance on either the SAT or ACT, and leadership potential as demonstrated by participating in high school extracurricular activities, community affairs and or part-time employment.

To qualify for competition, an applicant must be unmarried at the time of appointment, have no legal obligations resulting from a prior marriage, and must have reached the age of 17 but not 22 by July 1, 1986.

All applicants must be assured of high school graduation by June 1985. Regulations stipulate that all applicants must have completed three units in English, and three in mathematics to include algebra and plane or coordinate geometry or their equivalents, and must fulfill basic physical requirements.

For further information write Director of Admissions, U.S. Coast Guard Academy, New London, CT 06320 or call (203) 444-8501.

Medi Mart Schedules Blood Pressure Screening Sept. 11

A free blood pressure screening for the public will be held Wednesday, Sept. 11 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Medi Mart Drug Store, 225 Quincy Ave., Presidents Plaza, Quincy.

The screening will be conducted by qualified personnel. Anyone with elevated reading will be advised to see a physician.

To help customers keep track of their blood pressure, Medi Mart has developed a new wallet-size record card. The card explains blood pressure and the ranges for normal, border line and high blood pressure, and is being distributed to customers at all Medi Mart pharmacies.

The clinic is one of a series of health screenings held regularly by the drug store chain, which is one of The Stop & Shop Companies, Inc.

'No Good News Anymore?' Topic At Squantum Church

"Is There No Good News Anymore?" was the theme of the pastor's sermon Sunday, at the second service of First Church of Squantum.

Beginning with the untimely death of Samantha Smith, 13, of Maine, who many said stood symbolically for the possibility of world peace, Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin named the situation in Nicaragua and South Africa as two situations which ought to give Christians concern.

Dr. Langevin gave evidence from both Protestant and Catholic sources in Nicaragua that indicates that U.S., through its financial support of the Contras, is actually funding terrorism there.

"This is not a world of good news," Dr. Langevin said, citing the American government's non-response to the turmoil in South Africa as another example of American foreign policy gone awry.

"We have been told that South Africa today is like America was in the 1950's in the midst of the civil rights struggle and to give them time. I tell you that, when we look at South Africa today, we see not the America of the 1950's but of the 1850's -- in the time of slavery -- with police officers wielding whips and clubs, rounding up hundreds of seven-to-twelve-year-olds in armed transport to take them away to jail. We see in our newspapers the faces of children and teens bloodied and bruised. We see a country in which people being shot down in the street is now in the hundreds.

"Can you see this and not know that this is not the American dream? That this South African government is far closer to the goals of Adolph Hitler than to the ideals of Thomas Jefferson or Abraham Lincoln?"

Dr. Langevin mentioned particularly the struggles in South Africa of Christian leaders like Anglican Bishop Desmond Tutu and Rev. Allan Boesak.

"We need to pray for church leaders from the South African Council of Churches who are suffering right now for their commitment to Jesus Christ.

"Yet the good news is that they are on the winning side. They serve a God who has launched a beachhead against the forces of evil that hold this world in their grip, and who are why this is a world with no good news. His cause is His fight against sin.

including racism, and evil and death, which began with His resurrection in Jerusalem two thousand years ago and continues even today.

"We live as 'Good News' people in a 'bad news' world," Dr. Langevin said, concluding with some specific suggestions of things that Christians might do to help change the country's policy in relation to Nicaragua and South Africa.

Tore Wallin and Stewart Scott were the ushers. Pianist Mindi Hurd and organist Mary Ruth Scott played "Sweet Hour of Prayer" as a duet for the offertory. Grace Holmes and Hazel Mayne were in charge of the Fellowship Hour after the service.

In the early service, Dr. Langevin spoke on the subject, "What Does the Christian Faith Have to Do with Me?" During his sermon, he distributed nearly fifty photographs clipped from daily newspapers to focus the attention of the congregation on what was being said.

Another speaker was David Williams, a young person who testified as to what Christ had been doing in his life. Guitarists Mary Ruth Scott, Andrew Ogilvie and David Williams provided the music for the service. Robert Dixey and Deborah Strohberg served as the ushers. Patti and Marci Hurd were in charge of the refreshments.

This Sunday, Sept. 8, there will be two services again: the guitar service at 8:30 a.m. and the traditional service at 10:30 a.m. There will be a dedication of pledges and offerings for the Church Renovation Drive at both services. Visitors are welcome.

Nursery and Sunday School (for children through the 4th grade) is offered at the 10:30 a.m. service. A variety of youth groups are offered throughout the week for the Christian education and fellowship of children and youth from the 5th grade up.

Nutley Urges Mayor Meet With 2 Ward 6 Finalists

Thomas J. Nutley, candidate for the Ward 6 City Council seat, has called upon Mayor Francis McCauley to meet immediately after the Sept. 10 preliminary election with the two Ward 6 City Council finalists.

"Regardless of who wins the primary election in Ward 6," said Nutley, "it is imperative that those finalists have immediate access to the results of the recently completed city-wide traffic study.

"There are simply too many irresponsible and unsubstantiated opinions being expressed about development in the northern section of the city by some candidates for the apparent sake of political gain.

"Let the two finalists have access to that study and they will have the necessary documentation to either oppose, or favor, continued development in a responsible and non-political manner," said Nutley.

"I'm sure that the people of North Quincy--and of the entire city--do not wish to listen to two additional months of political rhetoric by candidates whose only thought is to gain headlines while development continues unabated and without benefit of sufficient community input and a clearly written master plan that would state all aspects of that proposed development.

"It is extremely important that the residents of Ward 6 know well before Nov. 5, exactly how those two Ward 6 City Council finalists feel about development and, equally important, that those two candidates have sufficient knowledge and documentation to substantiate their stand.

"For that reason," said Nutley, "I ask that you (Mayor McCauley) meet with the Ward 6 City Council preliminary election winners within days after the primary and brief them on all aspects of the city-wide traffic study with particular attention to the data that impacts North Quincy."

MICHAEL GOLUB Memorial Scholarship Reception was held recently at the Gazelle, North Quincy. ## Joseph Clancy Of Century 21 VIP

Joseph Clancy, owner of Century 21 Tullish and Clancy Real Estate was recently awarded the VIP designation for completion of the VIP referral and relocation course and for achieving and maintaining the highest level of excellence.

Former director of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors, Clancy is a graduate of the Realtor Institute and is an 18 year veteran of the real estate business.

The award was given by Century 21 President Richard Loughlin and Regional Director Robert Hutchinson.

Accepting the award, Clancy said, "It is the goal of Century 21 Tullish and Clancy Real Estate to increase their share of the relocation market. We believe that the firm's continued dedication to the highest standards of excellence will help to position Century 21 Tullish and Clancy among the leading companies providing relocation services in the South Shore area."

Clancy is a member of the Century 21 Eastern Massachusetts and New Hampshire Brokers Council, the Massachusetts Association of Realtors, and the Brockton and Plymouth County Multiple Listing Services.

He has earned the designation CRS (Certified Residential Specialist) and qualified for the designation C.R.B. (Certified Residential Broker).

He lives at 27 Huntington Rd., Milton with his wife

Geraldine and their four children, Michael Michelle, Erin and Joseph.

Century 21 Tullish and Clancy maintains an office at 15 Foster St., Quincy.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK.

It is often difficult to "speak one's mind" both in private and public conversation or debate. Worry about whether what you say will make sense; fear that others may immediately disagree; and the ultimate concern that you may have to defend your statement keeps many from making the effort.

Most people will, upon very little urging, take a stand for or against an issue among friends at the coffee shop, the barbershop, or even while buying groceries...

Let us consider the consequences of not speaking out for what you believe. No one else may know your feelings. No one may help you with a problem or a concern. You may go away from the conversation feeling somehow "cheated"—robbed of a real opportunity to do something.

Isn't it true that many a good idea has died for lack of communicating to another? Isn't it true that putting a concern into words not only lays it on the table for examination by those who might be able to do something about it—it relieves the burden of carrying those concerns alone? You will have, at least, shared them with others... And most importantly, you will feel better for having done so...

Sheridan Says SS Commuter Rail Should Be Scrutinized

Ward 6 City Council candidate Richard Sheridan, Jr., told his supporters that alternatives to commuter rail service from Boston to the South Shore must be scrutinized before any decisions are forthcoming.

Sheridan said he attended a recent meeting of the Quincy City Council where a director of construction for the MBTA asked that body to consider the possibility of two commuter rail stops in Quincy.

He said he urged the council at that time not to consider the thought, Quincy has all it can do to handle current traffic problems.

Some $69 million was paid to improve the structural integrity of the Southeast Expressway and its overpasses without increasing its capacity by a single car, he said.

Sheridan also questions a recent study conducted by the transit system which they claim revealed that a majority of commuters interviewed, vowed to support a commuter rail system.

He said there are commuters who ride to Boston who will hopefully resort to commuter rail. However, they will convert to a commuter only for the purpose of comfort and reliability. "In the event there are two stops in Quincy, ridership on the Red Line will drop significantly while commuter rail service will end up with more than it can handle."

"Why not get the maximum utilization of the money we invest in the Southeast Expressway by increasing the park-ride concept and promoting additional commuter bus services from the South Shore to Boston. It would seem to me however, the most logical solution would be to extend the Red Line rather than constructing a new rail system and building another bridge over the Neponset River."

Ruth Gordon: Spunky, Talented

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Ruth Gordon often entertained audiences with her account of coming into this world on a "cold, dark October morning" in 1896 at 41 Winthrop Ave., Wollaston.

"Dr. Gordon gave me some brisk slaps until they said they could hear me across the street at the Congregational Church," she'd say.

That unmistakable voice was eventually to be heard by millions not only in this country but across the world as she pursued a highly successful acting career which spanned 70 years and came to a close when she died Aug. 28.

She was with her husband of 43-years, author-playwright Garson Kanin, at their summer home in Edgartown, Martha's Vineyard, when she died in her sleep at the age of 88. He was holding her hand.

Her death was attributed to a stroke. There are to be no funeral or memorial services, according to her wishes. She was cremated.

The last day of her life was wonderful, said Kanin, who described a pleasant day filled with work on a play, errands, and a walk downtown with her husband.

She had a life with many wonderful days.

"From the time I knew her, she thought of nothing else but being an actress," said Margaret Magee Browne, 88, a fellow member of the Quincy High School class of 1914, called the "worst class" because no one made the honor roll.

"We used to pay 10 cents to go into Boston by train from Wollaston," said Mrs. Browne, "then we'd pay 25 cents to sit in the balcony and watch plays at the Castle Square Theatre in the South End."

"Ruth would talk about the play all the way home," said Mrs. Browne, class secretary.

"I'm really proud of her because she reached for a star and she got it. She became a very wonderful actress."

The going wasn't always easy.

She went to drama classes as a young girl and was told by the teacher not to come back because she didn't show any progress.

But displaying the spunk that was to stay with her throughout her career, she recounted, "I went home and told Mama, they told me not to come back because I'm a natural actress."

A week or two after graduation she left for New York where her father paid the $400 tuition for a year at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts.

The last day of school the president said to her, "well, you've been a good pupil, you've been obedient, you have tried, you have done what the teachers asked you to do, but we have decided that you show no promise, and so we can't graduate you."

"Well," Miss Gordon recounted later, "that's a horrible moment. That's the moment you could give up."

"...And in that moment my courage just reeled inside me and said, 'Stick up for yourself, Ruth.' And I was five feet nothing, so full of courage. And I said to myself, 'I didn't fail, I didn't fail, they failed.'"

"I didn't say I was an actress; I said I want to be an actress; they said they could teach me. They didn't teach me. They took Papa's $400.

They didn't teach me.

"O.K. commencement. I will commence. I will be something. I will be great. And this time I was."

She played Nibs in "Peter Pan" at the Empire Theater in New York in 1915 in her first stage role, then went on to write and star in many plays and movies.

Her first bid for stardom after 25 years in the theater came when she played Mary Todd in "Abraham Lincoln in Illinois" in 1939.

In the early 1940s at the age of 46, she married Kanin, a top flight Hollywood movie director who was then a private in the army.

"They had a very happy marriage," said Mrs. Browne, "he was 15 years younger than she, but he was devoted to her."

She had married Gregory Kelly in 1918 but that marriage ended six years later when he died. Miss Gordon had also had a love affair with a producer, Jed Harris, with whom she had her only child, a son, James Harris.

She had a grandson, Jack Harris.

She and Kanin wrote the screenplays to the Spencer Tracy-Katherine Hepburn classics "Pat and Mike" and "A.S. Amos Rib."

She was nominated for an Oscar for "Inside Daisy Clover," made in 1965, but didn't receive that award until 1968 at age 72 for her supporting role in "Rosemary's Baby."

"I can't tell you how encouraging a thing like this is," she said in her acceptance speech.

She won an Emmy award in 1979 for a TV episode of "Taxi."

She was known to younger audiences for her roles in "Where's Papa," "Harold and Maude," and as Clint Eastwood's mother in "Every Which Way But Loose," and "Any Which Way You Can."

No matter where she went, she always remembered her home town and returned when she could.

She attended many of her high school reunions, the last time in 1983 at the age of 86.

"We're 69 years smarter than when we graduated," she quipped at the time, "If we could have known 69 years ago that we'd be solvent enough to pay for lunch at the Neighborhood Club."

Miss Gordon also returned to Quincy Nov. 10, 1984 for Ruth Gordon Day and dedication of the Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre in Merrymount Park.

It turned out to be her last visit to her hometown.

"I'm the first person in my family to have a theater named for her," she told the crowd at the amphitheatre. "It took a long time. I started toward this 88 years, 11 days and five and half hours ago."

"I never face the facts. I never listen to good advice. I'm a slow starter, but I get there."

She captivated people from fans too young to remember her early successes to the news media to the mayor of the city.

"She was a witty, sparkling-type person," said Mayor Francis McCauley.

Miss Gordon later wrote to her friend, Henry Bosworth, Quincy Sun publisher, what that day had meant to her:

"I think it was the best day in my life.

"It was the perfect day - a day on which Quincy seemed to be a dream world all of its own. "I thought we all took off and went somewhere else. We went somewhere where there was no trouble, or worry or mean stuff. We all floated off where it all went right."

Perhaps she has found that place again.

Walsh Endorsed By 2 Labor Groups

John J. Walsh, candidate for Ward 6 City Councillor, has been endorsed by both the Norfolk County Labor Council (AFL-CIO) and the Quincy and South Shore Building and Construction Trades Council (AFL-CIO).

Walsh, a member of various union locals throughout his life, said to the members in accepting his endorsement:

"As a family man, I know what it takes to put food on the table, a roof over your head, and provide for a family. As a councillor, I would continue to maintain my understanding and identification with the working men and women that are America's backbone.

"Labor has been facing much hostility lately, particularly because many of our elected officials don't understand or recognize our problems and concerns." As a councillor, Walsh said, "I will make the needs of labor one of my priorities."

Walsh noted that, "The day of my 16th birthday, I was a union member, paying my dues and appreciating the hard won benefits and clean and safe working conditions that my local had negotiated with management for."

He promised union members, "You will have a friend of labor with me as your councillor."

Walsh said his committee will be distributing to each home in Ward 6 a copy of the booklet "Voting by Punch-card Ballot."

"It is important that all citizens become familiar with this new method of voting, so that they may accurately cast their ballots."

Noting that it will be the first time punch cards are used in a Ward 6 election, he said, "This will help to avoid the confusion that this method of voting has caused in other communities."

"This book will be an invaluable aid to the citizens," added Walsh.

As a councillor, Walsh said that he would, "Make voter education a priority. In this way, voter apathy may be curtailed."

License Board Briefs

The License Board took the following action at its Sept. 3 meeting at City Hall:

total in its 10th year in 1986.

Money raised here goes to help finance the research fight against the cruel disease which affects many children and for patient care.

Activities at the pledge center were carried over a cable television network via American Cablesystems on Labor Day.

The special program was telecast from The Quincy Sun live in Quincy on Ch. 3 and Sun Ch. 8, and in Milton and Randolph.

It was shown delayed by video tape in Hingham, Hull, Cohasset, Hanover and Norwell.

Radio station WJDA carried live progress reports on the half-hour.

A $400 Litton microwave oven donated by John Poreca of Vesco, Inc., West Quincy, was won by Deputy Sheriff Robert Gibson of Dedham who volunteered his services as a security guard along with other members of Sheriff Clifford Marshall's office.

Those who made a $1 donation to the fishbowl were eligible to win the microwave oven in a drawing.

Sun publisher Henry Bosworth and Richard Koch, Sr., executive secretary of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board are co-chairmen of the Quincy-South Shore Jerry Lewis Telethon Committee.

"It was a fantastic day and we are most grateful to the many, many people who helped us over the Labor Day weekend," they said.

"It is impossible to thank each one individually. But to all of you who helped at the pledge center, called in a pledge or came by to donate money to the fishbowl—especially you youngsters—we say, thank you, most sincerely.

"There are a lot of nice people in this world and many of them are right here in Quincy and on the South Shore.

"We certainly met and heard from many, many of them over the Labor Day weekend.

"Thank you again for being so kind to Jerry's Kids."

Johanna Donovan Honored By Bank

Johanna Donovan of Quincy was among sixty-five Boston teachers honored by Bank of New England at an awards ceremony for its first graduating class of Bank of New England Teacher Fellows.

Last summer she and other elementary school teachers in that public school system attended intensive summer studies at either Simmons or Wheelock Colleges with four follow-up sessions during the school year.

This is the first such program linking a major private sector institution to the funding of improved teaching in an urban setting, according to the Council of the Great City Schools.

Francis Doherty Receives Scholarship

Francis Doherty was awarded the Frank and Janet Goudy Memorial Scholarship as a graduating senior at Quincy Vocational Technical School.

The name of the scholarship was inadvertently omitted from information submitted by the school and printed in the June 6 edition of The Quincy Sun.

Contest To Find Out Who Grows Best Tomato

Quincy farmers and those growers who help supply the Quincy Farmers' Market are being encouraged to compete in a state-sponsored tomato contest Sept. 11, in downtown Lawrence.

Anneli Johnson, food expert with the Norfolk County Extension Service—Nutrition Agency, headquartered at the JFK Center, Quincy, said Mass. Agriculture Commissioner August Schumacher, Jr., announced that his agency is sponsoring the contest because he feels the best tasting and highest quality tomatoes are being grown right in the Bay State.

Because this is the peak harvest season Schumacher wants to find out which varieties are judged tops by leading food experts and let the public know that Massachusetts grows the best tomatoes.

Johnson, who helped organized the Farmers' Market in Quincy, four years ago, said the judging by food experts from Massachusetts, New York and Washington, D.C. at 11 a.m. Sept. 11, will consider taste, color and slicing qualities in their evaluation.

A total of $750 in cash prizes will be distributed to "best tomato" grown by a local farmer, gardener, and by grower at the Lawrence Farmers' Market which is the 51st and newest member of the state federation of farm markets.

Johnson also said growers at the Quincy market plan to wholesale boxes of tomatoes for fall canning. Johnson will be at the market to distribute informational literature on canning, published by the Norfolk County Extension Service, and also offer advice to those planning to can produce this fall.

Aerobics Class to Resume At Faith Lutheran

The Faith Lutheran Church of Quincy announced that the aerobics class will resume Sept. 10.

More Creative Leadership Needed, Says Hanabury

Marilyn D. Hanabury, candidate for Ward 6 City Council seat, says she was prompted to run for that position by what she sees as the need for more creative leadership from elected officials.

The fact that the clean-up of Boston Harbor/Quincy Bay has been a political issue for years is a prime example, she says.

Inasmuch as she lives on Quincy Shore Drive, she says she has a bird's eye view of the road, and sees some improvement in the control of traffic. But, speeding is still a threat, cars consistently run the red-yellow lights, and trucks although prohibited still travel the road, according to Mrs. Hanabury.

MDC visibility on a continuing basis is necessary for enforcement, and with the added development in Ward 6, the problem of traffic will be gigantic, she says.

Squantum residents in particular, face serious problems created by new developments including traffic congestion and adequate sewer and water service, she says.

In addition, the causeway, the only access to Squantum, is badly in need of reconstruction. Squantum residents are all but stranded after a heavy rain and the problem is worsening, according to Mrs. Hanabury.

A life long resident of Quincy, she is a graduate of Quincy schools, previous delegate to the Democratic National Convention and one of the first recipients of the South Shore Women's Political Caucus awards.

As co-owner of the Shea Real Estate in Wollaston Center, Mrs. Hanabury will be available not only for City Council meetings but also licensing, planning and zoning board meetings.

Because I work for myself in a service oriented business developed through years of experience and maturity, I feel I can best work for you," she says.

Other issues facing the City of Quincy involve the resolution of General Dynamics and finding a "home for the homeless" to which she is committed, says Mrs. Hanabury.

Andrew Walsh Named To WGBH Community Advisory Board

A Quincy restaurateur has been named to a three-year term on the Community Advisory Board of WGBH Educational Foundation.

Andrew T. Walsh of Quincy, owner of Walsh's Restaurants in the city, and Marshfield, joins a board composed of 25 volunteers who are chosen to reflect the diverse needs and interest of the community which WGBH television serves.

The board reviews programming goals and policies and advises the foundation's Board of Trustees on the degree to which these policies meet the specialized educational and cultural needs of the community.

Walsh is president of the Quincy Symphony Orchestra, member of South Shore Chamber of Commerce and the National Restaurant Association and an incorporator of the Quincy Savings Bank.

He holds a Masters Degree in Philosophy from Fordham University and is a member of the Quincy Rotary Club and the Society of Former Special Agents of the FBI.

The Foundation operates three public broadcasting stations in Boston: WGBH-TV (Channel 2), WGBX-TV (Channel 44) and WGBH-FM 89.7.

GARY ORLANDO and SHERRI CAVALLO (seated, foreground) both recent graduates of Quincy High School, were awarded the Sawyer Towers and Louis George Protestant Women's Scholarships by the worship group at Sawyer Towers, which meets regularly with the Rev. M. Alicia Corea (standing, left). Both Gary and Sherri will attend Northeastern University in the fall. Present at the awards ceremony were, (second row, left to right) Louise Rhoda, Eleanor Guttererson, Lillian Hourula, Ruth Seidel, Marion Hyson, Annie Coffin. ### WEEK OF: SEPTEMBER 5

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
Budget benefits from a thorough - and realistic - review. Recent tensions at work ease up thanks to your more upbeat attitude. Talents as a public speaker are admired by highups.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
New challenges greet you, and you enjoy new satisfaction at the workplace. At home especially, avoid making snap decisions. Launch dates for projects may be postponed.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
You excel at detective work and can solve a key mystery at home or at the workplace. Family discussions can heat up, a youngster may prove the best mediator.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
There's a trend to being bolder, but don't overdo things in the decorating department. Friends are more supportive. Less judgmental. Travel arrangements may undergo last-minute changes.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
Educational expansion is favored, you may be embarking on an all new area of learning. Curiosity is your middle name but don't be too obvious with your questions.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
Romantic revival is highlighted as you rebound from a recent slump. You impress highups with your ability to make quick decisions. Loved one's status receives a major boost.

LEO - July 23-August 22
Bright spots include modest financial windfall and good news from faraway places. Don't be overly quick to accept invitations - especially by those that appeal to your ego.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
A splendid week for embarking on creative projects. Professional activities, though, may benefit from a more traditional approach. If signing agreements, read between every little line.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
Friendship takes a supporting role to financial and career matters. Sense of humor helps you cope with a demanding situation. Decorating and designing are favored activities.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
Enjoy several lucky days, but don't ignore the hard work required for seeing projects through to completion. Spend added time on health and recreational pursuits.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
Partner's disposition is unpredictable, but you shouldn't press. Interesting times are spent at familiar places. Friend becomes more optimistic thanks to your quiet but steady encouragement.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
It's tempting to make decisions for others, but resist such temptations, especially where cash is involved. If traveling, you may find yourself visiting a spot that has long intrigued you.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Friends know you to be meticulous, sometimes finicky, usually a perfectionist. But there's another side too: You're charitable and a supporter, rather than leadership, role. Business ideas may be unusually bright.

BORN THIS WEEK
September 5th, actor Bob Newhart, 6th, actress Jo Anne Worley, 7th, director Elia Kazan, 8th, comedian Don Rickles, 9th, actress Kris ty McNichol, 10th, singer Jose Feliciano, 11th, actor Earl Holliman.

Police, News Media Winners In MDA Softball Doubleheader

The Quincy Police Department defeated the Fire Department, 8-3, in the opener of the twin bill while the News Media edged the City Officials in the nightcap, 36-28.

The real winner was Muscular Dystrophy with $800 received to date from the Police and Fire Department members and the City Officials and News Media participating.

In the first inning, the Fire Department scored two runs but the Police responded in their half to tie the score and moved ahead in the third to put the game out of reach.

In the nightcap, the News Media entry coached by Henry Bosworth scored seven runs in the first inning to set the pace for the slugfest.

Knocking out home runs for the News Media were John McKay of the Patriot Ledger, John Nickerson, of WJDA, Bob Bosworth and Fred Happle of The Quincy

Koch Club Wins MDA Benefit Doubleheader

The Koch Club softball team swept a doubleheader from the Yacubian All-Stars, 5-4 and 5-2, in a Muscular Dystrophy event held at Kincaide Park on Sunday morning.

The team participants donated $250 to the Quincy-South Shore Labor Day

Telethon from the fun twin bill.

Tom Koch was the winning pitcher in the opener and aided his own cause with a pair of hits and two runs batted in while brother Dick Koch, Jr. belted a home run for the winners. Tom Hall was the losing pitcher in the close decision.

In the second game, Dick Koch, Jr. pitched the win for the Koch Club with steady fielding and hitting support from his teammates.

The traditional game is played by both teams on behalf of Muscular Dystrophy with Dr. Allan Yacubian and Paul Koch, organizers of the fundraising event. All players contributed to the total for Muscular Dystrophy.

Presidents Open Sept. 20 Under Lights

Raymer Has A Young Team At Quincy

Jack Raymer's first season as Quincy's head football coach last fall was marred by numerous injuries which prevented him from putting the same team on the field two games in a row.

However, the Presidents finished with a winning (5-4) record and, with most players back in the lineup, they defeated North Quincy to earn the city title.

Raymer lost his entire starting team through graduation but many of this season's players gained a good deal of playing experience due to the many injuries. The second-year coach has a large number of lettermen but the team is young and he will be using several juniors.

"I expect a well-balanced offense and I will be using a pro-type T attack which means we won't actually have a fullback," Raymer said. "When we do change our offense and use a fullback, it will be junior Steve Picarski."

Raymer feels the keys to the offense will be his wide receivers, led by veterans Don Parry and George McGuinness, both outstanding receivers.

"McGuinness has good speed and had a fantastic day against Brockton last year, while Parry is just an outstanding pass receiver," the coach said.

Raymer will have a hard time replacing Billy Shaughnessy, who had a sensational season as quarterback in 1984. He earned a full scholarship to UMass Amherst and was named the offensive MVP in the Harry Agganis all-star game.

Steve Austin and Larry Taglieri are waging a close battle for the starting job and sophomore Jay Bennett and Dan Overby also look promising.

"Both Austin, who right now looks like number one, and Taglieri are capable passers and will be key men in our offense," Raymer said.

Mark Porzio and Chris Veneto lead the running backs and Ron Luisi, Kevin Jolly, Ken Southwick, Mike O'Connor, Picarski, Joel Rogers, Dennis DeCoste, Joe Innello and sophomores Ernie Light, Steve Freeland and Chris Kohler are other promising ball carriers.

Joining Parry and McGuinness as wide receivers are Fran Garvey, Mark Farrand, Steve Gardner and Wes Crowley.

The offensive line will have John Heath, Norman Hassan and Karl Staskiewicz at center, guards Kevin Devonshire, Rich Smith, John Bogan, Tom Bjork, Paul Munafio and Frank Calabro, and guards Paul Lally, Dave Savage, Mike Eastwich, Dave Schofield and Mike Madden. Quincy will not have a big team but Raymer has several good-sized players. Savage and Lally weigh 215, Gardner 190 and Heath, Devonshire and Smith 185.

"We are not getting to very big but we will have good speed," according to Raymer.

Jack has only one returning assistant, Mitch Finnegan, who moves up from freshman coach. Former President John Taglieri joins Raymer's "North Quincy connection." Peter Chrisom, Kevin Kelly and Jim Kennedy as varsity aides. Three former Quincy players, Frank Gaudiano, Mike Righini and Chris Dracchio are the new freshman coaches.

Quincy opens its season against Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday night, Sept. 20, at Veterans Memorial Stadium and will be at Brookline Sept. 28. Both are Suburban League games.

Foley, Bradley Win Cade Cup

Bob Foley of the host club and Bob Bradley of Ponkapoag won the championship of the 38th annual William E. Cade Cup golf tournament at the Furnace Brook Golf Club.

Foley and Bradley defeated Marty Healy of the host club and Tom Papoulias of Ponkapoag in the championship match.

In the semifinals of the championship flight Foley and Bradley defeated Wayne Fick of FB and Skip King of Plymouth and Healy and Papoulias defeated Paul De-Federico of FB and Ed Bradley of Rockland.

Harold McCarthy of FB and Dave Ferrari of Wollaston won the first flight, defeating Paul Cariani of FB and Tom Costa of Pembroke in the finals.

In the semifinals McCarthy and Ferrari defeated Ken O'Malley of FB and Sean Byrne of Walpole and Ceriani and Costa defeated Al Citrano of FB and Don Grow of Pembroke.

The second flight was won by George Robbins of FB and Don Robbins of Rockland, who defeated Bud Sullivan of FB and Kevin Folan of Pembroke in 19 holes.

In the semifinals Sullivan and Folan defeated Walter Henderson of FB and Tom McBrean, unattached, and Robbins and Robbins defeated Glen Montgomery of FB and Bill Montgomery of Rockland.

In the championship consolation John Adams of FB and Tim O'Leary of West Warwick, R.I., defeated J. D. Murphy of FB and Paul Mahoney of Wollaston in the finals.

In the semifinals Adams and O'Leary defeated John Catrabone Jr. of FB and John Catrabone Sr. of South Shore in 19 holes and Murphy and Mahoney defeated Brad Buckley of FB and Brian Buckley of Pembroke.

The defending champions, Tom Gleason of FB and George O'Rourke of Braintree, were defeated by Bill Skudliski of FB and Don Lamb, unattached, in the semifinals of the first flight consolation.

Babe Ruth Players Bomb Coaches, 19-6

The Babe Ruth League 15-year-old All-Stars easily defeated the league coaches, 19-6, last week under the lights at Adams Field.

Wollaston Legion coach Mike Gormley, formerly of Local 1139 in the Babe Ruth League, organized the game played for the benefit of the Jimmy Fund and $300 was raised.

For the All-Stars, Bob

Higgins of Hancock Bank had three hits, Dan Biagini of Granite City Electric two doubles, Jay Rodriguez of Bryan Post a triple and single, Larry Beguerie of Houghs Neck a home run, Jay Lespasio of Houghs Neck a triple and Karl Staskywick of Barry's Deli a double.

The coaches' offense was led by Bryan Post's Jim Higgins with three hits. Steve Buckley of Local 1139, Tom Mullaney of Granite City Electric and Bob McCulley of the Police Club had two each.

All-Star pitchers were Lespasio, Rodriguez, Beguerie, Higgins, Rick Ames of Police, Hank Miller of Hancock Bank, Michael Mullaney of Granite City and Mike Pacetti of the Firemen.

Pitching for the coaches were Higgins, who struck out five in two innings; Gormley, Dick Crespi of Golden Print and Peter Niosi of Granite City. Police coaches John DiNardo and John Franceschini pitched hitless ball over the last two innings and struck out five. Buckley was outstanding behind the plate, catching the entire game.

The All-Stars were coached by Bill LaForest of Hancock and Tom Foley of Bryan Post. Also playing were Joe Manning of Local 1139, Eric Goodman of Firemen, John Pennellatore and Jim Ross of the Sons of Italy and Bob Thomas of Golden Print.

Also playing for the coaches were Rick Higgins of Houghs Neck, Bud Boudreau of Morrisette, Jay Trapey of Barry's and Dick Laracy of Quincy Legion, formerly of the Elks.

League officials thank Barry Simon and Mark Paul, who volunteered their services as umpires and George Page and his crew, who had the field in top condition despite several days of rain.

Marathon Softball Game Sept. 6 For Cancer Victim

A marathon softball game will be held Friday, Sept. 6, to benefit Mrs. Sandra Louirio, a member of the Quincy City Hospital nursing staff who is suffering from bone cancer.

The 32-hour game will begin at 4 p.m. at Rotary Field with the Quincy City Hospital fundraising committee facing the hospital administration/medical staff.

At 6:30 p.m., a game will be played between radio stations WHDH/WZOU and the Fundraising Committee. The game will continue through Saturday, Sept. 7, at midnight.

Players will include members of the QCH nursing, medical, administrative and hospital staff. All players are being sponsored by pledges from their fellow employees and friends.

In addition, there will be a drawing for a free rental of a late model Cadillac for a four day weekend of the winner's choice, donated by National Car Rental.

The winner will be selected Saturday afternoon at Rotary Field where the Cadillac will be displayed.

Mrs. Louirio gave birth to her third child in October, 1983, and was diagnosed as having bone cancer. Since then, she has been operated on and hospitalized several times. She receives weekly chemotherapy treatments.

In addition, her husband Steve, while between jobs, was involved in an auto accident which resulted in a fractured neck. His head is immobilized in a "halo" and he will be unable to work for an extended period of time.

The public is invited to attend the softball marathon. Contributions to the Sandra Louirio, LPN Fund, can be made at the game, or may be arranged by calling the QCH community relations office at 773-6100, ext. 218.

Raiders Open At Night Sept. 13

Major Rebuilding Project For McPhee

By TOM SULLIVAN
North Quincy football coach Ken McPhee, having lost 32 seniors from last season's 7-3 squad, faces a major rebuilding job as he prepares the Raiders for their night opener Sept. 13 against Weymouth South at Veterans Memorial Stadium. This will be the first night schoolboy game ever played in Quincy.

"We are inexperienced but these kids are working very hard and I think we will do all right," McPhee, starting his fourth year as coach, said. "We have only two returnees who saw any real varsity action. Co-captains Steve Miller and Rob Bradley, plus a few other lettermen. But these boys are determined to keep up the North Quincy tradition and this is as fine a group as I have ever worked with. We have some good size."

Offensively Chuck McGrail and Jim Mulvey are the leading tight ends, Miller (210), Mike Hugyo (240) and Todd Maynard are the tackles, Ed Begley (190), Kevin McCarthy and Don Clancy (195) are the guards, Mike Cicerone, Mark Bilton, Angelo Kapetanakis and Bob Alfano are the wide receivers and Ken Kemp (200), Tim Kelly and Tom McDonald are the centers.

Chris Gray is the number one quarterback with John Broadbent as backup, Bradley and Leo LeMay are the top halfbacks and Gary McNamara the fullback.

Ted Shionis is another quarterback hopeful. Kevin McCluskey is a good looking halfback, Sean Shield and Bill Scott are promising ends and Brian Flukes and Chris Malloy are other tackle aspirants.

"We will have a well-balanced attack," the Raider coach said. "Gray is a good passer and will get better and LeMay, Bradley and McNamara are all fine runners."

On defense Flukes, McGrail, McNamara and twins Kevin and Keith Segalla are the ends, Bob Casey, Miller, Don Conway (230), Maynard, Hugyo, Scott Williams and Malloy the tackles, John Ainsley, Clancy and Michael Bowes noseguards, McCarthy, Begley, Kelly and Tom Dolan linebacksers and Bradley, Cicerone, Kemp, LeMay, Bilton, John Pacino, Scott Chansky, Tom Casey (220) and Brian Callow in the secondary.

"I'm pleased with the defense in early practices," said McPhee. "The linebacksers look especially good and they are an integral part of any defense. We have Glenn Segalla as a new coach and he is doing a fine job with the linebacksers."

Segalla, a former Raider all-scholastic, starred at Plymouth State College where he was captain and a Division 3 All-American as a linebacker.

"I feel we will give everyone a battle and no group ever worked harder," the North skipper said. "I'll know better after some outside scrimmages."

North scrimmaged Braintree last Saturday morning at Veterans Memorial Stadium as part of the second annual Alumni Day and will scrimmage at Scituate this Saturday.

Following the Raiders' early opener against Weymouth South, they will play at Milton on Sept. 21. Their first Suburban League game will be at home against defending champion Brockton on Oct. 5.

McPhee has Ted Sadowski, Mark Mulvaney, Pete Zoia and Kevin Cobban back as assistants and, in addition to Segalla, he has a new freshman coach, another former North star, Jamie Walsh.

Jaehnig Club Ties For Second Place

The South Shore Sports Center men's basketball league ended its regular season last week with only two games separating the top six teams.

The Jaehnig Chiropractic Club of Quincy defeated North Quincy in its final game, finishing in a second place tie one game behind J. B. Heating, J. B. Heating, Jaehnig, the Hawks and Hurricanes will take part in the playoffs beginning Sunday.

The final standings: J. B. Heating, 7-2; Jaehnig, 6-3; Hawks, 6-3; Hurricanes, 6-3; Beer Bellies, 5-4; John Hancock, 5-4; Gunners, 4-5; North Quincy, 2-7; Purple Reign, 2-7; Jetsons, 2-7.

Swim Club Seeks New Members

The Greater Boston Swim Club, which includes swimmers ages six to 18 from many Greater Boston communities including Quincy, is seeking new members and registration will be held starting Sept. 16 from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Murphy School in Neponset.

The winter season includes meets throughout New England and concludes with a championship meet in March. Further information can be had by calling Carl Cedarquist at 335-3824 or Steve Quimby at 583-6581.

Laila DiSilvio of Quincy recently swam in the N.E. long course championships at Harvard and turned in her best time in the 100 meter breaststroke for the 11-12 year old team.

Fall Trip Planned By Historical Society

Wednesday, Sept. 18, is the deadline for reservations for a fall trip by the Quincy Historical Society Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 19 and 20. Along with New England's and New York's fall season, the society intends to visit Hancock Shaker Village in the Berkshires, the New York State Museum and Empire Plaza in Albany, N.H. and Cooperstown's Farmers' Museum, Fenimore House, a folk art museum, and the National Baseball Hall of Fame.

The extensive Shaker settlement in Hancock now has 18 of its 20 buildings open and filled with collections of Shaker furnishings and other artifacts.

The New York State Museum and Empire Plaza will take the group to Albany, the capitol of the Empire State. The museum is one of the oldest and largest state museums in the United States.

Empire Plaza is New York's government center and is housed in a castle designed by Henry Hobson Richardson, the creator of Quincy's Crane Library and Boston's Trinity Church.

Cooperstown, climax of the trip, has Farmer's Museum, Fenimore House, and the National Baseball Hall of Fame.

The fee includes transportation by deluxe motor coach, all admissions, overnight accommodations at the Otesage Hotel on Otesage Lake, Saturday's meals - wake-up breakfast, picnic lunch and dinner, Sunday - breakfast and lunch, all taxes and tips and a $10 tax deductible contribution to the Quincy Historical Society.

Reservations are limited. The society reserves the right to cancel the trip at any time.

Cancellation of reservation for full refund must be made before Sept. 18.

To make reservations, call the Quincy Historical Society office, Adams Academy, 8 Adams St., Quincy, 773-1144.

'Happening For Homeless'

Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition will sponsor "A Happening for the Homeless" Saturday, Sept. 21 from noon to 8 p.m. at Pageant Field, Southern Artery, Quincy.

The fund raising event includes games, food, entertainment, raffles, and crafts.

Help is needed in these areas:

Professional entertainers willing to donate time; organizations, clubs, and churches to sponsor booths; children's entertainers such as clowns, face painters, story tellers; volunteers to staff booths; donated handmade items and raffle items.

Anyone bringing 50 returnable cans will receive $5 worth of coupons for the games and food.

Questions and responses should be made to Nancy Powers at 472-2345 or be mailed to Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition, P.O. Box 2512, Quincy, 02269.

'Quincy Remembers'

Sept. 12

The continuing "Quincy Remembers" series of the Quincy Historical Society will present David P. Hodgdon, consultant in the field of outdoor education and recreation as well as in the environmental field, Thursday, Sept. 12.

Hodgdon is also president and founder of Friends of the Blue Hills, an organization committed to the preservation and enjoyment by all of the Blue Hills Reservation.

The program will be held at the Adams Academy Building, 8 Adams St., Quincy, at 1:30 p.m.

Refreshments will be served. The program is open to the public and there is no admission charge.

Morrisette Road Race Set For Oct. 14

The Morrisette Legion Post will hold its 10th annual 5.4 mile road race Monday, Oct. 14, starting at noon.

The race will begin and end at the Morrisette Post home on Miller Street. The course will be well-marked and challenging.

There will be prizes for the first three male and female finishers in the following divisions: Open, 40 and over, 50 and over and to the first male and female finishers 60 and over. There will be medals for 20 more finishers.

The race, limited to the first 300 registered runners, is sanctioned by the New England Athletics Congress.

There is a $3 entry fee until Oct. 10 and $5 fee after that. Further information can be had by writing Cyril P.

Morrisette Post No. 294 Road Race, c/o Frank Mullen, 54 Miller Street, Quincy 02169 or by calling 472-9193.

Former North Quincy High star Bart Petracca won the last four races, setting a course record of 25:35 in 1982 and finishing in 25:42 last year. Jim Capezutto won the 1980 winner and Dick Mahoney won the four previous races.

Regan Scholarship Golf Tourney Sept. 27

The 4th annual Major John F. Regan, Jr. Scholarship Golf Tournament and Fund-Raiser will be held Sept. 27 at the Halifax Country Club, Halifax.

The Quincy-based trust was established in 1982 to honor the memory of Massachusetts State Police Major John F. Regan, Jr., of Milton, who died three years ago at age 51, following a long battle with cancer.

The trust provides scholarships to families of past and present members of the Massachusetts State Police.

In past years, monies, generated from interest on the trust, amounted to $750 in 1983, $2500 in 1984, and it is hoped to exceed $5000 this year.

Proceeds from the tournament, which is being sponsored by Labatt's Beer, and other donations will help the Regan Trust Fund to reach this year's goal of $100,000, according to 1985

Chairman, Norfolk County District Attorney William D. Delahunt.

At the time of his death, Regan was one of the most highly commended officers in the State Police.

Tax deductible donations may be sent to The Major John F. Regan, Jr., Charitable Trust Fund, P.O. Box 7131, Quincy, Ma., 02269, or contact Trust Chairman Jerry Coletta at 329-5440 or 786-8455.

Proposed Esplanade On Neponset River

The state plans to turn 34 acres of prime waterfront land that borders North Quincy and Dorchester, into a proposed Neponset River Esplanade that they expect will rival its downtown counterpart in beauty and recreational attraction.

The state will either buy this land or take the property through eminent domain. The tract, stretching along the river and Dorchester Bay, includes the landmark Neponset Drive-In, a fixture there since the 1950s, and the Shaffer Paper Company.

Unless the state moves first to take the land, massive condominium projects could be built on parcels along it, state officials have said.

"This is a culmination of a dream that goes back a long way for me," Gov. Michael S. Dukakis told more than 50 people gathered on the bridge that separates Quincy from Boston over the Neponset River.

Dukakis said that while a state legislator in the 1960s, and later in his first term as governor, he had pushed to develop one long tract of recreational land through the Harbor Islands, Neponset River Valley and the Blue Hills Reservation.

Dorchester State Rep. Richard Rouse said that development of the Neponset River Esplanade project is an important mark in Boston's history.

Junior Baseball Registration Saturday

Registration for the 1986 Quincy Youth Baseball Leagues season will be held Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon at the North Quincy K. of C. Hall.

Anyone who played Junior Farm, AAA, International or 12-year-old Junior League must register, as well as anyone 8-15 years of age wishing to join the program. Application is 50 cents. Information on tryout dates will be issued on registration day.

Registration is open to Quincy residents born after July 31, 1970, and before Aug. 1, 1978.
